Bull's-Eye Landing Alongside Surveyor

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Two supercharged American astronauts made a bull's-eye landing on the moon today, raised their flag and wisecracked their way through a four-hour exploration of the black, powdery surface. (See stories and photos on pages 8, 9 and 10).

In landing on the Ocean of Storms, Charles "Pete" Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean carried man's quest for the unknown to that alien soil a second time. They opened a new age of discovery, the first detailed exploration of the moon.

Their moonwalk was spoiled for earthlings when a camera transmitting the first color television pictures from the moon failed after 45 minutes. Experts at the Manned Spacecraft Center theorized the camera was accidentally pointed at the sun —burning the sensitive image tube.

LITTLE HOPE

There was little hope it could be repaired.

From the moment they landed on the moon and Conrad shouted "Outstanding!" and Bean exclaimed "I can't wait to get outside!"

They were two jubilant men, chattering like a couple of chipmunks as they went about the important business of exploring the strange world where the gravity force is only one-sixth that on earth.

There was excitement in Conrad's voice when he spotted an unmanned Surveyor spacecraft resting only 600 feet away in the crater that had been their target for the pinpoint landing.

Both men were exuberant as they gathered rocks and spotted strange mounds of rubble that they described as "fantastic." Conrad's cackling laugh became a familiar sound.

"Wowee" was a favorite expression as Conrad and Bean prowled the surface, ranging more than 1,000 feet to set up the experiments and to inspect the mounds and what appeared to them to be a fresh crater.

'NEAT LOOKING'

"Hey, look at that rock," or "Here's a neat looking one over here," flowed repeatedly over the communication channel more than a quarter-million miles back to earth.

The spacemen were amazed at the thick, black dust that darkened their space suits as they moved like ghostly figures in a weird surrounding.

"We're really filthy," Conrad reported.

The third member of the expedition, Richard F. Gordon Jr., became almost a forgotten man as he orbited some 65 miles overhead in the Yankee Clipper command ship, waiting for Conrad and Bean to complete their 31.5-hour exploration.

Draft By Lottery To Nixon

The measure was rushed to the floor and passed by voice vote after a perfunctory debate. It had already been passed by the House and now will go to Nixon for his signature.

The measure will pave the way for selection of 19-year-olds first, exposing each eligible man to the draft for only one year. At present, a man can be exposed to the draft for as long as six years.

The bill itself changes only one line of the Selective Service Act — repealing a provision that prevented the President from choosing draftees by lot.

Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Armed Services Committee promised senators seeking broader draft reforms that his committee would begin hearings next year on more comprehensive proposals.

Demands by some senators, notably Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., for broader changes in draft law than simply removing the ban on a lottery had threatened to block action on any change at all.

Kennedy agreed several days ago not to press for amendments on the floor provided that leaders would give assurance that hearings would be held next year on more extensive draft reform.

Stennis said on the floor today there would be hearings next year but said he could not make promises that a draft reform bill would pass.

"We cannot make any guarantee, of course, at this time," he said.

NEARLY 400 VICTIMS

Experts Urge Lifesaving Barrier On Gate Bridge

Suicide barriers on Golden Gate Bridge, where almost 400 persons have leaped to their deaths since its opening 32 years ago, were urged today by one of the nation's top experts on suicide prevention.

"We must not let that figure come to 400, and then to 500," said Dr. Edwin Shneidman before a symposium on suicide prevention. About 50 persons attended the symposium in the bridge district's offices.

Shneidman, former chief of the Center for Studies of Suicide Prevention at the National Institute of Mental Health, said it was a misconception that people prevented from killing themselves at the bridge will do so somewhere else.

At least one-third of suicides follow a one-time impulse, he said. "No one claims that protective hardware will save all lives, but what is hoped for is that it will save at least one life," he said.

To prove his point, Shneidman suggested the barrier could be periodically removed and reinstalled for a three-year study to show whether suicide-prone persons simply go elsewhere to kill themselves while the barrier is up.

Shneidman's suggestion was not new. Similar suggestions in past years have run into several problems, including engineer's objections that a barrier would dangerously increase wind resistance on the bridge.

Other objections have centered on the effect of a barrier on the appearance of the bridge and on the fact that a barrier would make access more difficult for bridge maintenance crews.

Shneidman cautioned bridge directors against what he stated was their reluctance to part with the bridge's reputation "as the suicide center of the nation."

"If it doesn't work, you can always sell the metal for scrap," he said.

Shneidman's proposal was echoed by Dr. Jerome Motto, associate professor, University of California School of Medicine, who added that even with a barrier the bridge still would serve to attract people using it "as a way to call for help."

Motto said that the bridge, without barriers, "is comparable in the community to having

Greyhound Wins Hike In Commuter Fares

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — An 8.75 per cent increase in Greyhound commute fares between San Francisco and Marin and Southern Sonoma was approved yesterday by the state Public Utilities Commission.

The boost is effective Dec. 3. It is the fourth rate increase in three years.

The commission said the hike, which also applies to Greyhound's statewide service, was granted to meet higher labor costs and increased business and property taxes levied against the line in San Francisco.

The increases apply to one-way, round-trip and 20-ride commutation fares. In addition, the commission authorized Greyhound to change several Marin and Southern Sonoma fare zone boundaries to eliminate inequities and confusion in rates.

Greyhound gave these examples of new fares: San Rafael riders, now paying 90 cents for a one-way ticket and $12.50 for a 20-day commutation book, will pay $1 and $13.60, respectively. Novato fares will go from $1.05 and $14.60 to $1.15 and $15.90. Mill Valley fares will go to 85 cents and $12.50 from 75 cents and $11.45. Petaluma riders will pay $1.70 and $19.25, up from $1.55 and $17.70.

The zone changes will cause some passengers to pay higher fares and others less.

Greyhound, long eager to abandon commuter service because of rising costs, last won a fare increase, of 4 per cent, in October of 1968. In August of that year, commuter book fares went up from 6 to 18 per cent and an across-the-board boost of 7 per cent was approved in December 1966.

The PUC said the increase was "designed to offset increased operating costs resulting from recent collective bargaining agreements covering shop and garage employees, drivers and office personnel and from recent changes in business and property taxes levied by the City of San Francisco."

$2.8 Million State Sale By Marinite

A Marin County automotive dealer has been informed that he was low bidder among approximately 120 other dealers in the Bay Area competing for a $2.8 million contract to supply automobiles to the State of California.

Robert B. Doleshal, head of Corte Madera Chrysler-Plymouth, said the contract calls for the delivery of 1,162 Plymouth Belvedere and Fury sedans to state agencies in Oakland and San Francisco and as far south as San Jose and Santa Cruz within the next few months. He said all deliveries will be made from the company's salesrooms in Corte Madera and that eventually the total number of vehicles to be supplied may run as high as 1,700, costing nearly $5 million.

Planning and public affairs officer Roy Priest of the procurement division, Department of Public Services, Sacramento confirmed Doleshal's determined what equipment will be supplied on the cars.

Priest noted that bids were very close and that Doleshal's lowest base price of $1,711.83 per vehicle was the lowest in the entire state. The contract, he said will be the largest contract in all nine geographical areas of California into which awards are being divided. The bids were to supply the state and some city and county offices purchasing cars in conjunction with the state with Class B four-door sedans and some Class A sedans and station wagons.

Doleshal said he believes his contract will be the largest ever awarded to a Marin automotive dealer.

Corte Madera Chrysler-Plymouth was organized last August as a successor to Doug Dicker Chrysler-Plymouth which gave up the agency. Shortly afterward, Doleshal returned to Marin to head the new agency after three years in Sacramento. He had previously been a principal in the now discontinued Marin Chrysler-Plymouth in Mill Valley.

Nixon Pledges Purchase Funding For Point Reyes Seashore Land

President Richard M. Nixon committed his administration yesterday to spending $38 million to complete Point Reyes National Seashore, drawing enthusiasm from Marin officials as well as a note of doubt that the money would suffice.

If Congress approves increasing the appropriation for the seashore from $19.1 million to $57.5 million, Nixon said, he will present a supplemental budget request for $7 million this fiscal year with the remainder budgeted over the next two fiscal years.

A representative of at least one of the owners of property at the seashore questioned today whether the $38 million would be enough over a three-year period of inflation. But Peter H. Behr, president of the Save Our Seashore group, said the figure was originally based on acquisition over a five-year period with built-in inflation rates.

Behr said this information was given by the Department of the Interior earlier this year to congressmen who authored the bills authorizing the $38 million.

Congress authorized and spent $19.1 million in 1962 and 1965 to acquire 22,543 acres at Point Reyes. The $38 million would enable the government to acquire the balance still in private hands.

Unaware of Behr's report, Gordon Pusser, president of Land Investors Research in Larkspur, said, "They've already figured the price extremely close . . . Obviously, what they go out to buy tomorrow, they can get for what they figure but I have my doubts whether the $38 million will stretch far enough."

Pusser's firm represents a group of 24 owners of the 2,500-acre Pierce Ranch at the northwestern corner of the seashore. He said recently that economic feasibility and planning studies of the ranch — with a tentative eye on subdividing the property — had begun.

Pusser said he couldn't speak for his clients on the question of whether they would be willing to wait up to three years for acquisition of their property by the government.

"We'll continue to do our study of the ranch," he said.

Nixon's committment was reported at the White House by Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif.; Rep. Don Clausen, R-First District, and Rep. Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo., chairman of the House Interior Committee, after a meeting with the President.

Last week a House subcommittee approved the increased authorization and Aspinall predicted approval by his full committee within two weeks. He said there was a good chance of House passage of authorization and subsequent appropriation of the money into the budget by the end of the calendar year.

Pending legislation would in-

Okinawa Solution Promised As Nixon, Sato Open Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon said today at the outset of his official talks with Prime Minister Sato of Japan on the future of Okinawa that "they will be the most successful between leaders of our two governments going back over many years."

Sato was equally confident in predicting that a solution of the Okinawa problem will be found.

The exchange of remarks came at a formal military ceremony on the south lawn of the White House where the President and Mrs. Nixon greeted the Prime Minister and Mrs. Sato.

A 19-gun salute roared under sunny skies as the national anthems of the two nations were played.

"As we look to the future of the Pacific," Nixon said in his welcoming remarks, "we recognize that if peace survives in the last one-third of the century it will depend more on what happens in the Pacific than anywhere else in the globe."

The three days of talks between the two leaders represent the most carefully prepared historical drama in U.S.-Japanese relations since the 1951 peace treaty.

After the formal greetings, the two men met with only interpreters present for nearly two hours and White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon considered the first meeting "very constructive."

"The talks were conducted like two friends discussing matters of utmost importance," Ziegler said.

While Nixon and Sato met, members of the Japanese and American delegations were assembled for other discussions in the Cabinet room.

Ziegler said a joint communique to be issued on Friday will cover the substance of the talks, and none of the decisions reached will be announced before that time.

Bay Saving Idea Proposed In $12 Billion Water Plan

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A dramatic new California water development plan, costing $11 billion or $12 billion, was proposed by Frank M. Stead today in order to avert "massive ecological damage to the state."

Stead is former chief of environmental sanitation for the state and now is an environmental consultant. He developed the plan under the sponsorship of California Tomorrow, a conservation organization based in San Francisco.

Stead said the new plan, scrapping present efforts to funnel excess water through the Central Valley to Southern California, would help preserve four ecologically vulnerable areas of California:

The scenic North Coast, respite of 40 per cent of the state's available waters.

Presidential Prayer Day Slated Sunday

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan signed a proclamation today setting aside Sunday as a day for Californians to "offer prayers for the safety and divine guidance of our President."

The "Presidential Prayer Day" is a day after the sixth anniversary of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

GI Deserters Linked To Shady Viet Money Deals

ROBERT R. PARKER
Tells of billion-dollar money racket
(AP Wirephoto)

WASHINGTON (AP) — A billion-dollar currency manipulation racket with Indian money changers at the top and GI deserters and the bottom has corrupted some South Vietnamese officials, congressional investigators have been told.

The investigations committee, headed by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., also heard testimony yesterday that millions of dollars from the illegal operation end up in U.S. banks.

Robert Parker, an official at the U.S. embassy in Saigon, said the Indian "constitute a syndicate in the most criminal and sinister sense in the world."

The presence of this well known group of Indian currency violators, operating openly, weakens the morale of more dedicated Vietnamese law enforcement officials, makes corruption seem easy and encourages other to share in the black market profits themselves," Parker said.

He said many GIs have dealt with the money dealers who give up to 240 South Vietnamese piasters for a dollar instead of the legal rate of 118-to-1.

Parker said the racket has generated more than $150 million annually in illegal funds.

Committee investigators have traced illegal funds to 13 accounts in banks in Hong Kong and the United States.

"The extent of these transactions are such that it is my personal opinion that these banks knew what was going on," Sen. Ribicoff said.

He said while the U.S. banks do not appear to have violated present law, the subcommittee will recommend legislative and administrative action at the end of the hearings.

Among witnesses to be called today were Sgt. Albert Chang, an Army photographer who left the service in Vietnam, joined the Associated Press in Saigon and later reenlisted in the Army.

Canners Hail Decision To Allow Extension On Cyclamate Uses

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An industry spokesman hails the federal decision allowing sale of cyclamate-sweetened canned fruits and vegetables until next Sept. 1 "the best possible news for the canning industry."

R. L. Gibson, president of the California Canners and Growers, made the statement in remarks for the grower-owned cooperative's annual meeting today.

Gibson said the action by Robert Finch, Health, Education and Welfare secretary, extending the deadline from Feb. 1 to Sept. 1 resulted from a need to coordinate policy with Canada. Canada earlier had set Sept. 1 as the cut off date.

"In my opinion examination of the evidence also will show that our products contain such extremely low levels of cyclamates that an extension would have been justified on that basis as well," Gibson declared.

He said the amount of cyclamate used in tests which showed tumor development in rats "was so massive that it has no relation to normal consumption in humans."

Gibson said the canning industry suffered a serious blow when Finch issued his order on the use of cyclamates as artificial sweeteners.

But, he said, "we expect the market for low calorie canned fruit in whatever form to expand in the years ahead."

He noted that Finch has said that cyclamate-sweetened products will continue to be available to anyone needing them for medical reasons. Finch has appointed a medical panel to consider conditions under which this will be done.

Gibson said the canning industry, meanwhile, is developing new low calorie sweetening agents for the 1970 pack.

He said the Delaney amendment, which requires a ban on any food additive which causes cancer in man or animals, used by Finch to act against cyclamates, "is unrealistic and should be amended for the protection of both industry and the consumer."

He said Finch had emphasized that no evidence had appeared to show that cyclamates had caused cancer in humans.

Gibson said the order against cyclamates had complicated an already difficult year for the canning industry with excessive supplies causing "soft prices and narrow margins."

Richard E. Lyng, assistant U.S. secretary of agriculture, said the administration was making every effort to persuade other nations to liberalize trade policies.

Lyng said the European Economic Community's protectionist policy was hurting U.S. exports and was harmful to world trade.

California Canners and Growers has 1,200 members and operates 10 plants in California and Wisconsin. It is the world's largest grower-owned fruit and vegetable canning cooperative.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Scoffs At Cost

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Richard M. Nixon says she won't disclose how much she spends on clothes, but she says she is really conservative about purchases for her wardrobe.

The First Lady brushed aside a survey of designers which indicated she had spent some $19,000 for clothes since her husband became President in January.

"Have you seen it walking around? Have you seen me in 65 new outfits?" Mrs. Nixon said in talking with newsmen yesterday.

'Guru' Under Probe

NEW DELHI (AP) — The "guru" of the Beatles and other personalities, Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, is being investigated by the Indian government for allegedly maintaining a bank account abroad.

Finance Minister P. C. Sethi told Parliament yesterday Marishi has been given a formal notice asking him to show cause why he should not be prosecuted for having an unauthorized account.

Sethi made the announcement after another member of the Indian Parliament sked if the government knew Maharishi had recently purchased a $33,600 Rolls Royce in London and if the government had given him permission to establish an overseas account.

Denies Funds

MANILA (AP) — The Philippines government denied today that it had received $45 million in allowances and equipment from the United States for sending a noncombat construction group to South Vietnam.

Undisclosed amounts of funds were received, however, for "national security and intelligence," the presidential palace said.

In secret congressional testimony made in Washington on yesterday, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the United States sent the Phillippines a "handsome fee" for sending the 2,000-man Philippines Civic Group to the war zone.

Following floods and hurricanes, candles have sometimes become so much in demand that emergency shipments were hijacked.

Peking Prospect

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers says he sees "a prospect that our relations in the future might be improved" with Communist China.

Rogers said last night there is no real evidence leaders in Peking is ready to respond to new U.S. initiatives, but "they at least were not reacting negatively."

Appearing on a CBS special report on relations among Red China, Russia and the United States, Rogers said the Nixon administration hoped to improve communications and trade relations with China.

"We would hope that as time goes on that we could improve our communications with Communist China," he said.

Arab Attackers

TEL AVIV (AP) — Arab gunners in Jordan opened fire on Israeli forces near the traditional site of Christ's baptism yesterday night, killing an Isreaeli corporal, the army said.

The Israelis returned the fire, military spokesken said, but there was no report of any casualties inflicted on the attackers.

The exchange took place in the Qasr el Yahud sector along the Jordan River north of the Dead Sea.

Farther north, Arab guerrillas fired across the Jordan at an Istaeli patrol near Ashdot Yaacov south of the Sea of Galilee but there were no casualities, the Israelis said.

15 Million Strike

ROME (AP) — An estimated 12 million to 15 million workers stayed away from their jobs across Italy today in a 24-hour general strike for more low-cost housing.

Italy's third general strike in less than ten months brought buses, treetcars, commerce and industry to a virtual standstill. It was estimated the strike would cost employes $80 million in lost wages and the nation twice that in lost production.

A bright sunny day sent many families to the countryside for picnics, to the mountains or to the beaches.

The big three labor unions called for mass demonstrations to drive home their demand for a new government housing policy. Political extremists of both the left and right threatened to turn the demonstrations into battles.

Haynsworth Voting Comes Friday; Supporters Buoyed By Nose Count

SEN. RALPH T. SMITH
Dirksen replacement joins Nixon team
(AP Wirephoto)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration forces, facing a Senate vote Friday on the Supreme Court nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., have been buoyed by what one Republican leader calls "the way things are going."

Announcements yesterday by two freshmen senators brightened the outlook for the Haynsworth backers.

The Senate's newest member, Republicah Ralph T. Smith of Illinois, said he had changed his mind and will support Haynsworth. Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, said he too will vote for confirmation.

This came on the heels of word Monday from Sens. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., and William B. Spong, D-Va., that they would vote for Haynsworth.

Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said "the way things are going" he expects more announcements backing Haynsworth before Friday's 1 p.m. vote.

Smith's decision to vote for confirmation tipped the balance in an Associated Press survey to 41 senators supporting the nomination compared to 40 against. The other 19 remain publicly uncommitted.

FLASH FIRE DESTROYS CORTE MADERA HOUSE

Only the charred outside walls remain of the wood frame house at 21 Buena Vista Avenue, Corte Madera, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Dan Monaco of San Francisco and destroyed in a fast moving fire at 7:30 a.m. today. Tenant Louis D. Norbye, 30, was treated at Marin General Hospital for second degree burns on the soles of both feet suffered escaping the blaze. According to firemen, the fire started in his bedroom when an article of clothing drying over a gas floor furnace ignited. Eighteen firemen fought the fire which caused from $20,000 to $25,000 damage to structure and contents, reported Fire Chief Frank L. Nelson, who strained his back turning on a hydrant at the scene. He did not require medical attention. (Independent-Journal photo)

Driver Not Hurt; Chain Link Ruined

A San Francisco man received only a cut on his chin in an accident which took out 342 feet of chain link fence on Highway 101 at Redwood Road, Novato, at 12:49 a.m. today, police reported.

Troy B. Kennedy, 39, northbound, hit the car ahead of him, driven by John F. Smith, 42, of 520 Corona Road, Petaluma, according to police.

The Kennedy car then hit the shoulder on the right side of the highway, veered back across the northbound lanes, went down the divider strip knocking down a construction sign, ripped out the chain link fence in the divider strip and dragged it across the southbound lanes.

The Novato Fire department was called out to cut the fencing off so 101 southbound traffic could be restored.

Kennedy was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of driving under the infleunce of alcohol. He is out on $360 bail to appear at 2 p.m. Friday in Marin Municipal Court.

FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

12:15 p.m., Novato — Children playing with matches set fire to grass at corner of Calle Paseo and Corte Madera Esquelo which burned a 20-by-30 foot area; no damage.

2:06 p.m., Marinwood — Electrical short circuit from frayed wiring caused $1,500 damage to bedroom wall at home of Robert B. Ades, 658 Idylberry Drive.

5:15 p.m., Novato — 1961 model car belonging to Francis M. Ehlen of Vallejo caught fire from the leaky carburetor in front of 8 Tyler Court; minor damage to hood and engine.

7:13 p.m., Novato — Front seat of a car belonging to Lorraine Simmonds of 411 Alameda Del Prado caught fire from a cigarette while southbound on Highway 101 at St. Vincent's Hill. Mark Simmonds burned hands trying to beat out the fire; damage confined to front seat of car.

9:35 p.m., San Rafael — Fire in bamboo fencing and shrubbery at Elks Club grounds, 1312 Mission Street burned area 16 square feet; cause unknown; no damage.

TODAY:

crease the authorization for land acquisition but the budget bureau had indicated it would not spend the money out of the land and water conservation fund even if the bill were passed.

"There has never been any question about the need to preserve Point Reyes and the President recognized that fact," Murphy said. "His problem, therefore, was to consider the Point Reyes issue in the context of the nation's other priorities and our battles against inflation."

Murphy added that Nixon's decision was based on pressures for private development and cost escalation that was "more severe at this particular site than at any other place in the nation."

"This is a most important announcement for the State of California," said Murphy, who said he had received petitions with nearly 250,000 signatures urging action to save the park from private sale and subdivision.

"This is the best news I've heard in the seven years I have been in Congress," said Clausen, whose district includes the entire 54,000-acre seashore. The bill authorizing the $38 million expenditure was introduced in the House by Clausen and Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District.

Jubliant Marin County supervisors voted a round of thank-you letters to Nixon and other officials yesterday after learning of the President's disclosure.

"It's a definite committment," said chairman John F. McInnis. "We are grateful to Senator Murphy, the President and all others who helped."

"It's great," said Supervisor Louis H. Baar.

"We should commend Mr. McInnis and Mr. Baar and all citizen groups who worked so hard for the seashore," said Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. McInnis and Baar went to Washington earlier this year to press for the added appropriation.

Marijuana Case Plea Date Set

Eugene Breiskin Weiss, 26, of San Geronimo, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of possessing marijuana at his home Oct. 29 when arrested on federal narcotics charges.

Judge Hadden W. Roth agreed to release Weiss on his own recognizance since he is out on bail in the federal case which involves LSD and on a narcotics charge in southern California.

Youth Denies Count Of Stolen Property

Stephen Joseph O'Brien, 20, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of possessing stolen property. A preliminary hearing was set for Dec. 16.

The youth is accused of attempting to sell a transmission on Sept. 12 which came from a car stolen from Marin Dodge on June. 13.

District Attorney Told To Desist Nurturing Pot

The attorney for a Sausalito man accused of raising marijuana yesterday asked a judge to order the district attorney's office to stop watering the plant in question so that it will not grow any more before the case comes to trial.

Judge Hadden W. Roth of Marin Municipal Court agreed to order the deputy district attorney who has been faithfully tending the potted plant to cease his ministrations.

Charles Vallee Moran Jr., 25, had already said at a preliminary hearing in his case that the plant had grown considerably since it was seized from him on Sept. 3. Yesterday, the plea to let the weed die was made when Judge Roth bound Moran over to superior court on charges of cultivating pot and possessing a device for smoking it.

Moran is to appear in court Dec. 1 for arraignment.

He was arrested after a Sausalito policeman said he spotted him moving the plant to a sunny spot near his apartment.

Intrepid and the Surveyor from his high-flying outpost.

Conrad and Bean steered Intrepid to its perfect landing on the eastern edge of the Ocean of Storms at 10:54:29 p.m. PST and became the third and fourth humans to leave their imprint in the lunar dust.

The first of two planned moonwalks started at 3:44 a.m. when Conrad backed down a nine-rung ladder and stepped ashore in the new world. Bean followed 31 seconds later.

Conrad spent a total of 3 hours 44 minutes outside and Bean an even three hours.

After stowing their gear and eating, they began at 10:30 a.m. (PST) a planned eight hours sleep, resting for the second excursion set to start at 9:32 p.m. today.

Blastoff from the moon is slated for 6:23 a.m. (PST) tomorrow and a linkup with the Yankee Clipper at 10:02 a.m. After an extra day in lunar orbit to photograph future landing sites, the three head for home and a Monday splashdown in the Pacific.

About the soil, the astronauts reported it was thicker and blacker than that in the Sea of Tranquillity where Apollo 11 pilots Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. made man's first lunar landing in July.

The instruments they deployed will measure such things as moonquakes, the solar wind and the lunar atmosphere and ionosphere. They had difficulty handling the shielded but still burning-hot plutonium reactor core that furnishes power to the various sensing devices.

Once operating on the nuclear battery, the seismometer relayed to earth the sound of the spacemen's footsteps as they trod the moon.

Tomorrow, Conrad and Bean will collect carefully documented rock samples and attempt to retrieve parts of the Surveyor for return to earth.

WATER

quin Delta.

The San Francisco Bay system.

The Los Angeles metropolitan area.

All of these are endangered by the present aim of the current $3 billion State Water Project to funnel more excess water to the south, Stead said at a news conference.

Stead said shipment of water to Southern California via the Central Valley should be turned off by 1980. He said the Los Angeles basin already has exceeded its carrying capacity for people and new residents must be channeled to other regions of the state.

Key features of his plan:

Reclamation of waste waters, from both irrigation and from urban uses, and desalination of sea water.

Stead said the state has embarked on a step-by-step water development and at each step has "sought the cheapest solution."

This approach, he said, "is no longer tenable because of irreparable damage on the environment of the state."

The ultimate cost would be just about the same under his plan as it would under the current California Water Plan and its logical extension of building dams in the North Coast areas to tap those waters, Stead said.

Stead disagreed with a statement made by Gov. Ronald Reagan recently that reclamation of waste water and desalination of sea water are technically unfeasible now, in terms of meeting Central and Southern California water needs and commitments.

Stead said waste water reclamation is technically feasible now and that sea water can be converted to fresh water within five years as cheaply as the state can develop new water resources — such as from the North Coast or importing water from Canada or the Pacific Northwest.

Stead said his plan would provide for the state's ultimate water needs, even with a population of 40 million persons which he expects. The cost is about the same as conventional water development, he said.

Hub Police Recover A Stolen Motorcycle

San Anselmo police recovered a motorcycle yesterday that had been reported stolen between 9 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. from a College of Marin parking lot. Owner William E. Rutledge reported the theft of his 1965 Honda to the California Highway Patrol.

Police said they recovered the motorcycle at 6:10 p.m. after reserve police patrolman Theodore Capurro of 9 San Rafael Avenue reported seeing the machine hidden in shrubbery near his residence.

Betty Beatty

Betty Beatty, business manager of the Kentfield School District for 15 years, died yesterday at a local hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Beatty, 47, of Point Reyes Station, held the school post until she became ill several months ago.

A native of Malden, Mass., Mrs. Beatty lived in Marin for 15 years. She was a member of the California Association of Education Office Employees.

Survivors are her husband; a son, Alexander Backes of Redwood City; a daughter, Elizabeth Beatty of Point Reyes Station, and her mother, Margaret Milliken of Lyndhurst, N.J.

Requiem Mass will be offered at 9:30 a.m. Friday at St. Anselm's Church, with entombment at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael. The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

Memorial gifts may be made to the scholarship fund of the California Association of Education Office Employees, Paravista, or the American Cancer Society.

JOHN C. BAIRD

John C. Baird, retired Air Force lieutenant colonel, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital after a short illness. He was 48.

A native of Detroit, Mich., Baird had lived in Marin for 12 years. The family home is at 12 Aquinas Drive, San Rafael.

He was a 22-year veteran of the Air Force when he retired in 1962, having served in the Pacific, Europe and at various posts in the U.S.

Since his retirement he had been a maintenance systems analyst at Sixth Army headquarters at the Presidio of San Francisco.

He was president of the San Francisco Scottish Terrier Club and was an amateur woodworker.

Survivors are his wife, Helen Baird; a daughter, Patricia LeBeck of San Rafael; his mother, Clara Manka of Albuquerque, N.M.; a sister, Mildred Yeager of Denver, Colo. and a grandson.

Funeral will be at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo, with burial in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

Memorial gifts may be made to the Marin County Heart Association.

GARY KUHL

Gary Kuhl of San Rafael died today at a local hospital after a year's illness. He was 17.

Born in Yuba City, Sutter County, Kuhl moved to San Rafael 16 years ago. The family home is at 103 Orange Street.

He attended Davidson Junior High School and was a senior at San Rafael High School.

He was a member of the Novato Seventhday Adventist Church.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Keith K. Kuhl; four brothers, Richard, Stephen R. Glenn W., and Kenneth K. Kuhl, all of San Rafael, and grandmothers, Hattie Kuhl of Oroville in Butte County and Edith Sims of Sonoma.

Funeral will be held at 11 a.m. Friday at Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael. Burial will follow at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery. Memorial contributions to the Marin Society for Crippled Children and Adults are preferred by the family.

THOMAS K. CUNNINGHAM

Masonic service for Thomas K. Cunningham of San Rafael will be held tomorrow at 11 a.m. at the Harry Williams Mortuary in San Rafael.

A native of Seattle, he had lived in California for 63 years. He was a resident of Marin County from 1923 to 1943 and returned to the county five months ago, making his home at 102 Rollingwood Drive.

Before his retirement, Cunningham worked 45 years as a pressman and was last employed by the Recorder Publishing and Printing Company, San Francisco.

A veteran of World War I, he was a member of King Solomon's Seaport Lodge 260, Free and Accepted Masons of San Francisco, and of the Western Graphic Arts Union Local 14.

Cunningham is survived by two daughters, Mruiel A. Schacht of San Rafael and Alma J. Stevens of Portland, Ore.; a son, Thomas N. Cunningham of Reno; two sisters, Imogene Cunningham of San Francisco and Paula Daveney of Palo Alto; a brother, George B. Cunningham of Corte Madera, and six grandhcildren.

Burial will be private.

RICHARD GRAY

Richard D. Gray, 44, of 283 Oleander Drive, San Rafael, died unexpectedly yesterday in a San Francisco restuarant.

A native of South Carolina, he had lived in Marin about three years, moving here from Mount Clemens, Mich.

He was with Fireman's Fund Insurance Co.

He was a member of Detroit Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons.

Survivors are his wife, Ada Grace Gray and two children, Nancy Catherine and Philip Douglas Gray, both of the home, and a brother, John William Gray of Florissant, Mo.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Friday at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael.

In Good Condition

Val Roy, 31, of 142 Maywood Way, San Rafael, was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital where he was taken last night by police for treatment of an overdose of pills.

BARRIER

a loaded gun around the household. All we have to do is unload this weapon, at least to make the bridge suicide resistant."

At most, he said, only 5 per cent of suicide-prone persons would try hard enough to make it past the barrier.

Motto, citing the strong attraction of the bridge to suicides, said one person told him, "It's the only stylish way to go.

Shneidman suggested that the barrier be made by bolting tall rods pointed inward and spaced several inches apart along the entire length of the bridge on both sides. "I'm not suggesting we uglify it," Shneidman said.

Dr. Richard H. Seiden of the University of California School of Public Health urged the bridge district to invest in research to find out what attracts suicides to the bridge and what happens to them later, if they are prevented from jumping.

"We must erase the morbid cloud which hangs suspended like the summer fog over our beautiful Golden Gate," Seiden said.

He noted that because many suicides are undetected because of the swift tides below the bridge, far more than the 376 reported suicides have occurred at the bridge.

He said the number may already be over 500.

Seiden also supported the proposal that a suicide barrier be put on the bridge.

A SAD STROLL—Sen. B52 Armadas Hit Enemy Besiegers

SAIGON (UPI)—B52 bombers finished up their heaviest overnight strikes in nearly a month today in an attempt to break the North Vietnamese stranglehold on two Green Beret camps along the Cambodian border.

Ten armadas of the Stratofortresses came in during the night to drop 1.8 million pounds of bombs on the doorsteps of the Bu Prang and Duc Lap outposts, 112 and 130 miles north-northeast of Saigon.

The North Vietnamese kept up their sporadic shelling of Bu Prang this morning, the 23rd successive day of such salvos. No one was reported hurt and there was no fighting around the camp, military spokesmn said.

Official U.S. command cources said battling in the border area and in the northern war zone pushed the number of Americans killed last week well above the 100 mark to the highest level in two months.

The official figures, to be announced tomorrow, will show more than 3,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese slain last week, their heaviest toll in almost three months, the sources said.

Even as the increased fighting was reflected in the casualty reports, headquarters announced that the final element of the 3rd Marine Division would begin leaving the war zone tomorrow.

When these 2,500 men are gone—some to Okinawa, some to the United States—the entire 18,000-man division will have left Vietnam, where it guarded the northern frontier through some of the biggest battles of the war, including the siege at Khe Sanh.

This move will almost complete the withdrawal of 35,000 men under President Richard M. Nixon's phase two pullout. The Marines are scheduled to complete their pullout next Tuesday, the announcement said.

Probation, Fine In Weed Case

David George Russek, 21, of Kentfield, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a misdemeanor charge of being in a place where narcotics were used on Oct. 1 in Sausalito.

A felony charge of possessing marijuana was dismissed.

Judge Hadden W. Roth placed the youth on six months probation and fined him $100.

Private Funeral Set Tomorrow For Kennedy

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI)– Family and friends gathered in quiet today to mourn the death of Joseph P. Kennedy. Messages of sorrow from both the great and small arrived at the large white house on Nantucket Sound.

The patriarch of the nation's foremost political dynasty of the century, father of a president and two senators, Kennedy, 81, died yesterday after an eight-year struggle for life from the latest in a series of heart attacks.

The body of the former ambassador to Great Britain was returned to his home where family and friends gathered for a day of private mourning before tomorrow's funeral.

Cardinal Richard Cushing of Boston, longtime friend and spiritual adviser, will celebrate the private funeral mass in St. Francis Xavier Church a few miles from the Kennedy compound. The honorary pall bearers will be the six eldest male Kennedy grandchildren.

After the 9 a.m. mass, the flag-draped casket will be placed in a hearse and the funeral cortege will travel the 75 miles to the family plot at Holyhood Cemetery in Brookline where Kennedy lived when married 55 years ago.

Family members, including Kennedy's widow Rose and his only surviving son Edward, now head of the Kennedy clan, tended a private mass last night at the church, where Kennedy was a communicant for more than 40 years.

Dignitaries from throughout the world, including President Richard M. Nixon, expressed their sorrow over the death.

"Joseph PM Kennedy leaves a long and distinguished record of service to his country, a genuinely unique record that involved his entire family in the making of American history. He inspired his family to share his own strong sense of dedication to his nation," the President said.

The Kennedy family was at his bedside when death came peacefully at 11:05 a.m. (EST). He suffered his latest heart attack Saturday.

Tranquillity Pair Only Spectators To Intrepid Feat

SPACE CENTER, Housto (AP) — The men who did it first stood idly by, watching and listening, surely remembering, as Apollo 12 made man's second lunar visit.

Apollo 11 astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., the first to walk the moon, were only spectators.

Glass separated them from the controllers guiding the mission. Distance and time separated them from their comrades fleeting toward the moon.

Only the sounds-and the memories of what the four now share and what, before last July, no man had ever known.

Thieves who smashed a rear door at Glass and Sash at 753 Second Street Monday night stole $100 from the cash register in the front office, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

Astronaut Sees Many Uses For Space Program

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ex-astronaut William A. Anders believes agriculture, industry, traffic control, and even air and water pollution can be subjects for orbital investigation.

Anders told a news conference yesterday that unmanned weather and communications satellites have been a great success and that similar satellites could pinpoint areas of pollution.

He said observation by satellite is quick and on a worldwide basis, as opposed to aerial views of one particular area.

Once Turned Off, But Now Tuned In

By ALAN JONES

In the former waiting room a dusty, moribund tropical plant droops while students watch a poetry reading on film.

A fish tank filled with guppies and crayfish bubbles in another room, with a hand-lettered sign warning that overfeeding will pollute the water.

It's a different kind of high school, first titled the Opportunity School. It isn't so much a second chance as a different kind of chance for the 52 Tamalpais High School District students enrolled.

The school, which lately has been rechristened San Andreas High School, was initiated this fall after a year and a half of study and preparation by administrators, psychologists and teachers.

Mathematics teacher Michael J. Gross was tapped as principal and he helped choose five other teachers, not necessarily with special training but with special attributes — particularly "the commitment to this kind of education," Gross said.

The program is aimed at one of education's oldest problems — how to reach and educate the students who aren't making it in school. Not the ones lacking the brains, but the ones who are turned off by the setup.

That means a different kind of education is needed. So far, San Andreas has had more differences than were bargained for. Scheduled to move into new portable classrooms, the school has had to improvise because the portables are not ready yet, although completion is expected any day.

So for the first weeks of class, the 52 pupils met in the district boardroom, and spent most of the days making field trips around the Bay Area in a caravan of station wagons.

But that pickup operation, Gross told the district board, was jepoardizing the school's chances, and a temporary school was set up in rented quarters at the former Ross Valley Medical Clinic in Kentfield.

The functioning differences in the school, Gross said, are "primarily, individualized instruction, because of our size, the approach the teachers have, their commitment to this kind of education.

"We have a situation where the students are able to focus on the things relevant to them in . . . the subject matter. And they're functioning in an environment where they're able to determine more of their destiny than they'd be able to in a large school."

It's a low-pressure environment, with small classes and teachers who have time to work with each student.

The students are allowed to set their own pace as far as practical, Gross said. "Mostly we just want to know where they are and what they're doing.

"If a student in mathematics asks to go into art or social studies, or go out and read because 'I'm involved in a book,' that's okay.

"We're trying to do away with some of the more capricious rules . . . that may be necessary for a school of 2,000, but not for 50."

In time, experience has shown, the student will return to areas he has neglected when he is ready, and may catch up a fortnight's work in a few hours with a sudden burst of interst and energy.

If the student falls too far behind in some areas, "we'll talk about it and see what the problem is," Gross said.

"Our main goal is to build self-responsibility," he said. "We always talk about letting the kids make decisions, and then we let them decide whether they'll have a red banner or a blue banner."

At San Andreas they are making bigger decisions. Several students, in fact, are serving as teacher aides in the Kentfield School District — a considerable step up for people who weren't noticeably interested in school a few months ago.

In setting up the school, Gross said, counselors named 60 students from each high school, who felt would benefit from Opportunity School. That produced a pool of 180 students from which the 52 were drawn, leaving the rest for possible future enrollment at San Andreas and as a control group whose progress can be compared with that of San Andreas pupils.

No one was forced into San Andreas. Each student, along with his parents, was consulted and asked to decide whether to enter San Andreas or stay in regular school.

The operating costs of San Andreas are paid by a two-cent override tax voted by the district board, and the operating budget this year is $100,601. Added to that is an annual $18,593 for the seven-year lease purchase of the portable classrooms.

The students have a six-period school day four days a week, and Wednesdays are usually scheduled as "open days," for field trips, group counseling, an all-school meeting and sometimes a film related to classwork.

Field trips have included San Francisco International Airport, local beaches and lakes, wineries and missions in Sonoma, Ghirardelli Square and the San Francisco zoo.

The students who were turned off by school now roam the corridors at San Andreas carrying books cuch as "Siddhartha," and sprawl on the carpeted floors working out map triangulation problems.

The students at San Andreas are not bothered with dress codes, and they dress about the same as high school students everywhere in Marin. Freed from a disciplined classroom atmosphere, the students have responded by paying attention to the important rules — and learning.

In tomorrow's world, the uneducated person will be almost an unperson, invisible and out of the mainstream of society. If San Andreas works, as it appears it will, it will pay for itself many times over by keeping that from happening to its students.

Hub Business License Due Still More Study

San Anselmo's aging business license revision tripped and fell on the threshhold of adoption last night.

Confronted with a lengthy petition and a solid bloc of service station owners, city councilmen delayed last night's scheduled adoption of the new fee scale and set Dec. 2 for still another special meeting to restudy the matter.

The license ordinance — which has been nearly two years in the making and been the subject of almost countless public hearings — would base business license fees on gross receipts instead of a flat rate. The council has been struggling to adopt the change in time to make the new fee schedule effective Jan. 1.

The council last night was presented with a petition bearing 83 signatures of city businessmen asking that the new fee schedule not be adopted as now proposed.

In addition, several service station owners who feel theirs is a special problem, vocally protested the proposed change.

Several owners said they felt that the license scale ought to be changed and that they didn't mind some kind of an increase in their fees, but said that they gross receipts method penalized their business which they said has high volume but low profit.

Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson, who along with James F. Reed stoutly supports the new fee scale, stated that property taxes for home owners have risen 91 per cent in the last 10 years while the license fee has gone up only 1.4 per cent in the same period.

Robert Moore, representing the independent service station owners, said he didn't oppose an increase in the license, but suggested the city consider a license procedure adopted by San Rafael only Monday night which bases fees on the type of business involved, rather than gross receipts.

Under the current proposal, most business license fees in San Anselmo would just about double.

Councilmen Woodrow V. Capurro and Robert M. Scott have both stoutly opposed the proposed plan, largely drawn up by Anderson. That left Duane C. Ragan as the swing vote on the matter.

"I'm just not prepared to pass this ordinance the way it is right now," Ragan said, "I'm willing to give it further research."

Somewhat upset, Reed noted that study on the matter had been going on for two years.

"If anyone has any better ideas, then I would think they would have brought them up before this," he said. "I'll move then that we hold this over a week and let you (Ragan) come up with something then,"

His motion, supported by Anderson, failed when Capurro and Scott opposed it and Ragan abstained.

"This is something the whole council should work on" Ragan said. The council then voted unanimously to hold a work session Dec. 2. The council said that although the public was invited to the 8 p.m. meeting, it would not be a public hearing but merely a study session.

The city is trying to do something about its sagging income from business licenses. While sales tax revenues have risen from $91,000 to $136,000 during the last few years, the license revenue has dropped from around $25,000 per year to $21,000.

San Anselmo City Council Also:

FOTOMAT — Upheld a planning commission decision to deny a permit to allow a Fotomat drive-in in the Redhill Shopping Center.

DEBRIS BOX — Rejected a request from Charles Majesky to locate a debris box on city property near his home at 51 Yolanda Drive.

STREET CHANGE — Approved changing the name of Kathy Court to Encina Place.

FIRE VEHICLE — Authorized $1,813 for purchase of a new car for the fire chief.

CIVIL SERVICE POST — Officially began seeking a replacement for William Davis on the city civil service board of review. Davis has indicated he will resign when is term is up Jan. 15. Term of office is for six years and applicants should contact the city clerk if interested.

Vandals Smash Business Windows

Vandals recently smashed windows in three San Rafael business firms, police reported yesterday.

A $200 front window of the Title Insurance and Trust Co., 1200 Lincoln Avenue, was broken yesterday by a round piece of metal thrown from a passing car.

Driver Fined $125

Edward DaVila, 32, of 957 Vernal Avenue, Mill Valley, has been placed on six months probation and fined $125 for drunken driving. He was arrested June 24 on Highway 101. He was sentenced in Marin Municipal Court.

Picket To Get A Day In Court

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Capitol's persistent picket—89-year-old Robert H. Simpson—has won his day in court to challenge the new state law banning sign-carrying demonstrators from within the statehouse.

The slender, white-maned Simpson, minus his sandwich board signs couched in salty language—pleaded a cheery "innocent" yesterday at his arraignment before Municipal Judge Arthur E. Eissenger on charges of illegal picketing.

The judge appointed a public defender for Simpson and set jury trial for Nov. 26.

Quorum Lack Upholds BCDC Complaint Over Proxy Ban

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Fears that elmination of its proxy system would hamper the ability of the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission to get a quorum have been confirmed.

The first meeting scheduled under the new state law that did away with proxies, set for tomorrow, was canceled today when the staff learned that a quorum would not attend. Thirteen of the 25 commissioners must be present for a quorum.

The new state law, which extended the life of the commission and expanded its jurisdiction to a 100-foot-wide band of shoreline and to salt ponds, became effective on Monday. The law included an amendment by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, eliminating the power of commissioners to appoint proxies to represent and vote for them.

The commission voted unanimously on Nov. 6 to seek restoration of the proxy system in the 1970 Legislature.

The failure to muster a quorum postponed to the commission's Dec. 4 meeting vote on two applications for fill in Richardson Bay. One is by Leonard B. Fleischman of Belvedere for apartments extending 30 feet out over Strawberry Cove on pilings, the other by Donlon J. Arques to fill four-tenths of an acre just north of Sausalito. The Arques fill would be for a parking lot to serve a 600-foot pier for 50 houseboats.

The prospect of getting a quorum at the December meeting will be improved after the Association of Bay Area Governments' executive committee votes tomorrow to appoint its four representatives to BCDC. Among the four nominees is Tiburon Mayor Branwell Fanning. The committee will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Hotel Claremont, Berkeley.

The Dec. 4 meeting of the BCDC will be at 2 p.m. in Room 1194 of the State Building, 350 McAllister Street, San Francis-

Corporation Yard Job Means Parking Shift

Construction will begin Friday at the new San Rafael Corporation Yard and parking in the city lot at Second Street and Lincoln Avenue will end.

Norris M. Rawles, director of public works, said cars now parked in that lot may be parked instead immediately south, where the Greyhound buses formerly parked.

Another Round On Apartments

The oft-delayed plans for a one, two and three-bedroom apartment development on the site of the old American Distilling Co. plant has again been scheduled for an 8 p.m. meeting of the Sausalito Planning Commission tomorrow at city hall.

The plans, preliminary to consideration of a conditional use permit for the development, are due to be reviewed informally by developer Joseph Duffel.

The old distillery property is presently outside the city limits but is a target for annexation by Sausalito.

That's why we made it go about 27 miles to a gallon of gas.
And why we persuaded it to take pints of oil instead of quarts.
And why we gave it an air-cooled engine. (Air is free. Antifreeze isn't.)
And why we put the engine in the back so you get more push from the rear wheels. (And less pull from tow trucks.)
And that's why at trade-in time if things are still the same as they have been, you can count on getting back more of your initial investment of $X,XXX* than practically every other car owner gets of theirs.
After all, why shouldn't the car that's been saving you money while you own it do the same when you sell it?

WHAT WE DIDN'T SEE — Malfunction in a color camera robbed earlybird television watchers in Marin this morning of a chance to watch Apollo 12 crewmen deploy the scientific package around the Lunar Module Intrepid. 'NO JOY' ON THE TUBE

Misbehaving Camera Cuts Short First Color Telecast Of Luna

SPACECENTER, Houston (AP) — There was, in the language of fliers and astronauts, "no joy" on television from the moon today.

It started fine when Charles Conrad Jr. opened a lower compartment on the lunar lander and exposed the camera. It showed first Conrad, then Al L. Bean, climbing down the ladder.

But when Bean moved the camera away from the spacecraft, the picture suddenly went sour. At the top there was a jagged white area. The bottom three quarters was solid black.

"All the connections look good," said Bean.

"Take a good close look at the lens and make sure it's in the right configuration," the ground suggested. But it didn't help.

Mission Control suggested that a color wheel inside might be stuck.

"When I hold the end of the camera I can feel the wheels running," Bean said. He tried changing the setting, but still no joy.

Suddenly there were streaks.

"Okay, it's coming in now," said Mission Control.

"I hit it on the top with my hammer," Bean said. "I figured we didn't have anything to lose. That's skilled craftsmanship."

The ground suggested: "Give it one more light rap and also cut down on the F stop." On a camera, the larger the "F stop," the smaller the amount of light admitted by the lens.

"Okay, we did," said Conrad.

"Did it zoom down for you?"

"No joy," said the ground.

"Okay, I'm going to pound it a bit," Conrad said.

Streaks, but still no picture.

Mission Control promised to get experts on the ground working to solve the problem and the astronauts — by then far behind on their limited time schedule — went about their scientific tasks.

The camera is the same one that was carried in the command module on the Apollo 10 in May. Its outside was coated with a special material to withstand temperature extremes on the moon and its inside was beefed up.

But today, on the first of Apollo 12's two planned moonwalks, there was no joy.

THE 'GEEMANEE' ARRIVAL

Exuberance Outshines Dangers As 12 Lands

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 11 had history, uncertainty and danger. Apollo 12 had pure exuberance and excitement. So much that you almost forgot about the danger.

Across 240,000 miles of space you could almost picture Peter Conrad jumping up and down with joy as the lunar lander Intrepid bore down on the Ocean of Storms exactly the way it was supposed to.

"There it is!" he shouted.

"Hey, it's right down the center of the crater!" Conrad yelled. The moon's horizon was coming up in the Intrepid's little windows.

"Forty-two," Bean said, calling out the degree of the ship's bearing. "Look out there." Conrad again: "I can't believe it! Amazing! Fantastic!"

"Forty-two degrees," Bean said again. "Ride it in. Forty-two. We're passing 3,500 feet."

It seemed superfluous, but Mission Control had to say it: "Intrepid, Houston. You're go for landing."

Down, down came the Intrepid: 800 feet . . . 680 feet . . . 600 . . . 530. Bean counted them off.

"Four-seventy-one" he said. "You are all right. 426."

It was the signal for Conrad to take over from the computers, his hand on two airplane-type controls.

"I got it," he said.

"I gotta get over here to the right."

"You're at 330 feet," Bean said. "Got lots of gas."

On Apollo 11, in July, there was not lots of gas.

"Hey, look at that crater!" Bean shouted. "Right where it's supposed to be. Hey, you're beautiful. Ten per cent, 257 feet coming down at 5 feet per second, 250, coming down at 5. Hey, you're really maneuvering around. Come on down, Pete. Okay. Ten per cent fuel, 200 feet, coming down at 3. You can come on down."

Down, down came the Intrepid.

"Start the clock," said Bean, "42 feet coming down at 2 . . . 40 coming down at 2 . . . Looking good. Watch the dust . . . 31 . . . 30 feet . . . coming down, Pete. You got plenty gas, Plenty gas. Hang in there."

"Thirty seconds," said Mission Control.

"Coming down at 2!" Bean was shouting again. "We've got it made. Come on in there, 24 feet. Contact lights!"

Two more men from earth were on the moon.

Now it was Conrad's turn again to yell.

"Man, oh man, Houston! I tell you, I think we're in a place that's a lot dustier than Neil's."

"Roger, Pete." Mission Control was like an indulgent, smileing mother.

And later:

"Man, I can't wait to get outside. Look at that . . . It's a nice place to land," Conrad said.

"Look at those boulders out there on the horizon, Pete," said bean. "Geemanee."

And that's how it went. Geemanee.

Two Parked Cars Sprayed With Paint

Two cars parked on a San Rafael street were sprayed with black paint yesterday, San Rafael police reported today.

Apollo Crew More Excited Than Earthbound Viewers

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Persons around the world were interested in the Apollo 12 landing on the moon today, but there was little of the excitement that the pioneers of Apollo 11 set off.

"Something quite normal for America," said a Polish student in Warsaw.

Morning newspapers in London put the story well down on the front pages in contrast to the banner headlines for the first men on the moon.

Tokyo television dealers, after a run on color sets in July when Apollo 11 landed, complained because the demand wasn't repeated.

"Business was awful," said one, "and we were heavily stocked."

A Moscow telecast announced the landing with a one-sentence report from Tass, the Soviet news agency; about 20 minutes after the landing.

An official of the South African Broadcasting Corp. said it received only a few telephone calls in contrast to the response to Apollo 11. But Johannesburg's Rand Daily Mail and the Cape Times in Cape Town published extra editions to report the landing.

The wee-hours moon landing of Apollo 12 met with varying degrees of enthusiasm around the U.S.

"The exclamations by the astronauts were really great," said CPO George P. Mantlow, 39, duty officer at the Great Lakes Naval Station who found the landing "much more dramatic" than Apollo 11.

Marty Frelender, a junior at the University of California at Los Angeles, said, "It looks like it's getting pretty routine. I mean, the way the astronauts were laughing it up, all that talk on radio. Like, you know all along what they're gonna do and when, so you don't really expect anything to go wrong."

The bartender at the Dome Lounge of Chicago's Sherman House said he thought Apollo 11 "was much better, being the first time."

Melvin Brooks of Chicago said he thought the space program was a waste of money needed for domestic problems.

Melinda Rogers, a student in Santa Monica, asked, "What I want to know is when is this going to end? I mean the TV coverage. Are they going to do it this big on the sixth landing, or the 56th? People are gonna get bored, aren't they?"

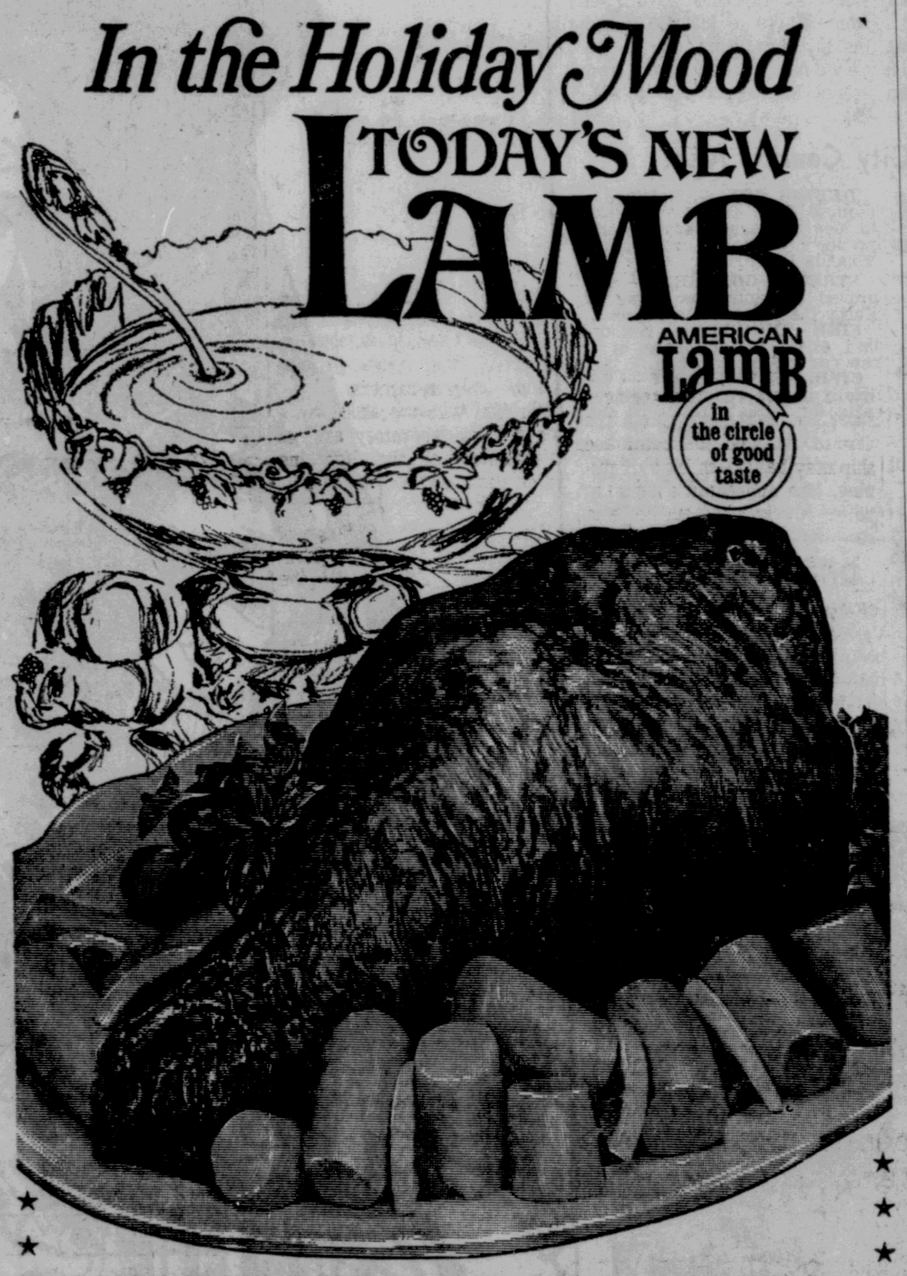
In the Holiday Mood
TODAY'S NEW LAMB
AMERICAN Lamb in the circle of good taste



Half the fun of the holiday season is the feasting that goes along with it. And when you talk about sublime food, you have to include lamb—festive, flavorful, deliciously different. Try the easy holiday recipe for roast leg of lamb with Louisiana yams. It will please your husband, your family, your guests . . . and you.

GLAZED LEG OF LAMB

Leg of lamb	½ teaspoon rosemary leaves
Salt and pepper	1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ cup apple jelly	Lemon Baked Louisiana Yams*

Season lamb with salt and pepper. Place on rack in shallow roasting pan. Roast in 325° (slow) oven 30 to 35 minutes per pound or until meat thermometer registers 175° for medium doneness. Meanwhile, combine jelly, rosemary and lemon juice in small saucepan. Stir over medium heat until jelly melts. Brush on lamb during last hour of roasting time.

*LEMON BAKED LOUISIANA YAMS—Combine ¼ cup butter, ¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar and ¼ teaspoon nutmeg in small saucepan. Stir and heat until blended. Drain 3 cans (1 pound each) Louisiana yams. Arrange in shallow baking dish. Pour butter mixture over yams. Top with 6 lemon slices. Bake in 325° (slow) oven with lamb for the last 30 minutes of roasting time. Arrange yams and lemon slices around lamb on platter and serve.

INTREPID'S LUNAR PORT — Artist's drawing shows Lunar Module on Apollo 11, which flamed in to a pinpoint landing only 200 yards from the unmanned robot Surveyor 3 in the depression of a crater late last night. (AP Wirephoto)

Crater Exploration, Trek To Surveyor Due Tonight

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Like explorers on earth, Apollo 12 astronauts Charles Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean plan to tote a knapsack late tonight when they hike to the Surveyor 3 spacecraft during their second stroll on the moon.

Scheduled to begin at 9:37 p.m. PST with Conrad exiting the Intrepid landing craft, the trek to Surveyor's location 150 feet down the slope of a lunar crater is to be a slow one-carefully collecting rocks en route and taking care not to slip when standing on the 15-degree crater slope.

Altogether, Conrad planned to be outside 3 hours, 20 minutes during Apollo 12's second excursion, with Bean walking aroud 3 hours, 2 minutes.

After Conrad backs out the hatch on his hands and knees and descends to the lunar surface, Bean is to use a clothesline-like conveyor belt to transfer two 70 millimeter cameras and film to him.

Bean then is to climb down the ladder as Conrad takes from a storage bin tools, two rock storage bags and a knapsack to hold the tools. He is to attach one rock bag to Bean's side, then Bean attaches a similar bag to Conrad.

The knapsack, containing long-handled bolt cutters to snip off pieces of Surveyor, is to be attached to Conrad's backpack.

The astronauts will gather interesting rocks, first documenting with photographs each stone's position before picking it up.

The astronauts will pick up the samples with long-handled tongs, place them in small numbered plastic bags, then put them in the bags attacked to their sides.

At one point, the astronauts will dig a shallow trench in the soil and collect dirt from the bottom of the trench.

After reaching the edge of Surveyor 3's crater, Conrad and Bean will attach a 30-foot safety line to one another, then will carefully descend the slope.

If keeping his footing is not a problem, the safety line will be discarded and both spacemen will ease down the slope to Surveyor.

First they will take photographs of the area, so scientists can compare them with pictures televised by the robot after it landed 32 months ago to see if erosion occurs on the moon.

Using the bolt cutter, Conrad then plans to snip off a piece of cable attached to Surveyor's TV camera, the camera itself, a piece of aluminum tubing, and a section of glass. After each piece is severed, he will hand it to Bean who will stow it in Conrad's knapsack. The parts will tell engineers how well man-made materials wear on the moon.

They will then head back to the Intrepid lander craft, stopping for rocks en route.

'Crash Pads' To Be Provided

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The board of education has voted to set aside rooms in three high schools to provide swift treatment for students suffering bad effects from drugs.

Dr. J. M. Stubblebine, city health department official, told the board yesterday the city would pay for the cost of operating what he called "crash pads" at Mission, Balboa and Woodrow Wilson high schools.

He did not estimate what that cost would be.

Georgia showed a 9 per cent gain in personal income in 1968.

FIRST STEP'S REALLY LONG

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — When 5 foot 11 Neil A. Armstrong stood on the moon last July, he said: "That's one small step for a man, a giant leap for mankind."

When 5 foot 6 Charles Conrad Jr. stretched to reach the moon from the landing pad today, he said: "That may have been a small one for Neil, but that's a long one for me."

Nixon Rises Early To See Moon Walk

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon felt that astronauts Charles Conrad Jr. and Alan Bean "seemed less restrained" than the nation's Apollo 11 pioneers as they went about their moon chores.

Nixon also was quoted as saying he thought that the sound transmission from moon to earth was better than before and-while it lasted-he enjoyed the color telecast.

Beta fiber, used to weave the Apollo non-flammable space suits that were used in the July moonshot, is so fine that 2½ pounds would reach around the world — 25,000 miles.

Scientists's Movie Shows Lightning Bolt

RENO, Nev. (AP) — A color movie made by the curator of the University of Nevada planetarium shows a bolt of lightning climbing up the gassy exhaust of the Apollo 12 moon rocket at 41.04 seconds after liftoff last Friday, the curator says.

Shortly after the Cape Kennedy observers reported seeing a flash and astronaut Charles Conrad Jr. said the command ship may have been hit by lightning. The spacecraft's primary power was knocked out but was soon restored.

Space agency scientists said they thought the trouble was caused by static electricity.

One frame in film made by curator Richard Norton with a camera on the ground 1,000 feet from the launch site showed a streak which Norton said was lightning traveling up the path of ionized gasses roaring out of the ascending spacrcraft.

Norton said he thought he saw two flashes but that the second must have occured while his film was between frames.

The film was processed by a Los Angeles laboratory and an enlargement of the lightning frame was sent to NASA.

Don't Wait — Now's The Time!

Nobody Beats It.

They love whipped cream. But, oh, the problems.

Now comes the problem solver. Frozen non-dairy Real Whip.®

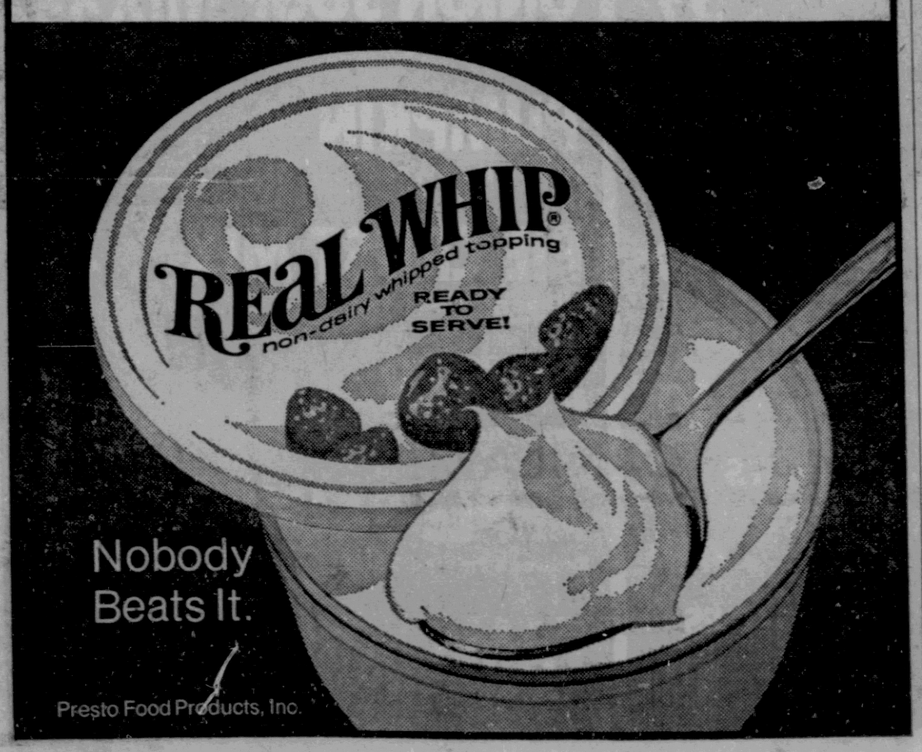
It's pre-whipped. It always stays deliciously creamy, light and fluffy—and never lies down on the job.

So, tonight, spoon out the Real Whip.

More economical to buy, more economical to serve, and you can pop what's left right back into the refrigerator (it'll keep for two weeks)—or even the freezer.

And it has only 14½ calories per tablespoon—so you can be generous about it.

Real Whip.



'OUCH' — Clay Bean, 13, registers displeasure at being nipped by the family dog during a romp today at the Bean home near the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, Tex. While the play was going on, Clay's father Alan L. Bean was resting up for a second exploratory walk on the moon. (AP Wirephoto)

Jubilation, Bit Of Wistfulness Hold Sway In Astronaut Homes

SPACE CENTER Houston (AP) — "We made it again," signed Sue Bean. "Unbelievable:" exclaimed Barbara Gordon. "There they are," said Jane Conrad, pointing to the moon.

With cheers, hugs, sighs, applause and champagne, the Apollo 12 wives celebrated today America's second successful moon landing.

The families, huddling with friends and relatives and astronauts and astronauts' wives, watched television and listened as Charles "Pete" Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean guide their moonship Intrepid to the lunar sufrace.

"An all-night moon vigil," was the way Sue Bean described it, although she chose later to try for a nap between the landing and the moonwalk.

"This night belongs to Pete and Al," said a wistful Barbara Gordon.

Separated from his colleagues, Richard F. Gordon Jr., piloted the command ship Yankee Clipper in moon orbit, alone and posed for a rescue attempt should one become necessary.

As the crew prepared for the descent, ground communicator Gerry Carr told the astronauts their wives were resting for the long night ahead.

"I just talked to Barbara and she's been resting up," Carr told Gordon. "They're taking naps and everything, getting all set for spending the night up with you.

"And Barbara said to tell you that she thinks you're just great."

"Well!" Gordon laughingly replied. "Tell her thank you. After 16 years, it's about time."

"Mama's going to let us stay up," exclaimed an excited Larry Gordon, 11, one of the six Gordon children. "And we don't have to go to school Wednesday."

Peter Conrad, 14, and a companion were mapping plans to reenact the flight of Intrepid in a cardboard "lunar lander" this weekend.

Peter and his friend, Michael Howell, will climb into a box between beds in a room of the Howell home Friday night.

The simulated moonship contains sleeping pads, a toy instrument panel, a television set and other equipment designed to aid the junior spacemen on their simulated flight, scheduled to end Sunday.

The two Bean children, Clay, 13, and Amy, 6, were also swept up in the excitement of the moon adventure.

But their reactions differed. Clay complained that his schoolmates brought newspaper pictures of him to school, which "is embarrassing." Amy, on the other hand, took the clippings and raced off to show a girlfriend.

The Bean household was stocked up with food and champagne, and Mrs. Bean emerged on the eve of the landing to tape up a poster showing the moon, the moon lander, the earth and a sign: "Go Navy! Go Apollo 12!"

All three crew members are Navy commanders.

Apollo 13 Trio At Consoles As Landing Made

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Among those watching man's second moon landing from Mission Control early today were the men who will make the third moon landing.

Apollo 13 commander James A. Lovell Jr. and his crewmates, Thomas K. Mattingly II and Fred W. Haise Jr., sat at consoles at Mission Control as Apollo 12 landed on the moon.

The Apollo 13 moon flight is scheduled for next March. It is to land at Fra Mauro, a crater the Apollo 12 crew will survey from moon orbit after they leave the lunar surface.

Lovell has spent more time in space than any other human. He was on the 14-day Gemini 7 mission in 1965, the four-day Gemini 12 flight in 1966 and the Apollo 8 moon-circling flight last December.

Mattingly and Haise are both space rookies.

Lovell and Hasie will land on the moon while Mattingly orbits alone in the command ship.

Blood Drive Slated

A community blood drive sponsored by the Marin Blood Center, an auxiliary of the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank of the San Francisco Society, will be held tomorrow from 3 to 7 p.m. at the Church in Ignacio in the Pacheco Shopping Plaza.

Astronaut Gordon Holding Loneliest Watch In Space

SPACE CENTER — Houston (AP) — "I can really move in here pretty good when I've got all this room," said Richard F. Gordon Jr., consoling himself as his Apollo 12 crewmates made history on the moon.

It was about his only consolation aboard the Yankee Clipper, sailing through a sea of space, waiting for Charles Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean to return to him from the moon.

"Quite a sight, isn't it," he had said as he watched Intrepid slip away, drifing further and further back like a leaf in a stream.

In the Clipper, a mother spaceship built for three, he sailed along high above the moon, ready to rescue the moon explorers if necessary.

Conrad and Bean remembered Gordon as Intrepid slipped away toward the moon's surface after undocking.

"Yankee Clipper," Bean radioed, "I'll turn on my tracking lights for a minute. See if you see it."

"I've got it, Al. I've got your lights," Gordon said.

Shortly after Conrad and Bean touched down on the moon, Gordon sent congratulations to the third and fourth men to land on an alien world and Conrad replied:

"Thank you, sir! We'll see you in 32 hours!"

How To Photograph Apollo On Home Television Screen

Mount your camera on a tripod, adjust the TV for the best contrast possible and turn off the lights in the room. Use no flash bulbs or strobes.

For color photos, use color negative film such as Kodacolor X at 1-30th of a second at f 2.8 or f 2. For slides, set your camera at 1-30th of a second at f 4.

For best results use a camera with a compur shutter—one that expands and contracts like the pupil of your eye. This helps eliminate a "bar effect" produced by most focal plane shutters.

If you have only a focal plane shutter camera, hold the camera vertically. This will reduce the possibility of a "bar effect." Most 35 millimeter cameras have focal plane shutters.

Wyoming has the largest population of pronghorn antelope in the world.

Near Fate Of Harlan Hall Brings Movers

In a hectic but well-planned upheaval, College of Marin this week is uprooting many of its working parts from historic Harlan Hall to plunk them down in newly completed portable buildings.

Moving into the new quarters are the offices of acting Supt.-President Louis H. Herkenhoff, the dean of instruction and four assistant deans, public information, planning, business, nursing and 44 faculty members.

The move started Monday and is scheduled to be completed tomorrow.

Harlan Hall, built in 1929, will be replaced by the new Harlan Center containing classrooms, faculty offices, and facilities for the dental assistant, communications and nursing programs. The new building will have 16,000 square feet of usable space compared to the 10,000 in the present building.

Old Harlan Hall will be turned over to the contractor next week, but actual demolition is not expected to start until early December. The center is scheduled to be ready for the fall semester next year.

Signups Slated At Sonoma State

Registration for the spring semester at Sonoma State College will be held from Dec. 1 to Dec. 5 at the college field house.

Registrar Fred H. Jorgensen said that fee payments will be made by mail and that students under independent study and special problem enrollments will not be accepted until Feb. 11.

He said that registration is for students already accepted for entrance and not for students applying for admittance.

Families Establish Pre-School Aid Fund

Through monthly contributions from 58 families, a scholarship program has been started at the San Anselmo Pre-School Center for children from low-income families.

Three scholarship children are enrolled at the nursery school now and there are more openings, scholarship chairman Barbara Boxer reported. Information about scholarships or partial scholarships can be obtained by calling the center, which is at 121 Ross Avenue.

Neither Noncandidate Wants To Step Aside

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Marin Democrats, sniffing Republican blood in next June's primary election in the Fourth Senatorial District, last night spilled some of their own in an abortive effort to get one of the two noncandidates to step aside for the other.

Officially, the purpose of the meeting of the Marin County Democratic Central Committee was "to seek means to have one candidate and only one contending for the nomination for state senator," according to mailed announcements of the meeting.

But chairman S. Robert Politzer of Sausalito, while criticizing an Independent-Journal report Monday that state law barred the committee from endorsing or opposing any candidate until after the primary, amended the purpose of the meeting "to an exploration of methods or ways to exploit the primary and get the most out of it."

Two hours of bickering followed, and somehow arguments repeatedly returned to the idea that the committee should discourage a primary fight. But in the end, the entire idea was shelved indefinitely.

The two noncandidates, the only two who have made known their "noncandidacy," are Richard M. Adams of Belvedere and Michael R. Peevey of San Rafael. They are aiming at the seat held by Republican John F. McCarthy of San Rafael, who himself faces a hot primary fight from former Marin supervisor, Peter H. Behr of Mill Valley.

The meeting was not without comic relief — janitors ejected the committee from two rooms in the Courthouse in San Rafael before it settled down in a third. "You guys ain't got any business in here" was their first sendoff, and, "Hey, wait a minute," got them out of the second room.

Of the two noncandidates, who can't file officially anyway until March, only Peevey favored avoidance of a primary fight. "I hope we both could be frank enough with one another to resolve this man to man," he said to Adams.

But Adams wasn't buying. "I've had nothing to date but encouragement," he insisted, "and I believe in democracy with a small 'd.' The decision Adams argued, "should be left to the people to decide in an open primary — the Democratic Party won't have any backroom deals made."

An Adams supporter in the audience, Leonard M. Sperry Jr. of Belvedere, opposed another suggestion that a pre-primary endorsing convention be held in the three-county district as "bringing to my mind the bitter taste of the 1968 convention in Chicago."

Elaine Guthrie of Ross also opposed moves to get one of the two men to step down. "We've got two absolutely superlative candidates — which is sort of unusual for us," she said.

Politzer, though he finally gave in at the end, argued that Democrats could benefit from a GOP primary fight if they could unify behind one candidate before the primary, "but if we split before the primary, then we neutralize our advantage."

Span Directors May Ban Protest In Busy Hours

Banning public demonstrations on the Golden Gate Bridge, at least during heavy traffic hours, will be considered by the bridge district's rules and policy committee at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow in district offices at the toll plaza.

Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring urged directors to enact a policy so he will have the authority to control demonstrations. Recent demonstrations, for Biafra and against the Vietnam War, have come at peak traffic hours, and severely tied up traffic.

The insurance committee will meet tomorrow also, at 1:30 p.m., to consider ways of hiking insurance coverage on the structure.

The regular board meeting will be at 10 a.m. on Friday, instead of Nov. 28, the day after Thanksgiving. The finance-auditing committee will meet first at 9:30 a.m.

The district's transportation committee will get to work on a long-range transit plan, at 9:30 a.m. on Dec. 4. Such a plan must be submitted to the Legislature by 1971.

Teen-Ager Denies Stolen Engine

Carl Leon Curry, 19, of 1563 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of auto theft and receiving stolen property.

A preliminary hearing was set for Dec. 16.

Curry was arrested Saturday after sheriff's deputies, acting on a tip, said they found a stolen engine in his car.

An officer investigating an abandoned and stripped Porsche near the apartment house in which Curry lives said he found a seat from the stripped car in the apartment house storage area.

Other tenants said Curry owned a Porsche, and when officers stopped him in Sausalito a short time later, they said his auto contained an engine from the stripped car.

Attorneys To Discuss Conservation Laws

A panel of attorneys who specialize in the legal aspects of natural resources will discuss advantages and limitations of existing laws at a meeting of the Alliance for Conservation at 8 p.m. today at the Marin Rod and Gun Club.

Panelists will be Dwight Steele, Robert Jasperson, Eugene Brodsky and Donald Harris, with Lawrence Stotter as moderator.

Is dsertwhip® just like whipping cream?

Of course not.

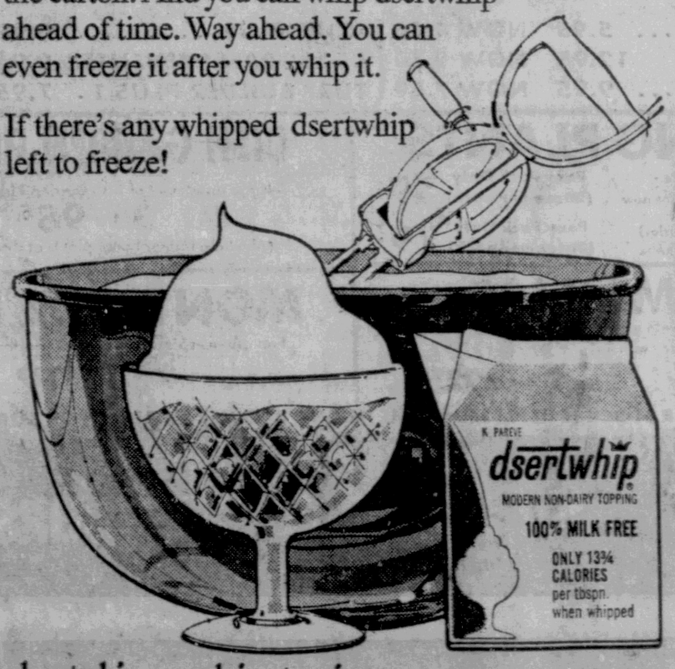
There'd be no purpose in that. We make it better than whipping cream. For one thing, it has the old-fashioned fresh flavor you love.

And it's 100% milk free.

It has fewer calories (only 13¾ per whipped tablespoon). It lasts longer (up to 3 weeks in the refrigerator). dsertwhip non-dairy topping costs less too. Look in the dairy case right next to the whipping cream. You'll be surprised at the savings.

No need to add anything to deliciously dependable dsertwhip either. Whip it just as it comes from the carton. And you can whip dsertwhip ahead of time. Way ahead. You can even freeze it after you whip it.

If there's any whipped dsertwhip left to freeze!



dsertwhip. non-dairy topping. Never lets you down.

Councilman Hits Caption On Picture

The Novato City Council at its Nov. 4. meeting voted to make last Saturday an extension of Veterans Day and show its appreciation by visiting veterans and not as a counter movement against the Vietnam Day Moratorium.

Councilman Douglas M. Merrill said last night that the front page picture caption in last Saturday's Independent-Journal said it was a movement against the Vietnam Day Moratorium.

"It is not the policy of this council to get involved in national questions or take a stand on them. This was only to show our appreciation to the veterans of the war, and not to take a stand for or against the moratorium," Merrill said.

The other councilmen agreed with him.

Revising Of Lot Lines Is Denied

On a 4-2 split, the San Anselmo Planning Commission has denied a rezoning application by Grant Perkins and John P. McInnis for a planned development off Essex Street.

Commissioner Philip S. Heinecke moved Monday for denial on grounds the area was not suited for high density residential development as Perkins proposed, assistant city planner John T. O'Rourke reported.

Heinecke was joined by commissioners John F. West, Dennis T. Moore and Ragnvald Bernt Jr., while commissioners Allen J. Creighton and Warren R. Perry voted against denial. Martin Stuart was absent.

Perkins' application to revise lot lines for the development was held pending a possible appeal of the zoning application to the city council.

Higher Cutbank For Hospital Is Rejected

By 3-2 vote, the Novato City Council last night upheld the city planning commission's denial of a variance for Jack D. Kinner for a 35-foot-high cutback for a convalescent hospital on Hill Road, west of Canyon Road.

Mayor Harley A. McAskill and Councilman J. Wayne Womack favored the variance from the city's 20-foot limit.

Kinney had previously received approval for a use permit for the 92-bed convalescent hospital and plans for it were approved by the plan review committee.

Several residents on Hill Road have objected to the cut.

The Novato City Council Also:

REZONING — Passed interim rezoning to planned community, 710 acres south of Highway 37, west of Black Point for John E. Kenney. The council last week was condidering the master plan for the area when City Att. Clark M. Palmer Jr. said that previous zoning by the county did not apply upon annexation to the city.

SPRAY POOL — Awarded a $17,250 contract to John Houseman of San Francisco for the spray pool in Pioneer Memorial Park.

RESURFACING — Awarded a $31,585 contract to Teichert and Sons of Woodland to resurface San Marin Drive from Highway 101 to Simmons Lane, lowest of seven bidders. The vote was 4-1 with Councilman Babe Silva against, not because he did not want the street resurfaced, but because the city does not yet have clear title to it.

CITY SEAL — By a 3-2 vote, with Womack and Silva against, voted to retain the present official city seal, but not use it. Womack and Silva want to use it. Mrs. Betty Beebe of 4 Farvue Road had asked that the council name a fourth committee to draw up a city seal.

SENIOR CITIZENS — Voted to ask the Marin County Board of Supervisors to cintinue matching funds for the senior citizen program. The city now receives $2,000 annually from the county which it matches for this $4,000 program.

TRAFFIC — Approved painting double yellow lines on Washington Street at Harding Drive with reflectors on them to show the curve. This intersection was the scene of a recent fatal accident. The council postponed until next week requests for stop signs at San Marin Drive and San Carlos Way, and at Isabella Court and San Carlos.

DE LONG AVENUE — Postponed from next Tuesday until 8 p.m., Dec. 9, consideration of the future route of De Long Avenue, east of the proposed freeway bypass.

DI GRAZIA — Gave City Mgr. Charles A. Brown next Monday off with pay so he can go to St. Louis, Mo., to attend the swearing-in of former Police Chief Robert Di Grazia as superintendent of rural St. Louis County police. Brown will pay for his travel and other expenses.

APPOINTMENT — After a short closed meeting, named Paul Otis of 1404 Buchanan Street, an employee of Standard Oil of California, to fill the unexpired term of Lee C. Wise on the planning commission. The term runs only until Dec. 31.

Judges Drafting Policy On Pleas

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— The California Judicial Council is suggesting new guidelines for the protection of those who want to plead guilty to criminal charges.

A policy statement adopted yesterday is being sent to trial judges for comment before final adoption.

No court should accept a plea of guilty, the guidelines say, without first determining it was made voluntarily.

It also demands that judges make certain defendants understand the nature of the charge, the consequences of the plea and the constitutional rights abandoned by such a plea.

Weinberger Gets Senators' Nod

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate confirmed by voice vote today the nomination of Caspar W. Weinberger as a member of the Federal Trade Commission. President Richard M. Nixon plans to name him chairman.

Weinberger succeeds James M. Nicholson, whose term expired, as a commission member.

The President announced some time ago that he had chosen Weinberger, former chairman of the California Republican State Central Committee, to be new FTC chairman. He will replace Paul Rand Dixon, who will remain as a member.

Weinberger is resigning as California's state finance director to come to Washington.

PETITIONS

Davidson Students Fighting Pollution

Alarmed at what pollution is going to do to the world they will live in, some 13-year-old eighth graders in San Rafael this week decided to do something about it.

As a result, a petition was passed yesterday and today to all teachers, students and staff members at James B. Davidson Junior High School asking a senator and representative to help in the fight to halt air and water pollution and the destruction of wildlife and all destructive forces destroying our heritage.

The petition, addressed to Sen. Alan Cranston, and Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, also calls for saving San Francisco Bay and the Point Reyes National Seashore.

The movement started when three students, Kerelyn C. Pla, Leslie A. Johnson and Susan M. Pollack approached faculty members with the petition idea, reported 13-year-old Michael R. Helms, an eighth-grader who joined the group as publicity chairman. Another student, Theodore R. Mitchell, joined in the project.

The petition has been "enthusiastically" received, Helms reported and all 900 students at the school were expected to have signed by today, he added.

"The kids are worried about pollution," Helms said, "because they and their kids have to live in the stuff when they grow up. We have to do something now," he explained. "because we can't let it (environment) go to pot."

Door Knocker Stolen

Dominic's Harbor Restaurant, 507 Francisco Boulevard, has reported the theft of a $50 lion's head door knocker and seven folding patio chairs valued at $119. San Rafael police today said the chairs were taken during the past month and the door knocker was stolen sometime Sunday night.

X-Rays Take Holiday

The free X-ray clinic at the Marin County Department of Public Health will be closed from Nov. 24 through Nov. 28, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

Panel Selected To Study Improving Welfare Services

A five-member subcommittee was appointed last night by the Family and Children's Services Advisory Committee to see how services can be improved for families on welfare aid.

Chairman Jocelyn Bell of Fairfax, appointed the following to serve with her on the subcommittee:

Chester Villalba of San Rafael, director of the Family Service Agency; Marjorie Harmon of Mill Valley, representing the Marin Social Workers Union; Mary Brooks of Marin City, representing the welfare rights group; and Jean Glascock of Larkspur, representing the League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Bell also appointed a three-member group to meet with the county administrative analyst and with Betty L. Presley, public social services director, to discuss possible need for more personnel in her department. Named to this group were Winifred Fredericks of the Irate Taxpayers of Marin; Eldon Hasstedt, of the Novato Kiwanis Club and Carmen Kline of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs.

The advisory committee also decided that members who are absent for three consecutive meetings would be considered to have resigned.

Indecent Incident

A 16-year-old Novato High School girl was the victim of indecent exposure about 4:50 p.m. yesterday on the high school campus, police reported. She described the man as 20 to 24 years of age, white, dirty and wearing a light jacket and light green checked trousers.

Reading Test Scores Draw Panel Concern

Although a large number of Reed School District pupils were reported scoring in the upper 25 per cent of statewide readers, there was still concern at the district board session last night.

Trustee James B. Richwagen felt the district "has the resources available to do much better," contending that California pupils have scored in the lowest 25 per cent of the nation.

TEST RESULTS

The test results indicate where there are special problems and identify the exceptionally talented, reported Mrs. Gail Cox, district psychologist.

Trustees were particularly concerned over the report that 56 second graders scored less than a year's gain in a school year, with 35 of them showing less than half a year's gain.

On the basis of tests indicating the national norms, the district ranked in the average range.

"I think most teachers aren't particularly pleased at scoring in the average range in this test," Mrs. Cox said. "We don't know if it's the test or us. We're not going to overlook the possibility we're not doing the job."

ASKS COMPARISONS

Richwagen suggested, "We take a look at districts scoring in the highest ranges and see what they do."

Trustee Thomas S. Price suggested that the Reed District scores should be compared with those in other school districts in Marin.

"Why can't the Marin County Schools Office compute the Marin County norm?" asked Board President Leo Souza.

Supt. Robert B. Gaw said he had asked for comparisions, but the information returned from the county schools office wasn't what the district wanted.

"I think we're getting a runaround. The Marin County schools office can do it," said Souza. "It's public information."

Trustees agreed to urge the county schools office to compile the information on reading test results to determine Marin County norms.

New House Looted, Damaged By Vandals

More than $700 damage was done Friday or Saturday to a house under construction at 340 Coleman Drive owned by Robert E. Nolan of 12 Angelica Court, San Rafael, police reported yesterday.

Vandals burned a formica counter top causing $350 damage and broke a $300 sewer pipe. They also smashed a $15 glass door and stole 30 kitchen and 15 bathroom door knobs valued at $75, according to police.

Airing Of Report Card Clash Made

A clash between a Reed School District trustee and a school principal over a notice to parents about report cards was aired before the district board last night.

Trustee James B. Richwagen explained he was angry because he felt a report card notice form sent to Reed School parents wasn't in accord with a recent board action.

In the midst of recent controversy over report cards in the district, the board has asked that letters to parents for this reporting period be in the same form that they were last year, he explained.

The matter came before the board when Supt. Robert B. Gaw questioned the procedure of an individual board member reprimanding a teacher. He felt that if there is to be a reprimand, it should come from the board, not the individual trustee.

Richwagen acknowledged that he was the trustee referred to and admitted that he was angry at the time, but also asserted that the principal, Edward Mosconi, knew he was mad and could have referred him to the superintendent. Mosconi invited him to talk it over, he said.

Gaw said there wasn't any intent on Mosconi's part to "be deceitful or contrary" in sending out the notice form that he did, but only to follow the guidelines set by the board.

Mosconi said he didn't send out the same form as last year because last year's "is very inflammatory in terms of what you're trying to achieve, and that's the reason for the change."

The board in the latest of a series of stormy sessions recently called for a return to greater emphasis on letter grades than on teacher commentary and conferences with parents.

Gaw commented: "This is a morale problem and I have some administrative responsibility to be supportive of staff. I feel there was some abuse by an individual board member and I feel the proper channel is to the superintendent."

Righwagen said he particularly took issue with a "third box" on the form which could be checked by parents saying . . . that the family prefers that the teacher choose the reporting method to be used.

Mosconi said that the third choice was for parents who aren't sure which they wanted.

Board president Leo Souza said "Boards only have power as boards and not as individual members, and if we have things to say, we should do it as a board. If there are charges, they can be discussed at an executive session."

Trustees held a closed session before the open session to instruction their negotiators with the Reed School District Teachers Association regarding the district's report card policy.

They went into closed session again on the same matter after the open meeting ended at 1:05 a.m.

State Auto Association Hit On Gas Tax Attitude

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The California State Automobile Association's traditional defense of preserving all gas tax revenue for roads was sharply attacked yesterday in a legislative hearing as a "lack of leadership."

Defending the association was John P. Fraser, and supplying most of the heat before the Assembly Trasnsportation Committee was Assemblyman Peter F. Schabarum, R-Covina. The hearing in the State Building was to consider legislation to allow gas taxes to be used for rapid transit as well as highways.

Fraser argued that a "truly statewide" highway system was needed to serve a Valley farmer traveliing both to markets and to the Bay Area as well as to serve Bay Area drivers who want to ski weekends in the Sierras.

But Schabarum said a statewide highway system ignored the need for transit in urban areas, and ignored the fact there was not enough money for both. "You're not willing to tread on the status quo," he said to Fraser.

Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles, noted that recreation use of highways was available to most persons only once or twice a year, "compared to the daily use, which is tremendously costly in time, accidents and emotional strain."

Stolen Property Charges Delayed

No charge was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against Timothy Mark O'Brien, 18, of San Rafael, who was arrested Saturday on suspicion of possessing stolen property.

His case is still being investigated by the district attorney's office.

O'Brien was stopped by the California Highway Patrol officers, who said that his car had no current registration tag and that he had with him two radios, an auto tape player and a box of tapes. One radio was reported stolen in January from Imperial County.

Teachers Seek 10 Pct. Pay Hikes

The Reed District Teachers Association last night put in a bid for a 10 per cent hike in the salary schedule during the 1970-71 and revisions within the schedule.

The Reed School District board took the salary request under study with comment that it would be on the board's agenda in January.

Teachers requested a schedule ranging from $8,320 to $15,380, including a $500 annual increment for those in the district 15 years, a new scale covering those who have a bachelor of arts degrees plus 70 units without a master's degree, an annual increment of $100 for those who have a master's degree or higher and a change to a ratio system in the schedule to equalize step increases.

Total cost of the proposal wasn't submitted, but Board President Leo Souza estimated it could amount to $140,000 or $150,000.

The Reed School District board also:

EDUCATIONALLY HANDICAPPED — Heard a report on the district's program for the educationally handicapped, which serves 105 pupils, from Edward Mosconi, program coordinator.

CROSSING GUARD — Voted unanimously to request the Tiburon and Belvedere city councils to hire a crossing guard for the Del Mar School intersection at Tiburon Boulevard and Avenida Mira Flores for the rest of the school year and to request the state division of highways to install warning signs north and south of the intersection.

BICYCLE RACK — Authorized construction of a concrete bicycle rack at the Corte Palos Verdes entrance to Bel Air School at a cost not to exceed $150.

BUDGET WORKSHOP — Had a workshop session with the district finance committee mainly devoted to an explanatory briefing by William Vanasen, assistant superintendent, business.

PATHWAY — Supported the Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission proposal for construction of steps and a path connecting Reed Ranch Road and Jefferson Street.

INFORMATION — Defeated by a 4-1 vote, a motion by Gordon C. Wright that a board member to study the possibility of having a board member disseminate information to the public about board activities, and if feasible to carry out the job. The job has been handled by the disirict superintendent.

ENROLLMENT — Received a report that district enrollment as of Nov. 12 was 2,038 pupils, down five from Oct. 10.

CONDOLENCE — Sent a letter of condolence to the family of Anthony J. Bettencourt Sr. of Larkspur, a district gardener for eight years, who died Tuesday after a long illness.

WORKSHOP — Set Dec. 8 for a workshop on the primary program.

Office Cash Taken

A thief who forced a sliding door between noon and 1 p.m. Monday at the office of Dr. E. W. Denicke and Dr. Earle H. McBain at 1530 Fifth Avenue stole $108 from two cash boxes, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

The Case Against Suburban Schools

Schools today usually worry about meeting the needs of the system instead of the needs of the student, psychologist Walter S. Lee told the discipline study committee of the Tamalpais High School District yesterday.

Lee and other committee members said the high school is too isolated and needs to be more like real life, reported administrative assistant Edward J. Neumeier.

District board chairman Bette Wallace said that suburban high schools in particular seem to have no first hand contact with the world, because the suburbs themselves are isolated and protected

The discussion centered around the assumptions that a school makes about an adolescent, Neumeier reported.

Drake senior Ken Bullock told the committee the only thing he had learned in high school so far was how to be a high school student. and he had nothing with which to make important decisions about military service, college or a job.

The committee was instructed by the school board this year to examine present student conduct rules and to recommend ways that students, parents, school staff and the community can all take part in developing discipline policies. Committee work is only now getting started because of the weeks-long athletic grooming controversy.

Chairman George Stone asked Lee to outline at the Dec. 2 meeting the assumptions he feels schools now hold about their students. Lee told the committee that if an organization makes rules based on how it expects people to act, they will act in the expected manner.

The committee, Neumeier said, is to start discussing specific conduct rules at its next meeting, at 4 p.m. Dec. 2 in the Redwood High School faculty lounge.

Three Groups Showing Courthouse Interest

At least three groups of businessmen have shown interest in purchasing the Marin County Courthouse and square in San Rafael when the building is vacated by the county beginning next month.

"The group that is furthest along is likely to come before the board of supervisors with a proposal on Dec. 2," said County Administrator Alan Bruce. "I am not at liberty to tell you the principals involved or what the proposals are."

However, the county administrator pointed out that the county cannot enter into a contract with any group without first inviting public sealed bids for the Courthouse Square.

Would any of the groups approach the county with an offer without first consulting the City of San Rafael, which has control over planning and zoning at the Courthouse Square?

"As a practical matter, that would be unlikely," said Bruce. He said that any offer for purchase of the property would probably be on the condition that San Rafael would approve the plans for use of the property.

James H. McCown, San Rafael city manager, said the city is working closely with the county and any approach made to the city is referred directly to the county administrator. McCown said he was approached yesterday by a man representing a San Francisco firm. "I referred him to Mr. Bruce."

An appraisal of the courthouse property three months ago placed its worth at about $750,000.

Moving into the new building is now scheduled to begin Saturday, when the communications department will be installed in its new offices. Various departments will continue to move during the coming month, with the county clerk's office and superior court scheduled to be the last into the building on Dec. 22 and 23.

Pope Defends The New Mass

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI defended controversial new rites for the Roman Catholic Mass today and said all Catholics "must promptly adhere" to them.

His words at his regular general audience, met recent criticism by Antonio Cardinal Bacci and Alfredo Cardinal Ottai, two semiretired conservative members of the Roman Curia, who had suggested the new Mass was almost "heretical."

Recalling that the second Vatican Ecumenical Council had asked for the changes in the Mass, Pope Paul said that using the new rites was en act" obedience, a fact of coherence with the Church itself, a step forward in its authentic tradition, a demonstratition, a demonstration of fidelity and vitality to which all must promptly adhere."

Check Case To Superior Court

Le Roy Raymond Willey, 38, of San Anselmo, yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on two charges of possessing fraudulent checks with intent to defraud other people.

He is to appear in court Monday for arraignment.

Planners Ask Outside Aid In Petaluma

Faced with a long list of projects to be undertaken by the planning department, the Petaluma Planning Commission last night recommended that outside help be brought in to assist.

The commission agreed that it would be impossible to expect the department to complete all the needed projects and will ask the city council provide funds to hire outside consultants.

Andy Anderson, assistant planning director, said projects earmarked for outside consultants include a study of the housing element of the general plan, a review of ordinances involving subdivisions to include study of possible zoning ordinance revisions, lot split ordinance revisions and the preparation of a hillside development study.

Tasks recommended to remain within the department included further study of the mobile home park ordinance, revisions of the city general plan, study of the core area plan to renovate the downtown district, a study of traffic circulation, a fence ordinance and a study of the development of the Petaluma River.

The major projects, Anderson said, would be studied until next summer along with projects already underway which include beautification of the city entrances, a study of the sign ordinance, and study of zoning amendments to provide for administrative-professional and commercial-manufacturing districts.

The planning commission also approved a use permit for the Douglas Oil Co. service station at 532 East Washington Street to add a bay to the station.

Donald Beacock Is Corte Madera Chamber Leader

Joe H. Stewart Jr. was elected vice president, Jean Cuykendall secretary and G. M. Thomason Jr. treasurer.

The new officers will be installed at a Jan. 24 dinner meeting.

The chamber directors also sent a letter of support to the Marin Junior College District board, offering to support the college however it can. Members can hire students for part-time and Christmas work to help in the financial aid squeeze, Malvino said.

The board also sent President Nixon a letter urging the administration to allocate money set aside to complete purchase of the Point Reyes National Seashore.

Auto Theft Suspect, Companion Arrested

A young woman wanted by Texas authorities for car theft was arrested yesterday in a Stinson Beach motel after deputies sighted the reportedly stolen car parked outside.

Carol Christine Conrow, 19, of no known address, and her companion, Edward Gerald Timmer, 21, who gave both the Stinson Beach Motel and Applington, Iowa, as his addresses, were also booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of drug violations.

Sheriff's deputies said that after they saw a Volkswagen with a Texas license plate which had been listed stolen, they were told that it was Miss Conrow's car.

When they later found her and Timmer, she had a pouch in her jacket pocket which contained capsules and pills, the deputies said. She told them the jacket was Timmer's.

Timmer, who was clutching a plastic bag in his hand which deputies said contained green vegetable matter believed to be majijuana, reportedly told the deputies that he had been taking drugs since he was 13 and that this was the first time had had been caught.

Miss Conrow was held with no bail and Timmer in lieu of $625 bail. Both were to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

San Francisco Hospitals Hike Wages; Marin Pinch?

An agreement to increase wages of workers at 11 San Francisco hospitals, expected to raise costs to patients by up to 15 per cent, was signed yesterday in San Francisco — and Marin hospital administrators predicted today it would affect local hospitals.

"There's no question that the agreement will have an effect on Marin General Hospital," said administrator Ray K. Bolinger.

Dr. John C. Siemens of Ross and Novato general hospitals, said, "We will have to make adjustments," but both he and Bolinger agreed it was to early to determine just what the adjustments would be.

Both said salary ranges at their hospitals are comparable to those in other Bay Area cities and changes elsewhere affect ranges here.

The San Francisco Hospital Workers Union agreement, covering about 2,400 members including licensed vocational nurses, orderlies, nurses' aides, technicians and housekeepers, kitchen and laundry workers, called for a 20-month contract with 60-cent per hour increases.

Felony, Theft Reports At 95

An aggravated assault was reported along with 15 burglaries, nine auto thefts, 18 thefts over $50 in value and 52 thefts under $50.

A total of 324 misdemeanor complaints were received and 217 moving traffic citations issued.

Eleven injury accidents were investigated.

$75,000 Asked By Parents In Daughter's Death

The parents of a 6-year-old San Rafael girl who died Feb. 13 of injuries suffered when she was struck by a car while on her way to school, yesterday filed suit in Marin Superior Court asking $75,000 from the driver of the car and the telephone company.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cameron charged that the driver of the car, Charles Von Loewenfeldt, 52, of San Rafael, had his vision impaired by Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. equipment around an excavation.

Toni Cameron was hit by the car at the intersection of Fourth and G streets in San Rafael.

The suit, which also names 10 John Does and an unidentified company, says that the child also had her view obstructed by the equipment.

San Franciscan Held Over On LSD Charges

Donald Richard Doody, 37, of San Francisco, yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on felony charged of possessing LSD and offering to sell the same drug. He is to appear in court Dec. 1 for arraignment

Doody was arrested after he reportedly offered a Renaissance Pleasure Faire worker LSD on Sept. 20.

San Anselmans Send Protest To President

A group of 112 San Anselmo residents who feel they are part of "the silent majority" President Richard M. Nixon referred to in his Nov. 3 speech on Vietnam has written the President to protest continuing U.S. involvement in the war.

The residents, who participated in Saturday's protest march from San Anselmo to Sleepy Hollow, state in the letter that they are all "quiet, middle-class, residents," most of whom had never marched in protest before.

"We belong to that group of citizens which you have mistakenly assumed silently agrees with your Vietnam policy," the letter continues, "It is not easy for most of us to take issue with the President of our country, but we cannot let you mistake our silence for agreement."

The residents said they recognized the difficulty involved "in extricating ourselves from a complex situation," but went on to say: "but we also know that we cannot provide a solution for the Vietnamese people's conflict."

A spokesman for the group, Rev. Gene W. Burris, said he hoped citizens throughout Marin County who disagree with the President's Vietnam policy will march during the December moratorium.

"I think this is our best opportunity to convince President Nixon of the two sentiments of the silent majority in this country," Reverend Burris said.

Justice Hall Moving Date Still Dec. 8

The county plans to move into the new Hall of Justice on Dec. 8, even if some minor finishing work still remains undone, Assistant County Administrator John F. Barrows reported to the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday.

Supervisors asked the county administrator to draw up plans for a simple opening ceremony with an open house for the public all say Saturday, Dec. 13.

"The public would be interested in seeing the jail, the restricted corridors in the courts level, and other areas they can't see unless they are arrested as felons," said Barrows.

He added that he had talked to presiding judges, and they said formalities should be kept to a minimum and preferably non-existent.

Michael A. Chrystal, senior administrative analyst, who is coordinating the move into the new building, said the Marin County Department of Public Social Services will move in Dec. 8. The probation department, county recorder, district attorney, and the public defender are also scheduled to be in the new building by the Dec. 13 open house.

Plans Advance For Apartments

Preliminary site plans for a clustered apartment development on 26 acres in the Alto Bowl have been approved in principle by the Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committee, Zoning Administrator Howard R. McGill reported.

The development proposed by Cal-Fong Investment Co. and designed by architect Norman T. Gilroy, clusters the apartments at the base of the bowl leaving the hillsides in open space.

The committee Monday also approved plans for a deck and roof trellis over Old Mill Creek to provide access to a proposed home at 265 Cascade Drive, requested by John Holmes, and plans for an access bridge across Arroyo Corte Madera Del Presidio for a proposed residence at the end of Winwood Place, requested by Peter C. Haywood.

To Superior Court

James Pate, of 1457 Cambridge Street, Novato, was bound over to Marin Superior Court Monday on two felony charges of committing statutory rape of a young girl March 22 and 29. He is to appear in court Dec. 1 for arraignment.

Researching Sea Mining

By ANNE BARDWELL

TEST RESULTS — An engineer examines soil which has been tested for moisture content at the Marine Mineral Technology Laboratory in Tiburon as part of several experiments on how best to mine the ocean floor.

Beaches covered with oil residue and tar.

Millions of dead, bloated fish floating on the ocean's surface and washing up on shore.

Entire populations of shellfish suddenly extinct.

Thousands of square miles of ocean turned into a giant, grotesque Lake Erie, biologically dying.

All this and much more could be the result of rampant pollution if the mining and harvesting of the sea runs unchecked.

But it is far fetched only because of the research now being conducted at the laboratory to prevent the ocean's floor from being turned into another Appalachia.

Padan and his associates now have underway eight projects which, they hope, will provide information for private industry on how best to utilize the ocean's resources and help the federal government form legislation to protect the public's interest while allowing the sea to be mined and harvested.

In particular, the Marine Mineral Technology Laboratory, under the Federal Bureau of Mines, is working on how best to mine the ocean's floor for solid mineral. Other laboratories under other bureaus are exploring the mining of oil, gas and sulpher, of food and of dissolved minerals in the seawater itself.

One of the projects under Padan's direction is developing predictions on what will happen offshore when serious mining of the million square mile continental shelf begins.

Taking existing knowledge of oceanography and marine ecology as well as date from land mining, he and his staff are developing a set of predictions about underwater mining.

For example, when mining occurs and once the minerals are removed and the residue returned to the ocean floor, what will be the effect of sediment suspension in the water on marine life? What will be the tolerance levels of marine life to this kind of pollution?

"If we find this particular mining technique will be detrimental to sea life, we probably would require mining companies to pipe the reside back to the ocean floor where it would be deposited gently rather than just dumping it back at the ocean's surface," Padan explains.

In order to develop these predictions, he also is studying past experience in underwater construction — laying of cables, pipes — to see what effect this has had on ecology.

Padan said it will be two years before he will be able to formulate operational criteria for legislation and industry. Such criteria would include premining survey requirements, design criteria, equipment and techniques, mining timing and patterns and reclamation techniques.

The laboratory also is studying how best to lift mined materials from the ocean's floor, what happens when the sea floor is penetrated by drilling, how to evaulate the minerals as to grade and amount to be recovered while they are still under the sea and the effect of drilling motion on equipment over a long period.

"Without adequate thought, there is no doubt the ocean could be polluted, stripped bare, become unusable," Padan said.

DRILLING — Research supervisor R. Neil Roby studies a model core drilling rig at the Laboratory in Tiburon. This particular model is being used to discover the best way to drip drill core samples under the ocean's heavy pressures.

Branstetter Case Opens Aid Wound

Stricter laws should be enacted to close some of the loopholes that allow abuse of welfare aid, Marin County Board of Supervisors declared yesterday.

The discussion was sparked by Supervisor Louis H. Baar, who wanted to know if the county can put a hold on some of the $4,000 in cash found on a San Rafael mother, who was picked up on Nov. 7 on suspicion of dealing in drugs. Rosita Dolores Branstetter, 37, of 8 Marian Court, also had two county welfare checks totalling $228 at the time of the arrest.

"The policy of the law is generally against us," replied County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney. "It is difficult to prove that when the checks were received, recipient was not eligible for aid."

"Is there some way we can put a hold on the money to pay back some of the aid given to her?" asked Baar.

"We'll certainly explore it," said Maloney. "But the whole field is very gloomy."

Chairman John F. McInnis said he received calls from two elderly women who saw two hippie-type persons cashing welfare checks at a local market. "Most of the purchase was in whiskey, gin, vodka, soda water and Coca Cola," said McInnis. "One of the callers was in complete tears that her tax money went to support this type of person."

Both McInnis and Baar declared that legislation to correct loopholes in welfare aid should be taken up at the workshop session scheduled for Dec. 2 to discuss bills that should be introduced in the State Legislature next year.

County Administrator Alan Bruce announced he would have a summary of proposed legislation to present to the supervisors next Tuesday.

Betty L. Presley, director of public social services, reported to supervisors that she has asked the district attorney to investigate the possibility of fraud in Mrs. Branstetter's case. "However, the recipient claims the large sums in her possession did not belong to her."

She said she is getting information on the fathers of Mrs. Branstetter's two children.

The husband and father of the youngest child has been arrested for parole violation and is being held in Corona, she reported.

Teener Admits To Lesser Count

Martin James Fleischman, 19, of Belvedere, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a misdemeanor charge of possessing a device for smoking narcotics. A felony count of possessing marijuana and another charge of having an open container of liquor in his car were dismissed.

Judge Hadden W. Roth set sentencing for Dec. 19.

Fleischman was arrested Oct. 8 by sheriff's deputies who stopped his car for a defective taillight. They said that Fleischman threw a package of what appeared to be hashish out of the car.

Supervisors Raise Pay Of Six Elected Officials

Amid concern that public salaries may be in an endless spiral, the Marin County Board of Supervisors approved increased wages yesterday for six elected county officials.

These raises were approved by a 4-0 vote of the board:

County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel, now receiving $22,000 annually, to $25,200 on Jan. 1 and to $27,800 on Jan. 1, 1973.

Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, $21,000, to $24,000, then to $26,400 in 1973.

Treasurer-Tax Collector Stanley J. Fontez, $19,500, to $22,725.

County Clerk George Gnoss, $19,500, to $22,725 and $24,600.

Recorder Noel T. Giacomini, $15,500, to $19,350 and $22,300.

Coroner-Public Administrator Donovan O. Cooke, $13,000, to $15,150 and $16,400.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney told the board that the filing period for candidates for the four-year positions begins in February and that it should adopt new salaries at this time if it wished.

Maren Rinne, county personnel director, said she recommended the raises on the basis of reports from throughout the Bay Area on private and public salaries in related fields, projected cost-of-living increases and added duties.

Several members of the board foresaw the possibility of some of the salaries reaching $40,000 by 1980.

Bench Warrant Out For Larkspur Youth

A bench warrant with bail set at $5,000 was issued yesterday by Judge Hadden W. Roth of Marin Municipal Court for Richard Martin Dalhover, 18, of Larkspur, who is accused of grand theft, when the youth failed to appear in court.

Dalhover was arrested Oct. 28 after he allegedly purchased a car by trading in another one that he had not paid for.

Foes Of Legal Aid Amendment Strike Out

The Legal Aid Society of Marin failed yesterday to win support from the board of supervisors in its opposition to a far-reaching amendment of the federal legal services program for the poor.

The board, realizing it would reach a voting impasse on the society's request, took no action.

James H. Kovacs, directing attorney for the society's federally funded legal services program, said the amendment, which has passed the Senate and is now under consideration by the House, would enable the governor of a state to veto a local program entirely or restrict the type of case handled.

Kovacs said Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., author of the amendment, told the Senate during debate on the amendment that it was designed to, in Kovacs's words, "prevent attorneys from representing clients in unpopular or controversial actions, such as suits against government agencies."

Kovacs believed the amendment would place the legal services program in "severe jeopardy," but two of the supervisors, chairman John F. McInnis and Louis H. Baar, didn't agree.

While upholding the right of each individual to legal counsel, McInnis said it appeared to him that "attorneys (in the legal services program) have gone out of their way to harrass" for personal gain.

"It (the program) seems to me to be perilously close to abuse," he added.

"I've been told by people in the legal profession that there is a misuse of funds," said Baar.

Said Wornum, "I think the government needs suing from time to time and it worries me that one man, the governor, should have the power to say whether (a suit) is right or wrong."

"If we deprive the power of legal aid, then we're in trouble in this country," Arrigoni asserted.

Baar rebutted that he thought the "country had done well" up until the time legal services bagan and added, "I don't think the poor are being denied anything."

With Supervisor William A. Gnoss absent, the board members recognized that a vote would be futile, but both Baar and Arrigoni said they intended to communicate their feelings to Marin's representatives in the House.

Kovacs said the amendment was opposed by the Nixon administration and, locally, by the Marin County Human Rights Commission.

Tests Ordered In Kidnap Case

SANTA MONICA (UPI)—John Santen, 23, a merchant seaman charged with kidnapping the son of millionaire aerospace executive Simon Ramo, has been ordered to undergo a psychiatric examination.

Santen was ordered yesterday to appear Dec. 9 for a sanity hearing by Superior Court Judge Charles H. Woodmansee.

Alan Ramo, 19, was kidnapped from the family home in Beverly Hills Sept. 12 and driven to a remote area of the Santa Monica Mountains where he was found later handcuffed to a tree.

Dr. Ramo, a founder of the TRW Inc. aerospace company, notified police of his son's disappearance when he found a $200,000 ransom note. The money was never paid.

Young Ramo's place at the tree was taken by a detective who captured the kidnap suspect when he returned to the scene.

Week's Disease List

There were 28 cases of streptococcus infection, 23 cases of gonorrhea, two of salmonella and one each of mumps, syphilis and serum hepatitis reported in Marin County last week, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, health director.

Five Youth Panel Members Selected

Five of the seven youth representatives on the Marin Youth Commission were named yesterday by the board of supervisors.

They are Marc W. Tracy of 425 Alameda Del Prado, Novato; Madelyn Angress of 21300 Shoreline Highway, Marshall; Karry Fitch Jr. of 78 Novato Street, San Rafael; Cathi Prebil of 147 Esmeyer Drive, San Rafael, and Ann Elliott of Skyland Way, Ross.

Supervisor Michael Wornum asked for a week's time to make a decision on appointment of one of two youths from his supervisorial district. They are Helen Griesemer and Ann O'Rielly, both of Mill Valley.

Besides the youths, four adults will also be on the panel.

The Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

SAN PEDRO ROAD — Set 8 p.m. Dec. 8 to meet with San Rafael city councilmen at city hall to discuss the controversial alignment of South San Pedro Road through Bayside Acres.

AIRPORT — Received a stack of letters and verbal protests from Gallinas Valley residents opposing the use of Smith Ranch Airport for any flights, especially commuter service. Supervisors, however took no action because the airport owners withdrew their request for commuter service at the 100-acre airport north of Santa Venetia.

DATA PROCESSING — Awarded a $11,760 contract to Allen Heating and Sheet Metal of Greenbrae to modify the electrical and air conditioning system in the data processing department at the Civic Center.

CHILDREN — Awarded a $5,000 contract to Bishop Roofing of San Rafael to repair the roof at the Marin City Children's Center and a $2,816 contract to Forde Construction Co. of Novato to improve the parking lot at the Novato Children's Center.

LOS RANCHITOS — Deferred action on a recommendation from Public Works Director Donald R. Frost that the Los Ranchitos Road entrance to Highway 101 at Puerto Suello Hill be closed because it is a traffic hazard. Supervisor Louis H. Baar said the access is a big convenience to residents of Los Ranchitos.

MERRYDALE — Approved future setback lines on Merrydale Road in Los Ranchitos which would widen the road between North San Pedro Road and Willow Avenue from 37 feet to 66 feet. Several residents argued that the 29-foot widening on the west side of Merrydale cuts off the garages and front of several homes, and some of the widening should be made on the east side.

JUSTICE — Supported the intentions of AB 1960 to reallocate crime funds away from penal institutions toward local preventative efforts, but opposed the plan to establish a new governmental body to coordinate the efforts. Hearings on the bill are scheduled Monday and Tuesday in San Francisco.

LOGGING — Voted $300 from reserves to pay consultant's fees in connection with preparation of an ordinance that would limit logging in Marin. Logging has been banned in Marin pending adoption of an ordinance.

SHERIFF — Voted transfer of $500 from reserves for an extra-hire deputy sheriff, replacing Deputy Harold Goerndt, who suffered a heart attack in May.

APPOINTMENT — Approved appointment of Donald C. Porter as a program analyst in the community mental health services department at $1,033 monthly.

LEASED HOUSING — Approved the request of the Marin County Housing Authority to apply for federal assistance to lease another 200 dwelling units in Marin for leased housing. Funds for the addition of 40 units have been approved, but the authority said that number was insufficient because of severe need.

BALLOT — Supporting the Marin County Housing Authority, voted its intent to place on the June ballot a countywide proposition endorsing construction or acquisition of housing for low income persons. Details of the proposition will be recommended by a special committee.

HOSPITALS — Renewed a one-year agreement for treatment of patients referred to Napa and Mendocino state hospitals at a cost of $69,602.

SANTA VENETIA — Appointed Roy H. Jervis of 103 Vendola Drive to the Santa Venetia Flood Control Zone Advisory board to succeed Ray Kresbach, who resigned last month because of pressure of work.

ABATEMENT — Continued until Tuesday a hearing on the abatement of a home under construction by Jack Tefft at 23 Lomita Drive, Mill Valley. Wornum said he will inspect the premises and report back next week.

SHORELINE HIGHWAY — Voted 3-1 to ask the state to resume studies of a new Shoreline Highway on a scenic route from near the Golden Gate Bridge to Point Reyes Station. Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. dissented, saying he wanted Shoreline and the proposed Highway 17 removed from designation under the state freeway and expressway system.

MILLER AVENUE — Amended the Tamalpais Valley General Plan to extend Miller Avenue across marshland to connect to Highway 101 at the Richardson Bay Bridge.

PARK MONEY — Received a $17,992 check presented by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, for purchase of tidelands at Bolinas Lagoon for county park purposes. The money is part of the state Park Bond Act fund approved by voters in 1964.

BCDC — Appointed Wornum to the Bay Conservation and Development Commission to succeed Dr. William E. Upton of San Rafael. Because of this added duty, Wornum said he would give up his post on the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission. Louis H. Baar was named to replace him on LAFC.

BOLINAS LAGOON — Decided against turning responsibility for maintenance of Bolinas Lagoon over to the parks and recreation department at this time, pending a report of a special planning committee. The county took control of the lagoon from the Bolinas Harbor District last week.

VOLUNTEER — Signed a seven-month contract at $1,057 per month with the Volunteer Bureau to plan recruitment and training of volunteers for the county probation department.

ALTO — Named Robert Bruce Williams, a 29-year-old civil engineer with Pacific Gas and Electric Co., to the board of the Alto Sanitary District, in which no candidates filed for two vacancies prior to the Nov. 4 election. Williams lives at 31 Meadow Drive in Mill Valley.

SLIDE — Signed an $8,500 contract with Woodward-Clyde and Associates of Oakland to provide engineering services leading to repair of a landslide on Novato Boulevard at Stafford Lake.

Pilot Food Program For Needy Backed

The Marin County Board of Supervisors voted approval yesterday a pilot program to distribute free surplus food to 30 welfare families whose members show nutritional deficiencies.

The six-month program, established by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, will begin Jan. 1 and could be extended later to families not on welfare.

The 30 families will be selected from the Aid to Dependent Children rolls on the basis of medical reports.

In a letter to the supervisors, antipoverty, health and welfare officials said the initial results of a survey conducted by a research team from the nutritional sciences department at the University of California in Berkeley had disclosed a "definite need" for such a program in Marin.

The food, to be made available through the agriculture department's San Leandro warehouse, will consist of such items as fruit juice, meat, cheese and milk and be distributed to infants, preschool children and pregnant and nursing women.

The food will be stored by the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council, cooperating in the project with the county departments of public health and public social services.

The program also will include a countywide nutrition education project for low income families.

Sausalitans Plot To Change Signs On 101

By LARRY D. HATFIELD

You can't get there from here.

At least that's what the city of Sausalito wants to tell the unslaught of tourists pouring over the Golden Gate Bridge to Marin's Fun City by the Bay.

Or not tell them, depending on how you look at it.

In another thrust at unsnarling the city's almost perpetual summer traffic jam, the city council last night unanimously decided to try to lure — or confuse — outsiders into thinking the Marin City Highway 101 entrance to the north of the city is the only way into town.

This would be done by changing signs on northbound Highway 101 so the only arrow to Sausalito would be at that exit.

The name of the Sausalito Lateral, which provides the present southern funnel into the city, would be changed to Alexander Avenue and any suggestion that Alexander might take you to Sausalito would be studiously avoided.

Councilman Alexander R. Imlay, in a burst of candor before an audience of seven, admitted the council was "deliberately trying to confuse people."

"We're being honest and saying 'this is the way to Alexander Avenue'," he said, "but we're not saying 'this is the way to Sausalito'."

He added, presumably in jest, "Maybe we should say this is the way to Fort Cronkhite." That would convince even more outlanders that Sausalito wasn't there, his reasoning went.

Other councilmen agreed with the purpose of the proposed sign changes with Councilman Robin Sweeny saying, "All we're doing is making people go 'round the mulberry bush."

Contending the plan was only "half a solution," she said until major parking facilities are built north of town, the sign changes would mean only that the downtown traffic jam would be fed from both directions.

Mayor Earl F. Dunphy also agreed to the spirit of the changes proposed by the city staff but admitted he had mixed feelings about the whole thing. It makes him mad, he said, "when I don't know what city I'm beside."

The council then recommended that the state Division of Highways go ahead with planning for the sign changes.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

BONDS — Told City Mgr. George M. Patterson to contact a financial consulting firm for advice on marketing building bonds recently approved by the voters to expand the fire and police stations.

GARBAGE — Set 8 p.m. Dec. 2 for study of a request by the Bay Cities Refuse Co. for a rate increase for trash collection.

APARTMENTS — Returned to the planning commission lot split and encroachment applications from Malcolm Dewees in connection with a planned condominium development at 319 Sausalito Boulevard.

VARIANCE — Upheld the planning commission's denial of a variance bid from Johnny Ribeiro asking to build a single family dwelling exceeding height limits.

SIGN — Sent a variance application from Paul Ciampi for a sign at a commercial building at 2631 Bridgeway to the Community Appearances Advisory Board. Upheld the planning commission's granting of an extension of the existing store front of Hamburger Dens, Inc. at 707 Bridgeway.

HEARING — Set a public hearing for Dec. 2 on an appeal by the Alta Mira Hotel on the planning commission's denial of a request to place directional signs to the hotel in other parts of the city.

ARREST — Denied a $100,000 false arrest claim by Edward Adamian of Redwood City who claimed he was falsely arrested for robbery in Sausalito on Nov. 4.

Two Rescued In Drifting Cruiser

A South San Francisco man and an unidentified companion were rescued by the Coast Guard last night after their 22-foot cabin cruiser went adrift in Racoon Straits, southeast of Belvedere Island.

Owner of the cruiser Gilda, David Morgan, told rescuers the boat's engine failed about 9:30 p.m. A patrol boat from the Coast Guard's Fort Point Station went out after receiving calls from island residents that a boat was stranded in the straights and its occupants were calling for help.

The curiser was towed to the Richfield Fuel Docks in Sausalito.

Two Recovering From Accidents

An 18-year-old San Rafael youth and a 25-year-old Novato man were removed from the critical list today at Marin General Hospital, according to a hospital spokesman.

Robert A. Metzger of 122 San Marino Drive, was reported in fair condition. Metzger was badly burned Friday when his car burst into flames after swerving off San Pedro Road and flipping over twice.

Donald Dale Robinson, of 15 Roy Court, Novato, was reported in poor condition with head injuries and a broken leg suffered in a motorcycle accident Saturday in San Rafael.

Reagan Calls Tax Relief Plan 'Fraud'

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A $920 million tax relief plan proposed by county supervisors and teachers was denounced by Gov. Ronald Reagan yesterday as "a fraud on the people."

At best, the plan would guarantee homeowners a $250 a year increase in the present $750 exemption, Reagan told a news conference.

He said his own plan—being whipped into final shape in consultation with legislative leaders—will better distribute the tax load without raising the total tax levy.

On other issues, the Republican governor:

Refused again to say whether he'll run for a second term next year, as expected. Reagan said he might even wait until the March filing period to make a formal declaration.

Said he opposes the granting of federal funds to the California National Guard to expand the guard's intelligence system in regard to civil disturbances. because the function belongs properly to civilian law enforcement agencies.

Said neither the university or state college system had turned students away although many students have not been able to get into their first choice campus next spring or fall.

The County Supervisors Association and the California Teachers Association, representing most public school teachers, announced plans Monday for a drive to put their tax plan on the 1970 election ballot.

The plan would require the state to add $500 million to public school support, take over 90 per cent of welfare administration costs from the counties and boost the property tax exemption from $750 to $1,000 a year.

"It's a fraud," Reagan said, which would virtually result in a $900 million tax increase.

"To present this as a tax reform is a fraud on the people because they are going to get this increase," he said.

"Our tax plan is not going to be one that results in increasing the total revenue of state and local government."

Reagan said his plan would result in a 50 per cent cut in the average homeowner's property tax.

Asked if he was ready to announce his political plans, Reagan said, "No. There's so much to do here in the job with the legislature coming back. This is time to tend to the job and not think about politics."

The governor said he believed the National Guard's request for more than $350.000 to improve its intelligence system would be withdrawn.

"This properly belongs in the hands of law enforcement," Reagan said. "I don't think it's an issue anymore. I think the guard itself recognizes this."

The idea had triggered controversy with some legislators contending the guard should not engage in such activities.

The governor said reports that 10,000 students have been turned away from admission to state colleges next spring may be misleading because students often apply at several campuses.

"There's nothing different than in the past several years. When one campus is full, he's referred to another campus. There's no actual cutback in enrollment," Reagan said.

Hayakawa In No Mood To Debate Hare

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—President S.I. Hayakawa of San Francisco State College rejected Dr. Nathan Hare's challenge to a debate Monday, saying he could see "no useful purpose" in debating "an acknowledged advocate of revolution and Black Panther ideology."

Hare was fired as head of the school's black studies program by Hayakawa for participating in strikes and disorders which wracked the campus last year.

However, leaders of the Black Students Union said this year Hare was still the man they considered in charge and called him "chairman-in-exile." Hayakawa said a "reign of terror" now exists in the program.

Hare, in a six-page letter addressed to "The Bay Area Community," said yesterday he found it "more than appalling that a public will sit back and, swallowing the public relations pitch and political gimmicks of a desperate and overly ambitious college president, allow a promising college . . . to slip into an untimely death."

Hayakawa, in rejecting Hare's challenge to a debate on the issue, said the "most constructive action that concerned citizens can take is to support the faculty of the black studies department in their legitimate, scholarly and educational endeavor."

Park Improvements On District Agenda

Gallinas Village Community Services District directors will meet tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Santa Venetia Presbyterian Church to discuss improvement plans for Rosal -Adrian Park.

Gallinas Village Community Services District directors will meet tomorrow at 8 p.m., in Santa Venetia Presbyterian Church to discuss improvement plans for Rosal-Adrian Park.

Secretary Marguerite F. Clark said this will be the final meeting of the present board of directors. Next month, two new members who won an uncontested election will join the board. Tney are Jack 1. Hockinson and William B. Loeber.

Bagley Hears Call For Utilities Taxes

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A California utilities executive says privately owned utilities serve 15.1 million of California's 19.4 million persons and pay 14 per cent of operating revenues in taxes, while public utilities pay practically none.

The hearing, presided over by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, continued today.

Allen said utilities owned by local government "are not true governmental operations; they are proprietary business functions and should be treated like other businesses when it comes to paying the tax burdens of this state, local government and schools."

Allen testified on behalf of a proposal for a statewide tax on utility use as recommended in the 1969 report of Gov. Ronald Reagan's Commission on Tax Reform.

San Francisco's big Hetch Hetchy water and power generating system would be exempt from the 14 per cent tax on gross electrical revenue because it sells power only at wholesale rates.

Major opponents were Norman Woodbury of the California Municipal Utilities Association, Ralph Anderson of the League of California Cities and Pasadena City Manager John D. Phillips.

Phillips said the proposal "seeks to overthrow a traditional and fundamental policy in this state that one government does not tax another government."

Copter Chase Pair Face Trial

A jury trial has been set for the week of Dec. 15 for two men accused of car theft who were captured with the aid of a California Highway Patrol helicopter Oct 19.

To stand trial on charges of stealing a car at Mount Tamalpais are Donald Lee Humes. 30, of San Francisco, and Don Borges, 30, of Belmont.

The hekicopter followed the reportedly stolen car until it crashed four miles east of Bolinas. Borges was then evacuated in the copter to Marin General Hospital, where he was treated for injuries suffered in the crash.

Land Given For Widening Of Hill Road

The Novato Unified School District board has dedicated 20 feet on the south side of Hill Junior High School for widening of Hill Road.

The City of Novato had asked for 25 feet. The wider street will serve the private property of Paul Pickart who has a permit for an apartment house development there.

Assit. Supt. Eugene DeBrecht said that the board declined Monday night to give 25 feet which would benefit only a private developer. The school yard had been fenced to permit dedication of 20 feet, so it will not have to be changed, he said.

The Novato Unified School District board also:

CAFETERIA REPORT — Received a cafeteria report that in September and October the schools' cafeterias made a profit of $1,245 on an income of $61,073.

DEPARTMENT CHAIRMEN — Apprived the pay of junior and senior high school department chairmen with the maximum pay at $600 per year. Total program cost is $12,272.

LIBRARY — Heard a report on elementary school libraries and received a recommendation, on which it took no action, that each school have a half-time librarian. The libraries are now manned by teachers and volunteer parents.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 8 p.m. next Monday to discuss district finances and building needs.

State Highway Panel Will Meet In Marin

The California Highway Commission will hold its monthly business meeting tomorrow and Friday in the Marin County Board of Supervisors' chambers at the Civic Center.

The hearings will open tomorrow at 10 a.m. and at 9 a.m. Friday.

John F. McInnis, chairman of the county supervisors, will speak on tomorrow highway needs in Marin County and Dale W. Luehing, general manager of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District will discuss the Schedule of the widening of the Richardson Bay Bridge on Route 101.

Others speaking tomorrow are: Palo Alto Mayor Edward S. Arnold and Menlo Park officials on reopening of studies on locating Willow Road on Route 84; State Sen. George E. Danielson, D-Los Angeles, Assemblyman David A. Roberti, D-Los Angeles and officials from Pasadena will request study of a proposed westerly alternate route for the Long Beach Freeway Extension.

Ted McConville, assistant road commissioner from Orange County will speak on the use of consultants in sensitive route location matters and San Mateo city officials will request a connection to the Bayshore Freeway near Route 92; C. A. Trifeletti, highway committee chairman of the Pacifica Chamber of Commerce will discuss the construction schedule of Route 380 between Pacifica and Route 280 and Peter Bosovich will speak on the drainage problem on Route 9 at Ben Lomond in Santa Cruz County.

Burglar Takes $100 In Cash From School

A burglar who entered Marin Catholic High School in Kentfield through an open window either Friday or Saturday stole over $100 in cash from an office, sheriff's deputies said today.

The burglar pried open a small safe which contained $100, deputies said, and also took a small amount of money from a charity fund which was in an envelope.

Multicultural Curriculum To Be Discussed

A multicultural school curriculum will be discussed tomorrow at the 8 p.m. meeting of the human relations council in the Dixie School District.

Austin J. Thompson, executive director of the Marin County Human Rights Commission and Joyce Bailey, commission field representative, will speak at the meeting in the new multimedia center at the Dixie Elementary School in Lucas Valley.

Plans to begin a multicultural curriculum in the Dixie School District were announced last month.

The new courses would study the roles and contributions of Negroes, American Indians, Mexicans and other ethnic groups to the economic, political and social development of California and Marin.

The Chiffon® re-invention

It works beautifully.
Chiffon re-invented the paper towel to make it harder working. First, we made it soft and pliable. Our new towel is soft and pliable enough to fit into the corners and cracks —all the tight spots that were hard for paper towels to reach before. For extra strength and absorbency, the Chiffon towel has two layers, bonded together through a special process that makes them stay together and, at the same time, forms thousands of tiny pillows in each towel to soak up more moisture. It's built to work like a sponge. Besides working harder, the Chiffon towel works beautifully. Chiffon towels come in colors you have never seen in a paper towel. Lemon, lime, orange, raspberry. You can also take your choice of bright border designs on white. The Chiffon Sun-fresh Towel: it's the greatest thing since, well—since paper towels.

Hearty Soup Makes The Meal When The Family's On The Go

Activities! Sometimes it seems as if the whole family is in one door and out the other with scarcely time for a howdy-do, let alone for a formal meal. If it isn't a basketball game, it's a Christmas Seal meeting. Or, maybe the adult education class, or the night the stores are open late for Christmas shopping. It seems as if there's never a week without at least one evening when mother turns into a short-order cook and the kitchen's a cafeteria.

One simple meal that's as quick to eat as it is to prepare is a big, peasanty bowl of soup. With crusty French bread, some cheese, and fruit, it makes the kind of wholesome meal that's just right for high-pressured people. It is right for the hard-pressed cook, too. The soup, which tastes like a day-long production, takes only minutes to prepare.

CREAM OF CORN AND CHICKEN KETTLE

2 tablespoons slivered green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed cream of celery soup
1 soup can water
1 can (8 ounces) cream-style corn
½ cup diced cooked chicken
Dash pepper
2 slices bacon, cooked and crumbled

Cook green pepper and onion in butter until tender. Blend in soup and water; add corn, chicken, and pepper. Heat; stir now and then. Garnish with bacon. Makes 2 ot 3 servings. The pot illustrated holds 4½ quarts (4 times this recipe). The bowl shown is 8 ounces.

GOLDEN STROGANOFF SOUP

2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed golden mushroom soup
1 soup can water
½ cup cooked noodles
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
Dash pepper
Sour cream

Brown beef and cook onion until tender. Pour off fat. Blend in soup and water; add noodles, parsley, and pepper. Heat; stir now and then. Garnish with sour cream. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

Roasting Time For Turkey— Everybody Has A Better Idea

NEW YORK (UPI)—The turkey industry itself is of several minds on recommended roasting times for the traditional Thanksgiving or Christmas bird. So what's a home cook to do?

Bone up on the various suggestions that were rounded up by the American Gas Association and choose the one that you prefer. Or else go out for dinner.

A guide established by California turkey growers uses a 325-degree oven; all weights are quoted for ready-to-cook turkeys. A 6 to 8-pound bird: 2 to 2½ hours; 8-12 pounds, 2½-3 hours; 12-16 pounds, 3-3¾ hours; 16-20 pounds. 3¾-4¼ hours; and 20-24 pounds, 4½-5½ hours. An additional 30 minutes roasting time is recommended if dry meat is preferred.

The Poultry and Egg National Board suggests times 1¾ to 2 hours longer than the California growers recommend. Individual packers also suggest different times and print them on the wrappings in which the turkeys are sold.

One point everyone agrees on. If you use a meat thermometer, remove the bird from the oven when the indicator reaches 180-185 degrees. The temperature will continue to rise briefly. Turkey, like other poultry and large cuts of meat, slices better and loses less juice if allowed to set in a warm spot for 20 to 30 minutes after it has finished roasting.

In using a meat thermometer, insert the shaft into the meatiest part of the bird, between second joint and body, but not touching bone.

Oatmeal Sesame Bread Can Be Baked Ahead And Frozen

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press

Don't hide your light under a bushel when you bake this Oatmeal Sesame Bread! Serve it when you're expecting company for a buffet supper and enjoy the applause.

It's particularly appropriate for company because it may be made ahead, frozen and reheated. We give you exact directions for doing just this. And another point in this bread's favor for buffet serving: made in three loaves, each loaf is marked into six wedges that are easy to break off.

OATMEAL SESAME BREAD

1 package active dry yeast
1½ cups warm water
2 tablespoons sugar
2½ teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, room-temperature soft.
2½ to 3 cups unsifted flour
1½ cups regular rolled oats
1 egg white
2 teaspoons water
3 tablespoons sesame seed

In a large mixing bowl, stir together remaining 1 cup water, sugar, salt and butter until sugar is dissolved; stir in 1 cup flour; add dissolved yeast and oats. Stir in enough more of the flour to make a soft dough.

Turn out on lightly floured board or prepared pastry cloth. Knead until smooth and satiny — 6 to 8 minutes. Form dough into a ball; place in greased bowl; turn to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm draft free place until doubled — about 1 hour.

Punch down dough; divide into 3 parts; cover with a clean towel and let rest 10 minutes. Beat egg white and 2 teaspoons water until frothy. Sprinkle sesame seed onto a plate or other flat surface. Shape each part of dough into a round, flat loaf. Hold loaf and brush top and sides with beaten egg white, then invert-loaf in sesame seed and press down lightly until top is covered with seed. Place loaf on greased baking sheet, seed side up. Repeat for other 2 loaves.

With back of long kitchen knife, mark six equal wedges on each loaf by making 3 deep grooves across top of loaf; do not cut all the way through dough. Cover; let rise as previously until nearly doubled — about 45 minutes.

Bake in preheated 400-degree oven until well browned on tops and sides — about 20 to 25 minutes. Cool on wire racks. If served while still warm, break into wedges. If completely cool, cut with bread knife.

Makes 3 round loaves.

NOTE: To freeze, wrap loaves in freezer wrap or heavy duty aluminum foil; seal completely. To thaw, let wrapped loaf stand at room temperature about 1 hour before serving. To reheat, place thawed foil-wrapped loaf stand at room temperature about 1 hour before serving. To reheat, place thawed foil-wrapped loaf in pre-heated 300-degree oven about 20 minutes.

Frou Frou Dessert For Party Finale

Extravagant is really the only word that adequately describes this beautiful combination of meringue, lemon pudding and colorful cling peach slices. But as you can see from the list of ingredients there's where the extravagance ends. It's not an expensive dessert so far as ingredients are concerned!

Make the meringue shell ahead of time then whip up your pudding filling just in time to let it cool enough to combine with the drained peach slices and carry it proudly to the table. A wonderful treat for your family — an impressive finale to a dinner party for your guests.

PEACH FROU FROU

2 eggs, separated
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
2/3 cup sugar
1 package (3½ oz.) lemon pudding and pie filling
1 can (1 lb. 13 oz.) cling peach slices

Beat egg whites with cream of tartar until frothy. Gradually beat in sugar a little at a time until egg whites are stiff and glossy. Draw an 8-inch circle on brown paper and place on cookie sheet. Spread meringue on circle. With the back of a large spoon form a shell. Bake in 275-degree (slow) oven 1 hour. Remove from oven. Cool and carefully remove paper. Make pudding according to package directions, using the egg yolks. Cool. Fill meringue shell with pudding. Drain peach slices and arrange on filling.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

CLING PEACH slices add color and tang to this wonderfully extravagant dessert. It makes a good dinner party finale.

Approach Crime Reduction By Teaching Law To Children

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Is it possible to change attitudes of a large percentage of today's youth toward law and law enforcement that range from suspicion and disrespect to outright hostility? If so, how can it be done?

Mrs. Lyman Emerson of Mill Valley believes a promising approach lies in a new program in public schools of "teaching law to reduce crime," starting with kindergarten and continuing through high school.

A pilot course in this program based on the work of Judge Roy W. Seagraves of the municipal court in Redwood City, San Mateo County, is now being taught in the seventh and eighth grades in Redwood City schools as part of the social studies course.

So convinced is Mrs. Emerson of the value of this plan that she has made a personal project of raising funds to help the program.

"I had intended becoming a lawyer ever since I received my B.A. degree in political science from the University of Southern California, and I did take some law courses," she says, "but I got side-tracked by marriage and a family."

LAST JUNE Elizabeth Emerson achieved her ambition when she received a doctor of jurisprudence degree from Golden Gate College in San Francisco, and she took the California bar examination last August. While awaiting the results she decided to volunteer her services in support of this new idea of teaching law to reduce crime.

"When I read in a newspaper about Judge Seagraves' program," she says, "I went to see him in his chambers at Redwood City because I have long been interested in getting involved in arousing everybody, but youth particularly, about their rights, privileges and responsibilities under the law.

"Many times young people are not aware of their rights. They get involved in a felony when they think it is just a juvenile prank, not realizing the drastic effects of a conviction.

"I don't think they understand the reason for law. We have not been able to convey to the young people that law and law enforcement are in their own interests as individuals.

"But first they must know what the laws are. Nor is it just the young people who are ignorant. Many people don't even understand family laws, such as those that affect support of children or children's support of elderly parents.

"IF PEOPLE BECOME aware of the specifics of law that affect their daily lives it seems to me that they are going to have more respect for the law, more support for the law, and there will be less law breaking."

Mrs. Emerson pointed out that in no course in school today — in history, civics or government — is law taught as it affects the individual child.

"I think a course properly taught could help to combat disrespect for cops by helping children to understand that the policeman is there to enforce rules that we have all agreed upon.

"Many delinquents react to situations without considering the results of their acts. For example, a criminal record, or conviction of a felony, which can be just stealing a candy bar, can mean barring a student from admission to the college of his choice and prevent his qualifying for a license in many professions and occupations. It also means loss of citizenship rights, such as voting or possessing firearms even for hunting."

Among other legal points they need to know about, she added, are their rights to make a binding contract, right to parental support, obligations to the family and the family to them, their liabilities in damages to persons or property and their right to a public education.

Mrs. Emerson described details of the program of teaching law to reduce crime.

"Judge Seagraves singlehandedly raised the $90,000 from businesses, foundations, labor groups and individuals which took care of developing materials. A year was spent on this by a research staff headed by Dr. H. B. McDaniel, professor emeritus of education and psychology at Stanford University. The first course was started in the seventh and eighth grades of Redwood City schools this fall.

"AFTER THE course has been taught two years, it will be evaluated. One of the outstanding features of this program," she says, "is that the means are already devised for testing its effectiveness. They will be able to test changes in attitudes, knowledge and behavior as a result of the program and will be able to determine if results are really due to it, to maturity, to the whole school program or learning experiences beyond the control of the school.

"It is admitted that there are social causes of delinquency," she stresses. "The purpose of the course is to make sure that children understand the law and realize that without it a group becomes a mob in which individual rights are lost and only the strong can survive. There is no preaching approach.

"THE PROGRAM has the endorsement of the California State Bar Board of Governors, and we believe it will eventually be a part of the curriculum throughout the state and that it will spread to every state.

"I found to my surprise that there are no foundations providing funds for research in law, as there are in medicine, education and religion — so I have chosen as my particular project soliciting help from foundations, members of the bar and top law firms. I want to try to raise funds by the end of the year sufficient for the visual materials needed in the program.

"I would welcome the help of at least another person — perhaps another woman law-

Opera Star To Be Honored At Tea

By MOLLY MARIN

Music students at the San Domenico School will honor the noted Greek operatic soprano Jeannette Pilou at a tea tomorrow at 4 p.m. in the Fireside Room on the campus.

Miss Pilou made her San Francisco Opera debut last year and is starring this season as "Violetta in "La Traviata" and Melisande in "Pelleas et Melisande."

Also attending will be Mrs. A. Barlow Ferguson of Kentfield, a personal friend of the singer; San Domenico principal Sister M. Maurice, O.P.; music department chairman Faith France, and faculty members Sister M. Susan, O.P., Sister Francis Xavier and Marian Marsh.

THE ROBERT MC CARTHYS Sr., parents of State Sen. John F. McCarthy of Marin, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Saturday at a dinner dance at the Bohemian Club in San Francisco. Some 150 family members and close friends attended.

The McCarthys are also parents of Robert McCarthy Jr. of San Francisco, attorney and former state senator from San Francisco, and they have 18 grandchildren.

Both the couple were born in Ireland. Mr. McCarthy is a former president of the Associated General Contractors of California, twice served as foreman of the San Francisco Grand Jury and is a past president of the Cow Palace board of directors, of which he is still a member. He has long been active in Roman Catholic Church activities, and was named a Knight of Malta by Pope Pius XII in 1953. Mr. McCarthy is the founder of the Robert McCarthy Co. in San Rafael which developed the Loch Lomond area.

MARIN SYMPHONY Auxiliary members were hostesses at tables this morning for the brunch that preceded the auxiliary-sponsored symphony preview at the Meadow Club. Mrs. John Kneeland was hostess at a table of Ross and Kentfield area residents; Mrs. William Pemberton headed a table of Southern Marin preview-goers; and Mrs. Philip Smith served as the hostess for San Rafael and North Marin guests. Mrs. Robert Schultz, Marin Symphony Guild president, invited a trio of friends from Mill Valley, Mmes. Harrison Leppo, Rodney B. Hartman and Joseph Brewster. Mrs. Gino Morena of Larkspur was hostess to Mrs. William Winter and Leon Levintow of Kent Woodlands and also seated at her table were Mrs. Maurice Salomon of Kentfield with Mrs. Donald Chapman of Kent Woodlands and Mrs. Walter Baird of San Francisco as her guests. Other hostesses were Mmes. John A. Clements, James B. Stapler Jr. and Ralph B. Dewey of Belvedere. Mrs. Dewey is auxiliary president this year.

Symphony conductor Sandor Salgo gave the preview of the Nov. 30 concert.

THE JACK Dores, who have just returned to Sausalito from a trip to the Orient, say that a drive up Mount Fuji to the snow lines was the most memorable experience. They left San Francisco on the freighter M. M. Dant for Manila, then flew to Osaka, Tokyo, Hong Kong, Bangkok and many other places before boarding another freighter, the Michigan, at Yokohama for the trip home. They stopped at Honolulu en route.

Four Stolen Bicycles Are Returned To Owners

Marin Bicycle Identification reports that four stolen bicycles have been found recently and returned to their owners. Two were turned in to Corte Madera Police Department, one at the Larkspur Police Department and the fourth bicycle was turned in to Mary Silvera School in Marinwood.

The Marin Bike ID program is a project sponsored by Peter Pan Chapter, Children's Home Society. Peter Pan Chapter started registering bicycles in April, 1968, in Marinwood and has registered over 1,500 since then.

Lt. Harvey Teague of the Marin County Sheriff's Juvenile Bureau says that "since the Marin Bike ID Program went into operation, we have had 25 per cent greater success in returning stolen bicycles to their rightful owners."

Mrs. James Newley of San Rafael is program chairman for the Bike ID Program this year.

Peter Pan maintains a current file and a 24 hour answering service to all Marin police departments to assist in locating lost or found bicycles.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Child Has A Right To Know Who And Where His Real Parents Are

DEAR HELEN:

I must disagree with those who say "Let sleeping skeletons lie." Even though a missing parent may be an utter stinker, the child has a right to know who and where that parent is, and all questions should be answered.

I found out I was an illegitimate child quite late in life. My real mother kept me, but she hides the identity of my father. Even if he were in jail, I wouldn't be ashamed of him. I'd want to help him. Not knowing has caused me much unhappiness, but my mother insists it's for the best. — WONDERING

DEAR HELEN:

Finding a lost father (who has been foolishly hidden away from a child by an over-protective family) will satisfy her curiosity and remove a big question mark from her mind.

I know, because I found my real mother, after more than 25 years of searching.

I was adopted by a wonderful couple when I was nine months old, and given every advantage. My life has been wonderful — except for the missing part. My birth certificate stated my mother's name and my place of birth. All I learned from my adopted parents was that she was 17 and unmarried.

Over the years I placed ads in countless papers, contacted missing persons bureaus, and put requests in personal columns. Finally I hit pay dirt. My mother called me, offering proof that cinched it.

She told me that after she placed me for adoption, she returned home and later marrried a successful farmer (not my father). She has three fine sons. Her husband and family don't know of my existence, so we keep our calls secret. We hope to meet at some future time.

At long last I am satisifed and my mother is too, for she had many depressed days, wondering about me. I would never try to establish a relationship more than what it is: My real parents are the wonderful people who raised me and no one could take their place in my heart, just as I couldn't mean the same to her as do her sons.

But it's so nice to know. All adopted children should, if at all possible. — S. O.

DEAR HELEN:

When I read the letter from the prisoner who wanted to find his little daughter and get to know her some day, I thought of my early and disastrous marriage. We ran away, but never really lived together. Soon he was in jail (again), and the baby and I went home to live with my parents. I was divorced six years ago, and am now happily re-married to a wonderful man.

My first husband's name is never mentioned, but when my daughter is a little older I'll tell her all about him. I won't degrade him nor let anyone else, but she'll know the truth and if, later on, she wants to find him, I'll help her.

Lately I've been worrying about this man I scarcely knew, wondering if he went totally wrong or rehabilitated himself. He was always very good at finding women and narcotics when out of jail, and he sent child support only once in seven years. I've lost track of him.

Is it best to leave it that way? Could you please tell me whether the prisoner who wrote to you was a Texan? Perhaps he's my ex. — M. K.

DEAR M:

The prisoner who wrote to me came from California.

Since you are happily married and owe your ex nothing, don't hunt for trouble. He may be more than you bargained for. — H.

yer — in making calls on foundations."

MRS. EMERSON is an excellent example of the growing number of women who are starting careers after rearing families. Graduated magna cum laude and a member of Phi Beta Kappa from the University of Southern California in 1935, she was a full-time homemaker for a number of years. Her husband has his own commercial photography business in Mill Valley, where he is currently a member of the Mill Valley Art Commission.

The Emersons have three children. The twins are Vicki, who is administrative assistant to the director of the comprehensive planning organization of the City and County of San Diego, and Bill, who is married and living in Los Angeles, where he is director of compliances and practices for KNBC-TV. Cindy, the youngest child, is a senior at Tamalpais High School.

Despite her busy home life, Elizabeth Emerson found time to be a leader in Girl Scout work. Starting as a troop leader, she went on to become president of the Marin County Girl Scout Council (now the San Francisco Bay Council), district advisor in Marin County, executive director of the Konocti Girl Scout Council headquarters in Santa Rosa, and finally director of Girl Scout camps in the Sierra and Hawaii.

One year she was the national visitor to Greece as guest of the Greek Girl Guide Association, representing the national Girl Scout organization in the United States.

Serving Meat

To get the most value from the meat you buy, compare the actual amount of lean (the protein part) to the amount of waste (bone, fat and gristle) in each pound. Learn to judge value by the cost per serving of the meat you buy rather than the cost per pound. For meat with no bone or fat allow four to five servings per pound; for meat with little bone or fat, allow three to four servings per pound: for meat with medium bone or fat, allow two to three servings per pound; for meat with a large amount of bone or fat (say a turkey), allow one to two servings per pound.

ON THE AGENDA

Coleman School P-TA Presenting Public Program On Drug Abuse

Coleman School Parent-Teacher Association is holding a public program tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of San Rafael High School to find out the right way to answer children's questions about drug abuse.

Speakers will include Dr. Robert Ott, psychiatrist; Leo Marmol, psychologist for Community Mental Health Association; and Jerry Green, San Rafael Police Department. Program chairman is Mrs. Robert Rosenblatt.

A question and answer period will follow the program.

DINO GIANOPOULOS

THE THURSDAY Musical Club will feature Dino Gianopoulos, pianist, at the November program to be held tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Davis in San Rafael.

Dino Gianopoulos was born in Oakland and received his early musical training in San Francisco and later at the University of California.

At the suggestion of pianist Gina Bachauer, he went to London to further his piano studies and to be coached by Miss Bachauer. He remained in London for seven years. His other important teacher has been Marjorie Petray of Berkeley.

Since his return to the U.S. Mr. Gianopoulos has played concerts on the West Coast, Southwest and Midwest. In January 1967, he performed a recital for Princess Irene of Greece and was invited by the princess to perform at the Athens Festival.

Mr. Gianopoulos is a member of the music faculty at U.C.

Tea following the program will be served by Mmes. Harris Kluksdahl, Forest Sorensen, Cloyd Kimball and Miss Betty Klink.

A PICNIC luncheon and one-act play, "The Flying Grandmother," are on the agenda for the Sausalito Woman's Club tomorrow.

Members and guests, who will bring their own aperitifs and lunches, will gather at the clubhouse at 1 p.m. Chairman Mrs. Martha E. Scott will serve coffee and dessert, assisted by Mmes. Jack Summerill, H. Gordon Douglas, Hendrik Keiser and Richard Robbins and Miss Marie Deschamps.

The cast of the 2:30 p.m. play produced and directed by Mrs. Norma Christian includes Mmes. Phillip Schneider, Albert Boehm, Herbert Recktenwald, Robert Thompson and S. C. Stapp.

Mr. A. C. Lyon will use framed grandmother faces perched on airplanes as decor motifs.

"HOLIDAY DECORATIONS for the Home" will be the subject when Mrs. Lowry L. Williams of Santa Rosa speaks before the Rohnert Park Garden Club at 12:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Rohnert Park Recreation Center. Hostess will be Mrs. George R. Johnston of Rohnert Park.

MRS. RUSSELL Meserole of Novato will be the lecturer tomorrow at 10 a.m. for the final session of Marin YWCA's "Yesterday's Art Today" series at the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael. China painting will be the subject of Mrs. Merserolli's lecture, to be illustrated with demonstrations of the technique of this "lost art."

THE MARIN Home Economists in Homemaking will meet tomorrow for a tour of the United States Department of Agriculture Wool Research Laboratory in Albany. Mrs. Herbert McCall or Mrs. Lowell Cummings are chairmen.

DELTA DELTA Delta alumnae have scheduled a reunion tea at the chapter house in Berkeley from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Tri Delta Alumnae of the University of California chapter, representing classes from 1900 through 1969, and members of Northern California alumnae chapters will gather at the house for the Big Game Week event.

Mmes. Earll Shine of Grass Valley, Kenneth A. Frost of Belvedere, Donald G. Ellis of Orinda and Eleanor J. McGahie of San Francisco are co-chairmen. Greeting returning alumnae will be Mrs. Aurora Milligan, house director; Mrs. Grant Stanwood of San Francisco, the sorority's district president; and Mrs. Graham Leupp of San Mateo, district chairman.

Mrs. J. Don Dole of Novato is reservations chairman.

THE NEWCOMERS Club of Petaluma will hold its luncheon meeting tomorrow at the Green Mill Inn in Cotati. The social hour will begin at noon with lunch at 12:30 p.m. Gil Messa, director of the Petaluma Boys' Club, will speak at 1:30 p.m. on "Youth In Action."

Greeting guests will be club president Mrs. Joseph Rodola and club hostess Mrs. Jack Becker.

ST. ANNE'S Service League of St. Paul's Church, will present its traditional holiday Pine Cone Festival tomorrow in the parish hall of the San Rafael church from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Handmade articles, foods and holiday greens will be offered to thrifty shoppers.

A silent auction is to be held, and coffee and homemade cakes will be served throughout the day.

BILLED AS a must-for-mothers is Marin Catholic Women's Club's program tomorrow when five faculty members present the programs and goals of their respective department — mathematics, English, languages and science—under the title "Education Opportunities — What Marin Catholic Wants To Teach Your Child."

The Rev. David Pettengill and Sister Mary Herbert, H.N.S.J., deans of studies for the school, will head the 1.30 p.m. program and be the introductory speakers.

PHILLIP SCHNEIDER, superintendent of the Sausalito schools, will speak at 7:45 p.m. tomorrow at the Laurel Dell P-TA meeting. The program will be at the intermediate school library in San Rafael. Mrs Donald Sherwood, second vice president, has arranged the program.

THE ANNUAL Thanksgiving dinner will be held by Rosarium Institute 175, Young Ladies' Institute, tomorrow at St. Patrick's Center in Larkspur. Dinner will be at 6:45 p.m., and will be followed by the meeting at 8 p.m. when the nominating committee will submit a slate of officers for the upcoming term.

ORDERS ARE being taken for the 1970 Calendar Appointment Book produced for the second year by the Little Jim Club of Children's Hospital in San Francisco.

Proceeds from the desk size book will go to the support of the hospital. The calendar has one week on each page with room for notes and appointments. Mrs. John Skov of San Francisco is sales chairman.

PLAYER OF THE GAME — San Rafael sophomore halfback Scott Duncan, with a sideline full of fans going wild beside him, skirted around end to score San Rafael's final go-ahead touchdown in the fading seconds of the Terra Linda-San Rafael game Friday. Duncan, named player of the game and prep of the week, scored three times and rushed for 210 yards in the game which Terra Linda finally pulled out with no time left, 29-27, on a field goal. 49er Owners Deny Team Is For Sale

Bob Hope Interested In Buying

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —Both the president and principal owner of the San Francisco 49ers deny the National Football League team is for sale.

Josephine Morabito, widow of the club's owner-founder who owns 35 per cent of the stock, denied reports last night that the team might be sold to comedian Bob Hope.

But several sources close to top officials on the team say it is very much available and that comedian Bob Hope is one of the prospective purchasers.

NO COMMENT

"I have no comment to make until such time as I have a more definitive statement to make," Gottlieb told The Associated Press today.

But then he added: "I cannot deny the report, however." No price in the sale reports was available.

Spadia, when told about Gottlieb's remarks, said: "Yes, I've spoken with Mr. Gottlieb. He telephoned asking for a price on the club and I told him there was no price, we are not for sale."

But one San Francisco broker, who asked that he not be identified, said he had been advised that "a 49er executive has placed the club on the block. The exact statement was: 'We will entertain offers at the end of the season.' "

Hope, who formerly held stock in the NFL's Los Angeles Rams, was away from his Los Angeles area home and was not expected back until Monday," a spokesman said.

STADIUM

According to the negotiation reports, Gottlieb, who is said to have extensive San Francisco Bay Area business interests, hopes to build a stadium there, primarily for the football club.

The 49ers have played in rundown Kezar Stadium since their inception in 1946 as part of the now defunct All-America Conference. However they are scheduled to move into 10-year-old Candlestick Park next year after it receives artificial turf and additional seats.

The San Francisco club was founded by brothers Anthony and Victor Morabito. Anthony died in 1957, Victor in 1964. Their widows now own 60 per cent of the 49ers' stock with the rest divided among seven minoity shareholders, none with more than 10 per cent.

DWINDLED

The 49ers' crowds have steadily dwindled recently—and not without reason.

The club has never won a championship. The closest it got was a 21-7 loss to Cleveland in the AAC title game in 1949, the league's last year. In 1950 San Francisco, Cleveland and Baltimore joined the NFL.

In 1957 the 49ers and Detroit tied for first place in the six-team Western Conference but San Francisco lost the playoff game 31-27. The team hasn't come close since, finishing barely above the .500 mark only twice in the past seven years.

CHARLEY KEPPEL

Only One Mariner On All-Star Team

College of Marin football coach Dick Read has returned from the Camino Norte all-conference pickings and he's just a little disappointed.

The Tars, who finished fourth in the conference race, landed only one player — Guard Charley Keppel — on the 22 available spots on first team offense and defense.

They picked up five additional spots on the second teams, with tackle Ron Heidinger and fullback Mike Fowler making it on offense and middle guard Vern Kellerman, end Rich Smith and defensive back John Dohn, a freshman, making it on defense.

DeAnza of Cupertino and West Valley of Campbell pretty much dominated selections. The two teams, who finished one-two in the standings, filled 15 spots with champion DeAnza getting eight and West Valley seven.

DeAnza all-conference players were tackle Dan Morrison, center Dick Adams, end Dyke Johnson and halfback Gary Washington on offense and Bob Busich, a tackle who was also named most valuable lineman on defense along with Bob Makey on the line, linebacker Rick Cummings and defensive back Steve Gudelt.

West Valley was headed by Dave Ray, a halfback and most valuable player in the conference and quarterback Bilf Barnes, named most valuable back. The runnerup team also landed end Scott Loomis, guard Herb Robinson on offense and linebacker Dave Boreham, and Ron Semon and defensive back Lance Anderson on defense.

John Boccabella Joins The Mets

JIM SHORTS: I've got a scoop. John Boccabella, Marin's veteran major leaguer, has joined the Mets.

This may come as a complete shock to his National League employers — the Montreal Expos, who still had the San Anselman on their roster as a catcher the last time they looked.

But John is now definitely a member of the Mets. That is, this week he joined the sales staff of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. in Marin.

WHEN UNIVERSITY of Montana's undefeated Grizzlies meet North Dakota State in the Camellia Bowl in Sacramento Dec. 13, they'll be without the services of the Big Sky Conference's all-time champion pass pilferer, San Anselman Karl Stein.

The Drake High grad and College of Marin transfer is one of seven junior college transfers on the team who are ineligibile for post-season activity because of academic requirements. Stein is four and one-half units shy of eligibility.

Almost Stretched Record To 12

Too bad, too, because last Saturday in a 58-0 Montanata romp over South Dakota State at Missoula Stein broke the Big Sky record with his 11th interception of the season.

He would have had No. 12 later in the game but just at the last split second the ball was inadvertently deflected from his grasp by his pal and former Drake High and COM teammate, middle linebacker Bill Hickerson.

Humph! Some pal. Bill and Karl laughed about it later. Hickerson, by the way, will be eligibile for the Camellia Bowl.

HALFBACK DEAN LAZZARINI (Drake) and end Honor Jackson (Tam) will be in the starting lineup Saturday for U. of Pacific in the Tigers' finale against the Spartans at San Jose State Saturday. This is one of the oldest football rivalries in the country, dating back to 1895.

New Member Of Boosters Club

DICK CURRY, veteran Marin sports official, Chevy dealer Clarence DeLong and jeweler Larry Callan were among the newest members of the Marin Chapter, 49er Boosters Club at the regular luncheon Monday at Dominic's Restaurant, San Rafael.

Curry should be a valuable addition to the membership because he is just about the most knowledgeable football man around and can serve the club as sort of legal advisor on some of the technical questions that invariably come up at the luncheon meetings.

And Curry should be readily identifiable among the Boosters. He's the only guy at the luncheon table in a striped shirt and whistle in his mouth. And that yellow napkin is a dead giveaway.

Some Unpleasant Memories

CHARLEY KRUEGER, guest at Monday's 49er Boosters Club, said the team's two-game sweep of the Baltimore Colts this season was a refreshing experience for him because, in 11 years with the 49ers, he's had some unpleasant memories of Baltimore.

"I'll never forget one year," he said. "Back in Baltimore, every time the Colts score a touchdown they have a beautiful black stallion race around the field. Well, in one particular game, they had to take the horse into the locker room at halftime and put some new shoes on him.

"And by the end of the third quarter a man from the SPCA came down and told the Colts they'd have to take it easy on that poor animal."

Prep Soccer Season Opens

Grid ace Mark Costello booted two goals to lead Tamalpais High School's soccer team to a 2-1 win over Drake yesterday in Mill Valley.

In other season-opening games, Redwood nicked Marin Catholic, 2-1, at Larkspur on goals by Jon Broderick and Francis Kelonco and Novato and San Marin battled to a 1-1 tie at San Marin.

San Rafael Soph, Lineman At San Marin Win Honors

A sensational, boyish sophomore back and a tackle who met his biggest challenge successfully are the Independent-Journal sports staff's high school back and lineman of the week.

Scott Duncan, San Rafael High School's wonder-soph, ravished Terra Linda's usually stout defense for 210 yards and three touchdowns, even though the Trojans eventually pulled out a harrowing 29-27 verdict last Friday night.

Kerry Atkinson of Novato's San Marin High, no mere slip of a boy at 207 pounds, turned in some ferocious line play in a head-to-head collision with Redwood's giant 247-pound Tom Wickert, sparking a league-leading defense that he lead the Mustanfs to a 17-14 victory Saturday and a piece of second place.

Duncan, a curly-haired lad with deceptive (10.4) speed, has been getting all kinds of praise for most of the season, and not just from his own coach, Bob Muster.

He's had some great games already, but nothing like the one Friday night, in which the pitch-and-run play he and Lowell Widmer executed almost resulted in the upset of the year.

CROWN

The performance accomplished several things, in addition to prep of the week honors. It gave Duncan the league rushing crown, vaulting him past equally amazing Dewey Forry of Terra Linda, it earned him player of the game honors and it almost surely had a hand in landing him on the all-league team.

Asked what made the option work so well against Terra Linda, Scott replied simply: "Widmer."

"Scott has a great amount of natural talent," Muster said of his sophomore. "But besides that, he's one of the most capable boys I know. And when he gets in trouble, he just puts his head down."

Duncan felt elation, disappointment at the loss and something else after the game.

"I was really tired and sore,"

BIG GAME SATURDAY

More Plunkett Records?

STANFORD (AP) — Jim Plunkett will be shooting for two more Pacific-8 Conference records Saturday when he quarterbacks Stanford in the Big Game against the California Bears.

The records, both held by Craig Morton, now quarterbacking Dallas in the National Football League, are 185 incompletions for a season and 4,501 yards passing gained for his career, 1962-64.

Plunkett needs 11 completions and 54 yards passing to break both records.

Cal defenders who will bear the brunt of breaking up Plunkett passes will be Jim Sheridan, Irby Augustine, Ray Youngblood and Bernie Keeles. Keeles missed last week's game because of a kidney bruise.

Stanford is favored by two to three touchdowns on the basis of its 6-2-1 season record, compared with Cal's 5-4.

But Cal Coach Ray Willsey said yesterday, "We have to do better than our previous best. I'm hoping we have one good game left. and this will be it."

The Bears have shown a potential greater than they hav achieved in a season that could be changed from so-so to successful with an upset of the Indians.

The Cal rooters are talking of coming up with an offense like the one they showed in routing Washington 44-13 and a defense like the one which almost stunned Southern Cal before the Trojans won 14-9.

The Bears had a one hour, 40-minute workout yesterday, and quarterback Steve Curtis saw much action. Willsey has announced he will start Dave Penhall, but Curtis is sure to be out on the field much of the time.

Willsey said Curtis isn't quite back in the groove after a six-week layoff with a shoulder injury, but "he does give us an additional running threat and he has a strong passing arm."

Coach John Ralston worked his Indians for 90 minutes yesterday following an on-field meeting at which basic game plans were outlined.

Linemen Dave Grassi and Greg Sampson, both with knee injuries, took light workouts and Ralston said they should be ready for Saturday.

Joe Schultz Fired As Seattle Manager

SEATTLE (AP) — Joe Schultz was fired today as manager of the Seattle Pilots, who finished last in the American League's western division in their fledgling season this year.

Marvin Milkes, general manager, said "Joe is out." He added he hopes to contact Schultz at his home in St. Louis during the day to tell him he will not be rehired.

Rumors had been circulating since late last summer that Schultz would be dismissed. Milkes' only comment at that time was that he had not made up his mind.

Speculation began immediately today, about who would take Schultz' place.

Names most prominently mentioned were Dave Bristol, ex-Cincinnati manager; Billy Martin, who was fired as manager of the Minnesota Twins after leading them to the Western Division pennant this year, and Dick Williams, former head man of the Boston Red Sox.

Milkes said that Grady Hatton, former Houston manager, also is a candidate.

"I want to keep the field down to a limited number of possibilities," Milkes said in indicating probably not more than four men are under consideration.

41-Year-Old Cousy Gets Okay To Play For Royals

Bob Cousy, rookie coach of the Cincinnati Royals, isn't exactly a playing rookie, but the former Boston Celtics star hasn't played for six years.

The Royals and Cousy were given the go-ahead yesterday after more than two months of negotiations with the Boston Celtics.

Although Cousy retired after the 1962-63 season after 13 campaigns with the Celtics, Boston still maintained his playing rights.

When Cousy expressed the desire to make a comeback, the Celtics refused on the grounds that they wanted a player in return.

The Celtics yesterday received 6-foot-7 forward Bill Dinwiddie in exchange for Cousy's playing rights and a future draft pick to be mutually agreed upon at a later date.

To make room for the NBA's latest playing-coach, the Royals placed guard Jimmy King on the injured list. King, a former San Francisco Warrior, who suffered a broken shin bone in his left leg, wasn't expected to resume action until late December or early January, 1970.

When he does return, Cincinnati will have to cut a player to maintain the 12-player limit.

Seal Goalie Suspended For 3 Games

MONTREAL (AP) — Gary Smith, Oakland Seals lanky young goalie, was suspended for three games today by Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president.

The suspension came as the result of a shoving incident with referee Ron Wicks in an Oakland game against Boston Bruins at Boston Nov. 10.

The suspension means that Smith will miss tonight's game at Minnesota against the North Stars, a Saturday contest here against the Montreal Canadiens and a Sunday game in New York against the Rangers.

Warriors Finally End Their Losing Skid

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco's Warriors have snapped a six-game losing streak, thanks to experience.

Nate Thurmond, a National Basketball Association player since 1963, outdid rookie Lew Alcindor and threw in 26 points last night as the Warriors upended the Milwaukee Bucks 127-110.

Alcindor, the 7-foot-2 center from UCLA, got 21 points but most of those came after the outcome no longer was in doubt.

Thurmond, 6-foot-11, outrebounded Alcindor 19-15 as the San Franciscans ran their record to 7-9 in the NBA's Western Division. Milwaukee is now 10-8 in the Eastern Division.

At one point in the third quarter, the Warriors led by 30 points.

Other high scorers for San Francisco were Jeff Mullins with 25 and Joe Ellis with 20.

The next opponents for the Warriors are the Boston Celtics who play in the Cow Palace Friday. Boston has a 4-11 record.

Will Seals Go After Brewer This Time?

OAKLAND — On the final day of this tiring, dreadfully inartistic hockey month, the Seals will once more have the delight of seeing a Detroit Red Wind named Carl Brewer.

All things being equal, like for instance the sides of a triangle, the Greenies from Oakland will stand back and admire Mr. Brewer's devilishly fascinating maneuvers on ice as if he were Barbara Ann Scott, Peggy Fleming and Dick Button, if not the Protopopovs.

Brewer sure is nifty on his blades. In the Oakland Arena on the last day of last month, Carl won both in figures, dance and compulsory dodging as the Greenies watched pleasurably from a distance of, say, six or eight feet.

THAT NIGHT Brewer's Wings took a 3-1 decision mainly because nobody hit Brewer. Not even softly. He set up two of the goals and may have willed the other one into the net from the bench.

"They've got to hit him," said Seal general manager Frank Selke in the first two minutes of the game when Brewer was playing his hopscotchy defense and nobody was hitting him.

"Just once. Early and once," Selke pleaded. Not one Seal heard.

"WHAT WILL happen if Mr. Brewer is hit early and once?" I inquired of Mr. Selke, who seemed eager to hit me, early and once, unless I stopped feeding his frustrations. "Do tell me, sir, please."

And at the end of the first period, by which Brewer was still unhit, he did. Brewer it seems, was one of the great defensemen in the National Hockey League when he dashed about for Toronto in the early 1960s. He was so fancy, it took a few years for foes to realize that his technique might have exceeded his prowess.

ONE NIGHT IN Toronto, however, a Montreal Canadien thought it might be interesting to check Brewer — early, often and hard. So he did, and soon thereafter Mr. Brewer saw this fellow coming at him and began running away in what must have been the most amusing ice act since "The Rookies."

That evening Brewer didn't stop until he reached the bench, with a lunge over the boards. Later, Carl retired and achieved some sort of amateur ranking — going so far as to coach a team in Finland, where there were no aggressive Montreal Canadiens.

"Hit him once and he won't bother you," was Selke's conclusion. "He'll back off of the puck and you can go right by him."

DID HIS CHARGES know of this legendary Brewer shyness? Yes, said Selke, everybody knows about it. But in the second period, not to mention the third, nobody hit Brewer. Not once.

That's why I wish I were in Detroit on Nov. 30., when the Seals visit the Wings. I would ignore glimpsing the great Detroit line of Howe, Mahovlich and Delvecchio. I would do nothing but watch the two-stepping, fox-trotting Carl Brewer. And Frank Selke. If there's no hitting, a few Seals might soon be coaching in Finland.

Concerto Is Yacht Winner

LONG BEACH (UPI) — —The sloop Concerto, winner of Class A in the third biennial Long Beach-La Paz yacht race, yesterday was declared the overall corrected time winner of the 980-mile event.

Concerto, a Columbia-57 craft skippered by John J. Hall of the Newport Harbor Yacht Club, finished the race with an elapsed time of 7 days, 9 hours, 7 minutes and 14 seconds. She arrived in La Paz Saturday night, a full 12 hours behind the ketch Windward Passage, which was the first yacht to cross the finish line.

CORRECTED

Second on the basis of handicaps was the Dorothy O, another Columbia-57 sloop skippered by Bob Beauchamp, also of the Newport Harbor Yacht Club. Dorothy O sailed into La Paz 11 minutes behind Concerto and had a corrected time of 8:12:20:03.

Aquarias, a new Ericksen-41 sloop on its maiden voyage under Dr. Jack Holiday of the sponsoring Long Beach Yacht Club, was both the Class D winner and finished third overall.

BOHEMIA

The 40-foot sloop Bohemia, captained by Peter Salz of the San Francisco Yacht Club of Belvedere was the Class B winner and Tanqueray III, also a 40-foot sloop, skippered by Sam Miller of Long Beach was the Class C winner.

Hall had been the first to finish in the 1967 race with the yacht Simoon and was the Class A winner in that event. He also was the Class A corrected time winner in last July's Trans-Pacific yacht race with Concerto.

A SOCCER JEWEL

A Rio De Janeiro jeweler works on a gold soccer ball that will be given to Brazil's most famous player, Pele, when he scores his 1,000th goal. The ball, an idea of a newspaper and television chain, is worth $2,240. Pele has 999 goals. (UPI Telephoto)

he said.

Duncan had carried the ball 40 times, and each time he got banged around pretty good by hard-hitting Trojans. Which also goes to show that the youngster is pretty durable.

Atkinson, something of a seasoned veteran as a senior, still had to prove himself, being part of a first-year team.

A lot of people, including Mustang coach Bob Martin, think he accomplished just that, as he held more than his own against the solid, veteran Wickert.

"The first time I saw him when he came out on the field, I was a little scared," Atkinson said. "He's pretty good and pretty big. But I guess he's just like everyone else."

Atkinson turned in some tremendous blocking and defensive work, especially late in the game when San Marin rallied from an early 14-0 deficit to pull things out on Urbano Bousciegez' 32-yard field goal with 10 seconds left.

"I think he's the best tackle in the league," Martin has said of Atkinson. "He just had to show people against Redwood."

Both Atkinson and Wickert made the all-league team.

Orv Moody Named Golfer Of The Year

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — Orville Moody, a virtual nobody on the professional golf tour only a year ago, reached the apex of his career last night when he was named the Golfer of the Year by the Professional Golfers Association of America.

Moody, a native of Chickasha, Okla., won two of pro golf's biggest events this year — the U.S. Open and the World Series of Golf — and has earned $78,323.78 on the tour, in addition to the $50,000 he earned for winning the World Series. Last year, his first full season on the circuit, the 35-year-old Moody won just $12,950.

FOOTBALL

PITTSBURGH — The Pittsburgh Steelers waived starting defensive back Marv Woodson and offensive tackle Mike Taylor and Woodson, a six-year NFL veteran immediately announced his retirement.

TENNIS

WEMBLEY, England — Pancho Gonzalez of Los Angeles defeated Joachim Plotz of West Germany 6-3, 6-2 in an opening-round match of the British Open Indoor Tennis Championships.

BASKETBALL

SEATTLE — The Seattle SuperSonics of the National Basketball Association named Bob Houbregs, 37, former University of Washington and NBA star, general manager of the team.

HORSE RACING

SAN MATEO — Grey Cricket, $27, won the Santa Rosa Purse beating Ancient Silk by 1½ lengths at Bay Meadows.

BASEBALL

Marin Basketball Coaches Pick All-Star Squad

The champion Marin Catholic Wildcats and runnerup Redwood Giants each placed two players on the first team of the 1969 All-Marin County Athletic League Class C basketball squad selected this week by coaches.

Taking first-team berths for Marin Catholic were Bruce Nuttmann and Tom Fredericks while Kim Defenderfer and Bob Hogrefe made it for Redwood. Rounding out the first team were Bruce Howard of San Rafael and Gary Geisen of Drake.

Second-team picks were Joe Bauman and Dan Howard of Marin Catholic, Jeff Guidi and John Lavin of Drake, Steve DeMartini of Redwood and Jeff Koblick of San Rafael.

The coaches picked six-man teams because of ties in the voting.

Celtics Snap Losing Streak

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

They always said give Boston a little more time and the Celtics will snap out of their prolonged losing streak.

Boston received those extra moments last night in edging the Phoenix Suns, 120-119, in overtime. Don Nelson's two foul shots with six seconds remaining in the extra session broke a seven-game Boston losing skein.

EXTRA TIME

The overtime bug hit two other National Basketball Association games. Baltimore was forced into an extra session before beating San Diego, 142-138, and Los Angeles was extended in defeating Detroit, 125-114. In other games New York thumped Cincinnati, 112-94, Chicago downed Philadelphia, 127-119, and San Francisco stopped Milwaukee, 127-110.

John Havlicek scored 41 points as Boston tied Phoenix 107-all in regulation time and won in overtime on his three-point play and Nelson's pair of free throws, all in the last 10 seconds.

Key baskets by reserve center Leroy Ellis and steady rebounding by Gus Johnson supported Baltimore's overtime win after the Bullets and Rockets were tied 129-all in regulation time.

Rick Roberson, subbing for the injured Wilt Chamberlain, scored nine points in overtime and Elgin Baylor added seven for Los Angeles' triumph after the Lakers and Pistons deadlocked 107-all in regulation time.

New York won its 13th consecutive game and 18th in 19 starts with a furious finish that saw the Knicks score 10 points in one minute against Cincinnati.

Shrine Game To Feature Spectacular Passers

Ohio State's 42-14 pounding of Purdue was a severe jolt to Purdue's Rose Bowl hopes. But it was an indirect boon to the 45th annual East-West game because Mike Phipps, Purdue's Heisman Trophy candidate, now becomes a top candidate to quarterback the East.

Dennis Shaw, San Diego State's spectacular quarterback, is the top candidate to quarterback the West in the Shrine charity classis. Even before he rewrote NCAA records by tossing nine touchdown passes in San Diego's 70-21 romp past New Mexico State during the weekend, Shaw seemed certain to be selected West quarterback. Now there isn't much doubt about it.

A PASSING duel between Phipps and Shaw, coupled with the running of Ohio State's Jim Otis and Colorado's Bob Anderson, could make the 45th East-West game one of the greatest ever played for crippled children.

Otis left no doubt about his selection as the East's fullback in his performance against Purdue. Anderson's authoritative and consistent running throughout the season for Colorado makes him an almost certain West selection.

ONE OF Otis' teammates, Ted Provost, also insured himself of an East bid in the Purdue game. Provost, captain of Ohio State's secondary pass defense, picked off two of Phipps' passes. Not only that but he had his secondary so strategically spotted that three other passes by Phipps were intercepted.

A pass defense directed by Provost would provide a real test for Shaw who already has pro scouts drooling. The pros are not the only interested parties in Shaw's passing magic. Smart football fans who haven't seen him in action began indicating their interest a couple of weeks ago.

SENSING THAT Shaw seemed a certain West selection, knowledgeable fans started a stream of ticket applications into Shrine East-West headquarters. One application was for a block of 600 tickets by a peninsula group.

Fortunately, this year's East-West game has been shifted from Candlestick Park's 42,000 capacity to Stanford Stadium's 87,000. The game was switched this year because Candlestick's grass is about to be uprooted for an artificial carpet.

SELDOM HAS there been such an early stream of ticket applications. It began at the first of November — two months in advance of the game Dec. 27. Usually, Shrine East-West headquarters isn't hit by a flood of applications until team selections are announced.

THIS YEAR announcement of the teams is being delayed until after the USC-UCLA game because the Shrine selection committee will invite Trojans if UCLA goes to the Rose Bowl, Bruins if USC goes to Pasadena.

New Marin Cage Boss Has High Hopes

The Tars last year ended up with 13 wins and 15 losses in Cal Riemcke's last season of College of Marin coaching. Riemcke, now coaching at Whitworth College in Spokane, Wash., was cage coach at Marin for 12 years, and in that time compiled a very creditable record of 199 wins and 136 losses and seven conference championships.

Panagakis, a former head basketball coach at Novato High, was assistant to Riemcke for three years. Helping Panagakis is Jim Webster, new assistant coach who came over from Las Lomas High School in Walnut Creek, and Jim Halm, a student coach and former College of Marin player.

Six returnees off last year's team, two of them starters, are back for the 1969-70 season. The two starters back are 6-foot-6 Tom Seidenberg and 6-foot-4 Pat Schafer. Seidenberg prepped at Redwood High and Schafer at Tamalpais.

Also back are Bob Tate, 6-4, Novato; Joe Smith, 5-11, Sacred Heart; Art Goepp, 6-3, Marin Catholic, and Daryle Rovani, 6-1, Redwood. Chip Tyson, recently out of the Naval Reserves, and Mike Lindquist, who has spent the last four years in the Air Force, are now back with the Tars, each having played prior to going in the service.

Two other sophomores playing for the Tars are Bob Smith, from Redwood, who played on the Marin junior varsity team last year, and Tom McCart, former Terra Linda prepster who has transferred to Marin from Cal at Davis. Lone freshman on the team is Pat Purcell, six-foot guard from Terra Linda High.

There are 13 other freshmen going out for Marin basketball who will be playing as a team, the frosh playing preliminary games to the varsity. They'll be opposing service teams in the area, adult recreation department teams and other junior college frosh teams.

"It will be a very interesting league," said Panagakis. "We'll have a good club. We've been working hard . . . we've done a lot of running since September, and some weight lifting." Regular practice started for the Tars Oct. 15.

"It's a 'we' philosophy we're using," said the fiery cage mentor. "Basketball is a team sport, and our kids realize this. It's going to be a balanced and strong league, but we'll do a good job."

The Tars, who finished last season in third place in the CNC with a 7-5 record, have two more weeks to get ready for the season. First game will be Nov. 28, at San Mateo Junior College. The next night, Nov. 29, Marin opens its home schedule against Diablo Valley J.C. of Concord.

Marin again will host an invitational tourney, the Tars and seven other J.C. teams playing Dec. 11, 12 and 13.

Using Some Wood For An Iron Shot

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Call it beginner's luck. Better yet, call it using a wood for a three-iron shot.

Anyway, when Al Tyler, who has been playing golf less than a year, came up to the 170-yard seventh hole at San Geronimo National the other day, he paused, looked down the fairway, and took out his three-iron.

He swung and watched as the ball headed toward a tree which guarded a water hazard about 40 feet to the right of the green. The ball hit a tree limb, bounced on the green and rolled right in the cup for a hole-in-one.

Tyler, of nearby San Geronimo Valley, was playing with pal Rick Lafranchi, who was witness to the lucky shot. Tyler is scheduled to start military service in the Coast Guard very shortly. With his luck, he'll probably come out in a few months as an admiral.

CHAMPS of the annual Rosehill Tournament at Indian Valley Golf Course were Orv Orman and Jim Creighton, 3 and 2 winners over Art Sears and Tom Hardcastle last Sunday on the Novato course.

SECOND ANNUAL Rohnert Park Golf Day is scheduled Dec. 7 on the municipal course, the 18-hole tourney open to all persons. "If it's as successful as our invitational (last Sunday), I'll feel great," said Rohnert Park pro Bob Porter.

NEXT BIGGIE for Petaluma Golf and Country Club is the Father-Junior (both sons and daughters) tournament Sunday, Nov. 30. The first such tourney on the Petaluma course, club pro Dick Adams is expecting about 30 or so teams.

WITH A SCORE of 58, the team of Mrs. and Mrs. Foster Manning and Mr. and Mrs. Darrel Altermatt won the Mixed Foursome low ball tourney last Sunday at Marin Country Club in Novato. Second were Mrs. and Mrs. Walter Kessler and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Antoine, 59, followed by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Patterson and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Mault, 60.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — The first hole-in-one ever scored on the second hole of the Lakeside course was registered here this spring by W. T. (Wes) Kennan, manager of the Greenbrier.

Playing in a threesome with E. Howard Harvey and John Londis, Kennan used a No. 3 wood for his 179-yard ace. It was his first hole-in-one in 25 years of golfing.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

I'm certainly opposed to slow bowling—meaning the time-wasting habits of some ten-pinners—but that doesn't mean I think bowlers should race through the act of throwing the ball. The few seconds needed for a proper delivery are vital for good bowling, and they will actually contribute to a speed-up for they will produce more strikes.

Sonoma State Passes First Season With Flying Colors

Sonoma State College football coach Lloyd Helgeson believes the countdown to make the Cossacks a full-fledged member of good standing in the Far Western Conference is right on schedule.

"I am extremely pleased with the season," said Helgeson about the just concluded eight-game slate that ended with five wins and three losses. "We have a good nucleus of players and we've gotten acquainted with formations used by conference teams."

The Cossacks played five games with FWC junior varsity teams and won them all in the SSC initial year of intercollegiate football.

VARSITY TEAMS

Next season Sonoma State will be playing against varsity teams, including three and possibly four teams in the Far Western Conference. Although not playing as an official conference member yet, SSC next season has scheduled dates with Humboldt State, Cal Aggies at Davis, San Francisco State and is working on a matchup with Chico State.

Out of the 42 players on the Sonoma State team, only three — defensive end Charles Rada, safety John Bussman and tight end Dave Dohm — have used up all their college playing eligibility. Most of the other players on the roster were juniors, with 10 others only freshmen.

Included in that freshman crop is defensive halfback Bob Sears from Novato High, who, Helgeson feels, will be one of the best players in the conference eventually.

Helgeson feels the team's strong point which will help next season is the running back situation where freshmen Herm Manuel and Chris Alvarado, along with Luther Nelson who came on strong in the latter part of the season, head the cast.

"Now we're just looking for a 9.6 sprinter for our backfield," said Helgeson. (So are the San Francisco 49ers. They're just not that plentiful.)

Sonoma State played the season with guards that weighed in the 185 and 190-pound category, said Helgeson, and next year, if all goes according to plans, the same linemen should come back about 15 pounds heavier, result of weight training.

Things started out like a horror show for the Cossacks when Western Arizona Junior College crushed them 65-0 in the first game of the season.

"I would like to report now," said Helgeson, "Western Arizona was ranked the second best J.C. team in the nation this week." That helps explain that early disaster.

Come next season, Sonoma State will be going into varsity competition on a very optimistic note.

ALL-STAR RETURNS

Solomon Headlines Sonoma State Five

If Sonoma State College can come up with four more players like Ramon Solomon the Cossacks could really romp this year in the Far Western Conference basketball chase.

Solomon, now a senior, led the conference in both scoring and rebounding last year, scoring an average of 25 points per game and pulling down an average of 14 rebounds. The 6-4½ forward made the all-conference team as a junior.

Coaching the Cossacks for the first time will be Dr. Douglas Earl, who has taken over from Bob Donlan, now head of the Sonoma State intramural department and assistant football coach.

Earl, 30, was reared in nearby El Cerrito and played his basketball at Chapman College, Orange County, twice going to the NCAA College Division playoffs.

The Cossacks will be playing their games in the new gymnasium at Sonoma State, which will be a little easier than last year, when they had to trek to nearby Rancho Cotate High School for their "home" games.

Sonoma State had a 9-17 win-loss record last year and finished dead last in the FWC. University of California at Davis and San Francisco State tied for the title.

Among the players expected to be battling for starting berths are Roy Jones, 6-6½; Basil Swaby, 6-5; Mel Peterson, 6-4; Henry Crawford, 6-3, Bill Heath, 6-3; David Law, 6-1, and Jesse Howard, 6-0.

Dr. Earl feels the Cossacks will have fairly good speed, but will not be too deep in bench strength. Despite the lack of "giants" the Cossacks have some boys who are really leapers, said Earl.

"We're of course looking to Solomon for a good game, but we're not putting pressure on him," said Dr. Earl. "Instead of a one-man team, we're looking for a good team effort."

The Cossacks open their 23-game schedule Dec. 5 against Fresno Pacific College at Sonoma State.

Montana Gets A Bowl Berth

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The nation's two top ranked small college football teams will meet in the Camellia Bowl here Dec. 13.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association yesterday awarded number two ranked Monta (10-0) the bowl berth alongside North Dakota State, ranked number one with a 9-0 record.

Coach Les Davis of Hayward State said he and his Pioneers were disappointed at not being chosen to the Camellia Bowl. The Pioneers are 8-1 and champions of the Far Western Conference.

On This Occasion Defender's Discard Tells Whole Story

When a defender cannot follow suit he must find a reasonable discard. He will naturally try to keep as many cards as he is likely to need in each suit, and in most cases he will be thinking only of his own problems. If you put yourself in his place, you can often tell exactly what he holds.

CLUB OPENING

West opened the jack of clubs, holding the first trick. When West continued with the ten of clubs, declarer covered with dummy's king. East won with the ace and continued with the queen of clubs, hoping that his partner could overruff declarer.

As it happened, South ruffed with the ace of trumps since he could well afford to do so. West discarded his lowest diamond, and South was convinced that West had started with five diamonds.

MORE EVIDENCE

Since there was no need to act at once on this impression South drew three rounds of trumps and used the king of hearts to force out the ace. West returned the ten of hearts to the queen, and South ruffel his last heart in dummy.

The time had now come to assemble the evidence. West had started with exactly three spades and two clubs, hence eight red cards. Since West could not have held more than five hearts (East had followed suit three times), West surely held at least three diamonds to begin with.

With four diamonds to the king-jack in the dummy, West would not dream of discarding a diamond if he had only three or four cards in the suit. West would discard a diamond only if he had five of them, so that he would still have as many as the dummy after the discard.

A SAFE FINESSE

After coming to the conclusion that West had started with five diamonds, and East only one, South could cash the ace of diamonds to take East's singleton. Then he led a diamond to take a safe finesse with dummy's jack.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid 1-no-trump or two spades.

With most partners it is safer to bid one no-trump. If your partner avoids opening with a weak four-card spade suit, you are better off raising at once to two spades.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, Nov. 19, the 323rd day of 1969 with 42 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1876, William Marcy Tweed, political "boss" of Tammany Hall in New York, was convicted of defrauding the city of about $6 million and was given a 12-year prison term.

Also in 1874, the National Women's Christian Temperance Union was organized in Cleveland.

In 1919, the U.S. Senate rejected the Treaty of Versailles drawn up by the Paris peace conference at the end of World War II.

A thought for the day: President Woodrow Wilson said, "There must be, not a balance of power, but a community of power; not organized rivalries, but an organized common peace."

Conference To Eye Future For YMCA

The future of the Young Mens Christian Association in Marin will be discussed by 80 community leaders tomorrow at a conference at the Golden Gate Seminary on Strawberry Point.

Paul C. Steward, YMCA managing director in San Francisco and a resident of Tiburon will speak at the meeting to be held from 5 to 9:30 p.m.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

Cazassa's Ownership Moves All To The Brovelli Family

Complete ownership of Cazassa's menswear store at 1204 Fourth Street, San Rafael, has been taken over by George Brovelli, president of the corporation, and his wife Adda.

Brovelli's former associate, B. E. Gordon, who was vice president, has sold out his interest in the business. Mrs. Brovelli, who has been with Modern Eve for the past 16 years, is now in Cazassa's as vice president. The store name will remain the same and the same major domestic and imported brands of menswear will be continued.

The business was founded in 1937 by Peter Cazassa. Brovelli started working in the store six months after it opened. He and Gordon bought it out about 12 years ago and incorporated it. The corporation will continue.

Gordon has not announced his future plans.

ANOTHER RETAIL CLOTHING STORE in downtown San Rafael which may open by this weekend in Anthem Clothing at 1133 Fourth Street.

Hoy's TV and Music Store used to be at the location. Proprietors Tony and Kristen Ewald of San Francisco will carry both men's and women's wear and accessories, mainly in avant-garde styles.

DOYLE LOCKABEY of Terra Linda, a principal in the former Van Doyle Complete Home Furnishings store in downtown San Rafael from 1956 to 1967, has been appointed manager of the television and appliance department for Young Bros. of Novato. For the past two years he has been with the Young Bros. store on Geary Street, San Francisco.

KEITH SHAMROCK, former head of the Chicagoland Distributors Council of Holiday Magic, Inc., has joined the company's corporate office in San Rafael as assistant to chairman of the board William Penn Patrick. He first joined Holiday in 1965, became the first general distributor in Florida and after becoming one of the company's top producers was appointed instructor general in 1967. He and his family are moving to the San Rafael area.

Shamrock Nellor

FORMER SAN RAFAEL RESIDENT William Nellor has been promoted to vice president and included as a principal in the Santa Rosa advertising firm which has been known as Levinger Associates. The firm name has now been changed to Levinger-Nellor Advertising. Nellor joined the agency in 1968 as art director.

He was previously art supervisor at Young and Rubicam, San Francisco, and before that with Honig-Cooper and Harrington and Bascom and Bonfigli. He and his family now live in Santa Rosa.

REAL ESTATE: Solon Realty, Corte Madera, has four new salesmen: Herbert W. Ahnemann of San Rafael, 15 years in insurance and over two years in recreational land sales; David Lapidus of San Anselmo, formerly director of the Reading Center, San Francisco; Arthur F. Mullan, Corte Madera, formerly with Don O'Neil Real Estate; and Irene Pareto of San Rafael, co-chairman of the Poppe Parent Groups Sonoma . . . Correction — Stanley Walsh of Terra Linda has not joined Grubb and Ellis but the San Rafael office of Donald P. Geddes, Realtor.

HOWARD P. BUTTERSTEIN, salesman with L. J. Dervin Ford Co., Novato, has been graduated from the advanced retail selling courses conducted by the San Francisco Ford Marketing Institute at Burlingame.

NEW ADDITION TO DATSUN LINE

The 240-Z, a two-passenger fastback, is Datsun's most recent sports model. It is powered by a new 146-cubic inch single overhead cam six-cylinder engine producing 150 horsepower and speeds up to 125 miles per hour. The 240-Z is equipped with independent suspension on all four wheels and all-synchromesh four-speed transmission. Cars are on sale at Annex Motors, San Rafael.

Rail Coaches

NEW DELHI (UPI)—India's rail coach manufacturing plant at Madras will produce 45 rail coaches for Royal State Railways of Thailand and 100 for Taiwan Railways. Quotations have been sent for the supply of another 38 air-conditioned coaches to Iraq and 31 to New Zealand.

Southern Pacific Gets U.S. Nod On Holding Plan

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Southern Pacific Co. has announced it has received authorization from the Interstate Commerce commission to proceed with formation of a holding company, probably before the end of the year.

Southern Pacific stockholders approved the plan to form the holding company last May 14 at the annual meeting.

Under the approved holding company plan, the present Southern Pacific Co. will merge into Southern Pacific Transportation Co., a wholly owned subsidiary of a New Delaware corporation to be known temporarily as S.P., Inc. Upon completion of the merger, S.P. Inc., will adopt the name Southern Pacific Co.

Southern Pacific has already diversified extensively in transportation, land development and leasing. It operates more than 14,000 miles of railroad. Its subsidiaries are engaged in trucking over about 26,000 miles of highway routes and in the operation of 2,300 miles of petroleum products pipelines. Another subsidiary is now building a 275-mile coal slurry pipeline across central Arizona to supply fuel for a new electric generating plant on the Colorado River.

Wall Street Has Seventh Poor Session

NEW YORK (UPI)—The market took its seventh straight thumping today in moderate turnover.

The market experienced a brief flurry of demand around the noon hour after American Telephone, the nation's most widely held issue, raised its quarterly dividend by 5 cents a share to 65 cents.

However, concern over inflation, tight credit and high interest rates were overriding influences, and declines quickly stretched their lead over advances as activity passed the halfway mark.

Lucien Hooper, senior analyst for the W. E. Hutton brokerage, said the continued demoralized state of the bond market and a lack of evidence that Washington is moving toward easier money despite some slowing in the economy served as major adverse influences.

Electronics ranged to more than a point lower, although some strength developed in the group. Steels, motors and chemicals traded in both directions. Oils were mostly lower.

Rails, airlines and aircrafts moved irregularly.

Rules Eased On Mobile Home Loans

For the first time in California, savings and loan associations are authorized to engage in the financing of mobile homes, it was announced today by Commissioner Michael F. B MacBan, State Department of Savings and Loan.

New regulations, effective today, permit the 175 state-chartered savings and loan institutions to provide loans to individual owners for the purchase of mobile dwellings as well as to finance both new and used dealer inventories.

Federally regulated institutions providing similar services for parallel regulations, affecting federally chartered savings and loan associations have been adopted concurrently by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, Washington, D.C.

Mobile homes comprise about 20 per cent of the single family dwelling units being built in the U.S. today, according to MacBan.

Currently savings and loans furnish over 70 per cent of the dollars for home loans in California. Under the provisions of the regulations, state associations could lend up to 5 per cent of their assets or a combined total of $1 billion on mobile homes.

Savings and loan associations will be able to offer loans at simple interest similar to a mortgage. MacBan said this will make financing costs feasible for family-sized units.

Bank Clearings Up In October

Marin County bank clearings for October were up from 1968 figures, continuing the trend which has existed throughout the year.

The Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco reported unadjusted debits of $242,010,000, compared with $201,227,000 during October of last year. Unadjusted deposits of $102,483,000 compared with a total of $100,199,000 a year ago.

Seasonally adjusted debits, deposits and turnover ratios are not reported for Marin County.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Self-Education For Potential Bond Buyer

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Where can I obtain reading material to gain some understanding of the bond market? What references are used to determine ratings, performance figure? I notice that bonds with similar coupon rates and maturity dates may have different trading prices. Does an interest rate far in excess of current rates indicate some weakness?—L.C

A. Your local branch of one of the large, retail brokerage houses should have instructive pamphlets available for a potential bond buyer. Ratings on bonds are also available through the same source. Standard & Poor's issues a monthly bond guide that gives the pertinent information, ratings, price ranges and so on.

As you surmised, excessive interest rates are a definite indicator of high risk. For instance, Leasco Computer 5¾s of 1987 are rated B and sell to yield about 10 per cent to maturity. Bonds rated B are defined as speculative with interest payment not assured in difficult economic periods.

Trading prices on bonds with similar coupons and maturities are determined by risk, interest coverage, call protection and call price. As a general rule bonds issued by the same company carry the same ratings. Lower ratings sometimes occur on sinking fund debentures in contrast to general purpose bonds.

Q. Do you know what is depressing Fairfield-Noble? How are the chances of a comeback? I can hold my shares indefinitely.—M.A.

A. Wall Street's reaction to overstated earnings estimates is apt to be sharp. The $1.25 a share predicted for Fairfield for fiscal 1969 proved to be far in excess of reality. Very poor fourth-quarter earnings held full year net to 90 cents a share, unchanged from a year earlier. Inability to pass on increased costs was held responsible for the poor showing.

These and other difficulties—excess capacity, increased competition and a receding economy— will probably restrict first-half 1969-70 results. Highly qualified management, initiation of product diversification and the temporary nature of the earnings slowdown underscore the long-term potential of this situation. Hold for recovery.

ART REVIEW

Roy Gover Ditches His Klee-Dali-Miro Hangup

By LAURA DEVENDORF

SAN FRANCISCO — Two Marin artists have shows this month, Roy Gover at the Vorpal Galleries, 1168 Battery Street and Bettyjo Norton at the Fourth Floor Gallery, 315 Sutter.

Gover's show is great! It's a kind of organized chaos within a surreal, symbolic framework, that since last seen has lost much of its initial Klee-Dali-Miro derivative look and now reads at once like Gover.

The Mill Valley artist has a "mad" mind and, when he elects to use it, a matching sense of humor. And his combinations of materials from antique to modern magazine clippings, mirrors, cut out shapes, cloth and paint, support his invention, as in "Dangerous Journey," where a tiny photo of an incredible ancient engine roars along belching black smoke into an evil-looking watercolor sky collaged with paper bolts of color.

Gover's most developed single idea is the "Moment in Time Series," in which recurrent blacks, browns and olives are rent by lines of electric blue dots, orange circles and traces of red.

He does so many things it is difficult to give any general description of what to expect.

Earthier ideas in the form of female nudes fill Mrs. Norton's show. The mellow browns of her torn paper collages and the play of black against softer tones and crazed surfaces could be lovely all alone. It's the nudes which diminish the effect. They are too real not to be accurate.

The wash-drawn nudes gain in assurance but the two swift ink "it." Least literal of all, the bula real, total personality, stated with confidence and matter-of-fact wit. And I can only wish she'd been joined by about three dozen friends. Additionally, the Larkspur artist shows a few sensitive landscapes and one more heroic piece, a minute orange and green happening so miniscule the pleasure is doubled by its mere discovery.

Sonoma State Modern Dance Program Set

A program of modern dance inspired by butterflies, New York traffic and signs of the Zodiac will be presented by the Sonoma State College Dance Workshop tomorrow through Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in Ives Hall.

The program of five dance compositions will be directed by faculty members Sandra Dunwoody and David Lober. In his first year at Sonoma State, Lober will appear as a performer in two roles.

Lober has appeared in Broadway shows, a movie and in Paris nightclubs. He has choreographed a portion of Igor Stravinsky's "Rites of Spring" for the program.

"Blues Part II", choreographed by Judy Loscutoff of Petaluma, will portray the hustle and bustle of an intersection in New York City with musical accompaniment by the Blood, Sweat and Tears.

The "Zodiac Suite" will include a series of dances by workshop members depicting the 12 signs of the Zodiac.

Reservations may be made by calling the Center for Performing Arts at the college.

Redwood In U.N.

Redwood High School in Larkspur will represent India at the Model United Nations conference to be held at the University of California in Berkeley in February.

Judge Drops Felony Drunken Driving

A felony drunken driving charge against Caroline Fields, 24, of San Leandro, was dismissed Monday in Marin Municipal Court by Judge Peter Allen Smith because officials had waited two years to arrest her.

Miss Fields was accused of being the driver of a car which California Highway Patrol officers said smashed into a truck near Novato on June 13, 1967. A passenger in her car was seriously injured.

Novato Players Vote To Add A Show In Fall

The Novato Community Players, have voted to add a fourth production to its schedule, according to secretary Vivienne Terry.

The club will add a play in September. starting next fall, she said. This is in addition to the musicals in the fall and spring and the winter play.

Arthur Bliss was named director, and Elaine Jacob, producer, of "Barefoot in the Park" by Neil Simon, which will be presented at 8:30 p.m., Feb. 14, 15, 21 and 22 in the Novato Community House.

The dates of the Christmas benefit variety shows were set at 8 p.m., Dec. 12 at the Tamalpais Retirement Center in Greenbrae and 8 p.m. Dec. 13 at the Idesi Hall in Sausalito. Kenneth Craig is in charge of the two benefit performances.

Bridge District Is Now The Action Agency

The Golden Gate Bridge District, which not so long ago was being castigated as a "do-nothing" district, has turned into the action agency.

The bridge district shows promise of being the agency that can and will solve the commute traffic problem that has plagued Marin increasingly over the years and has been the subject of almost endless studies, of a bewildering variety of plans, and — up to now — of no solution.

IN RESOLVING last week to make "full speed ahead" with buses and ferries as an interim approach to the snarl, the bridge board took action long awaited.

San Francisco members of the board, who had been "hung up on ferries," went along in an unanimous vote for a balanced system including both buses and ferries, plus any other mode that might be found feasible.

Still more encouragingly, they agreed that whichever means — buses or ferries — is first ready to go, it should not wait on the other. This means that the bridge district probably will be in the bus business very soon, with ferries to follow as soon as terminals can be found or built. (Using the old Sausalito terminal is a possibility.)

William Moskovitz, president of the bridge board, hailed the decision as "one of the most monumental actions the district has taken since the inception of the district and the decision to build the bridge."

We agree.

ONE THING THAT MUST not be lost sight of, however, is that merely improving bus service up and down the Redwood Highway will not of itself prove much of a solution. The man who must drive his car to the highway, and perhaps have difficulty in finding a place to park it during the day, is likely to keep on driving all the way to San Francisco — curse the congestion though he will.

Needed to make any system really workable is a network of feeder routes so that the commuter can board a bus near home which will transfer him to one headed for his work on the other side of the bridge.

We had hoped that the Marin County Transit District would concentrate on this aspect. The bridge district can scarcely be expected to develop local bus systems, which should also serve those commuting between communities in Marin, going shopping, or attending school.

Nothing has happened to indicate the county transit district is doing anything on this. A proposal for trial service to connect with Greyhound a few months ago was rejected by the district manager.

THE HOPE for an intra-county bus system now seems to rest on Marin Transit Systems of Marin City. Its representatives have been talking of coordinating a minibus feeder system with the bridge district's buses. We earnestly hope the effort succeeds.

Meanwhile, ferry buffs need not fear that their favorite mode of transportation will be slighted. In appointing Harlan Soeten of Mill Valley as chief of its ferry operation, the bridge district has made sure of that. Ferry buffs just don't come better informed or more dedicated than Harlan Soeten.

Old Friends

Friends move away, change their attitudes and personalities, grow old or die. Neighborhoods go downhill. Even the foods we eat are being changed. The world around us is undergoing continual change.

But birds are dependable and changeless. The towhees still scratch among the leaves with the same vigor they displayed in grandfather's day. The golden crown sparrows arrive in Marin each autumn and sing the same lovely minor key song. The jays were just as saucy and the hummingbirds as swift and delicate 50 years ago as today.

To nature lovers, the birds are old friends that remain the same year in and year out. Perhaps the fact that bird habits, songs and plumage are changeless is a stabilizing factor in the lives of those who take the trouble to know them.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

New Law Scarcely On Books When Court Throws It Out

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — The alarming frequency with which laws passed by the state legislature are ruled unconstitutional is becoming a matter of concern to citizens and lawmakers.

The legislature is barely over and already, the laws it passed allowing cities and counties to adopt ordinances prohibiting nudity in bars have been declared unconstitutional by Los Angeles County Superior Court.

Judge Jerry Pacht handed down the decision, which included a preliminary injunction prohibiting the Los Angeles County sheriff's office from making arrests for nude performances in 10 bars in that county.

The bills were by Assemblyman Floyd Wakefield, R-Southgate, and were the center of an extensive controversy during the 1969 session of the legislature involving the matter of nudity in drinking establishments.

The legislature held that morals, as exemplified in the barrooms, should be left up to the discretion of the community involved, that regulation of the degree of nudity allowed should be a matter of community decision.

The Pacht decision, whether it is upheld by the higher courts or not, is important in that it again throws the question of nudity in public barrooms into indecision.

The State Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, headed by a former FBI agent, Edward J. Kirby, has been attempting ever since the "topless" craze started to make nudity in bars illegal. But it has been unsuccessful in the courts.

It was hoped that passage of new laws leaving the decisions as to nudity up to the local governments would settle, at least partially, the question of how far bar operators could go in diminishing the attire of their entertainers and waitresses.

Even worse is the fact that the decision puts democratic government in jeopardy by denying communities the right to rule as to just how nude women can disport themselves in public view.

While residents of some communities might be outraged by the displays of nudity the liquor establishments are sponsoring these days, the residents of other communities might treat the custom as commonplace and think nothing of it.

Thus, there would appear to be no reason why local government should not reflect the thinking of the community in this particular question. That was the intent of the legislature.

Mental Health Reporting Praised

I would like to commend Mr. Wat Takeshita on his articles on mental health. I, too, wonder if the Brown Act has not been violated by four members of the board of supervisors.

I would also like to commend one very lonely member of the board of supervisors. Mr. Bud Baar. I have found Mr. Baar, in all matters, to be fair, open-minded, and dedicated to the idea of representing all people in Marin County. To add to my own bouquet, Mr. Baar does his homework!

I would suggest the I-J make an "Original Bouquet" to Wat Takeshita. If it weren't for his diligent and honest reporting, few in Marin would realize how much trouble we have in Mental Health Land and Brasilia!

Transit Necessity: One Low Fare

The antics of Bay Area politicians with regard to solving the problems of mass transportation are both ludicrous and pathetic.

After spending vast amounts of money on the BART system the result will be a system very similar to the old Key System trains with an extension up Market Street.

The ferries proposed by the Golden Gate Bridge directors may provide a very pleasant tourist attraction but that is all. They certainly will not take an appreciable number of cars off the bridge, if any.

The only way to move people from private automobiles to public transportation is to provide fast, efficient, low cost transportation from any point in the entire Bay Area to any other point for one low fare, making it not only relatively as convenient but much cheaper.

The sooner the authorities face up to the fact that people will not pay two or three fares in each direction, the sooner we will solve the problem. . .

To insure use of these facilities they probably should be subsidized with government funds to the point where it would be sheer folly to drive an automobile. There also is no reason why certain streets in San Francisco and Oakland should not be designated "buses only" to insure rapid uninterrupted schedules.

'Sesame Street' Timing Wrong

Thank you for your fine editorial on the new children's program, "Sesame Street."

My only comment is that it is shown at a time when many children who would enjoy it and benefit from it are unable to watch television because they are in school or having their lunch.

If any readers feel as I do that it should be shown later in the afternoon (from 4 to 5 p.m. seems like the best time to me) they should express this on postcards or in letters to: KQED, 525 Fourth Street, San Francisco, Calif. 94107. Attn: Mike Shapiro.

Welfare Services Abused Too Long

In reference to the article on the front page of the I-J Nov. 12 concerning the welfare payments made under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children to one Miss Branstetter, I have some very strong feelings.

The social services department say they only spot check recipients of welfare payments. I wonder how many hundreds of people abuse the use of welfare funds. But I guess the department of social services has unlimited funds, thanks to the over-burdened taxpayers of Marin County.

I resent my tax money being spent on Marin County welfare recipients who in so many, many cases do not deserve it. If I was to apply for a loan of any kind my background and credit references would be thoroughly checked. Why isn't the money that we pay in such large amounts for welfare in this county handled in a more efficient way? Maybe if some of these county services were cut so could our taxes be. And we should start with the welfare department. Its services have been abused way too long.

Many Teachers Show War Opposition

The Marin Teachers Against the War is highly gratified at the response to our anti-Vietnam war petition. Over 175 signatures were collected in just one day. The petition and a list of the persons signing are included in an ad in the Independent-Journal.

The readiness of teachers to sign the petition illustrates their overwhelming desire to bring the death and destruction to an end in the shortest possible time. Only with the war's end can we begin to heal the wounds caused by the ugly division in our own country.

THE DRUMMONDS

Agnew's Criticism Of Television Overlooked An Important Fact

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Vice President Spiro Agnew's substantially valid criticism of the bias of network television news overlooked one very significant fact.

In support of Agnew, the weight of evidence is that too much network news and analysis lacks fairness — from the distorted picture of the Chicago Democratic convention to the quickie attacks on President Nixon's Vietnam speech.

But in charging that public opinion is being "molded" by "selective and biased television news," the vice president either misstated or greatly understated a reassuring fact.

HE CITED what he felt to be the networks' prejudiced commentaries on President Nixon's peace plan address on Nov. 3 and mentioned that one major network, to make sure that its analysis would be considerably critical, arranged in advance to have a prominent critic, Averell Harriman, ready for immediate rebuttal. It provided no comparable analyst on the other side.

But it didn't work. That's the fact we need for perspective. We do not minimize the need for better TV news presentation and for better balance in commentary. The networks are already feeling the hot breath of public dissatisfaction which Agnew usefully stimulated.

But there is no evidence, in the foremost illustration of bias commentary the vice president offered, that it succeeded in "molding" public opinion.

Just the opposite.

IN THE WAKE of Mr. Nixon's Vietnam speech and the considerably one-sided commentary, a vast majority of the listeners made up their own minds. The Gallup Poll shows the President overwhelmingly over his television critics — 77 per cent for the President's Vietnam peace policies, 6 per cent against and 17 per cent undecided.

This result is not an exoneration of network news and comments. It is a tribute to the independent-mindedness of most Americans.

This doesn't mean there is no problem of news distortion on television. Such distortion does occur too often to be dismissed as a minor affliction simply because most listeners succeed much of the time in resisting it.

BECAUSE THERE is such vast power in the hands of a few TV producers and newscasters who nightly have some 40 million viewers, it is not too much to ask that they ponder anew the care and balance with which they use this precious forum whose airwaves belong to all the people, not just to an industry.

The weakness and irrelevance of the replies which the network presidents made to Agnew's criticism suggest a pretty guilty conscience. They attacked Agnew more than they attacked what he said. They accused Agnew of proposing censorship — which he didn't — and then showed how bad it would be to do what Agnew wasn't advocating.

Not very persuasive.

WE INCLINE to feel that television's greatest disservice is its tendency to impose upon the American people a distorted picture of America — that wherever you look nearly everything is going wrong, virtually nothing is going right.

Agnew is not making an appeal and we are certainly not making an appeal for a Pollyanna to take over television. Few people want or would accept counter-distortion in the other direction. And we must not break the mirror of a free press — printed or visual — because the image it too often reflects is out of focus.

Our view is that television news and documentaries do so much so well that it is fair to expect them to do better.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

New Governor Of Virginia Hinted To Replace Agnew

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

FAIRFAX, Va. — No one is painting "Dump Agnew" posters hereabouts, but some elated Republicans are quietly commenting that Virginia's newly elected Gov. Linwood Holton will be waiting in the wings if President Nixon wants to change running mates in 1972.

Holton, a ruggedly attractive native of Big Stone Gap, Va., was elected to be the Old Dominion's first Republican governor in a century on Nov. 4. The President campaigned for Holton and is credited with a major assist in Holton's victory over Democrat William Battle.

It is duly noted in GOP circles here that a Virginia governor might make an important contribution to a national Republican ticket campaigning with a southern strategy. There is also a strong feeling that Holton's long-range political ambitions do not dead-end in Richmond's executive mansion.

HOLTON'S SURPRISE victory won him a four year residence there, but he cannot succeed himself as governor. Moreover, he will serve with a Democratic lieutenant governor and attorney general, and jockey with a preponderently Democratic state legislature.

Under those circumstances it is not surprising that some of the GOP faithful, without any word from the governor-elect, think Holton might be glad to help his friend Dick Nixon if he is asked to do so when the Republicans hold their convention in 1972 — or to consider the job in 1976.

Incidentally, it is also not surprising (and no real criticism of Vice President Agnew) that this sort of vice presidential day-dreaming is now underway. Many experts here think Agnew's tough talk is a Republican plus — except, perhaps, in what the Vice President might call the "effete" eastern seaboard megalopolis.

WHILE HOLTON would be an attractive addition to a Southern strategy, it is clear that his own election was not based on the sort of rationale which is said to underlie the President's 1972 campaign planning.

To be sure, Holton profited by defections from the Democratic right. He got the votes of many Democrats who were once supporters of the late Sen. Harry F. Byrd Sr., because Battle was a protege of John F. Kennedy and thought to be a liberal Democrat from the Kennedy mold.

However, Holton also made inroads on Virginia's Democratic left. He was endorsed by the state AFL-CIO organization and by the Virginia Crusade for Voters, a Richmond-based Negro group, and those endorsements apparently paid off at the polls.

IT HAS SCARCELY been mentioned outside the state, but Holton's big Republican victory here was a victory for old-style, door-to-door politics — with a few modern touches.

Holton strategists worked from central headquarters to assign precinct-by-precinct quotas for necessary GOP votes. Across the state, Holton workers identified prospective Holton voters to fill their quotas, and then got those voters to the polls.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By JOANNE GRANT

Peaceful Fairfax Peace Day Contrast To City Council Sessions

The Fairfax peace day was a beautiful scene. It could have happened easily in Mill Valley, but for Fairfax it was almost unbelievable.

Predictions of confrontations, fears there would be damage to city property, worry over the mess that was sure to be left, the general hassling by some city officials — all seemed remote in the peaceful park Saturday.

ONE OF THE MOST touching moments was the speech by Elenor Jones, the city's senior citizen coordinator.

Mrs. Jones had been dismayed when she learned all of the speakers were young and promptly called the committee and volunteered to speak for her generation.

The committee accepted warmly and Mrs. Jones appeared, wearing a sedate blue knit suit and a hat, a striking contrast to the casual clothes of most of the participants.

She commented on her obvious look and link to the establishment as she asked young people to join with old in the search for peace.

The crowd, though by no means all young, heartily approved.

ANOTHER BEAUTIFUL moment came as the day neared its close.

All God's Children, a folk group, sang quiet songs as about a dozen volunteers cleaned the park. Grandmothers and children, students and businessmen worked side by side, removing every last scrap from the park.

And when the crowd left, the place looked better than it has in months.

Meanwhile throughout the day we remembered City Atty. Wallace S. Myers's frequent references in court the night before to the possibility of violence, confrontations and other problems.

We watched to see if there would be problems, but it was tough trying to figure out who might create them.

Myers's law partner who participated in the march? The other attorneys who attended? The mothers there with their children? The students? An official of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District? The police? Businessmen?

IT DIDN'T TAKE long to find out. A big black dog attacked a smaller black and gray, and a snarling fight was on.

Others joined the fracas but the pack was broken quickly and the dogs, which at times seemed to outnumber people, went back to roaming the park.

Those that didn't want to participate in the rally headed for downtown and littered sidewalks.

The day ended on a note that characterized the whole event, a prayer for peace by Rev. Richard N. Wilmington.

He finished by asking the group to take a little light wherever they were going. They left solemnly carrying candles to their homes.

It was far more peaceful than routine city council meetings.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

How Court Saved Job For Dismissed Teacher

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

A probationary teacher, dismissed for cause by Fremont Unified School District in 1967, has permanent tenure in that district as of now.

Behind this circumstance is a story that may be of interest to those who sometimes wonder why school districts so seldom dismiss teachers.

ON MARCH 10, 1967, Supt. William J. Bolt of the Fremont Unified district notified James C. Ward, a "probationary" teacher in his third year in the district, that his services would not be required for the next school year. This was five days before the deadline set by the California Education Code for notifying a teacher of intention not to re-hire him.

Ward demanded a hearing, to which he was entitled under Section 13443 of the Education Code, the "instant tenure law."

A hearing was held before a hearing officer on April 14. The charges against Ward were: (1) failure to maintain proper classroom discipline; (2) lack of emotional stability; (3) failure to follow reasonable rules and regulations of the district board; (4) failure to follow suggestions and directions of superiors.

The hearing officer reported to the board that he felt the charges had not been proved. However, the law does not require the board to follow the hearing officer's recommendation.

A teacher automatically is re-hired if not dismissed on or before May 15. On that date, the board heard additional evidence and notified Ward he would not be re-hired.

WARD, JOINED by the Fremont Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, of which he was a member, sued in Alameda County Superior Court for a writ of mandate, claiming his rights were denied because he was not given the opportunity to cross-examine witnesses at the May 15 board meeting. On July 12, the court granted the writ.

At its next meeting, July 26, the board rescinded the May 15 action which the court had found illegal, then voted to disregard the hearing officer's recommendation. It called for written argument why Ward should not be dismissed to be presented by Aug. 9. None was presented.

On Aug. 9, the board dismissed Ward on the basis of the transcript of the April 14 hearing.

ON AUG. 22, Ward and the union again filed for a writ of mandate. They claimed, among other things, that since the board had set aside its May 15 action, it had failed to act by the deadline and Ward had been automatically rehired (thus gaining permanent tenure).

Judge Robert H. Kroninger of Alameda County Superior Court heard the case. He upheld the dismissal, finding that the charges against Ward had been proved and were supported by substantial evidence, that Ward had been granted a fair trial, and that the board had proceeded in accordance with the law.

Ward and the union appealed to the First District Court of Appeal.

THE COURTS move slowly. Over two years had gone by and the 1969-70 school year was well under way when the First District Court of Appeal handed down its decision, written by Judge Wakefield Taylor and concurred in by Judges Daniel R. Shoemaker and James R. Agee.

It reversed the trial judge and ordered that Ward be reinstated. This makes him a tenured teacher.

The reason given for the reversal was that Ward had not been given a valid notice of dismissal by the May 15, 1967, deadline.

"As the judgment must be reversed for the board's failure to give notice by May 15 as required by the statutes, it is not necessary to discuss the remaining contentions on appeal," said the decision.

The appeal court did not consider whether the case against Ward had been proved, as the trial judge held it had. Ward had been notifed on May 15 — the deadline date. But because that notice had been invalidated by a court writ of mandate, the school board was precluded from dismissing him.

To know how to say what other people only think is what makes men poets and sages; and to dare to say what others only dare to think, makes men martyrs or reformers. — Elizabeth Rundle Charles.

Dangers Of Diebetic Marriage Still Not Entirely Undersood

VAN DELLEN

There is some concern that teen-agers meeting in diabetic camps may boost double-diabetic marriages. (The same can be said of meeting places for people with other hereditary diseases.)

But, as the late Dr. Elliot P. Joslin said, "There are many individuals one meets on the street who are far less desirable to choose for fathers and mothers than diabetics."

A predisposition to diabetes is passed from one generation to the next, but the exact modus operandi is not known.

GENETICISTS BELIEVE diabetes is due to a recessive trait but we are not sure whether one or several genes are involved. In addition, are the genetic factors that produce juvenile diabetes different from those that cause the late (adult) variety?

For years, physicians have advised the person with diabetes not to marry a diabetic but, if he should, not to have children. The inference was clear: All offspring would develop diabetes. But the medicos neglected to mention that all would develop diabetes — if they lived long enough. There is no doubt that some of the offspring of diabetic marriages will develop the disease at an earlier age, when it is most serious.

STATISTICIANS, HOWEVER, have confused the picture considerably. They reason that if two diabetics marry, there are only half as many marriages involving those with the disease. In these circumstances, if the risk of developing the disease is not more than doubled, the number of diabetics will not be increased.

A Canadian study showed that it was not doubled, hence there was no need to discourage two diabetics from marrying.

THIS SITUATION is more common than we realize because many couples have children before they develop diabetes. And herein lies the problem we have when counseling normal people with diabetes that "runs in the family." They may develop the disease in two weeks, 30 years, or never.

It has been estimated that 50 million Americans are carriers and could transmit diabetes to their offsprings even though they, themselves, may never develop diabetes.

(Questions on medical tops will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies requests to the Independent-Journal.

TENNIS ELBOW

J. T. M. writes: Will you please tell me the real name for tennis elbow? Is it related to the bursitis-arthritis family? What is the best way to treat tennis elbow?

REPLY

The scientific name of bursitis is radiohumeral bursitis or epicondylitis. It is related to the bursitis family and stems from an irritation of the bursa at the end of the smaller joint in the elbow. The best remedies are rest, heat, and cortisone injections.

JOWLS AND SURGERY

J. R. writes: Short of surgery, is there any way to get rid of jowls? I have one on each side.

REPLY

In the absence of a fountain of youth, surgery is the only solution to this problem.

INFECTED KIDNEY

P. L. writes: How is an infected kidney treated?

REPLY

With the sulfonamides, antibiotics, or one of our many urinary antiseptics.

Synthetic Virus Need, Risk Argued

BERKELEY (AP) — Man-made viruses capable of altering the evolution of mankind—for good or evil—could be synthesized in 10 or 15 years if this were made a major national goal. says a noted scientist.

Dr. Robert L. Sinsheimer, chairman of the division of biology at the California Institute of Technology, told a seminar of science writers Monday:

"I would have to deplore the recently announced plan of the Department of Defense to synthesize a virus against which there is no known defense.

FOREIGN RISK

"On the other hand, if we don't explore the possibility of creating synthetic viruses and some other nation does we won't know enough to combat what they create."

Later, in an interview, he said, "We are close to being able to synthesize viruses which, by introducing new genetic material into the nucleus of cells, could alter the evolution of even complex organisms such as men. If these were to become a major national effort, such as the moon program, I believe it could be accomplished in 10 to 15 years."

CORN, BRAINS

A suitably designed synthetic virus could carry genetic material directing a stalk of corn to grow larger ears, he said. Another type of synthetic virus could carry the chemical blueprint for larger and smarter brains in humans.

The same technology, he said, conceivably could create viruses capable of deforming the body or the mind.

"I am confident that with enough research, we can develop agents which will counteract any viruses, even synthetic viruses," Sinsheimer said.

Bishop Guilfoyle To Stockton Post

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI has named Most Rev. Merlin J. Guilfoyle as bishop of Stockton, the Vatican announced today. Bishop Guilfoyle, 61, has been auxiliary to Archbishop Joseph Thomas McGucken of San Francisco.

The Pope also named Most Rev. Mark J. Hurley, 60, as bishop of Santa Rosa.

NAMED AIRMAN—Sgt. Stephen H. Hogancamp, 22, of the 78th Munitions Maintenance Squadron has been named First Term Airman of the Month at Hamilton Air Force Base. He has seen overseas service in Kadena Air Base, Okinawa. He and his wife, Hazel, live in Novato.

STARS ABOVE

Aquarius Not Showy, Covers Large Area

By SHERMAN WALKER

Aquarius, the Water Carrier, is a large, sprawling constellation that covers much more of the sky than it really deserves. Its stars are all third magnitude or dimmer, and this whole section of sky looks somewhat deserted.

The main attention-getter of this large figure is a small Y at the very top which represents the jar in which water is being carried. It is composed of four stars of fourth magnitude.

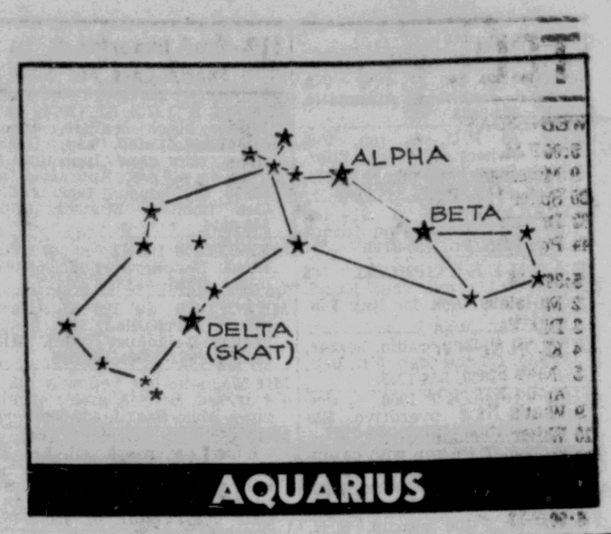
To locate the Water Carrier, face southward at 9 p.m. Standard Time and look at the region of the sky that is slightly less than one-half of the distance up from the southern horizon.

There is a lopsided dipper on the western side of the figure to add to the many other dippers we have found in the sky. It looks like it might be a dipper made for some special purpose — but if so, it is unknown to this writer. It seems a little strange, too, that the water is being poured from the water jar, rather than from the dipper.

The star where the bowl joins the handle of the dipper is Beta Aquari. It also bears the Arabian name of Sadal Suud which in free translation means the Luckiest of All.

The next star is the handle is Alpha Aquarii and has the Arabian name of "the Lucky Star of the King."

There must have been a wonderful story about these stars in the long ago, but it has been lost. All we have now are these two stars and considerable curiosity.



Auto Is Stolen

A 1966 red Pontiac, license UMY-161, was stolen Monday from Robert J. Hansen, 168 Tamalpais Road, Fairfax, while it was parked at his home, police said today.

Student Is Acquitted In Riot Case

BERKELEY (UPI)—Dan Siegel, the elected student body president of the University of California at Berkeley, was acquitted last night of a misdemeanor charge of inciting a riot.

Siegel, 23, was accused of exhorting a crowd to leave the U.C. campus for the People's Park confrontation with police last May 15 remembered as "Bloody Thursday."

A panel of seven women and five men deliberated five hours before returning the verdict at 11:32 p.m. to Municipal Judge Mario Barsotti.

Siegel had testified his command that marchers "Go down there and take the park" was meant as a call for peaceful victory.

Because of the speech, Siegel was forbidden to take office as student body president this fall by university officials. He was unsuccessful in a Federal Court appeal of the university's ruling last month.

After the two-hour dinner break, the jurors asked Judge Barsotti if there were any alternatives besides an innocent or guilty verdict. When the judge said there were not, the jury brought in the acquittal 10 minutes later.

Hub Trustees Apply For Handicapped Aid

The San Anselmo School District board last night approved plans for a $185,186 program aimed at helping educationally handicapped students in 10 Bay Area school districts, and authorized Supt. Stephen L. Parodi to apply to the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare for program funds.

San Anselmo district is the applicant, Parodi reported, but the program would be applied also in Kentfield, Fairfax, Mill Valley, Sausalito, Reed, San Rafael, Novato, Vallejo, and Fairfield-Suisun school districts.

The program is planned for the 1970-71 school year, Parodi said.

The board also took a stand in favor of eventual unification of the Tamalpais High School District attendance area, but favoring a moratorium on unification elections. A letter was sent to the Marin County Committee on School District Organization, saying the board favored only a one-year moratorium on elections, and felt the present deadline requiring a unification election by 1972 should remain in force. The board also favored keeping the present area-wide tax levy, Parodi said.

San Anselmo School District Board Also:

GIFT — Accepted a gift of models of the human eye and ear, to be placed in the instructional materials center for use by all schools in the district. Money for the models was raised by the Isabel Cook School Parent-Teachers Association and the Sleepy Hollow, Wade Thomas and Yolansdale schools' parents clubs.

MUSIC — Authorized Parodi to seek a part-time music teacher. The district had two music teachers last year but because of budget problems did not replace one teacher who resigned.

VENTILATION — Authorized Parodi to prepare plans and seek bids for ventilation work at Isabel Cook School. Cost estimate is $8,000 to $10,000, Parodi said.

ASSISTANT — Named teacher Robert Balzan as assistant to Principal Keith B. McPherson at Isabel Cook School. Balzan will receive 5 per cent of his $8,848 salary, pro-rated for the rest of the year, or approximately $368 for the job, Parodi reported.

MEETING — Set a work session for 3:45 p.m. Tuesday at the Red Hill School library to meet with teachers and discuss board-staff communications, roles of teachers and administrators, professional relations and economic benefits.

CLOSED MEETING — Set a closed meeting for 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Red Hill School library to discuss dismissing an employee, Chairman Cornelia B. Busse said.

Conservation Groups Oppose BCDC Appointee

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Two Bay Area conservation groups came out yesterday against the appointment of Albany Mayor Richard O. Clark as East Bay representative of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

Clark successfully campaigned this year for exemption of the Albany Isles fill project from BCDC control.

Robert H. Tuss, chairman of the Albany Bay Committee, told a news conference Clark was a "symbol of development rather than conservation."

William Siri, president of the Save the Bay Association, said letters have been sent to councilmen of the 82 cities in BCDC urging them to oppose Clark.

Clark issued a statement saying he was "as qualified as anyone else for the job."

He said Albany has become a target of conservation interests "because we're a small city."

Youth's Sanity To Be Studied

Judge Hadden W. Roth of Marin Municipal Court yesterday referred Edwin Wesley Cadra Jr., 18, of 260 Canal Street, San Rafael, to the Marin Community Mental Health Center to determine if there is a question as to his present sanity.

Cadra and a 17-year-old companion were arrested by San Rafael police Saturday when they were seen driving a car allegedly stolen earlier from a parking lot in San Rafael.

The 17-year-old, David Watson, of 131 Myrtle Avenue, San Rafael, was booked into Marin Juvenile Hall.

Cadra was arraigned Monday on a charge of car theft. His case has been continued until next Tuesday for report of the mental health center.

Mink, Rabbit Yes, But Not Leopard Coats

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A group of socially prominent Bay Area women has announced a boycott of fur coats made from the pelts of wild foxes, leopards, cheetahs and other animals facing extinction.

Leopard, sealskin and other exotic furs will no longer be purchased by Mrs. John Fell Stevenson and a group of the Bay Area's fashion set, they declared yesterday.

The daughter-in-law of the late Adlai Stevenson said at a news conference boycotters would continue wearing less exotic mink, rabbit and other domestically cultivated species.

Another member of the Bay Area group, Mrs. William Hamm, said support would be welcome from Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, whom Mrs. Hamm described as a world fashion leader.

"I doubt that she would be interested," Mrs. Hamm said, however. "She buys six or seven or eight fur coats a season." Mrs. Stevenson commented: "It cannot be said there is more warmth in a cheetah coat than in a wool one. And, is it that much more enticing to look at?"

The boycott, sponsored by the Friends of the Earth conservation group, has secured written pledges of 35 women, including the wives of author Barnaby Conrad and William M. Roth, former U.S. trade negotiator.

Mrs. Stevenson and Mrs. Hamm, wife of a prominent businessman, said many of the world's fur-bearing animals are being wiped out due to a worldwide demand for their skins.

Signers of the boycott pledge have agreed not to purchase the skin, pelts or feathers of animals or birds endangered by extinction, particularly by poachers in African game reserves motivated by attractive prices on the high-fashion market.

"I for one," Mrs. Stevenson said, "want my children to see these animals in their natural habitat, not only on peoples' walls, floors and backs."

Novato Fair Makes Profit

Novato's Western Weekend Country Fair made a profit last summer, it was reported Sunday night to the board of directors.

The fair took in $7,659.83 and spent $6,566.19, making a profit of $1,093.64, according to secretary Dorothy Merla. This leaves the organization with a working balance of $3,238.71 for next year when this year's profit is added to last year's ending balance.

Three new members were elected to the board of directors to replace three whose terms expired. They were Jack Whitcomb, replacing Roger Hillman; Charles Lewis, replacing president John I. Regan, and Billie Garl replacing Dorothy Merla.

Casey Van Gronigan was named temporary chairman of the board until the election of officers. No date was set for the next meeting.

TELEVISION IN REVIEW

Ageless 'Gunsmoke' Takes Top Position

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Notes to watch television by:

The ratings: CBS-TV's amazing, ageless "Gunsmoke" series again has finished atop the national television rankings, despite the head-on competition of the previous front-runner, NBC-TV's "Laugh-In" ... only several seasons back, CBS-TV was in the process of canceling "Gunsmoke," but protests from affiliate stations (and critics) helped keep it on.

The season's hottest new video series, ABC-TV's "Marcus Welby, M.D.," starring Robert Young, came in a spectacular second in the ratings ... and "Laugh-In" was third ... NBC-TV's Julie Andrews-Harry Belafonte special finished a solid 17th ... but the same network's Debbie Reynolds special ranks a dismal 62nd .. Miss Reynolds' NBC-TV series, meanwhile, rated a mediocre 43rd.

More proof, by the way, arrived that the ultra-contemporary-style, earthy movies favored by the young motion picture audience are very insecure ratings bets with the generally older television audience . . . on the heels of the disappointing ratings of "Tom Jones" and "Georgy Girl" in recent weeks, ABC-TV's "A Man and a Woman" finished 60th in the national rankings ... however, in the more urban-oriented 70-city ratings, the film came in 16th.

This past Monday night, a more traditional but excellent movie on NBC-TV, "Madigan," a police tale with Richard Widmark and Henry Fonda, got a whopping overnight rating in New York against CBS-TV's potent lineup of "Mayberry R.F.D.," Doris Day and Carol Burnett ... CBS-TV, with its numerous rural-oriented shows, figures to improve against "Madigan" in the national statistics, but it is clear video's basic audience has rather clear preferences.

If present trends continue, several developments in video films may well take place ... One: networks simply won't shell out big money for hot-shot "contemporary" movies without second thoughts, especially since motion pictures generally aren't doing that well on video any more ... Two: problems over earthy movies on the home screen may turn out to cause less havoc than expected ... Three: television seems sure to favor making its own two-hour telefilms tailored specifically for the audience whose tastes it knows well ... that way, television movies may not improve, but ratings will.

NBC-TV's relatively nonviolent Saturday morning children's series, "The Banana Splits Adventure Hour," is in ratings trouble, and a network source indicates there is a good chance it won't return next season ... NBC-TV is reported thinking about a replacement series that would use cartoons out of the Walt Disney shop.

Survival Held Key Word To Environmental Program

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Survival is the key word to California's environmental problems, says a group of 116 students who showed up at the closing day of Gov. Ronald Reagan's two-day conference on the subject.

Russ Salzgerber, president of the Los Angeles chapter of Ecology Action, said the students who attended yesterday "were invited as an afterthought."

The group nevertheless followed other, somewhat more venerable conference delegates with a presentation of its own. It included:

Voluntary birth control including voluntary legalized abortion.

Protection of all agricultural land from urbanization.

An integrated rapid transit system free to all users.

Development of new lowemission engines for autos.

Protection of coastal water resources.

An end to projects aimed at development of a supersonic transport.

—More minority group participation at future conferences.

"We don't care who takes the action to get something done," said Salzgerber. "This is a problem that must be solved if we are to survive."

Earlier four committees summarized their findings on water, air, land and urban society.

L. W. Lane, publisher of Sunset Magazine, called for more cooperation from business in the field of water pollution problems. "We need more research and more cooperation from rich companies," he said. "And I don't mean money rich—I mean firms rich mentally and tecnically."

McIntyre Faries, retired Los Angeles County Superior Court judge, drew applause when he suggested: "We must have a crash program, like the one that landed men on the moon, to clean up our air."

He also proposed changing "our definition of air pollution to include noise pollution."

"We need more conservation and environment quality courses to save our land," said Dr. Emil Mrak, chancellor emeritus of the University of California at Davis. He also advocated tax breaks for owners of land left vacant for recreational purposes.

CORTE MADERA SHOPPING CENTER

SAN RAFAEL—1009 FOURTH STREET

Turkeys Will Be Awarded Saturday

It's turkey time and the members of the Corte Madera Shopping Center Merchant's Council are offering the kind of a turkey you will want to own.

Fifty hen turkeys will be given away on Saturday, at 1 p.m. at a drawing to be held at the center's mall, as part of the shopping center's pre-Thanksgiving sale set for tomorrow, Friday, and Saturday.

How to take part? Clip the coupons to be found this section and turn them in at the shopping center when you come to preview the holiday season specials.

And incidentally, if you are present at the drawing, and your name is called, you will receive two 10 pound turkeys or one large bird of approximately 20 pounds.

Good First Opener

Make sure a tape recorder's opened early Christmas morning. A tape of Christmas morning sounds is a unique personal "touch of home" for those too far away to join the family at holiday time.

Opening Wedge

The gift of a pipe or smoking tobacco offers quite a few additional aids for the gift giver. It is really the opening wedge toward the solution of all gift problems since a pipe smoker will always want another pipe, more tobacco, pipe tools, humidors, racks, pipe lighters, pipe ash trays, pouches or any of hundreds of available items.

PRESIDENT — Charles Stewart, manager of Smith's Clothiers in the Corte Madera Shopping Center, has been elected president of the center's merchant's council for 1970. Other officers are Duane Nelson of F. W. Woolworth, vice president; Sylvia Melton of House of Fabrics, secretary, and B. A. Sill, Crocker-Citizens National Bank, treasurer. Installation of new officers will be held Dec. 6 at Dominic's Restaurant.

CUSTOM JEWELRY SHOP

Umberto Sartarelli (left), a craftsman with 24 years' experience, shows Richard G. Burns, outgoing merchant president, a piece of custom-made jewelry in his new shop, Marin Custom Jewelers, in the Corte Madera Shopping Center. He plans to carry a large stock of watches and is now an authorized dealer for Bulova. He also plans to offer watch repair service. A native of Italy, he established his first shop nine years ago in San Francisco.

The Christmas Wedding Popular

There are all kinds of parties at Christmas, but one that's becoming increasingly popular is the wedding party.

According to professional observers, there's a lot of extra fun at Christmas weddings, perhaps because the spirit of the holiday adds that much more gaiety to an always happy event.

Whatever the reason, a Christams wedding can combine the best of both occasions.

Simple Heart Attack Warning Test Nearing

LONDON (UPI)—One of Britains's leading nutritionists believes he may have discovered a simple warning test for susceptibility to heart attack that will give prospective victims plenty of time to take evasive action.

Prof. John Yudkin of Queen Elizabeth College, the University of London, has long contended that the fatty substance cholesterol is less implicated in heart and arterial disease than refined sugar.

"We don't say it's only sugar," Dr. Yudkin said in an interview. "But of all the things concerned everything points to sugar.

"Animal fat has been a constituent of our diet over millions of years. If this gave us coronary thrombosis, if we were dropping off at 40 because we were eating the way Nature intended us to, we would have been killed off before now.

"But we've only recently begun to eat sugar and it's 15-20 per cent of the diet in well-off countries."

Both the cholesterol school and the followers of Dr. Yudkin agree that an important factor in coronary-artery complications arising from either substance would be the way modern living has changed our lives — more sedentary, cigarette-addicted and under the social and economic pressures lumped as "the rat race."

"It looks as if some people are susceptible to eating sugar and some are not," Dr. Yudkin said. "The susceptible ones show a rise in insulin after eating sugar. For the past few years several independent workers have shown that this rise in insulin might be the most important thing that happens in coronary thrombosis.

"What we are suggesting therefore is that about one in three or four men is susceptible to the things that could cause coronaries—overweight, smoking and sugar among them. We may be able to discover this susceptibility at about the age of 20 by making young men eat a lot of sugar. If their insulin level goes up we can warn them not to smoke, to put on weight, to exercise and to stay away from sugar.

"This is the first time we could have a test for coronary susceptibility, a predictive test."

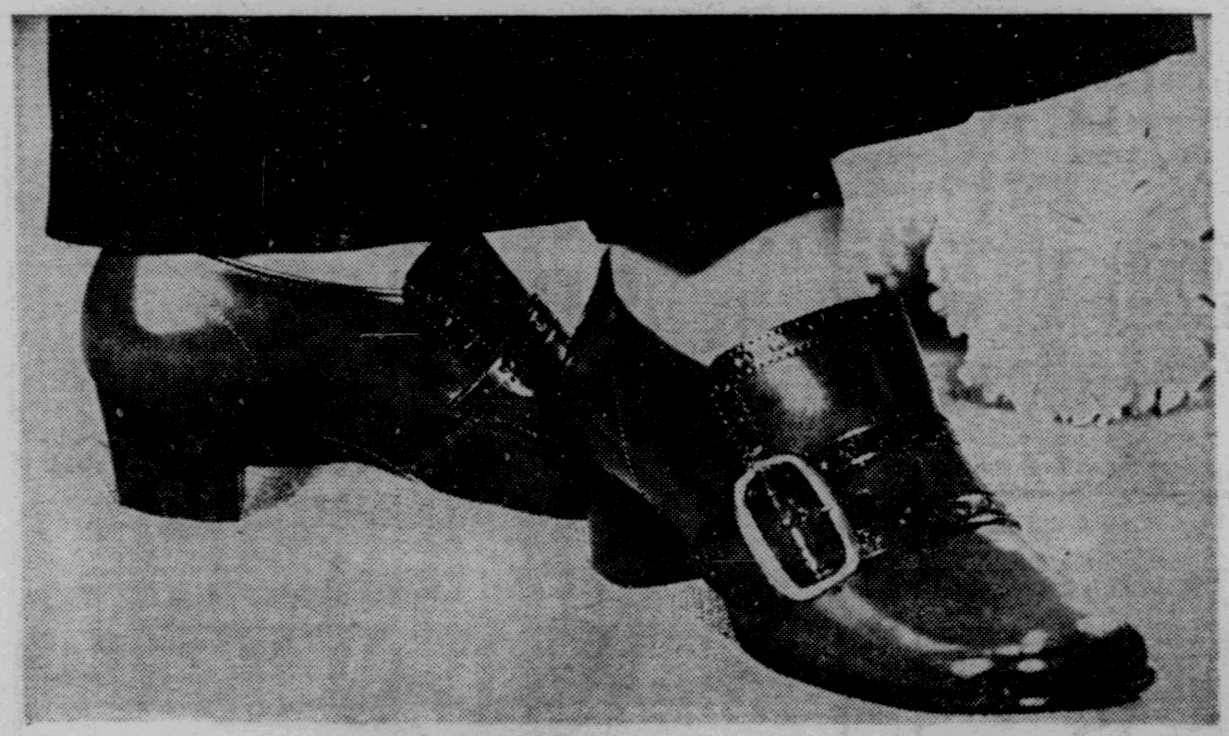
WINS ZIM'S OUTDOOR SIGN AWARD

This outdoor sign, featuring a 21 by 26 foot hamburger, is the winner of a first place award for Zim's restaurants, of which one is located in the Corte Madera Shopping Center. The award was made during the recent restaurant advertising idea contest in connection with the Pacific Coast Regional Restaurant Convention and Exposition in Los Angeles.



PERFORATIONS, BUCKLES

The hard gloss shine, broken by perforations to emphasize the "up front" look makes this fashion conscious shoe at home wherever the young or young in heart goes. It is being offered at Gallenkamp's in the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

'Corte Madera Carols' Contest Is Announced

"Corte Madera Carols," a program including a week of Christmas caroling in Corte Madera and a Christmas sing-out, is being sponsored by the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce with merchants from the Corte Madera Shopping Center among those donating checks to be given as awards.

Those registering to participate — family groups, organizations, choirs, school choruses, friends, neighbors — must agree to carol in Corte Madera for at least one hour on one night during the week of Dec. 6-12.

Verification of participation by use of "carol cards" to be signed by a Corte Madera resident, will entitle each group to attend the Christmas sing-out on Dec. 12 at 8 p.m. at the Corte Madera Recreation Center, Tamalpais Drive.

At this party, awards of checks to the charity of the winners' choice will be made as a result of a drawing of the "carol cards," and will be based on participation, not competition.

Instrumental groups may also take part. All music, vocal and instrumental, must be in keeping with the Judeo-Christian spirit of the season, whether of a liturgical, ballad, or folk nature.

Entry forms may be obtained by contacting the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce, weekdays except Thursday, between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., or by letter to 500 Tamalpais Drive. Deadline for registration is Friday.

Trimmings With Meaning

It's easy enough to dash to the store to find a variety of decorations to turn the house into a festive backdrop for holiday eventy. But trimmings make yourself mean so much more!

Decorate the tree with pipier mache ornaments in varied shapes . . . balls, stars, reindeer,poinsettias . . . then color them with markers.

Thin sheets of aluminum, cut to size with sissors, will take on an antiqued liik when tinted the same wal. Use this simple technique to hake decorations for the front door, mantle piece or Christmas buffet table.

Excited Astronauts Explore Luna; TV Camera Blacks Out

Bull's-Eye Landing Alongside Surveyor

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Two supercharged American astronauts made a bull's-eye landing on the moon today, raised their flag and wisecracked their way through a four-hour exploration of the black, powdery surface. (See stories and photos on pages 8, 9 and 10).

Before returning safely to their lunar ferry Intrepid, they deployed five scientific instruments powered by the first nuclear generator on the moon.

In landing on the Ocean of Storms, Charles "Pete" Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean carried man's quest for the unknown to that alien soil a second time. They opened a new age of discovery, the first detailed exploration of the moon.

Their moonwalk was spoiled for earthlings when a camera transmitting the first color television pictures from the moon failed after 45 minutes. Experts at the Manned Spacecraft Center theorized the camera was accidentally pointed at the sun —burning the sensitive image tube.

LITTLE HOPE

There was little hope it could be repaired.

From the moment they landed on the moon and Conrad shouted "Outstanding!" and Bean exclaimed "I can't wait to get outside!"

They were two jubilant men, chattering like a couple of chipmunks as they went about the important business of exploring the strange world where the gravity force is only one-sixth that on earth.

There was excitement in Conrad's voice when he spotted an unmanned Surveyor spacecraft resting only 600 feet away in the crater that had been their target for the pinpoint landing.

Both men were exuberant as they gathered rocks and spotted strange mounds of rubble that they described as "fantastic." Conrad's cackling laugh became a familiar sound.

"Wowee" was a favorite expression as Conrad and Bean prowled the surface, ranging more than 1,000 feet to set up the experiments and to inspect the mounds and what appeared to them to be a fresh crater.

'NEAT LOOKING'

"Hey, look at that rock," or "Here's a neat looking one over here," flowed repeatedly over the communication channel more than a quarter-million miles back to earth.

The spacemen were amazed at the thick, black dust that darkened their space suits as they moved like ghostly figures in a weird surrounding.

"We're really filthy," Conrad reported.

The third member of the expedition, Richard F. Gordon Jr., became almost a forgotten man as he orbited some 65 miles overhead in the Yankee Clipper command ship, waiting for Conrad and Bean to complete their 31.5-hour exploration.

Draft By Lottery To Nixon

The measure was rushed to the floor and passed by voice vote after a perfunctory debate. It had already been passed by the House and now will go to Nixon for his signature.

The measure will pave the way for selection of 19-year-olds first, exposing each eligible man to the draft for only one year. At present, a man can be exposed to the draft for as long as six years.

The bill itself changes only one line of the Selective Service Act — repealing a provision that prevented the President from choosing draftees by lot.

Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Armed Services Committee promised senators seeking broader draft reforms that his committee would begin hearings next year on more comprehensive proposals.

Demands by some senators, notably Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., for broader changes in draft law than simply removing the ban on a lottery had threatened to block action on any change at all.

Kennedy agreed several days ago not to press for amendments on the floor provided that leaders would give assurance that hearings would be held next year on more extensive draft reform.

Stennis said on the floor today there would be hearings next year but said he could not make promises that a draft reform bill would pass.

"We cannot make any guarantee, of course, at this time," he said.

NEARLY 400 VICTIMS

Experts Urge Lifesaving Barrier On Gate Bridge

Suicide barriers on Golden Gate Bridge, where almost 400 persons have leaped to their deaths since its opening 32 years ago, were urged today by one of the nation's top experts on suicide prevention.

"We must not let that figure come to 400, and then to 500," said Dr. Edwin Shneidman before a symposium on suicide prevention. About 50 persons attended the symposium in the bridge district's offices.

Shneidman, former chief of the Center for Studies of Suicide Prevention at the National Institute of Mental Health, said it was a misconception that people prevented from killing themselves at the bridge will do so somewhere else.

At least one-third of suicides follow a one-time impulse, he said. "No one claims that protective hardware will save all lives, but what is hoped for is that it will save at least one life," he said.

To prove his point, Shneidman suggested the barrier could be periodically removed and reinstalled for a three-year study to show whether suicide-prone persons simply go elsewhere to kill themselves while the barrier is up.

Shneidman's suggestion was not new. Similar suggestions in past years have run into several problems, including engineer's objections that a barrier would dangerously increase wind resistance on the bridge.

Other objections have centered on the effect of a barrier on the appearance of the bridge and on the fact that a barrier would make access more difficult for bridge maintenance crews.

Shneidman cautioned bridge directors against what he stated was their reluctance to part with the bridge's reputation "as the suicide center of the nation."

"If it doesn't work, you can always sell the metal for scrap," he said.

Shneidman's proposal was echoed by Dr. Jerome Motto, associate professor, University of California School of Medicine, who added that even with a barrier the bridge still would serve to attract people using it "as a way to call for help."

Motto said that the bridge, without barriers, "is comparable in the community to having

Greyhound Wins Hike In Commuter Fares

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — An 8.75 per cent increase in Greyhound commute fares between San Francisco and Marin and Southern Sonoma was approved yesterday by the state Public Utilities Commission.

The boost is effective Dec. 3. It is the fourth rate increase in three years.

The commission said the hike, which also applies to Greyhound's statewide service, was granted to meet higher labor costs and increased business and property taxes levied against the line in San Francisco.

The increases apply to one-way, round-trip and 20-ride commutation fares. In addition, the commission authorized Greyhound to change several Marin and Southern Sonoma fare zone boundaries to eliminate inequities and confusion in rates.

Greyhound gave these examples of new fares: San Rafael riders, now paying 90 cents for a one-way ticket and $12.50 for a 20-day commutation book, will pay $1 and $13.60, respectively. Novato fares will go from $1.05 and $14.60 to $1.15 and $15.90. Mill Valley fares will go to 85 cents and $12.50 from 75 cents and $11.45. Petaluma riders will pay $1.70 and $19.25, up from $1.55 and $17.70.

The zone changes will cause some passengers to pay higher fares and others less.

Greyhound, long eager to abandon commuter service because of rising costs, last won a fare increase, of 4 per cent, in October of 1968. In August of that year, commuter book fares went up from 6 to 18 per cent and an across-the-board boost of 7 per cent was approved in December 1966.

The PUC said the increase was "designed to offset increased operating costs resulting from recent collective bargaining agreements covering shop and garage employees, drivers and office personnel and from recent changes in business and property taxes levied by the City of San Francisco."

$2.8 Million State Sale By Marinite

A Marin County automotive dealer has been informed that he was low bidder among approximately 120 other dealers in the Bay Area competing for a $2.8 million contract to supply automobiles to the State of California.

Robert B. Doleshal, head of Corte Madera Chrysler-Plymouth, said the contract calls for the delivery of 1,162 Plymouth Belvedere and Fury sedans to state agencies in Oakland and San Francisco and as far south as San Jose and Santa Cruz within the next few months. He said all deliveries will be made from the company's salesrooms in Corte Madera and that eventually the total number of vehicles to be supplied may run as high as 1,700, costing nearly $5 million.

Planning and public affairs officer Roy Priest of the procurement division, Department of Public Services, Sacramento confirmed Doleshal's determined what equipment will be supplied on the cars.

Priest noted that bids were very close and that Doleshal's lowest base price of $1,711.83 per vehicle was the lowest in the entire state. The contract, he said will be the largest contract in all nine geographical areas of California into which awards are being divided. The bids were to supply the state and some city and county offices purchasing cars in conjunction with the state with Class B four-door sedans and some Class A sedans and station wagons.

Doleshal said he believes his contract will be the largest ever awarded to a Marin automotive dealer.

Corte Madera Chrysler-Plymouth was organized last August as a successor to Doug Dicker Chrysler-Plymouth which gave up the agency. Shortly afterward, Doleshal returned to Marin to head the new agency after three years in Sacramento. He had previously been a principal in the now discontinued Marin Chrysler-Plymouth in Mill Valley.

Nixon Pledges Purchase Funding For Point Reyes Seashore Land

President Richard M. Nixon committed his administration yesterday to spending $38 million to complete Point Reyes National Seashore, drawing enthusiasm from Marin officials as well as a note of doubt that the money would suffice.

If Congress approves increasing the appropriation for the seashore from $19.1 million to $57.5 million, Nixon said, he will present a supplemental budget request for $7 million this fiscal year with the remainder budgeted over the next two fiscal years.

A representative of at least one of the owners of property at the seashore questioned today whether the $38 million would be enough over a three-year period of inflation. But Peter H. Behr, president of the Save Our Seashore group, said the figure was originally based on acquisition over a five-year period with built-in inflation rates.

Behr said this information was given by the Department of the Interior earlier this year to congressmen who authored the bills authorizing the $38 million.

Congress authorized and spent $19.1 million in 1962 and 1965 to acquire 22,543 acres at Point Reyes. The $38 million would enable the government to acquire the balance still in private hands.

Unaware of Behr's report, Gordon Pusser, president of Land Investors Research in Larkspur, said, "They've already figured the price extremely close . . . Obviously, what they go out to buy tomorrow, they can get for what they figure but I have my doubts whether the $38 million will stretch far enough."

Pusser's firm represents a group of 24 owners of the 2,500-acre Pierce Ranch at the northwestern corner of the seashore. He said recently that economic feasibility and planning studies of the ranch — with a tentative eye on subdividing the property — had begun.

Pusser said he couldn't speak for his clients on the question of whether they would be willing to wait up to three years for acquisition of their property by the government.

"We'll continue to do our study of the ranch," he said.

Nixon's committment was reported at the White House by Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif.; Rep. Don Clausen, R-First District, and Rep. Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo., chairman of the House Interior Committee, after a meeting with the President.

Last week a House subcommittee approved the increased authorization and Aspinall predicted approval by his full committee within two weeks. He said there was a good chance of House passage of authorization and subsequent appropriation of the money into the budget by the end of the calendar year.

Pending legislation would in-

Okinawa Solution Promised As Nixon, Sato Open Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon said today at the outset of his official talks with Prime Minister Sato of Japan on the future of Okinawa that "they will be the most successful between leaders of our two governments going back over many years."

Sato was equally confident in predicting that a solution of the Okinawa problem will be found.

The exchange of remarks came at a formal military ceremony on the south lawn of the White House where the President and Mrs. Nixon greeted the Prime Minister and Mrs. Sato.

A 19-gun salute roared under sunny skies as the national anthems of the two nations were played.

"As we look to the future of the Pacific," Nixon said in his welcoming remarks, "we recognize that if peace survives in the last one-third of the century it will depend more on what happens in the Pacific than anywhere else in the globe."

The three days of talks between the two leaders represent the most carefully prepared historical drama in U.S.-Japanese relations since the 1951 peace treaty.

After the formal greetings, the two men met with only interpreters present for nearly two hours and White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon considered the first meeting "very constructive."

"The talks were conducted like two friends discussing matters of utmost importance," Ziegler said.

While Nixon and Sato met, members of the Japanese and American delegations were assembled for other discussions in the Cabinet room.

Ziegler said a joint communique to be issued on Friday will cover the substance of the talks, and none of the decisions reached will be announced before that time.

Bay Saving Idea Proposed In $12 Billion Water Plan

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A dramatic new California water development plan, costing $11 billion or $12 billion, was proposed by Frank M. Stead today in order to avert "massive ecological damage to the state."

Stead is former chief of environmental sanitation for the state and now is an environmental consultant. He developed the plan under the sponsorship of California Tomorrow, a conservation organization based in San Francisco.

Stead said the new plan, scrapping present efforts to funnel excess water through the Central Valley to Southern California, would help preserve four ecologically vulnerable areas of California:

The scenic North Coast, respite of 40 per cent of the state's available waters.

NEW KNITTING SHOP — While Richard G. Burns, president of the Corte Madera Shopping Center Merchant's Council, welcomes Needle Boutique owner Ruth Berges as the center's newest store, Grace Murphy does some traditional rocking chair knitting. The store is located on the west side of the center next to Butler's.

From Nursing To Knitting For Owner

From nursing to knitting describes the career of Mrs. Ruth Burges whose new shop, the Needle Boutique, became a member of the Corte Madera Shopping Center family on last week.

The specialty store has all the supplies for Marin women (and men) who have acquired — or wish to — the skills of knitting, crocheting, crewel, embroidery, tapestry making, needlepoint, rug making, or needlepoint.

In addition, the store is handling gifts — including ceramics and pottery — handmade by craftsmen in the Corte Madera area.

Mrs. Burges, who was born in Pittsburgh, Pa., was graduated as a registered nurse from St. Francis General Hospital where she first taught her friends and members of her nursing class to knit.

She moved to California in 1963, and to Corte Madera in 1965. Her husband, Fernand, is a native of the French Pyrenees, and is associated with the Colombo Meat Co. of San Rafael.

Mrs. Burges' employment in Marin has included a stint as a hostess at a French restaurant, nursing at Ross General Hospital and more recently at the House of Fabrics.

And through the Needle Boutique, she now brings to Marin her years of experience and skill in the art of handcrafted creations.

Car Horn Is Essential To A Brazilian

By JOHN VIRTUE

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI)— A car horn is as essential to a Brazilian motorist as the gas pedal—and it's used about as often.

Asking a motorist to stop honking is like asking a rooster to stop crowing at dawn or a waterfall to stop roaring.

As soon as a traffic light turns red, motorists start honking their horns, as if the noise will force the signal to change back to green. Normal conversation is impossible between 5 and 7 p.m. in apartments and residences at busy intersections.

Many motorists are not content with the power and the volume of the factory horns in their cars. They install more powerful ones.

The Cassette Proving To Be Ideal Gift

The cassette is today's music happening.

In the home, the dorm, on the beach or on the road, stereo cassettes are sparkling the recorded music field. Gofts in this area are increasingly welcome.

A cassette is, simply, two tiny tape reels in a plastic case about the size of a cigarette pack and half as thick. It can hold up to 120 minutes of sound, half on each side. Since the tape is enclosed, you don't have to handle it; there's no record scratch, either.

GI Deserters Linked To Shady Viet Money Deals

ROBERT R. PARKER
Tells of billion-dollar money racket
(AP Wirephoto)

WASHINGTON (AP) — A billion-dollar currency manipulation racket with Indian money changers at the top and GI deserters and the bottom has corrupted some South Vietnamese officials, congressional investigators have been told.

The investigations committee, headed by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., also heard testimony yesterday that millions of dollars from the illegal operation end up in U.S. banks.

Robert Parker, an official at the U.S. embassy in Saigon, said the Indian "constitute a syndicate in the most criminal and sinister sense in the world."

The presence of this well known group of Indian currency violators, operating openly, weakens the morale of more dedicated Vietnamese law enforcement officials, makes corruption seem easy and encourages other to share in the black market profits themselves," Parker said.

He said many GIs have dealt with the money dealers who give up to 240 South Vietnamese piasters for a dollar instead of the legal rate of 118-to-1.

American deserters often sell their citizenship and contacts in the U.S. military to the syndicate, Parker indicated.

Parker said the racket has generated more than $150 million annually in illegal funds.

Committee investigators have traced illegal funds to 13 accounts in banks in Hong Kong and the United States.

"The extent of these transactions are such that it is my personal opinion that these banks knew what was going on," Sen. Ribicoff said.

He said while the U.S. banks do not appear to have violated present law, the subcommittee will recommend legislative and administrative action at the end of the hearings.

Among witnesses to be called today were Sgt. Albert Chang, an Army photographer who left the service in Vietnam, joined the Associated Press in Saigon and later reenlisted in the Army.

Canners Hail Decision To Allow Extension On Cyclamate Uses

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An industry spokesman hails the federal decision allowing sale of cyclamate-sweetened canned fruits and vegetables until next Sept. 1 "the best possible news for the canning industry."

R. L. Gibson, president of the California Canners and Growers, made the statement in remarks for the grower-owned cooperative's annual meeting today.

Gibson said the action by Robert Finch, Health, Education and Welfare secretary, extending the deadline from Feb. 1 to Sept. 1 resulted from a need to coordinate policy with Canada. Canada earlier had set Sept. 1 as the cut off date.

"In my opinion examination of the evidence also will show that our products contain such extremely low levels of cyclamates that an extension would have been justified on that basis as well," Gibson declared.

He said the amount of cyclamate used in tests which showed tumor development in rats "was so massive that it has no relation to normal consumption in humans."

Gibson said the canning industry suffered a serious blow when Finch issued his order on the use of cyclamates as artificial sweeteners.

But, he said, "we expect the market for low calorie canned fruit in whatever form to expand in the years ahead."

He noted that Finch has said that cyclamate-sweetened products will continue to be available to anyone needing them for medical reasons. Finch has appointed a medical panel to consider conditions under which this will be done.

Gibson said the canning industry, meanwhile, is developing new low calorie sweetening agents for the 1970 pack.

He said the Delaney amendment, which requires a ban on any food additive which causes cancer in man or animals, used by Finch to act against cyclamates, "is unrealistic and should be amended for the protection of both industry and the consumer."

He said Finch had emphasized that no evidence had appeared to show that cyclamates had caused cancer in humans.

Gibson said the order against cyclamates had complicated an already difficult year for the canning industry with excessive supplies causing "soft prices and narrow margins."

Richard E. Lyng, assistant U.S. secretary of agriculture, said the administration was making every effort to persuade other nations to liberalize trade policies.

Lyng said the European Economic Community's protectionist policy was hurting U.S. exports and was harmful to world trade.

California Canners and Growers has 1,200 members and operates 10 plants in California and Wisconsin. It is the world's largest grower-owned fruit and vegetable canning cooperative.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Scoffs At Cost

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Richard M. Nixon says she won't disclose how much she spends on clothes, but she says she is really conservative about purchases for her wardrobe.

The First Lady brushed aside a survey of designers which indicated she had spent some $19,000 for clothes since her husband became President in January.

"Have you seen it walking around? Have you seen me in 65 new outfits?" Mrs. Nixon said in talking with newsmen yesterday.

'Guru' Under Probe

NEW DELHI (AP) — The "guru" of the Beatles and other personalities, Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, is being investigated by the Indian government for allegedly maintaining a bank account abroad.

Finance Minister P. C. Sethi told Parliament yesterday Marishi has been given a formal notice asking him to show cause why he should not be prosecuted for having an unauthorized account.

Sethi made the announcement after another member of the Indian Parliament sked if the government knew Maharishi had recently purchased a $33,600 Rolls Royce in London and if the government had given him permission to establish an overseas account.

Denies Funds

MANILA (AP) — The Philippines government denied today that it had received $45 million in allowances and equipment from the United States for sending a noncombat construction group to South Vietnam.

Undisclosed amounts of funds were received, however, for "national security and intelligence," the presidential palace said.

In secret congressional testimony made in Washington on yesterday, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the United States sent the Phillippines a "handsome fee" for sending the 2,000-man Philippines Civic Group to the war zone.

Following floods and hurricanes, candles have sometimes become so much in demand that emergency shipments were hijacked.

Peking Prospect

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers says he sees "a prospect that our relations in the future might be improved" with Communist China.

Rogers said last night there is no real evidence leaders in Peking is ready to respond to new U.S. initiatives, but "they at least were not reacting negatively."

Appearing on a CBS special report on relations among Red China, Russia and the United States, Rogers said the Nixon administration hoped to improve communications and trade relations with China.

"We would hope that as time goes on that we could improve our communications with Communist China," he said.

Arab Attackers

TEL AVIV (AP) — Arab gunners in Jordan opened fire on Israeli forces near the traditional site of Christ's baptism yesterday night, killing an Isreaeli corporal, the army said.

The Israelis returned the fire, military spokesken said, but there was no report of any casualties inflicted on the attackers.

The exchange took place in the Qasr el Yahud sector along the Jordan River north of the Dead Sea.

Farther north, Arab guerrillas fired across the Jordan at an Istaeli patrol near Ashdot Yaacov south of the Sea of Galilee but there were no casualities, the Israelis said.

15 Million Strike

ROME (AP) — An estimated 12 million to 15 million workers stayed away from their jobs across Italy today in a 24-hour general strike for more low-cost housing.

Italy's third general strike in less than ten months brought buses, treetcars, commerce and industry to a virtual standstill. It was estimated the strike would cost employes $80 million in lost wages and the nation twice that in lost production.

A bright sunny day sent many families to the countryside for picnics, to the mountains or to the beaches.

The big three labor unions called for mass demonstrations to drive home their demand for a new government housing policy. Political extremists of both the left and right threatened to turn the demonstrations into battles.

Haynsworth Voting Comes Friday; Supporters Buoyed By Nose Count

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration forces, facing a Senate vote Friday on the Supreme Court nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., have been buoyed by what one Republican leader calls "the way things are going."

Announcements yesterday by two freshmen senators brightened the outlook for the Haynsworth backers.

The Senate's newest member, Republicah Ralph T. Smith of Illinois, said he had changed his mind and will support Haynsworth. Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, said he too will vote for confirmation.

This came on the heels of word Monday from Sens. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., and William B. Spong, D-Va., that they would vote for Haynsworth.

Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said "the way things are going" he expects more announcements backing Haynsworth before Friday's 1 p.m. vote.

Smith's decision to vote for confirmation tipped the balance in an Associated Press survey to 41 senators supporting the nomination compared to 40 against. The other 19 remain publicly uncommitted.

FLASH FIRE DESTROYS CORTE MADERA HOUSE

Only the charred outside walls remain of the wood frame house at 21 Buena Vista Avenue, Corte Madera, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Dan Monaco of San Francisco and destroyed in a fast moving fire at 7:30 a.m. today. Tenant Louis D. Norbye, 30, was treated at Marin General Hospital for second degree burns on the soles of both feet suffered escaping the blaze. According to firemen, the fire started in his bedroom when an article of clothing drying over a gas floor furnace ignited. Eighteen firemen fought the fire which caused from $20,000 to $25,000 damage to structure and contents, reported Fire Chief Frank L. Nelson, who strained his back turning on a hydrant at the scene. He did not require medical attention. (Independent-Journal photo)

Driver Not Hurt; Chain Link Ruined

A San Francisco man received only a cut on his chin in an accident which took out 342 feet of chain link fence on Highway 101 at Redwood Road, Novato, at 12:49 a.m. today, police reported.

Troy B. Kennedy, 39, northbound, hit the car ahead of him, driven by John F. Smith, 42, of 520 Corona Road, Petaluma, according to police.

The Kennedy car then hit the shoulder on the right side of the highway, veered back across the northbound lanes, went down the divider strip knocking down a construction sign, ripped out the chain link fence in the divider strip and dragged it across the southbound lanes.

The car ended up in an eight-foot ditch on the west side of 101.

The Novato Fire department was called out to cut the fencing off so 101 southbound traffic could be restored.

Kennedy was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of driving under the influence of alcohol. He is out on $360 bail to appear at 2 p.m. Friday in Marin Municipal Court.

FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

12:15 p.m., Novato — Children playing with matches set fire to grass at corner of Calle Paseo and Corte Madera Esquelo which burned a 20-by-30 foot area; no damage.

2:06 p.m., Marinwood — Electrical short circuit from frayed wiring caused $1,500 damage to bedroom wall at home of Robert B. Ades, 658 Idylberry Drive.

5:15 p.m., Novato — 1961 model car belonging to Francis M. Ehlen of Vallejo caught fire from the leaky carburetor in front of 8 Tyler Court; minor damage to hood and engine.

7:13 p.m., Novato — Front seat of a car belonging to Lorraine Simmonds of 411 Alameda Del Prado caught fire from a cigarette while southbound on Highway 101 at St. Vincent's Hill. Mark Simmonds burned hands trying to beat out the fire; damage confined to front seat of car.

9:35 p.m., San Rafael — Fire in bamboo fencing and shrubbery at Elks Club grounds, 1312 Mission Street burned area 16 square feet; cause unknown; no damage.

TODAY:

3:29 a.m., Sausalito — Fire in coffee room of Designers Market, 3001 Bridgeway; caused by short circuit in coffee pot; extinguished by sprinkler system; extensive water damage.

7:37 a.m., Corte Madera — Home owned by Mr. and Mrs. Dan Monaco of San Francisco at 21 Buena Bista Avenue gutted by fire; caused by article drying over gas floor furnace igniting in bedroom of tenant Louis D. Nordbye. Damage to structure and contents between $20,000 and $25,000. Fire Chief Frank Nelson strained back while fighting fire.

SOUTHERN SONOMA YESTERDAY:

3:24 p.m., Petaluma — Fire in a dryer at the U-Do-It Laundramat, 125 Keller Street, caused by large accumulation of lint; minor damage to the dryer.

crease the authorization for land acquisition but the budget bureau had indicated it would not spend the money out of the land and water conservation fund even if the bill were passed.

"There has never been any question about the need to preserve Point Reyes and the President recognized that fact," Murphy said. "His problem, therefore, was to consider the Point Reyes issue in the context of the nation's other priorities and our battles against inflation."

Murphy added that Nixon's decision was based on pressures for private development and cost escalation that was "more severe at this particular site than at any other place in the nation."

"This is a most important announcement for the State of California," said Murphy, who said he had received petitions with nearly 250,000 signatures urging action to save the park from private sale and subdivision.

"This is the best news I've heard in the seven years I have been in Congress," said Clausen, whose district includes the entire 54,000-acre seashore. The bill authorizing the $38 million expenditure was introduced in the House by Clausen and Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District.

Jubliant Marin County supervisors voted a round of thank-you letters to Nixon and other officials yesterday after learning of the President's disclosure.

"It's a definite committment," said chairman John F. McInnis. "We are grateful to Senator Murphy, the President and all others who helped."

"It's great," said Supervisor Louis H. Baar.

"We should commend Mr. FcInnis and Mr. Baar and all citizen groups who worked so hard for the seashore," said Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. McInnis and Baar went to Washington earlier this year to press for the added appropriation.

Marijuana Case Plea Date Set

Eugene Breiskin Weiss, 26, of San Geronimo, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of possessing marijuana at his home Oct. 29 when arrested on federal narcotics charges.

Judge Hadden W. Roth agreed to release Weiss on his own recognizance since he is out on bail in the federal case which involves LSD and on a narcotics charge in southern California.

Youth Denies Count Of Stolen Property

Stephen Joseph O'Brien, 20, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of possessing stolen property. A preliminary hearing was set for Dec. 16.

The youth is accused of attempting to sell a transmission on Sept. 12 which came from a car stolen from Marin Dodge on June. 13.

District Attorney Told To Desist Nurturing Pot

The attorney for a Sausalito man accused of raising marijuana yesterday asked a judge to order the district attorney's office to stop watering the plant in question so that it will not grow any more before the case comes to trial.

Judge Hadden W. Roth of Marin Municipal Court agreed to order the deputy district attorney who has been faithfully tending the potted plant to cease his ministrations.

Charles Vallee Moran Jr., 25, had already said at a preliminary hearing in his case that the plant had grown considerably since it was seized from him on Sept. 3. Yesterday, the plea to let the weed die was made when Judge Roth bound Moran over to superior court on charges of cultivating pot and possessing a device for smoking it.

Moran is to appear in court Dec. 1 for arraignment.

He was arrested after a Sausalito policeman said he spotted him moving the plant to a sunny spot near his apartment.

Conrad and Bean steered Intrepid to its perfect landing on the eastern edge of the Ocean of Storms at 10:54:29 p.m. PST and became the third and fourth humans to leave their imprint in the lunar dust.

The first of two planned moonwalks started at 3:44 a.m. when Conrad backed down a nine-rung ladder and stepped ashore in the new world. Bean followed 31 seconds later.

Conrad spent a total of 3 hours 44 minutes outside and Bean an even three hours.

After stowing their gear and eating, they began at 10:30 a.m. (PST) a planned eight hours sleep, resting for the second excursion set to start at 9:32 p.m. today.

Blastoff from the moon is slated for 6:23 a.m. (PST) tomorrow and a linkup with the Yankee Clipper at 10:02 a.m. After an extra day in lunar orbit to photograph future landing sites, the three head for home and a Monday splashdown in the Pacific.

About the soil, the astronauts reported it was thicker and blacker than that in the Sea of Tranquillity where Apollo 11 pilots Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. made man's first lunar landing in July.

The instruments they deployed will measure such things as moonquakes, the solar wind and the lunar atmosphere and ionosphere. They had difficulty handling the shielded but still burning-hot plutonium reactor core that furnishes power to the various sensing devices.

Once operating on the nuclear battery, the seismometer relayed to earth the sound of the spacemen's footsteps as they trod the moon.

Tomorrow, Conrad and Bean will collect carefully documented rock samples and attempt to retrieve parts of the Surveyor for return to earth.

quin Delta.

The San Francisco Bay system.

The Los Angeles metropolitan area.

All of these are endangered by the present aim of the current $3 billion State Water Project to funnel more excess water to the south, Stead said at a news conference.

Stead said shipment of water to Southern California via the Central Valley should be turned off by 1980. He said the Los Angeles basin already has exceeded its carrying capacity for people and new residents must be channeled to other regions of the state.

Key features of his plan:

Reclamation of waste waters, from both irrigation and from urban uses, and desalination of sea water.

Stead said the state has embarked on a step-by-step water development and at each step has "sought the cheapest solution."

This approach, he said, "is no longer tenable because of irreparable damage on the environment of the state."

The ultimate cost would be just about 'the same under his plan as it would under the current California Water Plan and its logical extension of building dams in the North Coast areas to tap those waters, Stead said.

Stead disagreed with a statement made by Gov. Ronald Reagan recently that reclamation of waste water and desalination of sea water are technically unfeasible now, in terms of meeting Central and Southern California water needs and commitments.

Stead said waste water reclamation is technically feasible now and that sea water can be converted to fresh water within five years as cheaply as the state can develop new water resources — such as from the North Coast or importing water from Canada or the Pacific Northwest.

Stead said his plan would provide for the state's ultimate water needs, even with a population of 40 million persons which he expects. The cost is about the same as conventional water development, he said.

Hub Police Recover A Stolen Motorcycle

San Anselmo police recovered a motorcycle yesterday that had been reported stolen between 9 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. from a College of Marin parking lot. Owner William E. Rutledge reported the theft of his 1965 Honda to the California Highway Patrol.

Police said they recovered the motorcycle at 6:10 p.m. after reserve police patrolman Theodore Capurro of 9 San Rafael Avenue reported seeing the machine hidden in shrubbery near his residence.

Betty Beatty

Betty Beatty, business manager of the Kentfield School District for 15 years, died yesterday at a local hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Beatty, 47, of Point Reyes Station, held the school post until she became ill several months ago.

A native of Malden, Mass., Mrs. Beatty lived in Marin for 15 years. She was a member of the California Association of Education Office Employees.

Survivors are her husband; a son, Alexander Backes of Redwood City; a daughter, Elizabeth Beatty of Point Reyes Station, and her mother, Margaret Milliken of Lyndhurst, N.J.

Requiem Mass will be offered at 9:30 a.m. Friday at St. Anselm's Church, with entombment at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael. The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

Memorial gifts may be made to the scholarship fund of the California Association of Education Office Employees, Paravista, or the American Cancer Society.

JOHN C. BAIRD

John C. Baird, retired Air Force lieutenant colonel, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital after a short illness. He was 48.

A native of Detroit, Mich., Baird had lived in Marin for 12 years. The family home is at 12 Aquinas Drive, San Rafael.

He was a 22-year veteran of the Air Force when he retired in 1962, having served in the Pacific, Europe and at various posts in the U.S.

Since his retirement he had been a maintenance systems analyst at Sixth Army headquarters at the Presidio of San Francisco.

He was president of the San Francisco Scottish Terrier Club and was an amateur woodworker.

Survivors are his wife, Helen Baird; a daughter, Patricia LeBeck of San Rafael; his mother, Clara Manka of Albuquerque, N.M.; a sister, Mildred Yeager of Denver, Colo, and a grandson.

Funeral will be at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo, with burial in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

Memorial gifts may be made to the Marin County Heart Association.

GARY KUHL

Gary Kuhl of San Rafael died today at a local hospital after a year's illness. He was 17.

Born in Yuba City, Sutter County, Kuhl moved to San Rafael 16 years ago. The family home is at 103 Orange Street.

He attended Davidson Junior High School and was a senior at San Rafael High School.

He was a member of the Novato Seventhday Adventist Church.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Keith K. Kuhl; four brothers, Richard, Stephen R. Glenn W., and Kenneth K. Kuhl, all of San Rafael, and grandmothers, Hattie Kuhl of Oroville in Butte County and Edith Sims of Sonoma.

Funeral will be held at 11 a.m. Friday at Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael. Burial will follow at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery. Memorial contributions to the Marin Society for Crippled Children and Adults are preferred by the family.

THOMAS K. CUNNINGHAM

Masonic service for Thomas K. Cunningham of San Rafael will be held tomorrow at 11 a.m. at the Harry Williams Mortuary in San Rafael.

A native of Seattle, he had lived in California for 63 years. He was a resident of Marin County from 1923 to 1943 and returned to the county five months ago, making his home at 102 Rollingwood Drive.

Before his retirement, Cunningham worked 45 years as a pressman and was last employed by the Recorder Publishing and Printing Company, San Francisco.

A veteran of World War I, he was a member of King Solomon's Seaport Lodge 260, Free and Accepted Masons of San Francisco, and of the Western Graphic Arts Union Local 14.

Cunningham is survived by two daughters, Mruiel A. Schacht of San Rafael and Alma J. Stevens of Portland, Ore.; a son, Thomas N. Cunningham of Reno; two sisters, Imogene Cunningham of San Francisco and Paula Daveney of Palo Alto; a brother, George B. Cunningham of Corte Madera, and six grandhcildren.

Burial will be private.

RICHARD GRAY

Richard D. Gray, 44, of 283 Oleander Drive, San Rafael, died unexpectedly yesterday in a San Francisco restuarant.

A native of South Carolina, he had lived in Marin about three years, moving here from Mount Clemens, Mich.

He was with Fireman's Fund Insurance Co.

He was a member of Detroit Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons.

Survivors are his wife, Ada Grace Gray and two children, Nancy Catherine and Philip Douglas Gray, both of the home, and a brother, John William Gray of Florissant, Mo.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Friday at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael.

B52 Armadas Hit Enemy Besiegers

SAIGON (UPI)—B52 bombers finished up their heaviest overnight strikes in nearly a month today in an attempt to break the North Vietnamese stranglehold on two Green Beret camps along the Cambodian border.

Ten armadas of the Stratofortresses came in during the night to drop 1.8 million pounds of bombs on the doorsteps of the Bu Prang and Duc Lap outposts, 112 and 130 miles north-northeast of Saigon.

The North Vietnamese kept up their sporadic shelling of Bu Prang this morning, the 23rd successive day of such salvos. No one was reported hurt and there was no fighting around the camp, military spokesmn said.

Official U.S. command cources said battling in the border area and In the northern war zone pushed the number of Americans killed last week well above the 100 mark to the highest level in two months.

The official figures, to be announced tomorrow, will show more than 3,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese slain last week, their heaviest toll in almost three months, the sources said.

Even as the increased fighting was reflected in the casualty reports, headquarters announced that the final element of the 3rd Marine Division would begin leaving the war zone tomorrow.

When these 2,500 men are gone—some to Okinawa, some to the United States—the entire 18,000-man division will have left Vietnam, where it guarded the northern frontier through some of the biggest battles of the war, including the siege at Khe Sanh.

This move will almost complete the withdrawal of 35,000 men under President Richard M. Nixon's phase two pullout. The Marines are scheduled to complete their pullout next Tuesday, the announcement said.

Probation, Fine In Weed Case

David George Russek, 21, of Kentfield, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a misdemeanor charge of being in a place where narcotics were used on Oct. 1 in Sausalito.

A felony charge of possessing marijuana was dismissed.

Judge Hadden W. Roth placed the youth on six months probation and fined him $100.

Private Funeral Set Tomorrow For Kennedy

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI)—Family and friends gathered in quiet today to mourn the death of Joseph P. Kennedy. Messages of sorrow from both the great and small arrived at the large white house on Nantucket Sound.

The patriarch of the nation's foremost political dynasty of the century, father of a president and two senators, Kennedy, 81, died yesterday after an eight-year struggle for life from the latest in a series of heart attacks.

The body of the former ambassador to Great Britain was returned to his home where family and friends gathered for a day of private mourning before tomorrow's funeral.

Cardinal Richard Cushing of Boston, longtime friend and spiritual adviser, will celebrate the private funeral mass in St. Francis Xavier Church a few miles from the Kennedy compound. The honorary pall bearers will be the six eldest male Kennedy grandchildren.

After the 9 a.m. mass, the flag-draped casket will be placed in a hearse and the funeral cortege will travel the 75 miles to the family plot at Holyhood Cemetery in Brookline where Kennedy lived when married 55 years ago.

Family members, including Kennedy's widow Rose and his only surviving son Edward, now head of the Kennedy clan, tended a private mass last night at the church, where Kennedy was a communicant for more than 40 years.

Dignitaries from throughout the world, including President Richard M. Nixon, expressed their sorrow over the death.

"Joseph PM Kennedy leaves a long and distinguished record of service to his country, a genuinely unique record that involved his entire family in the making of American history. He inspired his family to share his own strong sense of dedication to his nation," the President said.

The Kennedy family was at his bedside when death came peacefully at 11:05 a.m. (EST). He suffered his latest heart attack Saturday.

Astronaut Sees Many Uses For Space Program

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ex-astronaut William A. Anders believes agriculture, industry, traffic control, and even air and water pollution can be subjects for orbital investigation.

Anders told a news conference yesterday that unmanned weather and communications satellites have been a great success and that similar satellites could pinpoint areas of pollution.

He said observation by satellite is quick and on a worldwide basis, as opposed to aerial views of one particular area.

Tranquillity Pair Only Spectators To Intrepid Feat

SPACE CENTER, Housto (AP) — The men who did it first stood idly by, watching and listening, surely remembering, as Apollo 12 made man's second lunar visit.

Apollo 11 astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., the first to walk the moon, were only spectators.

Glass separated them from the controllers guiding the mission. Distance and time separated them from their comrades fleeting toward the moon.

Only the sounds-and the memories of what the four now share and what, before last July, no man had ever known.

Register Looted

Thieves who smashed a rear door at Glass and Sash at 753 Second Street Monday night stole $100 from the cash register in the front office, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

Once Turned Off, But Now Tuned In

By ALAN JONES

In the former waiting room a dusty, moribund tropical plant droops while students watch a poetry reading on film.

A fish tank filled with guppies and crayfish bubbles in another room, with a hand-lettered sign warning that overfeeding will pollute the water.

It's a different kind of high school, first titled the Opportunity School. It isn't so much a second chance as a different kind of chance for the 52 Tamalpais High School District students enrolled.

The school, which lately has been rechristened San Andreas High School, was initiated this fall after a year and a half of study and preparation by administrators, psychologists and teachers.

Mathematics teacher Michael J. Gross was tapped as principal and he helped choose five other teachers, not necessarily with special training but with special attributes — particularly "the commitment to this kind of education," Gross said.

The program is aimed at one of education's oldest problems — how to reach and educate the students who aren't making it in school. Not the ones lacking the brains, but the ones who are turned off by the setup.

That means a different kind of education is needed. So far, San Andreas has had more differences than were bargained for. Scheduled to move into new portable classrooms, the school has had to improvise because the portables are not ready yet, although completion is expected any day.

So for the first weeks of class, the 52 pupils met in the district boardroom, and spent most of the days making field trips around the Bay Area in a caravan of station wagons.

But that pickup operation, Gross told the district board, was jepoardizing the school's chances, and a temporary school was set up in rented quarters at the former Ross Valley Medical Clinic in Kentfield.

The functioning differences in the school, Gross said, are "primarily, individualized instruction, because of our size, the approach the teachers have, their commitment to this kind of education.

"We have a situation where the students are able to focus on the things relevant to them in . . . the subject matter. And they're functioning in an environment where they're able to determine more of their destiny than they'd be able to in a large school."

It's a low-pressure environment, with small classes and teachers who have time to work with each student.

The students are allowed to set their own pace as far as practical, Gross said. "Mostly we just want to know where they are and what they're doing.

"If a student in mathematics asks to go into art or social studies, or go out and read because 'I'm involved in a book,' that's okay.

"We're trying to do away with some of the more capricious rules . . . that may be necessary for a school of 2,000, but not for 50."

In time, experience has shown, the student will return to areas he has neglected when he is ready, and may catch up a fortnight's work in a few hours with a sudden burst of interst and energy.

If the student falls too far behind in some areas, "we'll talk about it and see what the problem is," Gross said.

"Our main goal is to build self-responsibility," he said. "We always talk about letting the kids make decisions, and then we let them decide whether they'll have a red banner or a blue banner."

At San Andreas they are making bigger decisions. Several students, in fact, are serving as teacher aides in the Kentfield School District — a considerable step up for people who weren't noticeably interested in school a few months ago.

In setting up the school, Gross said, counselors named 60 students from each high school, who felt would benefit from Opportunity School. That produced a pool of 180 students from which the 52 were drawn, leaving the rest for possible future enrollment at San Andreas and as a control group whose progress can be compared with that of San Andreas pupils.

No one was forced into San Andreas. Each student, along with his parents, was consulted and asked to decide whether to enter San Andreas or stay in regular school.

The operating costs of San Andreas are paid by a two-cent override tax voted by the district board, and the operating budget this year is $100,601. Added to that is an annual $18,593 for the seven-year lease purchase of the portable classrooms.

The students have a six-period school day four days a week, and Wednesdays are usually scheduled as "open days," for field trips, group counseling, an all-school meeting and sometimes a film related to classwork.

Field trips have included San Francisco International Airport, local beaches and lakes, wineries and missions in Sonoma, Ghirardelli Square and the San Francisco zoo.

The students who were turned off by school now roam the corridors at San Andreas carrying books cuch as "Siddhartha," and sprawl on the carpeted floors working out map triangulation problems.

The students at San Andreas are not bothered with dress codes, and they dress about the same as high school students everywhere in Marin. Freed from a disciplined classroom atmosphere, the students have responded by paying attention to the important rules — and learning.

In tomorrow's world, the uneducated person will be almost an unperson, invisible and out of the mainstream of society. If San Andreas works, as it appears it will, it will pay for itself many times over by keeping that from happening to its students.

Hub Business License Due Still More Study

San Anselmo's aging business license revision tripped and fell on the threshhold of adoption last night.

Confronted with a lengthy petition and a solid bloc of service station owners, city councilmen delayed last night's scheduled adoption of the new fee scale and set Dec. 2 for still another special meeting to restudy the matter.

The license ordinance — which has been nearly two years in the making and been the subject of almost countless public hearings — would base business license fees on gross receipts instead of a flat rate. The council has been struggling to adopt the change in time to make the new fee schedule effective Jan. 1.

The council last night was presented with a petition bearing 83 signatures of city businessmen asking that the new fee schedule not be adopted as now proposed.

In addition, several service station owners who feel theirs is a special problem, vocally protested the proposed change.

Several owners said they felt that the license scale ought to be changed and that they didn't mind some kind of an increase in their fees, but said that they gross receipts method penalized their business which they said has high volume but low profit.

Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson, who along with James F. Reed stoutly supports the new fee scale, stated that property taxes for home owners have risen 91 per cent in the last 10 years while the license fee has gone up only 1.4 per cent in the same period.

Robert Moore, representing the independent service station owners, said he didn't oppose an increase in the license, but suggested the city consider a license procedure adopted by San Rafael only Monday night which bases fees on the type of business involved, rather than gross receipts.

Under the current proposal, most business license fees in San Anselmo would just about double.

Councilmen Woodrow V. Capurro and Robert M. Scott have both stoutly opposed the proposed plan, largely drawn up by Anderson. That left Duane C. Ragan as the swing vote on the matter.

"I'm just not prepared to pass this ordinance the way it is right now," Ragan said, "I'm willing to give it further research."

Somewhat upset, Reed noted that study on the matter had been going on for two years.

"If anyone has any better ideas, then I would think they would have brought them up before this," he said. "I'll move then that we hold this over a week and let you (Ragan) come up with something then,"

His motion, supported by Anderson, failed when Capurro and Scott opposed it and Ragan abstained.

"This is something the whole council should work on" Ragan said. The council then voted unanimously to hold a work session Dec. 2. The council said that although the public was invited to the 8 p.m. meeting, it would not be a public hearing but merely a study session.

The city is trying to do something about its sagging income from business licenses. While sales tax revenues have risen from $91,000 to $136,000 during the last few years, the license revenue has dropped from around $25,000 per year to $21,000.

San Anselmo City Council Also:

FOTOMAT — Upheld a planning commission decision to deny a permit to allow a Fotomat drive-in in the Redhill Shopping Center.

DEBRIS BOX — Rejected a request from Charles Majesky to locate a debris box on city property near his home at 51 Yolanda Drive.

STREET CHANGE — Approved changing the name of Kathy Court to Encina Place.

FIRE VEHICLE — Authorized $1,813 for purchase of a new car for the fire chief.

CIVIL SERVICE POST — Officially began seeking a replacement for William Davis on the city civil service board of review. Davis has indicated he will resign when is term is up Jan. 15. Term of office is for six years and applicants should contact the city clerk if interested.

Vandals Smash Business Windows

Vandals recently smashed windows in three San Rafael business firms, police reported yesterday.

A $200 front window of the Title Insurance and Trust Co., 1200 Lincoln Avenue, was broken yesterday by a round piece of metal thrown from a passing car.

Driver Fined $125

Edward DaVila, 32, of 957 Vernal Avenue, Mill Valley, has been placed on six months probation and fined $125 for drunken driving. He was arrested June 24 on Highway 101. He was sentenced in Marin Municipal Court.

Picket To Get A Day In Court

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Capitol's persistent picket—89-year-old Robert H. Simpson—has won his day in court to challenge the new state law banning sign-carrying demonstrators from within the statehouse.

The slender, white-maned Simpson, minus his sandwich board signs couched in salty language—pleaded a cheery "innocent" yesterday at his arraignment before Municipal Judge Arthur E. Eissenger on charges of illegal picketing.

The judge appointed a public defender for Simpson and set jury trial for Nov. 26.

Quorum Lack Upholds BCDC Complaint Over Proxy Ban

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Fears that elmination of its proxy system would hamper the ability of the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission to get a quorum have been confirmed.

The first meeting scheduled under the new state law that did away with proxies, set for tomorrow, was canceled today when the staff learned that a quorum would not attend. Thirteen of the 25 commissioners must be present for a quorum.

The new state law, which extended the life of the commission and expanded its jurisdiction to a 100-foot-wide band of shoreline and to salt ponds, became effective on Monday. The law included an amendment by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, eliminating the power of commissioners to appoint proxies to represent and vote for them.

The commission voted unanimously on Nov. 6 to seek restoration of the proxy system in the 1970 Legislature.

The failure to muster a quorum postponed to the commission's Dec. 4 meeting vote on two applications for fill in Richardson Bay. One is by Leonard B. Fleischman of Belvedere for apartments extending 30 feet out over Strawberry Cove on pilings, the other by Donlon J. Arques to fill four-tenths of an acre just north of Sausalito. The Arques fill would be for a parking lot to serve a 600-foot pier for 50 houseboats.

The prospect of getting a quorum at the December meeting will be improved after the Association of Bay Area Governments' executive committee votes tomorrow to appoint its four representatives to BCDC. Among the four nominees is Tiburon Mayor Branwell Fanning. The committee will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Hotel Claremont, Berkeley.

The Dec. 4 meeting of the BCDC will be at 2 p.m. in Room 1194 of the State Building, 350 McAllister Street, San Francis-

Corporation Yard Job Means Parking Shift

Construction will begin Friday at the new San Rafael Corporation Yard and parking in the city lot at Second Street and Lincoln Avenue will end.

Norris M. Rawles, director of public works, said cars now parked in that lot may be parked instead immediately south, where the Greyhound buses formerly parked.

Another Round On Apartments

The oft-delayed plans for a one, two and three-bedroom apartment development on the site of the old American Distilling Co. plant has again been scheduled for an 8 p.m. meeting of the Sausalito Planning Commission tomorrow at city hall.

The plans, preliminary to consideration of a conditional use permit for the development, are due to be reviewed informally by developer Joseph Duffel.

The old distillery property is presently outside the city limits but is a target for annexation by Sausalito.

Misbehaving Camera Cuts Short First Color Telecast Of Luna

SPACECENTER, Houston (AP) — There was, in the language of fliers and astronauts, "no joy" on television from the moon today.

It started fine when Charles Conrad Jr. opened a lower compartment on the lunar lander and exposed the camera. It showed first Conrad, then Al L. Bean, climbing down the ladder.

But when Bean moved the camera away from the spacecraft, the picture suddenly went sour. At the top there was a jagged white area. The bottom three quarters was solid black.

"All the connections look good," said Bean.

Mission Control suggested that a color wheel inside might be stuck.

"When I hold the end of the camera I can feel the wheels running," Bean said. He tried changing the setting, but still no joy.

Suddenly there were streaks.

"Okay, it's coming in now," said Mission Control.

"I hit it on the top with my hammer," Bean said. "I figured we didn't have anything to lose. That's skilled craftsmanship."

The ground suggested: "Give it one more light rap and also cut down on the F stop." On a camera, the larger the "F stop," the smaller the amount of light admitted by the lens.

"Okay, we did," said Conrad.

"Did it zoom down for you?"

"No joy," said the ground.

"Okay, I'm going to pound it a bit," Conrad said.

Streaks, but still no picture.

Mission Control promised to get experts on the ground working to solve the problem and the astronauts — by then far behind on their limited time schedule — went about their scientific tasks.

The camera is the same one that was carried in the command module on the Apollo 10 in May. Its outside was coated with a special material to withstand temperature extremes on the moon and its inside was beefed up.

But today, on the first of Apollo 12's two planned moonwalks, there was no joy.

THE 'GEEMANEE' ARRIVAL

Exuberance Outshines Dangers As 12 Lands

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 11 had history, uncertainty and danger. Apollo 12 had pure exuberance and excitement. So much that you almost forgot about the danger.

Across 240,000 miles of space you could almost picture Peter Conrad jumping up and down with joy as the lunar lander Intrepid bore down on the Ocean of Storms exactly the way it was supposed to.

"There it is!" he shouted.

"Forty-two," Bean said, calling out the degree of the ship's bearing. "Look out there." Conrad again: "I can't believe it! Amazing! Fantastic!"

"Forty-two degrees," Bean said again. "Ride it in. Forty-two. We're passing 3,500 feet."

It seemed superfluous, but Mission Control had to say it: "Intrepid, Houston. You're go for landing."

Down, down came the Intrepid: 800 feet . . . 680 feet . . . 600 . . . 530. Bean counted them off.

"Four-seventy-one" he said. "You are all right. 426."

It was the signal for Conrad to take over from the computers, his hand on two airplane-type controls.

"I got it," he said.

"Four hundred. You're at 366, Pete, 366. Okay."

"I gotta get over here to the right."

"You're at 330 feet," Bean said. "Got lots of gas."

On Apollo 11, in July, there was not lots of gas.

"Hey, look at that crater!" Bean shouted. "Right where it's supposed to be. Hey, you're beautiful. Ten per cent, 257 feet coming down at 5 feet per second, 250, coming down at 5. Hey, you're really maneuvering around. Come on down, Pete. Okay. Ten per cent fuel, 200 feet, coming down at 3. You can come on down."

Down, down came the Intrepid.

"Start the clock," said Bean, "42 feet coming down at 2 . . . 40 coming down at 2 . . . Looking good. Watch the dust . . . 31 . . . 30 feet . . . coming down, Pete. You got plenty gas, Plenty gas. Hang in there."

"Thirty seconds," said Mission Control.

"Coming down at 2!" Bean was shouting again. "We've got it made. Come on in there, 24 feet. Contact lights!"

Two more men from earth were on the moon.

Now it was Conrad's turn again to yell.

"Man, oh man, Houston! I tell you, I think we're in a place that's a lot dustier than Neil's."

"Roger, Pete." Mission Control was like an indulgent, smiling mother.

And later:

"Man, I can't wait to get outside. Look at that . . . It's a nice place to land," Conrad said.

"Look at those boulders out there on the horizon, Pete," said bean. "Geemanee."

And that's how it went. Geemanee.

Apollo Crew More Excited Than Earthbound Viewers

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Persons around the world were interested in the Apollo 12 landing on the moon today, but there was little of the excitement that the pioneers of Apollo 11 set off.

"Something quite normal for America," said a Polish student in Warsaw.

Morning newspapers in London put the story well down on the front pages in contrast to the banner headlines for the first men on the moon.

Tokyo television dealers, after a run on color sets in July when Apollo 11 landed, complained because the demand wasn't repeated.

"Business was awful," said one, "and we were heavily stocked."

A Moscow telecast announced the landing with a one-sentence report from Tass, the Soviet news agency; about 20 minutes after the landing.

An official of the South African Broadcasting Corp. said it received only a few telephone calls in contrast to the response to Apollo 11. But Johannesburg's Rand Daily Mail and the Cape Times in Cape Town published extra editions to report the landing.

The wee-hours moon landing of Apollo 12 met with varying degrees of enthusiasm around the U.S.

"The exclamations by the astronauts were really great," said CPO George P. Mantlow, 39, duty officer at the Great Lakes Naval Station who found the landing "much more dramatic" than Apollo 11.

Marty Frelender, a junior at the University of California at Los Angeles, said, "It looks like it's getting pretty routine. I mean, the way the astronauts were laughing it up, all that talk on radio. Like, you know all along what they're gonna do and when, so you don't really expect anything to go wrong."

The bartender at the Dome Lounge of Chicago's Sherman House said he thought Apollo 11 "was much better, being the first time."

Melvin Brooks of Chicago said he thought the space program was a waste of money needed for domestic problems.

Melinda Rogers, a student in Santa Monica, asked, "What I want to know is when is this going to end? I mean the TV coverage. Are they going to do it this big on the sixth landing, or the 56th? People are gonna get bored, aren't they?"

Two Parked Cars Sprayed With Paint

Two cars parked on a San Rafael street were sprayed with black paint yesterday, San Rafael police reported today.

TODAY'S NEW LAMB

Half the fun of the holiday season is the feasting that goes along with it. And when you talk about sublime food, you have to include lamb—festive, flavorful, deliciously different. Try the easy holiday recipe for roast leg of lamb with Louisiana yams. It will please your husband, your family, your guests . . . and you.

GLAZED LEG OF LAMB

Leg of lamb
Salt and pepper
½ cup apple jelly
½ teaspoon rosemary leaves
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Lemon Baked Louisiana Yams*

Season lamb with salt and pepper. Place on rack in shallow roasting pan. Roast in 325° (slow) oven 30 to 35 minutes per pound or until meat thermometer registers 175° for medium doneness. Meanwhile, combine jelly, rosemary and lemon juice in small saucepan. Stir over medium heat until jelly melts. Brush on lamb during last hour of roasting time.

*LEMON BAKED LOUISIANA YAMS—Combine ¼ cup butter, ¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar and ¼ teaspoon nutmeg in small saucepan. Stir and heat until blended. Drain 3 cans (1 pound each) Louisiana yams. Arrange in shallow baking dish. Pour butter mixture over yams. Top with 6 lemon slices. Bake in 325° (slow) oven with lamb for the last 30 minutes of roasting time. Arrange yams and lemon slices around lamb on platter and serve.

Always ask your meat cutter . . . be sure you are buying only top quality American lamb . . . full of flavor . . . always tender . . . and always fresh. Delicious American lamb reaches you in a matter of days direct from American farms and ranches at the peak of freshness.

INTREPID'S LUNAR PORT — Artist's drawing shows Lunar Module on Apollo 11, which flamed in to a pinpoint landing only 200 yards from the unmanned robot Surveyor 3 in the depression of a crater late last night. (AP Wirephoto)

Crater Exploration, Trek To Surveyor Due Tonight

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Like explorers on earth, Apollo 12 astronauts Charles Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean plan to tote a knapsack late tonight when they hike to the Surveyor 3 spacecraft during their second stroll on the moon.

Scheduled to begin at 9:37 p.m. PST with Conrad exiting the Intrepid landing craft, the trek to Surveyor's location 150 feet down the slope of a lunar crater is to be a slow one-carefully collecting rocks en route and taking care not to slip when standing on the 15-degree crater slope.

Altogether, Conrad planned to be outside 3 hours, 20 minutes during Apollo 12's second excursion, with Bean walking aroud 3 hours, 2 minutes.

After Conrad backs out the hatch on his hands and knees and descends to the lunar surface, Bean is to use a clothesline-like conveyor belt to transfer two 70 millimeter cameras and film to him.

Bean then is to climb down the ladder as Conrad takes from a storage bin tools, two rock storage bags and a knapsack to hold the tools. He is to attach one rock bag to Bean's side, then Bean attaches a similar bag to Conrad.

The knapsack, containing long-handled bolt cutters to snip off pieces of Surveyor, is to be attached to Conrad's backpack.

The astronauts will gather interesting rocks, first documenting with photographs each stone's position before picking it up.

The astronauts will pick up the samples with long-handled tongs, place them in small numbered plastic bags, then put them in the bags attacked to their sides.

At one point, the astronauts will dig a shallow trench in the soil and collect dirt from the bottom of the trench.

After reaching the edge of Surveyor 3's crater, Conrad and Bean will attach a 30-foot safety line to one another, then will carefully descend the slope.

If keeping his footing is not a problem, the safety line will be discarded and both spacemen will ease down the slope to Surveyor.

First they will take photographs of the area, so scientists can compare them with pictures televised by the robot after it landed 32 months ago to see if erosion occurs on the moon.

Using the bolt cutter, Conrad then plans to snip off a piece of cable attached to Surveyor's TV camera, the camera itself, a piece of aluminum tubing, and a section of glass. After each piece is severed, he will hand it to Bean who will stow it in Conrad's knapsack. The parts will tell engineers how well man-made materials wear on the moon.

They will then head back to the Intrepid lander craft, stopping for rocks en route.

'Crash Pads' To Be Provided

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The board of education has voted to set aside rooms in three high schools to provide swift treatment for students suffering bad effects from drugs.

Dr. J. M. Stubblebine, city health department official, told the board yesterday the city would pay for the cost of operating what he called "crash pads" at Mission, Balboa and Woodrow Wilson high schools.

He did not estimate what that cost would be.

Georgia showed a 9 per cent gain in personal income in 1968.

FIRST STEP'S REALLY LONG

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — When 5 foot 11 Neil A. Armstrong stood on the moon last July, he said: "That's one small step for a man, a giant leap for mankind."

When 5 foot 6 Charles Conrad Jr. stretched to reach the moon from the landing pad today, he said: "That may have been a small one for Neil, but that's a long one for me."

Nixon Rises Early To See Moon Walk

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon felt that astronauts Charles Conrad Jr. and Alan Bean "seemed less restrained" than the nation's Apollo 11 pioneers as they went about their moon chores.

Nixon also was quoted as saying he thought that the sound transmission from moon to earth was better than before and-while it lasted-he enjoyed the color telecast.

Beta fiber, used to weave the Apollo non-flammable space suits that were used in the July moonshot, is so fine that 2½ pounds would reach around the world — 25,000 miles.

Scientists's Movie Shows Lightning Bolt

RENO, Nev. (AP) — A color movie made by the curator of the University of Nevada planetarium shows a bolt of lightning climbing up the gassy exhaust of the Apollo 12 moon rocket at 41.04 seconds after liftoff last Friday, the curator says.

Shortly after the Cape Kennedy observers reported seeing a flash and astronaut Charles Conrad Jr. said the command ship may have been hit by lightning. The spacecraft's primary power was knocked out but was soon restored.

Space agency scientists said they thought the trouble was caused by static electricity.

One frame in film made by curator Richard Norton with a camera on the ground 1,000 feet from the launch site showed a streak which Norton said was lightning traveling up the path of ionized gasses roaring out of the ascending spacrcraft.

Norton said he thought he saw two flashes but that the second must have occured while his film was between frames.

The film was processed by a Los Angeles laboratory and an enlargement of the lightning frame was sent to NASA.

Don't Wait — Now's The Time!

'OUCH' — Clay Bean, 13, registers displeasure at being nipped by the family dog during a romp today at the Bean home near the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, Tex. While the play was going on, Clay's father Alan L. Bean was resting up for a second exploratory walk on the moon. (AP Wirephoto)

Jubilation, Bit Of Wistfulness Hold Sway In Astronaut Homes

SPACE CENTER Houston (AP) — "We made it again," signed Sue Bean. "Unbelievable:" exclaimed Barbara Gordon. "There they are," said Jane Conrad, pointing to the moon.

With cheers, hugs, sighs, applause and champagne, the Apollo 12 wives celebrated today America's second successful moon landing.

The families, huddling with friends and relatives and astronauts and astronauts' wives, watched television and listened as Charles "Pete" Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean guide their moonship Intrepid to the lunar sufrace.

"An all-night moon vigil," was the way Sue Bean described it, although she chose later to try for a nap between the landing and the moonwalk.

"This night belongs to Pete and Al," said a wistful Barbara Gordon.

Separated from his colleagues, Richard F. Gordon Jr., piloted the command ship Yankee Clipper in moon orbit, alone and posed for a rescue attempt should one become necessary.

As the crew prepared for the descent, ground communicator Gerry Carr told the astronauts their wives were resting for the long night ahead.

"I just talked to Barbara and she's been resting up," Carr told Gordon. "They're taking naps and everything, getting all set for spending the night up with you.

"And Barbara said to tell you that she thinks you're just great."

"Well!" Gordon laughingly replied. "Tell her thank you. After 16 years, it's about time."

"Mama's going to let us stay up," exclaimed an excited Larry Gordon, 11, one of the six Gordon children. "And we don't have to go to school Wednesday."

Peter Conrad, 14, and a companion were mapping plans to reenact the flight of Intrepid in a cardboard "lunar lander" this weekend.

Peter and his friend, Michael Howell, will climb into a box between beds in a room of the Howell home Friday night.

The simulated moonship contains sleeping pads, a toy instrument panel, a television set and other equipment designed to aid the junior spacemen on their simulated flight, scheduled to end Sunday.

The two Bean children, Clay, 13, and Amy, 6, were also swept up in the excitement of the moon adventure.

But their reactions differed. Clay complained that his schoolmates brought newspaper pictures of him to school, which "is embarrassing." Amy, on the other hand, took the clippings and raced off to show a girlfriend.

The Bean household was stocked up with food and champagne, and Mrs. Bean emerged on the eve of the landing to tape up a poster showing the moon, the moon lander, the earth and a sign: "Go Navy! Go Apollo 12!"

All three crew members are Navy commanders.

Apollo 13 Trio At Consoles As Landing Made

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Among those watching man's second moon landing from Mission Control early today were the men who will make the third moon landing.

Apollo 13 commander James A. Lovell Jr. and his crewmates, Thomas K. Mattingly II and Fred W. Haise Jr., sat at consoles at Mission Control as Apollo 12 landed on the moon.

The Apollo 13 moon flight is scheduled for next March. It is to land at Fra Mauro, a crater the Apollo 12 crew will survey from moon orbit after they leave the lunar surface.

Lovell has spent more time in space than any other human. He was on the 14-day Gemini 7 mission in 1965, the four-day Gemini 12 flight in 1966 and the Apollo 8 moon-circling flight last December.

Mattingly and Haise are both space rookies.

Lovell and Hasie will land on the moon while Mattingly orbits alone in the command ship.

Blood Drive Slated

A community blood drive sponsored by the Marin Blood Center, an auxiliary of the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank of the San Francisco Society, will be held tomorrow from 3 to 7 p.m. at the Church in Ignacio in the Pacheco Shopping Plaza.

How To Photograph Apollo On Home Television Screen

Mount your camera on a tripod, adjust the TV for the best contrast possible and turn off the lights in the room. Use no flash bulbs or strobes.

For color photos, use color negative film such as Kodacolor X at 1-30th of a second at f 2.8 or f 2. For slides, set your camera at 1-30th of a second at f 4.

For best results use a camera with a compur shutter—one that expands and contracts like the pupil of your eye. This helps eliminate a "bar effect" produced by most focal plane shutters.

If you have only a focal plane shutter camera, hold the camera vertically. This will reduce the possibility of a "bar effect." Most 35 millimeter cameras have focal plane shutters.

Wyoming has the largest population of pronghorn antelope in the world.

Astronaut Gordon Holding Loneliest Watch In Space

SPACE CENTER — Houston (AP) — "I can really move in here pretty good when I've got all this room," said Richard F. Gordon Jr., consoling himself as his Apollo 12 crewmates made history on the moon.

It was about his only consolation aboard the Yankee Clipper, sailing through a sea of space, waiting for Charles Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean to return to him from the moon.

"Quite a sight, isn't it," he had said as he watched Intrepid slip away, drifing further and further back like a leaf in a stream.

In the Clipper, a mother spaceship built for three, he sailed along high above the moon, ready to rescue the moon explorers if necessary.

Conrad and Bean remembered Gordon as Intrepid slipped away toward the moon's surface after undocking.

"Yankee Clipper," Bean radioed, "I'll turn on my tracking lights for a minute. See if you see it."

"I've got it, Al. I've got your lights," Gordon said.

Shortly after Conrad and Bean touched down on the moon, Gordon sent congratulations to the third and fourth men to land on an alien world and Conrad replied:

"Thank you, sir! We'll see you in 32 hours!"

Near Fate Of Harlan Hall Brings Movers

In a hectic but well-planned upheaval, College of Marin this week is uprooting many of its working parts from historic Harlan Hall to plunk them down in newly completed portable buildings.

Moving into the new quarters are the offices of acting Supt.-President Louis H. Herkenhoff, the dean of instruction and four assistant deans, public information, planning, business, nursing and 44 faculty members.

The move started Monday and is scheduled to be completed tomorrow.

Harlan Hall, built in 1929, will be replaced by the new Harlan Center containing classrooms, faculty offices, and facilities for the dental assistant, communications and nursing programs. The new building will have 16,000 square feet of usable space compared to the 10,000 in the present building.

Old Harlan Hall will be turned over to the contractor next week, but actual demolition is not expected to start until early December. The center is scheduled to be ready for the fall semester next year.

Signups Slated At Sonoma State

Registration for the spring semester at Sonoma State College will be held from Dec. 1 to Dec. 5 at the college field house.

Registrar Fred H. Jorgensen said that fee payments will be made by mail and that students under independent study and special problem enrollments will not be accepted until Feb. 11.

He said that registration is for students already accepted for entrance and not for students applying for admittance.

Families Establish Pre-School Aid Fund

Through monthly contributions from 58 families, a scholarship program has been started at the San Anselmo Pre-School Center for children from low-income families.

Three scholarship children are enrolled at the nursery school now and there are more openings, scholarship chairman Barbara Boxer reported. Information about scholarships or partial scholarships can be obtained by calling the center, which is at 121 Ross Avenue.

Neither Noncandidate Wants To Step Aside

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Marin Democrats, sniffing Republican blood in next June's primary election in the Fourth Senatorial District, last night spilled some of their own in an abortive effort to get one of the two noncandidates to step aside for the other.

Officially, the purpose of the meeting of the Marin County Democratic Central Committee was "to seek means to have one candidate and only one contending for the nomination for state senator," according to mailed announcements of the meeting.

But chairman S. Robert Politzer of Sausalito, while criticizing an Independent-Journal report Monday that state law barred the committee from endorsing or opposing any candidate until after the primary, amended the purpose of the meeting "to an exploration of methods or ways to exploit the primary and get the most out of it."

Two hours of bickering followed, and somehow arguments repeatedly returned to the idea that the committee should discourage a primary fight. But in the end, the entire idea was shelved indefinitely.

The two noncandidates, the only two who have made known their "noncandidacy," are Richard M. Adams of Belvedere and Michael R. Peevey of San Rafael. They are aiming at the seat held by Republican John F. McCarthy of San Rafael, who himself faces a hot primary fight from former Marin supervisor, Peter H. Behr of Mill Valley.

The meeting was not without comic relief — janitors ejected the committee from two rooms in the Courthouse in San Rafael before it settled down in a third. "You guys ain't got any business in here" was their first sendoff, and, "Hey, wait a minute," got them out of the second room.

Of the two noncandidates, who can't file officially anyway until March, only Peevey favored avoidance of a primary fight. "I hope we both could be frank enough with one another to resolve this man to man," he said to Adams.

But Adams wasn't buying. "I've had nothing to date but encouragement," he insisted, "and I believe in democracy with a small 'd.'" The decision Adams argued, "should be left to the people to decide in an open primary — the Democratic Party won't have any backroom deals made."

An Adams supporter in the audience, Leonard M. Sperry Jr. of Belvedere, opposed another suggestion that a pre-primary endorsing convention be held in the three-county district as "bringing to my mind the bitter taste of the 1968 convention in Chicago."

Elaine Guthrie of Ross also opposed moves to get one of the two men to step down. "We've got two absolutely superlative candidates — which is sort of unusual for us," she said.

Politzer, though he finally gave in at the end, argued that Democrats could benefit from a GOP primary fight if they could unify behind one candidate before the primary, "but if we split before the primary, then we neutralize our advantage."

Span Directors May Ban Protest In Busy Hours

Banning public demonstrations on the Golden Gate Bridge, at least during heavy traffic hours, will be considered by the bridge district's rules and policy committee at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow in district offices at the toll plaza.

Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring urged directors to enact a policy so he will have the authority to control demonstrations. Recent demonstrations, for Biafra and against the Vietnam War, have come at peak traffic hours, and severely tied up traffic.

The insurance committee will meet tomorrow also, at 1:30 p.m., to consider ways of hiking insurance coverage on the structure.

The regular board meeting will be at 10 a.m. on Friday, instead of Nov. 28, the day after Thanksgiving. The finance-auditing committee will meet first at 9:30 a.m.

The district's transportation committee will get to work on a long-range transit plan, at 9:30 a.m. on Dec. 4. Such a plan must be submitted to the Legislature by 1971.

Truck Vandalism

Vandals cut a hole in a cyclone fence causing $150 damage and tampered with a loaded truck Saturday or Sunday at the storage yard of Golden Gate Distributors, 1942 Fourth Street, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

Teen-Ager Denies Stolen Engine

Carl Leon Curry, 19, of 1563 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of auto theft and receiving stolen property.

A preliminary hearing was set for Dec. 16.

Curry was arrested Saturday after sheriff's deputies, acting on a tip, said they found a stolen engine in his car.

An officer investigating an abandoned and stripped Porsche near the apartment house in which Curry lives said he found a seat from the stripped car in the apartment house storage area.

Other tenants said Curry owned a Porsche, and when officers stopped him in Sausalito a short time later, they said his auto contained an engine from the stripped car.

Attorneys To Discuss Conservation Laws

A panel of attorneys who specialize in the legal aspects of natural resources will discuss advantages and limitations of existing laws at a meeting of the Alliance for Conservation at 8 p.m. today at the Marin Rod and Gun Club.

Panelists will be Dwight Steele, Robert Jasperson, Eugene Brodsky and Donald Harris, with Lawrence Stotter as moderator.

Is dsertwhip® just like whipping cream?

Of course not.

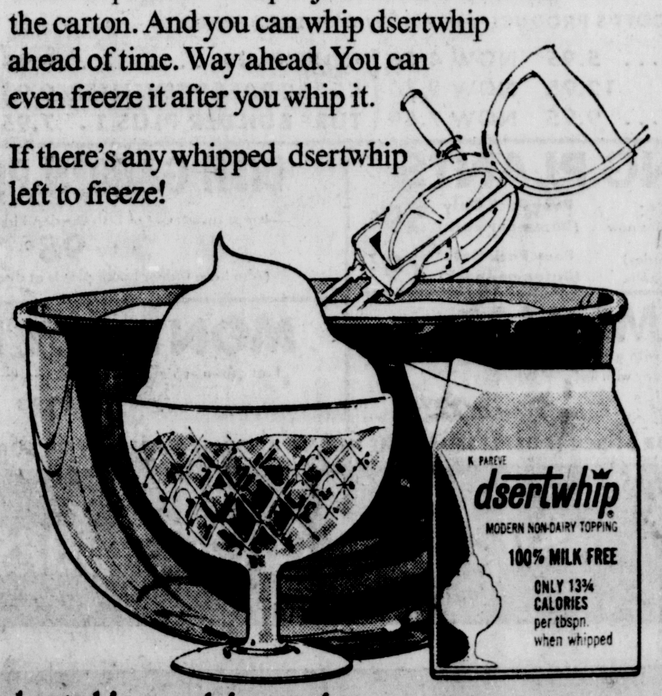
There'd be no purpose in that. We make it better than whipping cream. For one thing, it has the old-fashioned fresh flavor you love.

And it's 100% milk free.

It has fewer calories (only 13¾ per whipped tablespoon). It lasts longer (up to 3 weeks in the refrigerator). dsertwhip non-dairy topping costs less too. Look in the dairy case right next to the whipping cream. You'll be surprised at the savings.

No need to add anything to deliciously dependable dsertwhip either. Whip it just as it comes from the carton. And you can whip dsertwhip ahead of time. Way ahead. You can even freeze it after you whip it.

If there's any whipped dsertwhip left to freeze!



dsertwhip. non-dairy topping. Never lets you down.

PETITIONS

Davidson Students Fighting Pollution

Alarmed at what pollution is going to do to the world they will live in, some 13-year-old eighth graders in San Rafael this week decided to do something about it.

As a result, a petition was passed yesterday and today to all teachers, students and staff members at James B. Davidson Junior High School asking a senator and representative to help in the fight to halt air and water pollution and the destruction of wildlife and all destructive forces destroying our heritage.

The petition, addressed to Sen. Alan Cranston, and Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, also calls for saving San Francisco Bay and the Point Reyes National Seashore.

The movement started when three students, Kerelyn C. Pla, Leslie A. Johnson and Susan M. Pollack approached faculty members with the petition idea, reported 13-year-old Michael R. Helms, an eighth-grader who joined the group as publicity chairman. Another student, Theodore R. Mitchell, joined in the project.

The petition has been "enthusiastically" received, Helms reported and all 900 students at the school were expected to have signed by today, he added.

"The kids are worried about pollution," Helms said, "because they and their kids have to live in the stuff when they grow up. We have to do something now," he explained. "because we can't let it (environment) go to pot."

Panel Selected To Study Improving Welfare Services

A five-member subcommittee was appointed last night by the Family and Children's Services Advisory Committee to see how services can be improved for families on welfare aid.

Chairman Jocelyn Bell of Fairfax, appointed the following to serve with her on the subcommittee:

Chester Villalba of San Rafael, director of the Family Service Agency; Marjorie Harmon of Mill Valley, representing the Marin Social Workers Union; Mary Brooks of Marin City, representing the welfare rights group; and Jean Glascock of Larkspur, representing the League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Bell also appointed a three-member group to meet with the county administrative analyst and with Betty L. Presley, public social services director, to discuss possible need for more personnel in her department. Named to this group were Winifred Fredericks of the Irate Taxpayers of Marin; Eldon Hasstedt, of the Novato Kiwanis Club and Carmen Kline of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs.

The advisory committee also decided that members who are absent for three consecutive meetings would be considered to have resigned.

Indecent Incident

A 16-year-old Novato High School girl was the victim of indecent exposure about 4:50 p.m. yesterday on the high school campus, police reported. She described the man as 20 to 24 years of age, white, dirty and wearing a light jacket and light green checked trousers.

WOMEN OFTEN HAVE BLADDER IRRITATION

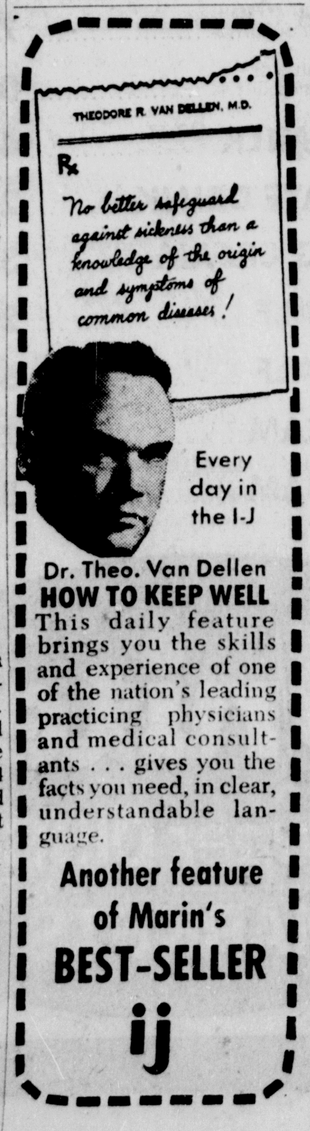
Common Kidney or Bladder Irritations affect twice as many women as men, often causing tenseness and nervousness from frequent, burning, itching urination. Secondarily, you may lose sleep and have Headaches, Backaches and feel older, tired, depressed. In such cases, CYSTEX usually brings relaxing comfort by curbing germs in acid urine, and easing pain. Get CYSTEX at druggists today.

Door Knocker Stolen

Dominic's Harbor Restaurant, 507 Francisco Boulevard, has reported the theft of a $50 lion's head door knocker and seven folding patio chairs valued at $119. San Rafael police today said the chairs were taken during the past month and the door knocker was stolen sometime Sunday night.

X-Rays Take Holiday

The free X-ray clinic at the Marin County Department of Public Health will be closed from Nov. 24 through Nov. 28, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.



Councilman Hits Caption On Picture

The Novato City Council at its Nov. 4. meeting voted to make last Saturday an extension of Veterans Day and show its appreciation by visiting veterans and not as a counter movement against the Vietnam Day Moratorium.

Councilman Douglas M. Merrill said last night that the front page picture caption in last Saturday's Independent-Journal said it was a movement against the Vietnam Day Moratorium.

"It is not the policy of this council to get involved in national questions or take a stand on them. This was only to show our appreciation to the veterans of the war, and not to take a stand for or against the moratorium," Merrill said.

The other councilmen agreed with him.

Revising Of Lot Lines Is Denied

On a 4-2 split, the San Anselmo Planning Commission has denied a rezoning application by Grant Perkins and John P. McInnis for a planned development off Essex Street.

Commissioner Philip S. Heinecke moved Monday for denial on grounds the area was not suited for high density residential development as Perkins proposed, assistant city planner John T. O'Rourke reported.

Heinecke was joined by commissioners John F. West, Dennis T. Moore and Ragnvald Bernt Jr., while commissioners Allen J. Creighton and Warren R. Perry voted against denial. Martin Stuart was absent.

Perkins' application to revise lot lines for the development was held pending a possible appeal of the zoning application to the city council.

Higher Cutbank For Hospital Is Rejected

By 3-2 vote, the Novato City Council last night upheld the city planning commission's denial of a variance for Jack D. Kinner for a 35-foot-high cutback for a convalescent hospital on Hill Road, west of Canyon Road.

Mayor Harley A. McAskill and Councilman J. Wayne Womack favored the variance from the city's 20-foot limit.

Kinney had previously received approval for a use permit for the 92-bed convalescent hospital and plans for it were approved by the plan review committee.

Several residents on Hill Road have objected to the cut.

The Novato City Council Also:

REZONING — Passed interim rezoning to planned community, 710 acres south of Highway 37, west of Black Point for John E. Kenney. The council last week was condidering the master plan for the area when City Att. Clark M. Palmer Jr. said that previous zoning by the county did not apply upon annexation to the city.

SPRAY POOL — Awarded a $17,250 contract to John Houseman of San Francisco for the spray pool in Pioneer Memorial Park.

RESURFACING — Awarded a $31,585 contract to Teichert and Sons of Woodland to resurface San Marin Drive from Highway 101 to Simmons Lane, lowest of seven bidders. The vote was 4-1 with Councilman Babe Silva against, not because he did not want the street resurfaced, but because the city does not yet have clear title to it.

CITY SEAL — By a 3-2 vote, with Womack and Silva against, voted to retain the present official city seal, but not use it. Womack and Silva want to use it. Mrs. Betty Beebe of 4 Farvue Road had asked that the council name a fourth committee to draw up a city seal.

SENIOR CITIZENS — Voted to ask the Marin County Board of Supervisors to cintinue matching funds for the senior citizen program. The city now receives $2.000 annually from the county which it matches for this $4.000 program.

TRAFFIC — Approved painting double yellow lines on Washington Street at Harding Drive with reflectors on them to show the curve. This intersection was the scene of a recent fatal accident. The council postponed until next week requests for stop signs at San Marin Drive and San Carlos Way, and at Isabella Court and San Carlos.

DE LONG AVENUE — Postponed from next Tuesday until 8 p.m., Dec. 9, consideration of the future route of De Long Avenue, east of the proposed freeway bypass.

DI GRAZIA — Gave City Mgr. Charles A. Brown next Monday off with pay so he can go to St. Louis, Mo., to attend the swearing-in of former Police Chief Robert Di Grazia as superintendent of rural St. Louis County police. Brown will pay for his travel and other expenses.

APPOINTMENT — After a short closed meeting, named Paul Otis of 1404 Buchanan Street, an employee of Standard Oil of California, to fill the unexpired term of Lee C. Wise on the planning commission. The term runs only until Dec. 31.

Weinberger Gets Senators' Nod

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate confirmed by voice vote today the nomination of Caspar W. Weinberger as a member of the Federal Trade Commission. President Richard M. Nixon plans to name him chairman.

Weinberger succeeds James M. Nicholson, whose term expired, as a commission member.

The President announced some time ago that he had chosen Weinberger, former chairman of the California Republican State Central Committee, to be new FTC chairman. He will replace Paul Rand Dixon, who will remain as a member.

Weinberger is resigning as California's state finance director to come to Washington.

Judges Drafting Policy On Pleas

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— The California Judicial Council is suggesting new guidelines for the protection of those who want to plead guilty to criminal charges.

A policy statement adopted yesterday is being sent to trial judges for comment before final adoption.

No court should accept a plea of guilty, the guidelines say, without first determining it was made voluntarily.

It also demands that judges make certain defendants understand the nature of the charge, the consequences of the plea and the constitutional rights abandoned by such a plea.

Reading Test Scores Draw Panel Concern

Although a large number of Reed School District pupils were reported scoring in the upper 25 per cent of statewide readers, there was still concern at the district board session last night.

Trustee James B. Richwagen felt the district "has the resources available to do much better," contending that California pupils have scored in the lowest 25 per cent of the nation.

TEST RESULTS

The test results indicate where there are special problems and identify the exceptionally talented, reported Mrs. Gail Cox, district psychologist.

Trustees were particularly concerned over the report that 56 second graders scored less than a year's gain in a school year, with 35 of them showing less than half a year's gain.

On the basis of tests indicating the national norms, the district ranked in the average range.

"I think most teachers aren't particularly pleased at scoring in the average range in this test," Mrs. Cox said. "We don't know if it's the test or us. We're not going to overlook the possibility we're not doing the job."

ASKS COMPARISONS

Richwagen suggested, "We take a look at districts scoring in the highest ranges and see what they do."

Trustee Thomas S. Price suggested that the Reed District scores should be compared with those in other school districts in Marin.

"Why can't the Marin County Schools Office compute the Marin County norm?" asked Board President Leo Souza.

Supt. Robert B. Gaw said he had asked for comparisions, but the information returned from the county schools office wasn't what the district wanted.

"I think we're getting a runaround. The Marin County schools office can do it," said Souza. "It's public information."

Trustees agreed to urge the county schools office to compile the information on reading test results to determine Marin County norms.

New House Looted, Damaged By Vandals

More than $700 damage was done Friday or Saturday to a house under construction at 340 Coleman Drive owned by Robert E. Nolan of 12 Angelica Court, San Rafael, police reported yesterday.

Vandals burned a formica counter top causing $350 damage and broke a $300 sewer pipe. They also smashed a $15 glass door and stole 30 kitchen and 15 bathroom door knobs valued at $75, according to police.

Airing Of Report Card Clash Made

A clash between a Reed School District trustee and a school principal over a notice to parents about report cards was aired before the district board last night.

Trustee James B. Richwagen explained he was angry because he felt a report card notice form sent to Reed School parents wasn't in accord with a recent board action.

In the midst of recent controversy over report cards in the district, the board has asked that letters to parents for this reporting period be in the same form that they were last year, he explained.

The matter came before the board when Supt. Robert B. Gaw questioned the procedure of an individual board member reprimanding a teacher. He felt that if there is to be a reprimand, it should come from the board, not the individual trustee.

Richwagen acknowledged that he was the trustee referred to and admitted that he was angry at the time, but also asserted that the principal, Edward Mosconi, knew he was mad and could have referred him to the superintendent. Mosconi invited him to talk it over, he said.

Gaw said there wasn't any intent on Mosconi's part to "be deceitful or contrary" in sending out the notice form that he did, but only to follow the guidelines set by the board.

Mosconi said he didn't send out the same form as last year because last year's "is very inflammatory in terms of what you're trying to achieve, and that's the reason for the change."

The board in the latest of a series of stormy sessions recently called for a return to greater emphasis on letter grades than on teacher commentary and conferences with parents.

Gaw commented: "This is a morale problem and I have some administrative responsibility to be supportive of staff. I feel there was some abuse by an individual board member and I feel the proper channel is to the superintendent."

Righwagen said he particularly took issue with a "third box" on the form which could be checked by parents saying . . . that the family prefers that the teacher choose the reporting method to be used.

Mosconi said that the third choice was for parents who aren't sure which they wanted.

Board president Leo Souza said "Boards only have power as boards and not as individual members, and if we have things to say, we should do it as a board. If there are charges, they can be discussed at an executive session."

Trustees held a closed session before the open session to instruction their negotiators with the Reed School District Teachers Association regarding the district's report card policy.

They went into closed session again on the same matter after the open meeting ended at 1:05 a.m.

State Auto Association Hit On Gas Tax Attitude

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The California State Automobile Association's traditional defense of preserving all gas tax revenue for roads was sharply attacked yesterday in a legislative hearing as a "lack of leadership."

Defending the association was John P. Fraser, and supplying most of the heat before the Assembly Trasnsportation Committee was Assemblyman Peter F. Schabarum, R-Covina. The hearing in the State Building was to consider legislation to allow gas taxes to be used for rapid transit as well as highways.

Fraser argued that a "truly statewide" highway system was needed to serve a Valley farmer traveliing both to markets and to the Bay Area as well as to serve Bay Area drivers who want to ski weekends in the Sierras.

But Schabarum said a statewide highway system ignored the need for transit in urban areas, and ignored the fact there was not enough money for both. "You're not willing to tread on the status quo," he said to Fraser.

Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles, noted that recreation use of highways was available to most persons only once or twice a year, "compared to the daily use, which is tremendously costly in time, accidents and emotional strain."

Stolen Property Charges Delayed

No charge was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against Timothy Mark O'Brien, 18, of San Rafael, who was arrested Saturday on suspicion of possessing stolen property.

His case is still being investigated by the district attorney's office.

O'Brien was stopped by the California Highway Patrol officers, who said that his car had no current registration tag and that he had with him two radios, an auto tape player and a box of tapes. One radio was reported stolen in January from Imperial County.

Teachers Seek 10 Pct. Pay Hikes

The Reed District Teachers Association last night put in a bid for a 10 per cent hike in the salary schedule during the 1970-71 and revisions within the schedule.

The Reed School District board took the salary request under study with comment that it would be on the board's agenda in January.

Teachers requested a schedule ranging from $8,320 to $15,380, including a $500 annual increment for those in the district 15 years, a new scale covering those who have a bachelor of arts degrees plus 70 units without a master's degree, an annual increment of $100 for those who have a master's degree or higher and a change to a ratio system in the schedule to equalize step increases.

Total cost of the proposal wasn't submitted, but Board President Leo Souza estimated it could amount to $140,000 or $150,000.

The Reed School District board also:

EDUCATIONALLY HANDICAPPED — Heard a report on the district's program for the educationally handicapped, which serves 105 pupils, from Edward Mosconi, program coordinator.

CROSSING GUARD — Voted unanimously to request the Tiburon and Belvedere city councils to hire a crossing guard for the Del Mar School intersection at Tiburon Boulevard and Avenida Mira Flores for the rest of the school year and to request the state division of highways to install warning signs north and south of the intersection.

BICYCLE RACK — Authorized construction of a concrete bicycle rack at the Corte Palos Verdes entrance to Bel Air School at a cost not to exceed $150.

BUDGET WORKSHOP — Had a workshop session with the district finance committee mainly devoted to an explanatory briefing by William Vanasen, assistant superintendent, business.

PATHWAY — Supported the Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission proposal for construction of steps and a path connecting Reed Ranch Road and Jefferson Street.

INFORMATION — Defeated by a 4-1 vote, a motion by Gordon C. Wright that a board member to study the possibility of having a board member disseminate information to the public about board activities, and if feasible to carry out the job. The job has been handled by the district superintendent.

ENROLLMENT — Received a report that district enrollment as of Nov. 12 was 2,038 pupils, down five from Oct. 10.

CONDOLENCE — Sent a letter of condolence to the family of Anthony J. Bettencourt Sr. of Larkspur, a district gardener for eight years, who died Tuesday after a long illness.

ADVISORY COUNCIL — Appointed Suzanne Clark to the Redwood Adult School Advisory Council.

WORKSHOP — Set Dec. 8 for a workshop on the primary program.

Office Cash Taken

A thief who forced a sliding door between noon and 1 p.m. Monday at the office of Dr. E. W. Denicke and Dr. Earle H. McBain at 1530 Fifth Avenue stole $108 from two cash boxes, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

The Case Against Suburban Schools

Schools today usually worry about meeting the needs of the system instead of the needs of the student, psychologist Walter S. Lee told the discipline study committee of the Tamalpais High School District yesterday.

Lee and other committee members said the high school is too isolated and needs to be more like real life, reported administrative assistant Edward J. Neumeier.

District board chairman Bette Wallace said that suburban high schools in particular seem to have no first hand contact with the world, because the suburbs themselves are isolated and protected

The discussion centered around the assumptions that a school makes about an adolescent, Neumeier reported.

Drake senior Ken Bullock told the committee the only thing he had learned in high school so far was how to be a high school student, and he had nothing with which to make important decisions about military service, college or a job.

The committee was instructed by the school board this year to examine present student conduct rules and to recommend ways that students, parents, school staff and the community can all take part in developing discipline policies. Committee work is only now getting started because of the weeks-long athletic grooming controversy.

Chairman George Stone asked Lee to outline at the Dec. 2 meeting the assumptions he feels schools now hold about their students. Lee told the committee that if an organization makes rules based on how it expects people to act, they will act in the expected manner.

The committee, Neumeier said, is to start discussing specific conduct rules at its next meeting, at 4 p.m. Dec. 2 in the Redwood High School faculty lounge.

Three Groups Showing Courthouse Interest

At least three groups of businessmen have shown interest in purchasing the Marin County Courthouse and square in San Rafael when the building is vacated by the county beginning next month.

"The group that is furthest along is likely to come before the board of supervisors with a proposal on Dec. 2," said County Administrator Alan Bruce. "I am not at liberty to tell you the principals involved or what the proposals are."

However, the county administrator pointed out that the county cannot enter into a contract with any group without first inviting public sealed bids for the Courthouse Square.

Would any of the groups approach the county with an offer without first consulting the City of San Rafael, which has control over planning and zoning at the Courthouse Square?

"As a practical matter, that would be unlikely," said Bruce. He said that any offer for purchase of the property would probably be on the condition that San Rafael would approve the plans for use of the property.

James H. McCown, San Rafael city manager, said the city is working closely with the county and any approach made to the city is referred directly to the county administrator. McCown said he was approached yesterday by a man representing a San Francisco firm. "I referred him to Mr. Bruce."

An appraisal of the courthouse property three months ago placed its worth at about $750,000.

Moving into the new building is now scheduled to begin Saturday, when the communications department will be installed in its new offices. Various departments will continue to move during the coming month, with the county clerk's office and superior court scheduled to be the last into the building on Dec. 22 and 23.

Pope Defends The New Mass

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI defended controversial new rites for the Roman Catholic Mass today and said all Catholics "must promptly adhere" to them.

His words at his regular general audience, met recent criticism by Antonio Cardinal Bacci and Alfredo Cardinal Ottai, two semiretired conservative members of the Roman Curia, who had suggested the new Mass was almost "heretical."

Recalling that the second Vatican Ecumenical Council had asked for the changes in the Mass, Pope Paul said that using the new rites was en act" obedience, a fact of coherence with the Church itself, a step forward in its authentic tradition, a demonstratition, a demonstration of fidelity and vitality to which all must promptly adhere."

Check Case To Superior Court

Le Roy Raymond Willey, 38, of San Anselmo, yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on two charges of possessing fraudulent checks with intent to defraud other people.

He is to appear in court Monday for arraignment.

Willey is accused of having the bad checks on Sept. 21 and Oct. 2.

Planners Ask Outside Aid In Petaluma

Faced with a long list of projects to be undertaken by the planning department, the Petaluma Planning Commission last night recommended that outside help be brought in to assist.

The commission agreed that it would be impossible to expect the department to complete all the needed projects and will ask the city council provide funds to hire outside consultants.

Andy Anderson, assistant planning director, said projects earmarked for outside consultants include a study of the housing element of the general plan, a review of ordinances involving subdivisions to include study of possible zoning ordinance revisions, lot split ordinance revisions and the preparation of a hillside development study.

Tasks recommended to remain within the department included further study of the mobile home park ordinance, revisions of the city general plan, study of the core area plan to renovate the downtown district, a study of traffic circulation, a fence ordinance and a study of the development of the Petaluma River.

The major projects, Anderson said, would be studied until next summer along with projects already underway which include beautification of the city entrances, a study of the sign ordinance, and study of zoning amendments to provide for administrative-professional and commercial-manufacturing districts.

The planning commission also approved a use permit for the Douglas Oil Co. service station at 532 East Washington Street to add a bay to the station.

Donald Beacock Is Corte Madera Chamber Leader

Joe H. Stewart Jr. was elected vice president, Jean Cuykendall secretary and G. M. Thomason Jr. treasurer.

The new officers will be installed at a Jan. 24 dinner meeting.

The chamber directors also sent a letter of support to the Marin Junior College District board, offering to support the college however it can. Members can hire students for part-time and Christmas work to help in the financial aid squeeze, Malvino said.

The board also sent President Nixon a letter urging the administration to allocate money set aside to complete purchase of the Point Reyes National Seashore.

Auto Theft Suspect, Companion Arrested

A young woman wanted by Texas authorities for car theft was arrested yesterday in a Stinson Beach motel after deputies sighted the reportedly stolen car parked outside.

Carol Christine Conrow, 19, of no known address, and her companion, Edward Gerald Timmer, 21, who gave both the Stinson Beach Motel and Applington, Iowa, as his addresses, were also booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of drug violations.

Sheriff's deputies said that after they saw a Volkswagen with a Texas license plate which had been listed stolen, they were told that it was Miss Conrow's car.

When they later found her and Timmer, she had a pouch in her jacket pocket which contained capsules and pills, the deputies said. She told them the jacket was Timmer's.

Timmer, who was clutching a plastic bag in his hand which deputies said contained green vegetable matter believed to be majijuana, reportedly told the deputies that he had been taking drugs since he was 13 and that this was the first time had had been caught.

Miss Conrow was held with no bail and Timmer in lieu of $625 bail. Both were to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

San Francisco Hospitals Hike Wages; Marin Pinch?

An agreement to increase wages of workers at 11 San Francisco hospitals, expected to raise costs to patients by up to 15 per cent, was signed yesterday in San Francisco — and Marin hospital administrators predicted today it would affect local hospitals.

"There's no question that the agreement will have an effect on Marin General Hospital," said administrator Ray K. Bolinger.

Dr. John C. Siemens of Ross and Novato general hospitals, said, "We will have to make adjustments," but both he and Bolinger agreed it was to early to determine just what the adjustments would be.

Both said salary ranges at their hospitals are comparable to those in other Bay Area cities and changes elsewhere affect ranges here.

The San Francisco Hospital Workers Union agreement, covering about 2,400 members including licensed vocational nurses, orderlies, nurses' aides, technicians and housekeepers, kitchen and laundry workers, called for a 20-month contract with 60-cent per hour increases.

Felony, Theft Reports At 95

An aggravated assault was reported along with 15 burglaries, nine auto thefts, 18 thefts over $50 in value and 52 thefts under $50.

A total of 324 misdemeanor complaints were received and 217 moving traffic citations issued.

Eleven injury accidents were investigated.

Hope Sets Tour

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope will make his 19th Christmas trip this year to entertain U.S. servicemen aboard, including his sixth visit to fighting men in Vietnam.

$75,000 Asked By Parents In Daughter's Death

The parents of a 6-year-old San Rafael girl who died Feb. 13 of injuries suffered when she was struck by a car while on her way to school, yesterday filed suit in Marin Superior Court asking $75,000 from the driver of the car and the telephone company.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cameron charged that the driver of the car, Charles Von Loewenfeldt, 52, of San Rafael, had his vision impaired by Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. equipment around an excavation.

Toni Cameron was hit by the car at the intersection of Fourth and G streets in San Rafael.

The suit, which also names 10 John Does and an unidentified company, says that the child also had her view obstructed by the equipment.

San Franciscan Held Over On LSD Charges

Donald Richard Doody, 37, of San Francisco, yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on felony charged of possessing LSD and offering to sell the same drug. He is to appear in court Dec. 1 for arraignment

Doody was arrested after he reportedly offered a Renaissance Pleasure Faire worker LSD on Sept. 20.

San Anselmans Send Protest To President

A group of 112 San Anselmo residents who feel they are part of "the silent majority" President Richard M. Nixon referred to in his Nov. 3 speech on Vietnam has written the President to protest continuing U.S. involvement in the war.

The residents, who participated in Saturday's protest march from San Anselmo to Sleepy Hollow, state in the letter that they are all "quiet, middle-class, residents," most of whom had never marched in protest before.

"We belong to that group of citizens which you have mistakenly assumed silently agrees with your Vietnam policy," the letter continues, "It is not easy for most of us to take issue with the President of our country, but we cannot let you mistake our silence for agreement."

The residents said they recognized the difficulty involved "in extricating ourselves from a complex situation," but went on to say: "but we also know that we cannot provide a solution for the Vietnamese people's conflict."

A spokesman for the group, Rev. Gene W. Burris, said he hoped citizens throughout Marin County who disagree with the President's Vietnam policy will march during the December moratorium.

"I think this is our best opportunity to convince President Nixon of the two sentiments of the silent majority in this country," Reverend Burris said.

Justice Hall Moving Date Still Dec. 8

The county plans to move into the new Hall of Justice on Dec. 6, even if some minor finishing work still remains undone, Assistant County Administrator John F. Barrows reported to the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday.

Supervisors asked the county administrator to draw up plans for a simple opening ceremony with an open house for the public all say Saturday, Dec. 13.

"The public would be interested in seeing the jail, the restricted corridors in the courts level, and other areas they can't see unless they are arrested as felons," said Barrows.

He added that he had talked to presiding judges, and they said formalities should be kept to a minimum and preferably non-existent.

Michael A. Chrystal, senior administrative analyst, who is coordinating the move into the new building, said the Marin County Department of Public Social Services will move in Dec. 8. The probation department, county recorder, district attorney, and the public defender are also scheduled to be in the new building by the Dec. 13 open house.

Plans Advance For Apartments

Preliminary site plans for a clustered apartment development on 26 acres in the Alto Bowl have been approved in principle by the Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committee, Zoning Administrator Howard R. McGill reported.

The development proposed by Cal-Fong Investment Co. and designed by architect Norman T. Gilroy, clusters the apartments at the base of the bowl leaving the hillsides in open space.

The committee Monday also approved plans for a deck and roof trellis over Old Mill Creek to provide access to a proposed home at 265 Cascade Drive, requested by John Holmes, and plans for an access bridge across Arroyo Corte Madera Del Presidio for a proposed residence at the end of Winwood Place, requested by Peter C. Haywood.

To Superior Court

James Pate, of 1457 Cambridge Street, Novato, was bound over to Marin Superior Court Monday on two felony charges of committing statutory rape of a young girl March 22 and 29. He is to appear in court Dec. 1 for arraignment.

Researching Sea Mining

By ANNE BARDWELL

TEST RESULTS — An engineer examines soil which has been tested for moisture content at the Marine Mineral Technology Laboratory in Tiburon as part of several experiments on how best to mine the ocean floor.

Beaches covered with oil residue and tar.

Millions of dead, bloated fish floating on the ocean's surface and washing up on shore.

Entire populations of shellfish suddenly extinct.

Thousands of square miles of ocean turned into a giant, grotesque Lake Erie, biologically dying.

All this and much more could be the result of rampant pollution if the mining and harvesting of the sea runs unchecked.

A far-fetched theory? Probably, according to John W. Padan, research manager of the Marine Mineral Technology Laboratory housed at the Tiburon Oceanographic Center.

But it is far fetched only because of the research now being conducted at the laboratory to prevent the ocean's floor from being turned into another Appalachia.

Padan and his associates now have underway eight projects which, they hope, will provide information for private industry on how best to utilize the ocean's resources and help the federal government form legislation to protect the public's interest while allowing the sea to be mined and harvested.

In particular, the Marine Mineral Technology Laboratory, under the Federal Bureau of Mines, is working on how best to mine the ocean's floor for solid mineral. Other laboratories under other bureaus are exploring the mining of oil, gas and sulpher, of food and of dissolved minerals in the seawater itself.

One of the projects under Padan's direction is developing predictions on what will happen offshore when serious mining of the million square mile continental shelf begins.

Taking existing knowledge of oceanography and marine ecology as well as date from land mining, he and his staff are developing a set of predictions about underwater mining.

For example, when mining occurs and once the minerals are removed and the residue returned to the ocean floor, what will be the effect of sediment suspension in the water on marine life? What will be the tolerance levels of marine life to this kind of pollution?

"If we find this particular mining technique will be detrimental to sea life, we probably would require mining companies to pipe the reside back to the ocean floor where it would be deposited gently rather than just dumping it back at the ocean's surface," Padan explains.

In order to develop these predictions, he also is studying past experience in underwater construction — laying of cables, pipes — to see what effect this has had on ecology.

Padan said it will be two years before he will be able to formulate operational criteria for legislation and industry. Such criteria would include premining survey requirements, design criteria, equipment and techniques, mining timing and patterns and reclamation techniques.

The laboratory also is studying how best to lift mined materials from the ocean's floor, what happens when the sea floor is penetrated by drilling, how to evaulate the minerals as to grade and amount to be recovered while they are still under the sea and the effect of drilling motion on equipment over a long period.

Four other research projects deal with how to get a three-dimensional picture of what's under the ocean's floor, utilizing existing geophysical and drilling data.

"Without adequate thought, there is no doubt the ocean could be polluted, stripped bare, become unusable," Padan said.

DRILLING — Research supervisor R. Neil Roby studies a model core drilling rig at the Laboratory in Tiburon. This particular model is being used to discover the best way to drip drill core samples under the ocean's heavy pressures.

Branstetter Case Opens Aid Wound

Stricter laws should be enacted to close some of the loopholes that allow abuse of welfare aid, Marin County Board of Supervisors declared yesterday.

The discussion was sparked by Supervisor Louis H. Baar, who wanted to know if the county can put a hold on some of the $4,000 in cash found on a San Rafael mother, who was picked up on Nov. 7 on suspicion of dealing in drugs. Rosita Dolores Branstetter, 37, of 8 Marian Court, also had two county welfare checks totalling $228 at the time of the arrest.

"The policy of the law is generally against us," replied County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney. "It is difficult to prove that when the checks were received, recipient was not eligible for aid."

"Is there some way we can put a hold on the money to pay back some of the aid given to her?" asked Baar.

"We'll certainly explore it," said Maloney. "But the whole field is very gloomy."

Chairman John F. McInnis said he received calls from two elderly women who saw two hippie-type persons cashing welfare checks at a local market. "Most of the purchase was in whiskey, gin, vodka, soda water and Coca Cola," said McInnis. "One of the callers was in complete tears that her tax money went to support this type of person."

Both McInnis and Baar declared that legislation to correct loopholes in welfare aid should be taken up at the workshop session scheduled for Dec. 2 to discuss bills that should be introduced in the State Legislature next year.

County Administrator Alan Bruce announced he would have a summary of proposed legislation to present to the supervisors next Tuesday.

Betty L. Presley, director of public social services, reported to supervisors that she has asked the district attorney to investigate the possibility of fraud in Mrs. Branstetter's case. "However, the recipient claims the large sums in her possession did not belong to her."

She said she is getting information on the fathers of Mrs. Branstetter's two children.

The husband and father of the youngest child has been arrested for parole violation and is being held in Corona, she reported.

Teener Admits To Lesser Count

Martin James Fleischman, 19, of Belvedere, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a misdemeanor charge of possessing a device for smoking narcotics. A felony count of possessing marijuana and another charge of having an open container of liquor in his car were dismissed.

Judge Hadden W. Roth set sentencing for Dec. 19.

Fleischman was arrested Oct. 8 by sheriff's deputies who stopped his car for a defective taillight. They said that Fleischman threw a package of what appeared to be hashish out of the car.

Supervisors Raise Pay Of Six Elected Officials

Amid concern that public salaries may be in an endless spiral, the Marin County Board of Supervisors approved increased wages yesterday for six elected county officials.

These raises were approved by a 4-0 vote of the board:

County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel, now receiving $22,000 annually, to $25,200 on Jan. 1 and to $27,800 on Jan. 1, 1973.

Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, $21,000, to $24,000, then to $26,400 in 1973.

Treasurer-Tax Collector Stanley J. Fontez, $19,500, to $22,725.

County Clerk George Gnoss, $19,500, to $22,725 and $24,600.

Recorder Noel T. Giacomini, $15,500, to $19,350 and $22,300.

Coroner-Public Administrator Donovan O. Cooke, $13,000, to $15,150 and $16,400.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney told the board that the filing period for candidates for the four-year positions begins in February and that it should adopt new salaries at this time if it wished.

Maren Rinne, county personnel director, said she recommended the raises on the basis of reports from throughout the Bay Area on private and public salaries in related fields, projected cost-of-living increases and added duties.

Several members of the board foresaw the possibility of some of the salaries reaching $40,000 by 1980.

Bench Warrant Out For Larkspur Youth

A bench warrant with bail set at $5,000 was issued yesterday by Judge Hadden W. Roth of Marin Municipal Court for Richard Martin Dalhover, 18, of Larkspur, who is accused of grand theft, when the youth failed to appear in court.

Dalhover was arrested Oct. 28 after he allegedly purchased a car by trading in another one that he had not paid for.

Foes Of Legal Aid Amendment Strike Out

The Legal Aid Society of Marin failed yesterday to win support from the board of supervisors in its opposition to a far-reaching amendment of the federal legal services program for the poor.

The board, realizing it would reach a voting impasse on the society's request, took no action.

James H. Kovacs, directing attorney for the society's federally funded legal services program, said the amendment, which has passed the Senate and is now under consideration by the House, would enable the governor of a state to veto a local program entirely or restrict the type of case handled.

Kovacs said Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., author of the amendment, told the Senate during debate on the amendment that it was designed to, in Kovacs's words, "prevent attorneys from representing clients in unpopular or controversial actions, such as suits against government agencies."

Kovacs believed the amendment would place the legal services program in "severe jeopardy," but two of the supervisors, chairman John F. McInnis and Louis H. Baar, didn't agree.

While upholding the right of each individual to legal counsel, McInnis said it appeared to him that "attorneys (in the legal services program) have gone out of their way to harrass" for personal gain.

"It (the program) seems to me to be perilously close to abuse," he added.

"I've been told by people in the legal profession that there is a misuse of funds," said Baar.

Said Wornum, "I think the government needs suing from time to time and it worries me that one man, the governor, should have the power to say whether (a suit) is right or wrong."

"If we deprive the power of legal aid, then we're in trouble in this country," Arrigoni asserted.

Baar rebutted that he thought the "country had done well" up until the time legal services bagan and added, "I don't think the poor are being denied anything."

With Supervisor William A. Gnoss absent, the board members recognized that a vote would be futile, but both Baar and Arrigoni said they intended to communicate their feelings to Marin's representatives in the House.

Kovacs said the amendment was opposed by the Nixon administration and, locally, by the Marin County Human Rights Commission.

Tests Ordered In Kidnap Case

SANTA MONICA (UPI)—John Santen, 23, a merchant seaman charged with kidnapping the son of millionaire aerospace executive Simon Ramo, has been ordered to undergo a psychiatric examination.

Santen was ordered yesterday to appear Dec. 9 for a sanity hearing by Superior Court Judge Charles H. Woodmansee.

Alan Ramo, 19, was kidnapped from the family home in Beverly Hills Sept. 12 and driven to a remote area of the Santa Monica Mountains where he was found later handcuffed to a tree.

Dr. Ramo, a founder of the TRW Inc. aerospace company, notified police of his son's disappearance when he found a $200,000 ransom note. The money was never paid.

Young Ramo's place at the tree was taken by a detective who captured the kidnap suspect when he returned to the scene.

Week's Disease List

There were 28 cases of streptococcus infection, 23 cases of gonorrhea, two of salmonella and one each of mumps, syphilis and serum hepatitis reported in Marin County last week, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, health director.

Five Youth Panel Members Selected

Five of the seven youth representatives on the Marin Youth Commission were named yesterday by the board of supervisors.

They are Marc W. Tracy of 425 Alameda Del Prado, Novato; Madelyn Angress of 21300 Shoreline Highway, Marshall; Karry Fitch Jr. of 78 Novato Street, San Rafael; Cathi Prebil of 147 Esmeyer Drive, San Rafael, and Ann Elliott of Skyland Way, Ross.

Supervisor Michael Wornum asked for a week's time to make a decision on appointment of one of two youths from his supervisorial district. They are Helen Griesemer and Ann O'Rielly, both of Mill Valley.

Besides the youths, four adults will also be on the panel.

The Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

SAN PEDRO ROAD — Set 8 p.m. Dec. 8 to meet with San Rafael city councilmen at city hall to discuss the controversial alignment of South San Pedro Road through Bayside Acres.

AIRPORT — Received a stack of letters and verbal protests from Gallinas Valley residents opposing the use of Smith Ranch Airport for any flights, especially commuter service. Supervisors, however took no action because the airport owners withdrew their request for commuter service at the 100-acre airport north of Santa Venetia.

DATA PROCESSING — Awarded a $11,760 contract to Allen Heating and Sheet Metal of Greenbrae to modify the electrical and air conditioning system in the data processing department at the Civic Center.

CHILDREN — Awarded a $5,000 contract to Bishop Roofing of San Rafael to repair the roof at the Marin City Children's Center and a $2,816 contract to Forde Construction Co. of Novato to improve the parking lot at the Novato Children's Center.

LOS RANCHITOS — Deferred action on a recommendation from Public Works Director Donald R. Frost that the Los Ranchitos Road entrance to Highway 101 at Puerto Suello Hill be closed because it is a traffic hazard. Supervisor Louis H. Baar said the access is a big convenience to residents of Los Ranchitos.

MERRYDALE — Approved future setback lines on Merrydale Road in Los Ranchitos which would widen the road between North San Pedro Road and Willow Avenue from 37 feet to 66 feet. Several residents argued that the 29-foot widening on the west side of Merrydale cuts off the garages and front of several homes, and some of the widening should be made on the east side.

JUSTICE — Supported the intentions of AB 1960 to reallocate crime funds away from penal institutions toward local preventative efforts, but opposed the plan to establish a new governmental body to coordinate the efforts. Hearings on the bill are scheduled Monday and Tuesday in San Francisco.

LOGGING — Voted $300 from reserves to pay consultant's fees in connection with preparation of an ordinance that would limit logging in Marin. Logging has been banned in Marin pending adoption of an ordinance.

SHERIFF — Voted transfer of $500 from reserves for an extra-hire deputy sheriff, replacing Deputy Harold Goerndt, who suffered a heart attack in May.

APPOINTMENT — Approved appointment of Donald C. Porter as a program analyst in the community mental health services department at $1,033 monthly.

LEASED HOUSING — Approved the request of the Marin County Housing Authority to apply for federal assistance to lease another 200 dwelling units in Marin for leased housing. Funds for the addition of 40 units have been approved, but the authority said that number was insufficient because of severe need.

BALLOT — Supporting the Marin County Housing Authority, voted its intent to place on the June ballot a countywide proposition endorsing construction or acquisition of housing for low income persons. Details of the proposition will be recommended by a special committee.

HOSPITALS — Renewed a one-year agreement for treatment of patients referred to Napa and Mendocino state hospitals at a cost of $69,602.

SANTA VENETIA — Appointed Roy H. Jervis of 103 Vendola Drive to the Santa Venetia Flood Control Zone Advisory board to succeed Ray Kresbach, who resigned last month because of pressure of work.

ABATEMENT — Continued until Tuesday a hearing on the abatement of a home under construction by Jack Tefft at 23 Lomita Drive, Mill Valley. Wornum said he will inspect the premises and report back next week.

SHORELINE HIGHWAY — Voted 3-1 to ask the state to resume studies of a new Shoreline Highway on a scenic route from near the Golden Gate Bridge to Point Reyes Station. Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. dissented, saying he wanted Shoreline and the proposed Highway 17 removed from designation under the state freeway and expressway system.

MILLER AVENUE — Amended the Tamalpais Valley General Plan to extend Miller Avenue across marshland to connect to Highway 101 at the Richardson Bay Bridge.

PARK MONEY — Received a $17,992 check presented by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, for purchase of tidelands at Bolinas Lagoon for county park purposes. The money is part of the state Park Bond Act fund approved by voters in 1964.

BCDC — Appointed Wornum to the Bay Conservation and Development Commission to succeed Dr. William E. Upton of San Rafael. Because of this added duty, Wornum said he would give up his post on the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission. Louis H. Baar was named to replace him on LAFC.

BOLINAS LAGOON — Decided against turning responsibility for maintenance of Bolinas Lagoon over to the parks and recreation department at this time, pending a report of a special planning committee. The county took control of the lagoon from the Bolinas Harbor District last week.

VOLUNTEER — Signed a seven-month contract at $1,057 per month with the Volunteer Bureau to plan recruitment and training of volunteers for the county probation department.

ALTO — Named Robert Bruce Williams, a 29-year-old civil engineer with Pacific Gas and Electric Co., to the board of the Alto Sanitary District, in which no candidates filed for two vacancies prior to the Nov. 4 election. Williams lives at 31 Meadow Drive in Mill Valley.

SLIDE — Signed an $8,500 contract with Woodward-Clyde and Associates of Oakland to provide engineering services leading to repair of a landslide on Novato Boulevard at Stafford Lake.

Pilot Food Program For Needy Backed

The Marin County Board of Supervisors voted approval yesterday a pilot program to distribute free surplus food to 30 welfare families whose members show nutritional deficiencies.

The six-month program, established by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, will begin Jan. 1 and could be extended later to families not on welfare.

The 30 families will be selected from the Aid to Dependent Children rolls on the basis of medical reports.

In a letter to the supervisors, antipoverty, health and welfare officials said the initial results of a survey conducted by a research team from the nutritional sciences department at the University of California in Berkeley had disclosed a "definite need" for such a program in Marin.

The food, to be made available through the agriculture department's San Leandro warehouse, will consist of such items as fruit juice, meat, cheese and milk and be distributed to infants, preschool children and pregnant and nursing women.

The food will be stored by the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council, cooperating in the project with the county departments of public health and public social services.

The program also will include a countywide nutrition education project for low income families.

Sausalitans Plot To Change Signs On 101

By LARRY D. HATFIELD

You can't get there from here.

At least that's what the city of Sausalito wants to tell the onslaught of tourists pouring over the Golden Gate Bridge to Marin's Fun City by the Bay.

Or not tell them, depending on how you look at it.

In another thrust at unsnarling the city's almost perpetual summer traffic jam, the city council last night unanimously decided to try to lure — or confuse — outsiders into thinking the Marin City Highway 101 entrance to the north of the city is the only way into town.

This would be done by changing signs on northbound Highway 101 so the only arrow to Sausalito would be at that exit.

The name of the Sausalito Lateral, which provides the present southern funnel into the city, would be changed to Alexander Avenue and any suggestion that Alexander might take you to Sausalito would be studiously avoided.

Councilman Alexander R. Imlay, in a burst of candor before an audience of seven, admitted the council was "deliberately trying to confuse people."

"We're being honest and saying 'this is the way to Alexander Avenue'," he said, "but we're not saying 'this is the way to Sausalito'."

He added, presumably in jest, "Maybe we should say this is the way to Fort Cronkhite." That would convince even more outlanders that Sausalito wasn't there, his reasoning went.

Other councilmen agreed with the purpose of the proposed sign changes with Councilman Robin Sweeny saying, "All we're doing is making people go 'round the mulberry bush."

Contending the plan was only "half a solution," she said until major parking facilities are built north of town, the sign changes would mean only that the downtown traffic jam would be fed from both directions.

Mayor Earl F. Dunphy also agreed to the spirit of the changes proposed by the city staff but admitted he had mixed feelings about the whole thing. It makes him mad, he said, "when I don't know what city I'm beside."

The council then recommended that the state Division of Highways go ahead with planning for the sign changes.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

BONDS — Told City Mgr. George M. Patterson to contact a financial consulting firm for advice on marketing building bonds recently approved by the voters to expand the fire and police stations.

GARBAGE — Set 8 p.m. Dec. 2 for study of a request by the Bay Cities Refuse Co. for a rate increase for trash collection.

GAZEBO — Approved a bid of $298 from Larry Gates for painting the city gazebo.

APARTMENTS — Returned to the planning commission lot split and encroachment applications from Malcolm Dewees in connection with a planned condominium development at 319 Sausalito Boulevard.

VARIANCE — Upheld the planning commission's denial of a variance bid from Johnny Ribeiro asking to build a single family dwelling exceeding height limits.

SIGN — Sent a variance application from Paul Ciampi for a sign at a commercial building at 2631 Bridgeway to the Community Appearances Advisory Board. Upheld the planning commission's granting of an extension of the existing store front of Hamburger Dens, Inc. at 707 Bridgeway.

HEARING — Set a public hearing for Dec. 2 on an appeal by the Alta Mira Hotel on the planning commission's denial of a request to place directional signs to the hotel in other parts of the city.

RADIO — Authorized Fire Chief C. E. Masten to spend up to $500 for a transistor two-way radio for his city car.

ARREST — Denied a $100,000 false arrest claim by Edward Adamian of Redwood City who claimed he was falsely arrested for robbery in Sausalito on Nov. 4.

Two Rescued In Drifting Cruiser

A South San Francisco man and an unidentified companion were rescued by the Coast Guard last night after their 22-foot cabin cruiser went adrift in Racoon Straits, southeast of Belvedere Island.

Owner of the cruiser Gilda, David Morgan, told rescuers the boat's engine failed about 9:30 p.m. A patrol boat from the Coast Guard's Fort Point Station went out after receiving calls from island residents that a boat was stranded in the straights and its occupants were calling for help.

The curiser was towed to the Richfield Fuel Docks in Sausalito.

Two Recovering From Accidents

An 18-year-old San Rafael youth and a 25-year-old Novato man were removed from the critical list today at Marin General Hospital, according to a hospital spokesman.

Robert A. Metzger of 122 San Marino Drive, was reported in fair condition. Metzger was badly burned Friday when his car burst into flames after swerving off San Pedro Road and flipping over twice.

Donald Dale Robinson, of 15 Roy Court, Novato, was reported in poor condition with head injuries and a broken leg suffered in a motorcycle accident Saturday in San Rafael.

Reagan Calls Tax Relief Plan 'Fraud'

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A $920 million tax relief plan proposed by county supervisors and teachers was denounced by Gov. Ronald Reagan yesterday as "a fraud on the people."

At best, the plan would guarantee homeowners a $250 a year increase in the present $750 exemption, Reagan told a news conference.

He said his own plan—being whipped into final shape in consultation with legislative leaders—will better distribute the tax load without raising the total tax levy.

On other issues, the Republican governor:

Refused again to say whether he'll run for a second term next year, as expected. Reagan said he might even wait until the March filing period to make a formal declaration.

Said he opposes the granting of federal funds to the California National Guard to expand the guard's intelligence system in regard to civil disturbances. because the function belongs properly to civilian law enforcement agencies.

Said neither the university or state college system had turned students away although many students have not been able to get into their first choice campus next spring or fall.

The County Supervisors Association and the California Teachers Association, representing most public school teachers, announced plans Monday for a drive to put their tax plan on the 1970 election ballot.

The plan would require the state to add $500 million to public school support, take over 90 per cent of welfare administration costs from the counties and boost the property tax exemption from $750 to $1,000 a year.

"It's a fraud," Reagan said, which would virtually result in a $900 million tax increase.

"To present this as a tax reform is a fraud on the people because they are going to get this increase," he said.

"Our tax plan is not going to be one that results in increasing the total revenue of state and local government."

Reagan said his plan would result in a 50 per cent cut in the average homeowner's property tax.

Asked if he was ready to announce his political plans, Reagan said, "No. There's so much to do here in the job with the legislature coming back. This is time to tend to the job and not think about politics."

The governor said he believed the National Guard's request for more than $350,000 to improve its intelligence system would be withdrawn.

"This properly belongs in the hands of law enforcement," Reagan said. "I don't think it's an issue anymore. I think the guard itself recognizes this."

The idea had triggered controversy with some legislators contending the guard should not engage in such activities.

The governor said reports that 10,000 students have been turned away from admission to state colleges next spring may be misleading because students often apply at several campuses.

"There's nothing different than in the past several years. When one campus is full, he's referred to another campus. There's no actual cutback in enrollment," Reagan said.

Hayakawa In No Mood To Debate Hare

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—President S.I. Hayakawa of San Francisco State College rejected Dr. Nathan Hare's challenge to a debate Monday, saying he could see "no useful purpose" in debating "an acknowledged advocate of revolution and Black Panther ideology."

Hare was fired as head of the school's black studies program by Hayakawa for participating in strikes and disorders which wracked the campus last year.

However, leaders of the Black Students Union said this year Hare was still the man they considered in charge and called him "chairman-in-exile." Hayakawa said a "reign of terror" now exists in the program.

Hare, in a six-page letter addressed to "The Bay Area Community," said yesterday he found it "more than appalling that a public will sit back and, swallowing the public relations pitch and political gimmicks of a desperate and overly ambitious college president, allow a promising college . . . to slip into an untimely death."

Hayakawa, in rejecting Hare's challenge to a debate on the issue, said the "most constructive action that concerned citizens can take is to support the faculty of the black studies department in their legitimate, scholarly and educational endeavor."

Park Improvements On District Agenda

Gallinas Village Community Services District directors will meet tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Santa Venetia Presbyterian Church to discuss improvement plans for Rosal -Adrian Park.

Gallinas Village Community Services District directors will meet tomorrow at 8 p.m., in Santa Venetia Presbyterian Church to discuss improvement plans for Rosal-Adrian Park.

Secretary Marguerite F. Clark said this will be the final meeting of the present board of directors. Next month, two new members who won an uncontested election will join the board. Tney are Jack l. Hockinson and William B. Loeber.

Bagley Hears Call For Utilities Taxes

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A California utilities executive says privately owned utilities serve 15.1 million of California's 19.4 million persons and pay 14 per cent of operating revenues in taxes, while public utilities pay practically none.

The hearing, presided over by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, continued today.

Allen said utilities owned by local government "are not true governmental operations; they are proprietary business functions and should be treated like other businesses when it comes to paying the tax burdens of this state, local government and schools."

Allen testified on behalf of a proposal for a statewide tax on utility use as recommended in the 1969 report of Gov. Ronald Reagan's Commission on Tax Reform.

San Francisco's big Hetch Hetchy water and power generating system would be exempt from the 14 per cent tax on gross electrical revenue because it sells power only at wholesale rates.

Major opponents were Norman Woodbury of the California Municipal Utilities Association, Ralph Anderson of the League of California Cities and Pasadena City Manager John D. Phillips.

Phillips said the proposal "seeks to overthrow a traditional and fundamental policy in this state that one government does not tax another government."

Copter Chase Pair Face Trial

A jury trial has been set for the week of Dec. 15 for two men accused of car theft who were captured with the aid of a California Highway Patrol helicopter Oct 19.

To stand trial on charges of stealing a car at Mount Tamalpais are Donald Lee Humes. 30, of San Francisco, and Don Borges, 30, of Belmont.

The hekicopter followed the reportedly stolen car until it crashed four miles east of Bolinas. Borges was then evacuated in the copter to Marin General Hospital, where he was treated for injuries suffered in the crash.

Land Given For Widening Of Hill Road

The Novato Unified School District board has dedicated 20 feet on the south side of Hill Junior High School for widening of Hill Road.

The City of Novato had asked for 25 feet. The wider street will serve the private property of Paul Pickart who has a permit for an apartment house development there.

Assit. Supt. Eugene DeBrecht said that the board declined Monday night to give 25 feet which would benefit only a private developer. The school yard had been fenced to permit dedication of 20 feet, so it will not have to be changed, he said.

The Novato Unified School District board also:

CAFETERIA REPORT — Received a cafeteria report that in September and October the schools' cafeterias made a profit of $1,245 on an income of $61,073.

DEPARTMENT CHAIRMEN — Apprived the pay of junior and senior high school department chairmen with the maximum pay at $600 per year. Total program cost is $12,272.

LIBRARY — Heard a report on elementary school libraries and received a recommendation, on which it took no action, that each school have a half-time librarian. The libraries are now manned by teachers and volunteer parents.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 8 p.m. next Monday to discuss district finances and building needs.

State Highway Panel Will Meet In Marin

The California Highway Commission will hold its monthly business meeting tomorrow and Friday in the Marin County Board of Supervisors' chambers at the Civic Center.

The hearings will open tomorrow at 10 a.m. and at 9 a.m. Friday.

John F. McInnis, chairman of the county supervisors, will speak on tomorrow highway needs in Marin County and Dale W. Luehing, general manager of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District will discuss the Schedule of the widening of the Richardson Bay Bridge on Route 101.

Others speaking tomorrow are: Palo Alto Mayor Edward S. Arnold and Menlo Park officials on reopening of studies on locating Willow Road on Route 84; State Sen. George E. Danielson, D-Los Angeles, Assemblyman David A. Roberti, D-Los Angeles and officials from Pasadena will request study of a proposed westerly alternate route for the Long Beach Freeway Extension.

Ted McConville, assistant road commissioner from Orange County will speak on the use of consultants in sensitive route location matters and San Mateo city officials will request a connection to the Bayshore Freeway near Route 92; C. A. Trifeletti, highway committee chairman of the Pacifica Chamber of Commerce will discuss the construction schedule of Route 380 between Pacifica and Route 280 and Peter Bosovich will speak on the drainage problem on Route 9 at Ben Lomond in Santa Cruz County.

Burglar Takes $100 In Cash From School

A burglar who entered Marin Catholic High School in Kentfield through an open window either Friday or Saturday stole over $100 in cash from an office, sheriff's deputies said today.

The burglar pried open a small safe which contained $100, deputies said, and also took a small amount of money from a charity fund which was in an envelope.

Multicultural Curriculum To Be Discussed

A multicultural school curriculum will be discussed tomorrow at the 8 p.m. meeting of the human relations council in the Dixie School District.

Austin J. Thompson, executive director of the Marin County Human Rights Commission and Joyce Bailey, commission field representative, will speak at the meeting in the new multimedia center at the Dixie Elementary School in Lucas Valley.

Plans to begin a multicultural curriculum in the Dixie School District were announced last month.

The new courses would study the roles and contributions of Negroes, American Indians, Mexicans and other ethnic groups to the economic, political and social development of California and Marin.

{The Chiffon® re-invention}

It works beautifully.

Chiffon re-invented the paper towel to make it harder working. First, we made it soft and pliable. Our new towel is soft and pliable enough to fit into the corners and cracks—all the tight spots that were hard for paper towels to reach before. For extra strength and absorbency, the Chiffon towel has two layers, bonded together through a special process that makes them stay together and, at the same time, forms thousands of tiny pillows in each towel to soak up more moisture. It's built to work like a sponge. Besides working harder, the Chiffon towel works beautifully. Chiffon towels come in colors you have never seen in a paper towel. Lemon, lime, orange, raspberry. You can also take your choice of bright border designs on white. The Chiffon Sun-fresh Towel: it's the greatest thing since, well—since paper towels.

Hearty Soup Makes The Meal When The Family's On The Go

Activities! Sometimes it seems as if the whole family is in one door and out the other with scarcely time for a howdy-do, let alone for a formal meal. If it isn't a basketball game, it's a Christmas Seal meeting. Or, maybe the adult education class, or the night the stores are open late for Christmas shopping. It seems as if there's never a week without at least one evening when mother turns into a short-order cook and the kitchen's a cafeteria.

One simple meal that's as quick to eat as it is to prepare is a big, peasanty bowl of soup. With crusty French bread, some cheese, and fruit, it makes the kind of wholesome meal that's just right for high-pressured people. It is right for the hard-pressed cook, too. The soup, which tastes like a day-long production, takes only minutes to prepare.

CREAM OF CORN AND CHICKEN KETTLE

2 tablespoons slivered green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed cream of celery soup
1 soup can water
1 can (8 ounces) cream-style corn
½ cup diced cooked chicken
Dash pepper
2 slices bacon, cooked and crumbled

Cook green pepper and onion in butter until tender. Blend in soup and water; add corn, chicken, and pepper. Heat; stir now and then. Garnish with bacon. Makes 2 ot 3 servings. The pot illustrated holds 4½ quarts (4 times this recipe). The bowl shown is 8 ounces.

GOLDEN STROGANOFF SOUP

½ pound ground beef
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed golden mushroom soup
1 soup can water
½ cup cooked noodles
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
Dash pepper
Sour cream

Brown beef and cook onion until tender. Pour off fat. Blend in soup and water; add noodles, parsley, and pepper. Heat; stir now and then. Garnish with sour cream. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

Roasting Time For Turkey— Everybody Has A Better Idea

NEW YORK (UPI)—The turkey industry itself is of several minds on recommended roasting times for the traditional Thanksgiving or Christmas bird. So what's a home cook to do?

Bone up on the various suggestions that were rounded up by the American Gas Association and choose the one that you prefer. Or else go out for dinner.

A guide established by California turkey growers uses a 325-degree oven; all weights are quoted for ready-to-cook turkeys. A 6 to 8-pound bird: 2 to 2½ hours; 8-12 pounds, 2½-3 hours; 12-16 pounds, 3-3¾ hours; 16-20 pounds. 3¾-4¼ hours; and 20-24 pounds, 4½-5½ hours. An additional 30 minutes roasting time is recommended if dry meat is preferred.

The Poultry and Egg National Board suggests times 1¾ to 2 hours longer than the California growers recommend. Individual packers also suggest different times and print them on the wrappings in which the turkeys are sold.

One point everyone agrees on. If you use a meat thermometer, remove the bird from the oven when the indicator reaches 180-185 degrees. The temperature will continue to rise briefly. Turkey, like other poultry and large cuts of meat, slices better and loses less juice if allowed to set in a warm spot for 20 to 30 minutes after it has finished roasting.

In using a meat thermometer, insert the shaft into the meatiest part of the bird, between second joint and body, but not touching bone.

Oatmeal Sesame Bread Can Be Baked Ahead And Frozen

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press

Don't hide your light under a bushel when you bake this Oatmeal Sesame Bread! Serve it when you're expecting company for a buffet supper and enjoy the applause.

It's particularly appropriate for company because it may be made ahead, frozen and reheated. We give you exact directions for doing just this. And another point in this bread's favor for buffet serving: made in three loaves, each loaf is marked into six wedges that are easy to break off.

OATMEAL SESAME BREAD

1 package active dry yeast
1½ cups warm water
2 tablespoons sugar
2½ teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, room-temperature soft.
2½ to 3 cups unsifted flour
1½ cups regular rolled oats
1 egg white
2 teaspoons water
3 tablespoons sesame seed

In a large mixing bowl, stir together remaining 1 cup water, sugar, salt and butter until sugar is dissolved; stir in 1 cup flour; add dissolved yeast and oats. Stir in enough more of the flour to make a soft dough.

Turn out on lightly floured board or prepared pastry cloth. Knead until smooth and satiny — 6 to 8 minutes. Form dough into a ball; place in greased bowl; turn to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm draft free place until doubled — about 1 hour.

Punch down dough; divide into 3 parts; cover with a clean towel and let rest 10 minutes. Beat egg white and 2 teaspoons water until frothy. Sprinkle sesame seed onto a plate or other flat surface. Shape each part of dough into a round, flat loaf. Hold loaf and brush top and sides with beaten egg white. then invert-loaf in sesame seed and press down lightly until top is covered with seed. Place loaf on greased baking sheet, seed side up. Repeat for other 2 loaves.

With back of long kitchen knife, mark six equal wedges on each loaf by making 3 deep grooves across top of loaf; do not cut all the way through dough. Cover; let rise as previously until nearly doubled — about 45 minutes.

Bake in preheated 400-degree oven until well browned on tops and sides — about 20 to 25 minutes. Cool on wire racks. If served while still warm, break into wedges. If completely cool, cut with bread knife.

Makes 3 round loaves.

NOTE: To freeze, wrap loaves in freezer wrap or heavy duty aluminum foil; seal completely. To thaw, let wrapped loaf stand at room temperature about 1 hour before serving. To reheat, place thawed foil-wrapped loaf stand at room temperature about 1 hour before serving. To reheat, place thawed foil-wrapped loaf in pre-heated 300-degree oven about 20 minutes.

Frou Frou Dessert For Party Finale

Extravagant is really the only word that adequately describes this beautiful combination of meringue, lemon pudding and colorful cling peach slices. But as you can see from the list of ingredients there's where the extravagance ends. It's not an expensive dessert so far as ingredients are concerned!

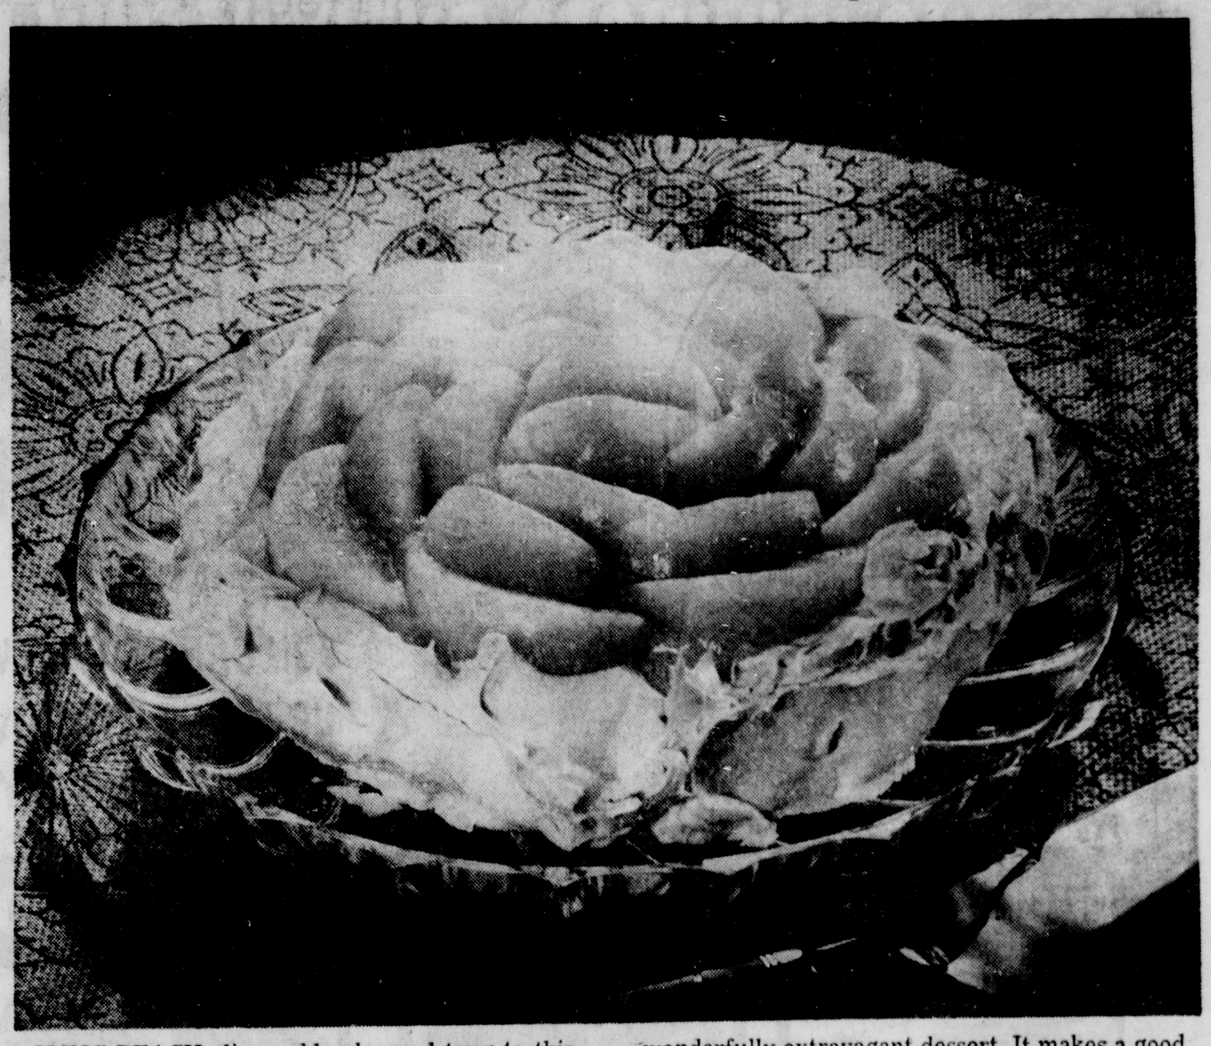
Make the meringue shell ahead of time then whip up your pudding filling just in time to let it cool enough to combine with the drained peach slices and carry it proudly to the table. A wonderful treat for your family — an impressive finale to a dinner party for your guests.

PEACH FROU FROU

2 eggs, separated
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
2/3 cup sugar
1 package (3½ oz.) lemon pudding and pie filling
1 can (1 lb. 13 oz.) cling peach slices

Beat egg whites with cream of tartar until frothy. Gradually beat in sugar a little at a time until egg whites are stiff and glossy. Draw an 8-inch circle on brown paper and place on cookie sheet. Spread meringue on circle. With the back of a large spoon form a shell. Bake in 275-degree (slow) oven 1 hour. Remove from oven. Cool and carefully remove paper. Make pudding according to package directions, using the egg yolks. Cool. Fill meringue shell with pudding. Drain peach slices and arrange on filling.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.



CLING PEACH slices add color and tang to this wonderfully extravagant dessert. It makes a good dinner party finale.

Approach Crime Reduction By Teaching Law To Children

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Is it possible to change attitudes of a large percentage of today's youth toward law and law enforcement that range from suspicion and disrespect to outright hostility? If so, how can it be done?

Mrs. Lyman Emerson of Mill Valley believes a promising approach lies in a new program in public schools of "teaching law to reduce crime," starting with kindergarten and continuing through high school.

A pilot course in this program based on the work of Judge Roy W. Seagraves of the municipal court in Redwood City, San Mateo County, is now being taught in the seventh and eighth grades in Redwood City schools as part of the social studies course.

So convinced is Mrs. Emerson of the value of this plan that she has made a personal project of raising funds to help the program.

"I had intended becoming a lawyer ever since I received my B.A. degree in political science from the University of Southern California, and I did take some law courses," she says, "but I got side-tracked by marriage and a family."

LAST JUNE Elizabeth Emerson achieved her ambition when she received a doctor of jurisprudence degree from Golden Gate College in San Francisco, and she took the California bar examination last August. While awaiting the results she decided to volunteer her services in support of this new idea of teaching law to reduce crime.

"When I read in a newspaper about Judge Seagraves' program," she says, "I went to see him in his chambers at Redwood City because I have long been interested in getting involved in arousing everybody, but youth particularly, about their rights, privileges and responsibilities under the law.

"Many times young people are not aware of their rights. They get involved in a felony when they think it is just a juvenile prank, not realizing the drastic effects of a conviction.

"I don't think they understand the reason for law. We have not been able to convey to the young people that law and law enforcement are in their own interests as individuals.

"But first they must know what the laws are. Nor is it just the young people who are ignorant. Many people don't even understand family laws, such as those that affect support of children or children's support of elderly parents.

"IF PEOPLE BECOME aware of the specifics of law that affect their daily lives it seems to me that they are going to have more respect for the law, more support for the law, and there will be less law breaking."

Mrs. Emerson pointed out that in no course in school today — in history, civics or government — is law taught as it affects the individual child.

"I think a course properly taught could help to combat disrespect for cops by helping children to understand that the policeman is there to enforce rules that we have all agreed upon.

"Many delinquents react to situations without considering the results of their acts. For example, a criminal record, or conviction of a felony, which can be just stealing a candy bar, can mean barring a student from admission to the college of his choice and prevent his qualifying for a license in many professions and occupations. It also means loss of citizenship rights, such as voting or possessing firearms even for hunting."

Among other legal points they need to know about, she added, are their rights to make a binding contract, right to parental support, obligations to the family and the family to them, their liabilities in damages to persons or property and their right to a public education.

Mrs. Emerson described details of the program of teaching law to reduce crime.

"Judge Seagraves singlehandedly raised the $90,000 from businesses, foundations, labor groups and individuals which took care of developing materials. A year was spent on this by a research staff headed by Dr. H. B. McDaniel, professor emeritus of education and psychology at Stanford University. The first course was started in the seventh and eighth grades of Redwood City schools this fall.

"AFTER THE course has been taught two years, it will be evaluated. One of the outstanding features of this program," she says, "is that the means are already devised for testing its effectiveness. They will be able to test changes in attitudes, knowledge and behavior as a result of the program and will be able to determine if results are really due to it, to maturity, to the whole school program or learning experiences beyond the control of the school.

"It is admitted that there are social causes of delinquency," she stresses. "The purpose of the course is to make sure that children understand the law and realize that without it a group becomes a mob in which individual rights are lost and only the strong can survive. There is no preaching approach.

"THE PROGRAM has the endorsement of the California State Bar Board of Governors, and we believe it will eventually be a part of the curriculum throughout the state and that it will spread to every state.

"I found to my surprise that there are no foundations providing funds for research in law, as there are in medicine, education and religion — so I have chosen as my particular project soliciting help from foundations, members of the bar and top law firms. I want to try to raise funds by the end of the year sufficient for the visual materials needed in the program.

"I would welcome the help of at least another person — perhaps another woman law-

Four Stolen Bicycles Are Returned To Owners

Marin Bicycle Identification reports that four stolen bicycles have been found recently and returned to their owners. Two were turned in to Corte Madera Police Department, one at the Larkspur Police Department and the fourth bicycle was turned in to Mary Silvera School in Marinwood.

The Marin Bike ID program is a project sponsored by Peter Pan Chapter, Children's Home Society. Peter Pan Chapter started registering bicycles in April, 1968, in Marinwood and has registered over 1,500 since then.

Lt. Harvey Teague of the Marin County Sheriff's Juvenile Bureau says that "since the Marin Bike ID Program went into operation, we have had 25 per cent greater success in returning stolen bicycles to their rightful owners."

Mrs. James Newley of San Rafael is program chairman for the Bike ID Program this year.

Peter Pan maintains a current file and a 24 hour answering service to all Marin police departments to assist in locating lost or found bicycles.

Opera Star To Be Honored At Tea

By MOLLY MARIN

Music students at the San Domenico School will honor the noted Greek operatic soprano Jeannette Pilou at a tea tomorrow at 4 p.m. in the Fireside Room on the campus.

Miss Pilou made her San Francisco Opera debut last year and is starring this season as "Violetta in "La Traviata" and Melisande in "Pelleas et Melisande."

Also attending will be Mrs. A. Barlow Ferguson of Kentfield, a personal friend of the singer; San Domenico principal Sister M. Maurice, O.P.; music department chairman Faith France, and faculty members Sister M. Susan, O.P., Sister Francis Xavier and Marian Marsh.

THE ROBERT MC CARTHYS Sr., parents of State Sen. John F. McCarthy of Marin, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Saturday at a dinner dance at the Bohemian Club in San Francisco. Some 150 family members and close friends attended.

The McCarthys are also parents of Robert McCarthy Jr. of San Francisco, attorney and former state senator from San Francisco, and they have 18 grandchildren.

Both the couple were born in Ireland. Mr. McCarthy is a former president of the Associated General Contractors of California, twice served as foreman of the San Francisco Grand Jury and is a past president of the Cow Palace board of directors, of which he is still a member. He has long been active in Roman Catholic Church activities, and was named a Knight of Malta by Pope Pius XII in 1953. Mr. McCarthy is the founder of the Robert McCarthy Co. in San Rafael which developed the Loch Lomond area.

MARIN SYMPHONY Auxiliary members were hostesses at tables this morning for the brunch that preceded the auxiliary-sponsored symphony preview at the Meadow Club. Mrs. John Kneeland was hostess at a table of Ross and Kentfield area residents; Mrs. William Pemberton headed a table of Southern Marin preview-goers; and Mrs. Philip Smith served as the hostess for San Rafael and North Marin guests. Mrs. Robert Schultz, Marin Symphony Guild president, invited a trio of friends from Mill Valley, Mmes. Harrison Leppo, Rodney B. Hartman and Joseph Brewster. Mrs. Gino Morena of Larkspur was hostess to Mrs. William Winter and Leon Levintow of Kent Woodlands and also seated at her table were Mrs. Maurice Salomon of Kentfield with Mrs. Donald Chapman of Kent Woodlands and Mrs. Walter Baird of San Francisco as her guests. Other hostesses were Mmes. John A. Clements, James B. Stapler Jr. and Ralph B. Dewey of Belvedere. Mrs. Dewey is auxiliary president this year.

Symphony conductor Sandor Salgo gave the preview of the Nov. 30 concert.

THE JACK Dores, who have just returned to Sausalito from a trip to the Orient, say that a drive up Mount Fuji to the snow lines was the most memorable experience. They left San Francisco on the freighter M. M. Dant for Manila, then flew to Osaka, Tokyo, Hong Kong, Bangkok and many other places before boarding another freighter, the Michigan, at Yokohama for the trip home. They stopped at Honolulu en route.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Child Has A Right To Know Who And Where His Real Parents Are

DEAR HELEN:

I must disagree with those who say "Let sleeping skeletons lie." Even though a missing parent may be an utter stinker, the child has a right to know who and where that parent is, and all questions should be answered.

I found out I was an illegitimate child quite late in life. My real mother kept me, but she hides the identity of my father. Even if he were in jail, I wouldn't be ashamed of him. I'd want to help him. Not knowing has caused me much unhappiness, but my mother insists it's for the best. — WONDERING

DEAR HELEN:

Finding a lost father (who has been foolishly hidden away from a child by an over-protective family) will satisfy her curiosity and remove a big question mark from her mind.

I know, because I found my real mother, after more than 25 years of searching.

I was adopted by a wonderful couple when I was nine months old, and given every advantage. My life has been wonderful — except for the missing part. My birth certificate stated my mother's name and my place of birth. All I learned from my adopted parents was that she was 17 and unmarried.

Over the years I placed ads in countless papers, contacted missing persons bureaus, and put requests in personal columns. Finally I hit pay dirt. My mother called me, offering proof that cinched it.

She told me that after she placed me for adoption, she returned home and later marrried a successful farmer (not my father). She has three fine sons. Her husband and family don't know of my existence, so we keep our calls secret. We hope to meet at some future time.

At long last I am satisifed and my mother is too, for she had many depressed days, wondering about me. I would never try to establish a relationship more than what it is: My real parents are the wonderful people who raised me and no one could take their place in my heart, just as I couldn't mean the same to her as do her sons.

But it's so nice to know. All adopted children should, if at all possible. — S. O.

DEAR HELEN:

When I read the letter from the prisoner who wanted to find his little daughter and get to know her some day, I thought of my early and disastrous marriage. We ran away, but never really lived together. Soon he was in jail (again), and the baby and I went home to live with my parents. I was divorced six years ago, and am now happily re-married to a wonderful man.

My first husband's name is never mentioned, but when my daughter is a little older I'll tell her all about him. I won't degrade him nor let anyone else, but she'll know the truth and if, later on, she wants to find him, I'll help her.

Lately I've been worrying about this man I scarcely knew, wondering if he went totally wrong or rehabilitated himself. He was always very good at finding women and narcotics when out of jail, and he sent child support only once in seven years. I've lost track of him.

Is it best to leave it that way? Could you please tell me whether the prisoner who wrote to you was a Texan? Perhaps he's my ex. — M. K.

DEAR M:

The prisoner who wrote to me came from California.

Since you are happily married and owe your ex nothing, don't hunt for trouble. He may be more than you bargained for. — H.

yer — in making calls on foundations."

MRS. EMERSON is an excellent example of the growing number of women who are starting careers after rearing families. Graduated magna cum laude and a member of Phi Beta Kappa from the University of Southern California in 1935, she was a full-time homemaker for a number of years. Her husband has his own commercial photography business in Mill Valley, where he is currently a member of the Mill Valley Art Commission.

The Emersons have three children. The twins are Vicki, who is administrative assistant to the director of the comprehensive planning organization of the City and County of San Diego, and Bill, who is married and living in Los Angeles, where he is director of compliances and practices for KNBC-TV. Cindy, the youngest child, is a senior at Tamalpais High School.

Despite her busy home life, Elizabeth Emerson found time to be a leader in Girl Scout work. Starting as a troop leader, she went on to become president of the Marin County Girl Scout Council (now the San Francisco Bay Council), district advisor in Marin County, executive director of the Konocti Girl Scout Council headquarters in Santa Rosa, and finally director of Girl Scout camps in the Sierra and Hawaii.

One year she was the national visitor to Greece as guest of the Greek Girl Guide Association, representing the national Girl Scout organization in the United States.

Serving Meat

To get the most value from the meat you buy, compare the actual amount of lean (the protein part) to the amount of waste (bone, fat and gristle) in each pound. Learn to judge value by the cost per serving of the meat you buy rather than the cost per pound. For meat with no bone or fat allow four to five servings per pound; for meat with little bone or fat, allow three to four servings per pound: for meat with medium bone or fat, allow two to three servings per pound; for meat with a large amount of bone or fat (say a turkey), allow one to two servings per pound.

ON THE AGENDA

Coleman School P-TA Presenting Public Program On Drug Abuse

Coleman School Parent-Teacher Association is holding a public program tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of San Rafael High School to find out the right way to answer children's questions about drug abuse.

Speakers will include Dr. Robert Ott, psychiatrist; Leo Marmol, psychologist for Community Mental Health Association; and Jerry Green, San Rafael Police Department. Program chairman is Mrs. Robert Rosenblatt.

A question and answer period will follow the program.

THE THURSDAY Musical Club will feature Dino Gianopoulos, pianist, at the November program to be held tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Davis in San Rafael.

Dino Gianopoulos was born in Oakland and received his early musical training in San Francisco and later at the University of California.

At the suggestion of pianist Gina Bachauer, he went to London to further his piano studies and to be coached by Miss Bachauer. He remained in London for seven years. His other important teacher has been Marjorie Petray of Berkeley.

Since his return to the U.S. Mr. Gianopoulos has played concerts on the West Coast, Southwest and Midwest. In January 1967, he performed a recital for Princess Irene of Greece and was invited by the princess to perform at the Athens Festival.

Mr. Gianopoulos is a member of the music faculty at U.C.

Tea following the program will be served by Mmes. Harris Kluksdahl, Forest Sorensen, Cloyd Kimball and Miss Betty Klink.

A PICNIC luncheon and one-act play, "The Flying Grandmother," are on the agenda for the Sausalito Woman's Club tomorrow.

Members and guests, who will bring their own aperitifs and lunches, will gather at the clubhouse at 1 p.m. Chairman Mrs. Martha E. Scott will serve coffee and dessert, assisted by Mmes. Jack Summerill, H. Gordon Douglas, Hendrik Keiser and Richard Robbins and Miss Marie Deschamps.

The cast of the 2:30 p.m. play produced and directed by Mrs. Norma Christian includes Mmes. Phillip Schneider, Albert Boehm, Herbert Recktenwald, Robert Thompson and S. C. Stapp.

Mr. A. C. Lyon will use framed grandmother faces perched on airplanes as decor motifs.

"HOLIDAY DECORATIONS for the Home" will be the subject when Mrs. Lowry L. Williams of Santa Rosa speaks before the Rohnert Park Garden Club at 12:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Rohnert Park Recreation Center. Hostess will be Mrs. George R. Johnston of Rohnert Park.

MRS. RUSSELL Meserole of Novato will be the lecturer tomorrow at 10 a.m. for the final session of Marin YWCA's "Yesterday's Art Today" series at the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael. China painting will be the subject of Mrs. Merserolli's lecture, to be illustrated with demonstrations of the technique of this "lost art."

THE MARIN Home Economists in Homemaking will meet tomorrow for a tour of the United States Department of Agriculture Wool Research Laboratory in Albany. Mrs. Herbert McCall or Mrs. Lowell Cummings are chairmen.

DELTA DELTA Delta alumnae have scheduled a reunion tea at the chapter house in Berkeley from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Tri Delta Alumnae of the University of California chapter, representing classes from 1900 through 1969, and members of Northern California alumnae chapters will gather at the house for the Big Game Week event.

Mmes. Earll Shine of Grass Valley, Kenneth A. Frost of Belvedere, Donald G. Ellis of Orinda and Eleanor J. McGahie of San Francisco are co-chairmen. Greeting returning alumnae will be Mrs. Aurora Milligan, house director; Mrs. Grant Stanwood of San Francisco, the sorority's district president; and Mrs. Graham Leupp of San Mateo, district chairman.

Mrs. J. Don Dole of Novato is reservations chairman.

THE NEWCOMERS Club of Petaluma will hold its luncheon meeting tomorrow at the Green Mill Inn in Cotati. The social hour will begin at noon with lunch at 12:30 p.m. Gil Messa, director of the Petaluma Boys' Club, will speak at 1:30 p.m. on "Youth In Action."

Greeting guests will be club president Mrs. Joseph Rodola and club hostess Mrs. Jack Becker.

ST. ANNE'S Service League of St. Paul's Church, will present its traditional holiday Pine Cone Festival tomorrow in the parish hall of the San Rafael church from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Handmade articles, foods and holiday greens will be offered to thrifty shoppers.

A silent auction is to be held, and coffee and homemade cakes will be served throughout the day.

BILLED AS a must-for-mothers is Marin Catholic Women's Club's program tomorrow when five faculty members present the programs and goals of their respective department — mathematics, English, languages and science—under the title "Education Opportunities — What Marin Catholic Wants To Teach Your Child."

The Rev. David Pettengill and Sister Mary Herbert, H.N.S.J., deans of studies for the school, will head the 1:30 p.m. program and be the introductory speakers.

PHILLIP SCHNEIDER, superintendent of the Sausalito schools, will speak at 7:45 p.m. tomorrow at the Laurel Dell P-TA meeting. The program will be at the intermediate school library in San Rafael. Mrs Donald Sherwood, second vice president, has arranged the program.

THE ANNUAL Thanksgiving dinner will be held by Rosarium Institute 175, Young Ladies' Institute, tomorrow at St. Patrick's Center in Larkspur. Dinner will be at 6:45 p.m., and will be followed by the meeting at 8 p.m. when the nominating committee will submit a slate of officers for the upcoming term.

ORDERS ARE being taken for the 1970 Calendar Appointment Book produced for the second year by the Little Jim Club of Children's Hospital in San Francisco.

Proceeds from the desk size book will go to the support of the hospital. The calendar has one week on each page with room for notes and appointments. Mrs. John Skov of San Francisco is sales chairman.

A BAZAAR sponsored by the women of Faith United Presbyterian Church of Rohnert Park will be held Dec. 6 in the Gingham Kitchen Restaurant in Rohnert Park with homemade items featured.

Work sessions for the items are being held every Tuesday at 7 p.m. and Thursday at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Otto Nation in Rohnert Park.

LAGAN INSTITUTE 52, Young Ladies' Institute, will celebrate its 65th anniversary tomorrow night with a dinner at Deer Park Villa in Fairfax at 8 p.m. Miss Mildred Young is chairman.

Honored guests will be Miss Catherine Timoxy, charter member, and fifty year members: Mmes. Ethel Bonnikson, Eudora Codoni, Alma Grady, Mary Jones and Mary Spellman.

A TOWN forum on community and parent involvement in schools will be the program for the Strawberry School Parent - Teacher Association meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow. School beautification, classroom volunteers and library volunteers will be discussed.

MILL VALLEY Chapter 219, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold its 66th installation of officers tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Mill Valley Masonic Temple. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Warnock are the worthy matron and worthy patron to be installed.

PLAYER OF THE GAME — San Rafael sophomore halfback Scott Duncan, with a sideline full of fans going wild beside him, skirted around end to score San Rafael's final go-ahead touchdown in the fading seconds of the Terra Linda-San Rafael game Friday. Duncan, named player of the game and prep of the week, scored three times and rushed for 210 yards in the game which Terra Linda finally pulled out with no time left, 29-27, on a field goal. 49er Owners Deny Team Is For Sale

Bob Hope Interested In Buying

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —Both the president and principal owner of the San Francisco 49ers deny the National Football League team is for sale.

Josephine Morabito, widow of the club's owner - founder who owns 35 per cent of the stock, denied reports last night that the team might be sold to comedian Bob Hope.

But several sources close to top officials on the team say it is very much available and that comedian Bob Hope is one of the prospective purchasers.

NO COMMENT

"I have no comment to make until such time as I have a more definitive statement to make," Gottlieb told The Associated Press today.

But then he added: "I cannot deny the report, however." No price in the sale reports was available.

Spadia, when told about Gottlieb's remarks, said: "Yes, I've spoken with Mr. Gottlieb. He telephoned asking for a price on the club and I told him there was no price, we are not for sale."

But one San Francisco broker, who asked that he not be identified, said he had been advised that "a 49er executive has placed the club on the block. The exact statement was: 'We will entertain offers at the end of the season.' "

Hope, who formerly held stock in the NFL's Los Angeles Rams, was away from his Los Angeles area home and was not expected back until Monday," a spokesman said.

STADIUM

According to the negotiation reports, Gottlieb, who is said to have extensive San Francisco Bay Area business interests, hopes to build a stadium there, primarily for the football club.

The 49ers have played in rundown Kezar Stadium since their inception in 1946 as part of the now defunct All-America Conference. However they are scheduled to move into 10-year-old Candlestick Park next year after it receives artificial turf and additional seats.

The San Francisco club was founded by brothers Anthony and Victor Morabito. Anthony died in 1957, Victor in 1964. Their widows now own 60 per cent of the 49ers' stock with the rest divided among seven minoity shareholders, none with more than 10 per cent.

DWINDLED

The 49ers' crowds have steadily dwindled recently—and not without reason.

The club has never won a championship. The closest it got was a 21-7 loss to Cleveland in the AAC title game in 1949, the league's last year. In 1950 San Francisco, Cleveland and Baltimore joined the NFL.

In 1957 the 49ers and Detroit tied for first place in the six-team Western Conference but San Francisco lost the playoff game 31-27. The team hasn't come close since, finishing barely above the .500 mark only twice in the past seven years.

CHARLEY KEPPEL

Only One Mariner On All-Star Team

College of Marin football coach Dick Read has returned from the Camino Norte all-conference pickings and he's just a little disappointed.

The Tars, who finished fourth in the conference race, landed only one player — Guard Charley Keppel — on the 22 available spots on first team offense and defense.

They picked up five additional spots on the second teams, with tackle Ron Heidinger and fullback Mike Fowler making it on offense and middle guard Vern Kellerman, end Rich Smith and defensive back John Dohn, a freshman, making it on defense.

DeAnza of Cupertino and West Valley of Campbell pretty much dominated selections. The two teams, who finished one-two in the standings, filled 15 spots with champion DeAnza getting eight and West Valley seven.

DeAnza all-conference players were tackle Dan Morrison, center Dick Adams, end Dyke Johnson and halfback Gary Washington on offense and Bob Busich, a tackle who was also named most valuable lineman on defense along with Bob Makey on the line, linebacker Rick Cummings and defensive back Steve Gudelt.

West Valley was headed by Dave Ray, a halfback and most valuable player in the conference and quarterback Bill Barnes, named most valuable back. The runnerup team also landed end Scott Loomis, guard Herb Robinson on offense and linebacker Dave Boreham, and Ron Semon and defensive back Lance Anderson on defense.

Halfback Ralph Brown, last year's most valuable player from Solano in Vallejo, gained his second-all-league berth. Contra Costa of San Pablo was represented by offensive tackle Jim Gulledge and defensive lineman Tom Aldridge and Bob Bonner and linebacker Ben Barnes.

JIM GILMARTIN

John Boccabella Joins The Mets

JIM SHORTS: I've got a scoop. John Boccabella, Marin's veteran major leaguer, has joined the Mets.

This may come as a complete shock to his National League employers — the Montreal Expos, who still had the San Anselman on their roster as a catcher the last time they looked.

But John is now definitely a member of the Mets. That is, this week he joined the sales staff of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. in Marin.

WHEN UNIVERSITY of Montana's undefeated Grizzlies meet North Dakota State in the Camellia Bowl in Sacramento Dec. 13, they'll be without the services of the Big Sky Conference's all-time champion pass pilferer, San Anselman Karl Stein.

The Drake High grad and College of Marin transfer is one of seven junior college transfers on the team who are ineligibile for post-season activity because of academic requirements. Stein is four and one-half units shy of eligibility.

Almost Stretched Record To 12

Too bad, too, because last Saturday in a 58-0 Montanata romp over South Dakota State at Missoula Stein broke the Big Sky record with his 11th interception of the season.

He would have had No. 12 later in the game but just at the last split second the ball was inadvertently deflected from his grasp by his pal and former Drake High and COM teammate, middle linebacker Bill Hickerson.

Humph! Some pal. Bill and Karl laughed about it later. Hickerson, by the way, will be eligibile for the Camellia Bowl.

HALFBACK DEAN LAZZARINI (Drake) and end Honor Jackson (Tam) will be in the starting lineup Saturday for U. of Pacific in the Tigers' finale against the Spartans at San Jose State Saturday. This is one of the oldest football rivalries in the country, dating back to 1895.

New Member Of Boosters Club

DICK CURRY, veteran Marin sports official, Chevy dealer Clarence DeLong and jeweler Larry Callan were among the newest members of the Marin Chapter, 49er Boosters Club at the regular luncheon Monday at Dominic's Restaurant, San Rafael.

Curry should be a valuable addition to the membership because he is just about the most knowledgeable football man around and can serve the club as sort of legal advisor on some of the technical questions that invariably come up at the luncheon meetings.

And Curry should be readily identifiable among the Boosters. He's the only guy at the luncheon table in a striped shirt and whistle in his mouth. And that yellow napkin is a dead giveaway.

Some Unpleasant Memories

CHARLEY KRUEGER, guest at Monday's 49er Boosters Club, said the team's two-game sweep of the Baltimore Colts this season was a refreshing experience for him because, in 11 years with the 49ers, he's had some unpleasant memories of Baltimore.

"I'll never forget one year," he said. "Back in Baltimore, every time the Colts score a touchdown they have a beautiful black stallion race around the field. Well, in one particular game, they had to take the horse into the locker room at halftime and put some new shoes on him.

"And by the end of the third quarter a man from the SPCA came down and told the Colts they'd have to take it easy on that poor animal."

Prep Soccer Season Opens

Grid ace Mark Costello booted two goals to lead Tamalpais High School's soccer team to a 2-1 win over Drake yesterday in Mill Valley.

In other season-opening games, Redwood nicked Marin Catholic, 2-1, at Larkspur on goals by Jon Broderick and Francis Kelonco and Novato and San Marin battled to a 1-1 tie at San Marin.

The Terra Linda-San Rafael game was postponed until Saturday.

San Rafael Soph, Lineman At San Marin Win Honors

A sensational, boyish sophomore back and a tackle who met his biggest challenge successfully are the Independent-Journal sports staff's high school back and lineman of the week.

Scott Duncan, San Rafael High School's wonder-soph, ravished Terra Linda's usually stout defense for 210 yards and three touchdowns, even though the Trojans eventually pulled out a harrowing 29-27 verdict last Friday night.

Kerry Atkinson of Novato's San Marin High, no mere slip of a boy at 207 pounds, turned in some ferocious line play in a head-to-head collision with Redwood's giant 247-pound Tom Wickert, sparking a league-leading defense that he lead the Mustanfs to a 17-14 victory Saturday and a piece of second place.

Duncan, a curly-haired lad with deceptive (10.4) speed, has been getting all kinds of praise for most of the season, and not just from his own coach, Bob Muster.

He's had some great games already, but nothing like the one Friday night, in which the pitch-and-run play he and Lowell Widmer executed almost resulted in the upset of the year.

CROWN

The performance accomplished several things, in addition to prep of the week honors. It gave Duncan the league rushing crown, vaulting him past equally amazing Dewey Forry of Terra Linda, it earned him player of the game honors and it almost surely had a hand in landing him on the all-league team.

Asked what made the option work so well against Terra Linda, Scott replied simply: "Widmer."

"Scott has a great amount of natural talent," Muster said of his sophomore. "But besides that, he's one of the most capable boys I know. And when he gets in trouble, he just puts his head down."

Duncan felt elation, disappointment at the loss and something else after the game.

"I was really tired and sore,"

BIG GAME SATURDAY

More Plunkett Records?

STANFORD (AP) — Jim Plunkett will be shooting for two more Pacific-8 Conference records Saturday when he quarterbacks Stanford in the Big Game against the California Bears.

The records, both held by Craig Morton, now quarterbacking Dallas in the National Football League, are 185 incompletions for a season and 4,501 yards passing gained for his career, 1962-64.

Plunkett needs 11 completions and 54 yards passing to break both records.

Cal defenders who will bear the brunt of breaking up Plunkett passes will be Jim Sheridan, Irby Augustine, Ray Youngblood and Bernie Keeles. Keeles missed last week's game because of a kidney bruise.

Stanford is favored by two to three touchdowns on the basis of its 6-2-1 season record, compared with Cal's 5-4.

But Cal Coach Ray Willsey said yesterday, "We have to do better than our previous best. I'm hoping we have one good game left. and this will be it."

The Bears have shown a potential greater than they hav achieved in a season that could be changed from so-so to successful with an upset of the Indians.

The Cal rooters are talking of coming up with an offense like the one they showed in routing Washington 44-13 and a defense like the one which almost stunned Southern Cal before the Trojans won 14-9.

The Bears had a one hour, 40-minute workout yesterday, and quarterback Steve Curtis saw much action. Willsey has announced he will start Dave Penhall, but Curtis is sure to be out on the field much of the time.

Willsey said Curtis isn't quite back in the groove after a six-week layoff with a shoulder injury, but "he does give us an additional running threat and he has a strong passing arm."

Coach John Ralston worked his Indians for 90 minutes yesterday following an on-field meeting at which basic game plans were outlined.

Linemen Dave Grassi and Greg Sampson, both with knee injuries, took light workouts and Ralston said they should be ready for Saturday.

Joe Schultz Fired As Seattle Manager

SEATTLE (AP) — Joe Schultz was fired today as manager of the Seattle Pilots, who finished last in the American League's western division in their fledgling season this year.

Marvin Milkes, general manager, said "Joe is out." He added he hopes to contact Schultz at his home in St. Louis during the day to tell him he will not be rehired.

Rumors had been circulating since late last summer that Schultz would be dismissed. Milkes' only comment at that time was that he had not made up his mind.

Speculation began immediately today, about who would take Schultz' place.

Names most prominently mentioned were Dave Bristol, ex-Cincinnati manager; Billy Martin, who was fired as manager of the Minnesota Twins after leading them to the Western Division pennant this year, and Dick Williams, former head man of the Boston Red Sox.

Milkes said that Grady Hatton, former Houston manager, also is a candidate.

"I want to keep the field down to a limited number of possibilities," Milkes said in indicating probably not more than four men are under consideration.

41-Year-Old Cousy Gets Okay To Play For Royals

Bob Cousy, rookie coach of the Cincinnati Royals, isn't exactly a playing rookie, but the former Boston Celtics star hasn't played for six years.

The Royals and Cousy were given the go-ahead yesterday after more than two months of negotiations with the Boston Celtics.

Although Cousy retired after the 1962-63 season after 13 campaigns with the Celtics, Boston still maintained his playing rights.

When Cousy expressed the desire to make a comeback, the Celtics refused on the grounds that they wanted a player in return.

The Celtics yesterday received 6-foot-7 forward Bill Dinwiddie in exchange for Cousy's playing rights and a future draft pick to be mutually agreed upon at a later date.

To make room for the NBA's latest playing-coach, the Royals placed guard Jimmy King on the injured list. King, a former San Francisco Warrior, who suffered a broken shin bone in his left leg, wasn't expected to resume action until late December or early January, 1970.

When he does return, Cincinnati will have to cut a player to maintain the 12-player limit.

Seal Goalie Suspended For 3 Games

MONTREAL (AP) — Gary Smith, Oakland Seals lanky young goalie, was suspended for three games today by Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president.

The suspension came as the result of a shoving incident with referee Ron Wicks in an Oakland game against Boston Bruins at Boston Nov. 10.

The suspension means that Smith will miss tonight's game at Minnesota against the North Stars, a Saturday contest here against the Montreal Canadiens and a Sunday game in New York against the Rangers.

Warriors Finally End Their Losing Skid

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco's Warriors have snapped a six-game losing streak, thanks to experience.

Nate Thurmond, a National Basketball Association player since 1963, outdid rookie Lew Alcindor and threw in 26 points last night as the Warriors upended the Milwaukee Bucks 127-110.

Alcindor, the 7-foot-2 center from UCLA, got 21 points but most of those came after the outcome no longer was in doubt.

Thurmond, 6-foot-11, outrebounded Alcindor 19-15 as the San Franciscans ran their record to 7-9 in the NBA's Western Division. Milwaukee is now 10-8 in the Eastern Division.

At one point in the third quarter, the Warriors led by 30 points.

Other high scorers for San Francisco were Jeff Mullins with 25 and Joe Ellis with 20.

The next opponents for the Warriors are the Boston Celtics who play in the Cow Palace Friday. Boston has a 4-11 record.

Will Seals Go After Brewer This Time?

OAKLAND — On the final day of this tiring, dreadfully inartistic hockey month, the Seals will once more have the delight of seeing a Detroit Red Wind named Carl Brewer.

All things being equal, like for instance the sides of a triangle, the Greenies from Oakland will stand back and admire Mr. Brewer's devilishly fascinating maneuvers on ice as if he were Barbara Ann Scott, Peggy Fleming and Dick Button, if not the Protopopovs.

Brewer sure is nifty on his blades. In the Oakland Arena on the last day of last month, Carl won both in figures, dance and compulsory dodging as the Greenies watched pleasurably from a distance of, say, six or eight feet.

THAT NIGHT Brewer's Wings took a 3-1 decision mainly because nobody hit Brewer. Not even softly. He set up two of the goals and may have willed the other one into the net from the bench.

"They've got to hit him," said Seal general manager Frank Selke in the first two minutes of the game when Brewer was playing his hopscotchy defense and nobody was hitting him.

"Just once. Early and once," Selke pleaded. Not one Seal heard.

"WHAT WILL happen if Mr. Brewer is hit early and once?" I inquired of Mr. Selke, who seemed eager to hit me, early and once, unless I stopped feeding his frustrations. "Do tell me, sir, please."

And at the end of the first period, by which Brewer was still unhit, he did. Brewer it seems, was one of the great defensemen in the National Hockey League when he dashed about for Toronto in the early 1960s. He was so fancy, it took a few years for foes to realize that his technique might have exceeded his prowess.

ONE NIGHT IN Toronto, however, a Montreal Canadien thought it might be interesting to check Brewer — early, often and hard. So he did, and soon thereafter Mr. Brewer saw this fellow coming at him and began running away in what must have been the most amusing ice act since "The Rookies."

That evening Brewer didn't stop until he reached the bench, with a lunge over the boards. Later, Carl retired and achieved some sort of amateur ranking — going so far as to coach a team in Finland, where there were no aggressive Montreal Canadiens.

"Hit him once and he won't bother you," was Selke's conclusion. "He'll back off of the puck and you can go right by him."

DID HIS CHARGES know of this legendary Brewer shyness? Yes, said Selke, everybody knows about it. But in the second period, not to mention the third, nobody hit Brewer. Not once.

That's why I wish I were in Detroit on Nov. 30., when the Seals visit the Wings. I would ignore glimpsing the great Detroit line of Howe, Mahovlich and Delvecchio. I would do nothing but watch the two-stepping, fox-trotting Carl Brewer. And Frank Selke. If there's no hitting, a few Seals might soon be coaching in Finland.

Concerto Is Yacht Winner

LONG BEACH (UPI) — —The sloop Concerto, winner of Class A in the third biennial Long Beach-La Paz yacht race, yesterday was declared the overall corrected time winner of the 980-mile event.

Concerto, a Columbia-57 craft skippered by John J. Hall of the Newport Harbor Yacht Club, finished the race with an elapsed time of 7 days, 9 hours, 7 minutes and 14 seconds. She arrived in La Paz Saturday night, a full 12 hours behind the ketch Windward Passage, which was the first yacht to cross the finish line.

CORRECTED

Based on handicaps, Concerto's corrected time was 8:11:34:18.

Second on the basis of handicaps was the Dorothy O, another Columbia-57 sloop skippered by Bob Beauchamp, also of the Newport Harbor Yacht Club. Dorothy O sailed into La Paz 11 minutes behind Concerto and had a corrected time of 8:12:20:03.

Aquarias, a new Ericksen-41 sloop on its maiden voyage under Dr. Jack Holiday of the sponsoring Long Beach Yacht Club, was both the Class D winner and finished third overall.

BOHEMIA

The 40-foot sloop Bohemia, captained by Peter Salz of the San Francisco Yacht Club of Belvedere was the Class B winner and Tanqueray III, also a 40-foot sloop, skippered by Sam Miller of Long Beach was the Class C winner.

Hall had been the first to finish in the 1967 race with the yacht Simoon and was the Class A winner in that event. He also was the Class A corrected time winner in last July's Trans-Pacific yacht race with Concerto.

he said.

Duncan had carried the ball 40 times, and each time he got banged around pretty good by hard-hitting Trojans. Which also goes to show that the youngster is pretty durable.

Atkinson, something of a seasoned veteran as a senior, still had to prove himself, being part of a first-year team.

A lot of people, including Mustang coach Bob Martin, think he accomplished just that, as he held more than his own against the solid, veteran Wickert.

"The first time I saw him when he came out on the field, I was a little scared," Atkinson said. "He's pretty good and pretty big. But I guess he's just like everyone else."

Atkinson turned in some tremendous blocking and defensive work, especially late in the game when San Marin rallied from an early 14-0 deficit to pull things out on Urbano Bousciegez' 32-yard field goal with 10 seconds left.

"I think he's the best tackle in the league," Martin has said of Atkinson. "He just had to show people against Redwood."

Both Atkinson and Wickert made the all-league team.

Orv Moody Named Golfer Of The Year

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — Orville Moody, a virtual nobody on the professional golf tour only a year ago, reached the apex of his career last night when he was named the Golfer of the Year by the Professional Golfers Association of America.

Moody, a native of Chickasha, Okla., won two of pro golf's biggest events this year — the U.S. Open and the World Series of Golf — and has earned $78,323.78 on the tour, in addition to the $50,000 he earned for winning the World Series. Last year, his first full season on the circuit, the 35-year-old Moody won just $12,950.

Marin Basketball Coaches Pick All-Star Squad

The champion Marin Catholic Wildcats and runnerup Redwood Giants each placed two players on the first team of the 1969 All-Marin County Athletic League Class C basketball squad selected this week by coaches.

Taking first-team berths for Marin Catholic were Bruce Nuttmann and Tom Fredericks while Kim Defenderfer and Bob Hogrefe made it for Redwood. Rounding out the first team were Bruce Howard of San Rafael and Gary Geisen of Drake.

Second-team picks were Joe Bauman and Dan Howard of Marin Catholic, Jeff Guidi and John Lavin of Drake, Steve DeMartini of Redwood and Jeff Koblick of San Rafael.

The coaches picked six-man teams because of ties in the voting.

Celtics Snap Losing Streak

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

They always said give Boston a little more time and the Celtics will snap out of their prolonged losing streak.

Boston received those extra moments last night in edging the Phoenix Suns, 120-119, in overtime. Don Nelson's two foul shots with six seconds remaining in the extra session broke a seven-game Boston losing skein.

EXTRA TIME

The overtime bug hit two other National Basketball Association games. Baltimore was forced into an extra session before beating San Diego, 142-138, and Los Angeles was extended in defeating Detroit, 125-114. In other games New York thumped Cincinnati, 112-94, Chicago downed Philadelphia, 127-119, and San Francisco stopped Milwaukee, 127-110.

John Havlicek scored 41 points as Boston tied Phoenix 107-all in regulation time and won in overtime on his three-point play and Nelson's pair of free throws, all in the last 10 seconds.

Key baskets by reserve center Leroy Ellis and steady rebounding by Gus Johnson supported Baltimore's overtime win after the Bullets and Rockets were tied 129-all in regulation time.

Rick Roberson, subbing for the injured Wilt Chamberlain, scored nine points in overtime and Elgin Baylor added seven for Los Angeles' triumph after the Lakers and Pistons deadlocked 107-all in regulation time.

New York won its 13th consecutive game and 18th in 19 starts with a furious finish that saw the Knicks score 10 points in one minute against Cincinnati.

Shrine Game To Feature Spectacular Passers

Ohio State's 42-14 pounding of Purdue was a severe jolt to Purdue's Rose Bowl hopes. But it was an indirect boon to the 45th annual East-West game because Mike Phipps, Purdue's Heisman Trophy candidate, now becomes a top candidate to quarterback the East.

Dennis Shaw, San Diego State's spectacular quarterback, is the top candidate to quarterback the West in the Shrine charity classis. Even before he rewrote NCAA records by tossing nine touchdown passes in San Diego's 70-21 romp past New Mexico State during the weekend, Shaw seemed certain to be selected West quarterback. Now there isn't much doubt about it.

A PASSING duel between Phipps and Shaw, coupled with the running of Ohio State's Jim Otis and Colorado's Bob Anderson, could make the 45th East-West game one of the greatest ever played for crippled children.

Otis left no doubt about his selection as the East's fullback in his performance against Purdue. Anderson's authoritative and consistent running throughout the season for Colorado makes him an almost certain West selection.

ONE OF Otis' teammates, Ted Provost, also insured himself of an East bid in the Purdue game. Provost, captain of Ohio State's secondary pass defense, picked off two of Phipps' passes. Not only that but he had his secondary so strategically spotted that three other passes by Phipps were intercepted.

A pass defense directed by Provost would provide a real test for Shaw who already has pro scouts drooling. The pros are not the only interested parties in Shaw's passing magic. Smart football fans who haven't seen him in action began indicating their interest a couple of weeks ago.

SENSING THAT Shaw seemed a certain West selection, knowledgeable fans started a stream of ticket applications into Shrine East-West headquarters. One application was for a block of 600 tickets by a peninsula group.

Fortunately, this year's East-West game has been shifted from Candlestick Park's 42,000 capacity to Stanford Stadium's 87,000. The game was switched this year because Candlestick's grass is about to be uprooted for an artificial carpet.

SELDOM HAS there been such an early stream of ticket applications. It began at the first of November — two months in advance of the game Dec. 27. Usually, Shrine East-West headquarters isn't hit by a flood of applications until team selections are announced.

THIS YEAR announcement of the teams is being delayed until after the USC-UCLA game because the Shrine selection committee will invite Trojans if UCLA goes to the Rose Bowl, Bruins if USC goes to Pasadena.

New Marin Cage Boss Has High Hopes

John Panagakis, starting his first year as head basketball coach for College of Marin's Tars, has high hopes of improving on last year's losing season, a rare thing at the Kentfield school.

The Tars last year ended up with 13 wins and 15 losses in Cal Riemcke's last season of College of Marin coaching. Riemcke, now coaching at Whitworth College in Spokane, Wash., was cage coach at Marin for 12 years, and in that time compiled a very creditable record of 199 wins and 136 losses and seven conference championships.

Panagakis, a former head basketball coach at Novato High, was assistant to Riemcke for three years. Helping Panagakis is Jim Webster, new assistant coach who came over from Las Lomas High School in Walnut Creek, and Jim Halm, a student coach and former College of Marin player.

Six returnees off last year's team, two of them starters, are back for the 1969-70 season. The two starters back are 6-foot-6 Tom Seidenberg and 6-foot-4 Pat Schafer. Seidenberg prepped at Redwood High and Schafer at Tamalpais.

Also back are Bob Tate, 6-4, Novato; Joe Smith, 5-11, Sacred Heart; Art Goepp, 6-3, Marin Catholic, and Daryle Rovani, 6-1, Redwood. Chip Tyson, recently out of the Naval Reserves, and Mike Lindquist, who has spent the last four years in the Air Force, are now back with the Tars, each having played prior to going in the service.

Two other sophomores playing for the Tars are Bob Smith, from Redwood, who played on the Marin junior varsity team last year, and Tom McCart, former Terra Linda prepster who has transferred to Marin from Cal at Davis. Lone freshman on the team is Pat Purcell, six-foot guard from Terra Linda High.

There are 13 other freshmen going out for Marin basketball who will be playing as a team, the frosh playing preliminary games to the varsity. They'll be opposing service teams in the area, adult recreation department teams and other junior college frosh teams.

Panagakis expects a very tough battle ahead in the Camino Norte Conference, with Contra Costa Junior College of Concord rated the team to beat.

"It will be a very interesting league," said Panagakis. "We'll have a good club. We've been working hard . . . we've done a lot of running since September, and some weight lifting." Regular practice started for the Tars Oct. 15.

"It's a 'we' philosophy we're using," said the fiery cage mentor. "Basketball is a team sport, and our kids realize this. It's going to be a balanced and strong league, but we'll do a good job."

The Tars, who finished last season in third place in the CNC with a 7-5 record, have two more weeks to get ready for the season. First game will be Nov. 28, at San Mateo Junior College. The next night, Nov. 29, Marin opens its home schedule against Diablo Valley J.C. of Concord.

Marin again will host an invitational tourney, the Tars and seven other J.C. teams playing Dec. 11, 12 and 13.

MARIN-SONOMA GOLF

Using Some Wood For An Iron Shot

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Call it beginner's luck. Better yet, call it using a wood for a three-iron shot.

Anyway, when Al Tyler, who has been playing golf less than a year, came up to the 170-yard seventh hole at San Geronimo National the other day, he paused, looked down the fairway, and took out his three-iron.

He swung and watched as the ball headed toward a tree which guarded a water hazard about 40 feet to the right of the green. The ball hit a tree limb, bounced on the green and rolled right in the cup for a hole-in-one.

Tyler, of nearby San Geronimo Valley, was playing with pal Rick Lafranchi, who was witness to the lucky shot. Tyler is scheduled to start military service in the Coast Guard very shortly. With his luck, he'll probably come out in a few months as an admiral.

CHAMPS of the annual Rosehill Tournament at Indian Valley Golf Course were Orv Orman and Jim Creighton, 3 and 2 winners over Art Sears and Tom Hardcastle last Sunday on the Novato course.

SECOND ANNUAL Rohnert Park Golf Day is scheduled Dec. 7 on the municipal course, the 18-hole tourney open to all persons. "If it's as successful as our invitational (last Sunday), I'll feel great," said Rohnert Park pro Bob Porter.

NEXT BIGGIE for Petaluma Golf and Country Club is the Father-Junior (both sons and daughters) tournament Sunday, Nov. 30. The first such tourney on the Petaluma course, club pro Dick Adams is expecting about 30 or so teams.

WITH A SCORE of 58, the team of Mrs. and Mrs. Foster Manning and Mr. and Mrs. Darrel Altermatt won the Mixed Foursome low ball tourney last Sunday at Marin Country Club in Novato. Second were Mrs. and Mrs. Walter Kessler and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Antoine, 59, followed by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Patterson and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Mault, 60.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — The first hole-in-one ever scored on the second hole of the Lakeside course was registered here this spring by W. T. (Wes) Kennan, manager of the Greenbrier.

Playing in a threesome with E. Howard Harvey and John Londis, Kennan used a No. 3 wood for his 179-yard ace. It was his first hole-in-one in 25 years of golfing.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

I'm certainly opposed to slow bowling—meaning the time-wasting habits of some ten-pinners—but that doesn't mean I think bowlers should race through the act of throwing the ball. The few seconds needed for a proper delivery are vital for good bowling, and they will actually contribute to a speed-up for they will produce more strikes.

Sonoma State Passes First Season With Flying Colors

Sonoma State College football coach Lloyd Helgeson believes the countdown to make the Cossacks a full-fledged member of good standing in the Far Western Conference is right on schedule.

"I am extremely pleased with the season," said Helgeson about the just concluded eight-game slate that ended with five wins and three losses. "We have a good nucleus of players and we've gotten acquainted with formations used by conference teams."

The Cossacks played five games with FWC junior varsity teams and won them all in the SSC initial year of intercollegiate football.

VARSITY TEAMS

Next season Sonoma State will be playing against varsity teams, including three and possibly four teams in the Far Western Conference. Although not playing as an official conference member yet, SSC next season has scheduled dates with Humboldt State, Cal Aggies at Davis, San Francisco State and is working on a matchup with Chico State.

Out of the 42 players on the Sonoma State team, only three — defensive and Charles Rada, safety John Bussman and tight end Dave Dohm — have used up all their college playing eligibility. Most of the other players on the roster were juniors, with 10 others only freshmen.

Included in that freshman crop is defensive halfback Bob Sears from Novato High, who, Helgeson feels, will be one of the best players in the conference eventually.

Helgeson feels the team's strong point which will help next season is the running back situation where freshmen Herm Manuel and Chris Alvarado, along with Luther Nelson who came on strong in the latter part of the season, head the cast.

"Now we're just looking for a 9.6 sprinter for our backfield," said Helgeson. (So are the San Francisco 49ers. They're just not that plentiful.)

Sonoma State played the season with guards that weighed in the 185 and 190-pound category, said Helgeson, and next year, if all goes according to plans, the same linemen should come back about 15 pounds heavier, result of weight training.

Things started out like a horror show for the Cossacks when Western Arizona Junior College crushed them 65-0 in the first game of the season.

"I would like to report now," said Helgeson, "Western Arizona was ranked the second best J.C. team in the nation this week." That helps explain that early disaster.

Come next season, Sonoma State will be going into varsity competition on a very optimistic note.

ALL-STAR RETURNS

Solomon Headlines Sonoma State Five

If Sonoma State College can come up with four more players like Ramon Solomon the Cossacks could really romp this year in the Far Western Conference basketball chase.

Solomon, now a senior, led the conference in both scoring and rebounding last year, scoring an average of 25 points per game and pulling down an average of 14 rebounds. The 6-4½ forward made the all-conference team as a junior.

Coaching the Cossacks for the first time will be Dr. Douglas Earl, who has taken over from Bob Donlan, now head of the Sonoma State intramural department and assistant football coach.

Earl, 30, was reared in nearby El Cerrito and played his basketball at Chapman College, Orange County, twice going to the NCAA College Division playoffs.

The Cossacks will be playing their games in the new gymnasium at Sonoma State, which will be a little easier than last year, when they had to trek to nearby Rancho Cotate High School for their "home" games.

Sonoma State had a 9-17 win-loss record last year and finished dead last in the FWC. University of California at Davis and San Francisco State tied for the title.

Among the players expected to be battling for starting berths are Roy Jones, 6-6½; Basil Swaby, 6-5; Mel Peterson, 6-4; Henry Crawford, 6-3, Bill Heath, 6-3; David Law, 6-1, and Jesse Howard, 6-0.

Dr. Earl feels the Cossacks will have fairly good speed, but will not be too deep in bench strength. Despite the lack of "giants" the Cossacks have some boys who are really leapers, said Earl.

"We're of course looking to Solomon for a good game, but we're not putting pressure on him," said Dr. Earl. "Instead of a one-man team, we're looking for a good team effort."

The Cossacks open their 23-game schedule Dec. 5 against Fresno Pacific College at Sonoma State.

Montana Gets A Bowl Berth

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The nation's two top ranked small college football teams will meet in the Camellia Bowl here Dec. 13.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association yesterday awarded number two ranked Monta (10-0) the bowl berth alongside North Dakota State, ranked number one with a 9-0 record.

Coach Les Davis of Hayward State said he and his Pioneers were disappointed at not being chosen to the Camellia Bowl. The Pioneers are 8-1 and champions of the Far Western Conference.

Today is Wednesday, Nov. 19, the 323rd day of 1969 with 42 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1863, President Abraham Lincoln delivered the Gettysburg Address at the Civil War battlefield.

In 1876, William Marcy Tweed, political "boss" of Tammany Hall in New York, was convicted of defrauding the city of about $6 million and was given a 12-year prison term.

Also in 1874, the National Women's Christian Temperance Union was organized in Cleveland.

In 1919, the U.S. Senate rejected the Treaty of Versailles drawn up by the Paris peace conference at the end of World War II.

A thought for the day: President Woodrow Wilson said, "There must be, not a balance of power, but a community of power; not organized rivalries, but an organized common peace."

Conference To Eye Future For YMCA

The future of the Young Mens Christian Association in Marin will be discussed by 80 community leaders tomorrow at a conference at the Golden Gate Seminary on Strawberry Point.

Paul C. Steward, YMCA managing director in San Francisco and a resident of Tiburon will speak at the meeting to be held from 5 to 9:30 p.m.

On This Occasion Defender's Discard Tells Whole Story

When a defender cannot follow suit he must find a reasonable discard. He will naturally try to keep as many cards as he is likely to need in each suit, and in most cases he will be thinking only of his own problems. If you put yourself in his place, you can often tell exactly what he holds.

CLUB OPENING

West opened the jack of clubs, holding the first trick. When West continued with the ten of clubs, declarer covered with dummy's king. East won with the ace and continued with the queen of clubs, hoping that his partner could overruff declarer.

As it happened, South ruffed with the ace of trumps since he could well afford to do so. West discarded his lowest diamond, and South was convinced that West had started with five diamonds.

MORE EVIDENCE

Since there was no need to act at once on this impression South drew three rounds of trumps and used the king of hearts to force out the ace. West returned the ten of hearts to the queen, and South ruffed his last heart in dummy.

The time had now come to assemble the evidence. West had started with exactly three spades and two clubs, hence eight red cards. Since West could not have held more than five hearts (East had followed suit three times), West surely held at least three diamonds to begin with.

With four diamonds to the king-jack in the dummy, West would not dream of discarding a diamond if he had only three or four cards in the suit. West would discard a diamond only if he had five of them, so that he would still have as many as the dummy after the discard.

A SAFE FINESSE

After coming to the conclusion that West had started with five diamonds, and East only one, South could cash the ace of diamonds to take East's singleton. Then he led a diamond to take a safe finesse with dummy's jack.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid 1-no-trump or two spades.

With most partners it is safer to bid one no-trump. If your partner avoids opening with a weak four-card spade suit, you are better off raising at once to two spades.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

Cazassa's Ownership Moves All To The Brovelli Family

Complete ownership of Cazassa's menswear store at 1204 Fourth Street, San Rafael, has been taken over by George Brovelli, president of the corporation, and his wife Adda.

Brovelli's former associate, B. E. Gordon, who was vice president, has sold out his interest in the business. Mrs. Brovelli, who has been with Modern Eve for the past 16 years, is now in Cazassa's as vice president. The store name will remain the same and the same major domestic and imported brands of menswear will be continued.

The business was founded in 1937 by Peter Cazassa. Brovelli started working in the store six months after it opened. He and Gordon bought it out about 12 years ago and incorporated it. The corporation will continue.

Gordon has not announced his future plans.

ANOTHER RETAIL CLOTHING STORE in downtown San Rafael which may open by this weekend in Anthem Clothing at 1133 Fourth Street.

Hoy's TV and Music Store used to be at the location. Proprietors Tony and Kristen Ewald of San Francisco will carry both men's and women's wear and accessories, mainly in avant-garde styles.

DOYLE LOCKABEY of Terra Linda, a principal in the former Van Doyle Complete Home Furnishings store in downtown San Rafael from 1956 to 1967, has been appointed manager of the television and appliance department for Young Bros. of Novato. For the past two years he has been with the Young Bros. store on Geary Street, San Francisco.

KEITH SHAMROCK, former head of the Chicagoland Distributors Council of Holiday Magic, Inc., has joined the company's corporate office in San Rafael as assistant to chairman of the board William Penn Patrick. He first joined Holiday in 1965, became the first general distributor in Florida and after becoming one of the company's top producers was appointed instructor general in 1967. He and his family are moving to the San Rafael area.

Shamrock Nellor

FORMER SAN RAFAEL RESIDENT William Nellor has been promoted to vice president and included as a principal in the Santa Rosa advertising firm which has been known as Levinger Associates. The firm name has now been changed to Levinger-Nellor Advertising. Nellor joined the agency in 1968 as art director.

He was previously art supervisor at Young and Rubicam, San Francisco, and before that with Honig-Cooper and Harrington and Bascom and Bonfigli. He and his family now live in Santa Rosa.

REAL ESTATE: Solon Realty, Corte Madera, has four new salesmen: Herbert W. Ahnemann of San Rafael, 15 years in insurance and over two years in recreational land sales; David Lapidus of San Anselmo, formerly director of the Reading Center, San Francisco; Arthur F. Mullan, Corte Madera, formerly with Don O'Neil Real Estate; and Irene Pareto of San Rafael, co-chairman of the Poppe Parent Groups Sonoma . . . Correction — Stanley Walsh of Terra Linda has not joined Grubb and Ellis but the San Rafael office of Donald P. Geddes, Realtor.

HOWARD P. BUTTERSTEIN, salesman with L. J. Dervin Ford Co., Novato, has been graduated from the advanced retail selling courses conducted by the San Francisco Ford Marketing Institute at Burlingame.

NEW ADDITION TO DATSUN LINE

The 240-Z, a two-passenger fastback, is Datsun's most recent sports model. It is powered by a new 146-cubic inch single overhead cam six-cylinder engine producing 150 horsepower and speeds up to 125 miles per hour. The 240-Z is equipped with independent suspension on all four wheels and all-synchromesh four-speed transmission. Cars are on sale at Annex Motors, San Rafael.

Southern Pacific Gets U.S. Nod On Holding Plan

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Southern Pacific Co. has announced it has received authorization from the Interstate Commerce commission to proceed with formation of a holding company, probably before the end of the year.

Southern Pacific stockholders approved the plan to form the holding company last May 14 at the annual meeting.

Under the approved holding company plan, the present Southern Pacific Co. will merge into Southern Pacific Transportation Co., a wholly owned subsidiary of a New Delaware corporation to be known temporarily as S.P., Inc. Upon completion of the merger, S.P. Inc., will adopt the name Southern Pacific Co.

Southern Pacific has already diversified extensively in transportation, land development and leasing. It operates more than 14,000 miles of railroad. Its subsidiaries are engaged in trucking over about 26,000 miles of highway routes and in the operation of 2,300 miles of petroleum products pipelines. Another subsidiary is now building a 275-mile coal slurry pipeline across central Arizona to supply fuel for a new electric generating plant on the Colorado River.

Wall Street Has Seventh Poor Session

The market experienced a brief flurry of demand around the noon hour after American Telephone, the nation's most widely held issue, raised its quarterly dividend by 5 cents a share to 65 cents.

However, concern over inflation, tight credit and high interest rates were overriding influences, and declines quickly stretched their lead over advances as activity passed the halfway mark.

Lucien Hooper, senior analyst for the W. E. Hutton brokerage, said the continued demoralized state of the bond market and a lack of evidence that Washington is moving toward easier money despite some slowing in the economy served as major adverse influences.

Electronics ranged to more than a point lower, although some strength developed in the group. Steels, motors and chemicals traded in both directions. Oils were mostly lower.

Rails, airlines and aircrafts moved irregularly.

Rules Eased On Mobile Home Loans

For the first time in California, savings and loan associations are authorized to engage in the financing of mobile homes, it was announced today by Commissioner Michael F. B MacBan, State Department of Savings and Loan.

New regulations, effective today, permit the 175 state-chartered savings and loan institutions to provide loans to individual owners for the purchase of mobile dwellings as well as to finance both new and used dealer inventories.

Federally regulated institutions providing similar services for parallel regulations, affecting federally chartered savings and loan associations have been adopted concurrently by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, Washington, D.C.

Mobile homes comprise about 20 per cent of the single family dwelling units being built in the U.S. today, according to MacBan.

Currently savings and loans furnish over 70 per cent of the dollars for home loans in California. Under the provisions of the regulations, state associations could lend up to 5 per cent of their assets or a combimed total of $1 billion on mobile homes.

Savings and loan associations will be able to offer loans at simple interest similar to a mortgage. MacBan said this will make financing costs feasible for family-sized units.

Bank Clearings Up In October

Marin County bank clearings for October were up from 1968 figures, continuing the trend which has existed throughout the year.

The Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco reported unadjusted debits of $242,010,000, compared with $201,227,000 during October of last year. Unadjusted deposits of $102,483,000 compared with a total of $100,199,000 a year ago.

Seasonally adjusted debits, deposits and turnover ratios are not reported for Marin County.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Self-Education For Potential Bond Buyer

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Where can I obtain reading material to gain some understanding of the bond market? What references are used to determine ratings, performance figure? I notice that bonds with similar coupon rates and maturity dates may have different trading prices. Does an interest rate far in excess of current rates indicate some weakness?—L.C

A. Your local branch of one of the large, retail brokerage houses should have instructive pamphlets available for a potential bond buyer. Ratings on bonds are also available through the same source. Standard & Poor's issues a monthly bond guide that gives the pertinent information, ratings, price ranges and so on.

As you surmised, excessive interest rates are a definite indicator of high risk. For instance, Leasco Computer 5¾s of 1987 are rated B and sell to yield about 10 per cent to maturity. Bonds rated B are defined as speculative with interest payment not assured in difficult economic periods.

Trading prices on bonds with similar coupons and maturities are determined by risk, interest coverage, call protection and call price. As a general rule bonds issued by the same company carry the same ratings. Lower ratings sometimes occur on sinking fund debentures in contrast to general purpose bonds.

Q. Do you know what is depressing Fairfield-Noble? How are the chances of a comeback? I can hold my shares indefinitely.—M.A.

A. Wall Street's reaction to overstated earnings estimates is apt to be sharp. The $1.25 a share predicted for Fairfield for fiscal 1969 proved to be far in excess of reality. Very poor fourth-quarter earnings held full year net to 90 cents a share, unchanged from a year earlier. Inability to pass on increased costs was held responsible for the poor showing.

These and other difficulties—excess capacity, increased competition and a receding economy— will probably restrict first-half 1969-70 results. Highly qualified management, initiation of product diversification and the temporary nature of the earnings slowdown underscore the long-term potential of this situation. Hold for recovery.

ART REVIEW

Roy Gover Ditches His Klee-Dali-Miro Hangup

By LAURA DEVENDORF

SAN FRANCISCO — Two Marin artists have shows this month, Roy Gover at the Vorpal Galleries, 1168 Battery Street and Bettyjo Norton at the Fourth Floor Gallery, 315 Sutter.

Gover's show is great! It's a kind of organized chaos within a surreal, symbolic framework, that since last seen has lost much of its initial Klee-Dali-Miro derivative look and now reads at once like Gover.

The Mill Valley artist has a "mad" mind and, when he elects to use it, a matching sense of humor. And his combinations of materials from antique to modern magazine clippings, mirrors, cut out shapes, cloth and paint, support his invention, as in "Dangerous Journey," where a tiny photo of an incredible ancient engine roars along belching black smoke into an evil-looking watercolor sky collaged with paper bolts of color.

Gover's most developed single idea is the "Moment in Time Series," in which recurrent blacks, browns and olives are rent by lines of electric blue dots, orange circles and traces of red.

He does so many things it is difficult to give any general description of what to expect.

Earthier ideas in the form of female nudes fill Mrs. Norton's show. The mellow browns of her torn paper collages and the play of black against softer tones and crazed surfaces could be lovely all alone. It's the nudes which diminish the effect. They are too real not to be accurate.

The wash-drawn nudes gain in assurance but the two swift ink "it." Least literal of all, the bula real, total personality, stated with confidence and matter-of-fact wit. And I can only wish she'd been joined by about three dozen friends. Additionally, the Larkspur artist shows a few sensitive landscapes and one more heroic piece, a minute orange and green happening so miniscule the pleasure is doubled by its mere discovery.

Sonoma State Modern Dance Program Set

A program of modern dance inspired by butterflies, New York traffic and signs of the Zodiac will be presented by the Sonoma State College Dance Workshop tomorrow through Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in Ives Hall.

The program of five dance compositions will be directed by faculty members Sandra Dunwoody and David Lober. In his first year at Sonoma State, Lober will appear as a performer in two roles.

Lober has appeared in Broadway shows, a movie and in Paris nightclubs. He has choreographed a portion of Igor Stravinsky's "Rites of Spring" for the program.

"Blues Part II", choreographed by Judy Loscutoff of Petaluma, will portray the hustle and bustle of an intersection in New York City with musical accompaniment by the Blood, Sweat and Tears.

The "Zodiac Suite" will include a series of dances by workshop members depicting the 12 signs of the Zodiac.

Reservations may be made by calling the Center for Performing Arts at the college.

Redwood In U.N.

Redwood High School in Larkspur will represent India at the Model United Nations conference to be held at the University of California in Berkeley in February.

Judge Drops Felony Drunken Driving

A felony drunken driving charge against Caroline Fields, 24, of San Leandro, was dismissed Monday in Marin Municipal Court by Judge Peter Allen Smith because officials had waited two years to arrest her.

Miss Fields was accused of being the driver of a car which California Highway Patrol officers said smashed into a truck near Novato on June 13, 1967. A passenger in her car was seriously injured.

Novato Players Vote To Add A Show In Fall

The Novato Community Players, have voted to add a fourth production to its schedule, according to secretary Vivienne Terry.

The club will add a play in September. starting next fall, she said. This is in addition to the musicals in the fall and spring and the winter play.

Arthur Bliss was named director, and Elaine Jacob, producer, of "Barefoot in the Park" by Neil Simon, which will be presented at 8:30 p.m., Feb. 14, 15, 21 and 22 in the Novato Community House.

The dates of the Christmas benefit variety shows were set at 8 p.m., Dec. 12 at the Tamalpais Retirement Center in Greenbrae and 8 p.m. Dec. 13 at the Idesi Hall in Sausalito. Kenneth Craig is in charge of the two benefit performances.

Norton Art Show

Collages and paintings by Larkspur artist Bettyjo Norton will be on display at the Fourth Floor Gallery, San Francisco, through Nov. 29. The gallery is open from noon to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday.

Bridge District Is Now The Action Agency

The Golden Gate Bridge District, which not so long ago was being castigated as a "do-nothing" district, has turned into the action agency.

The bridge district shows promise of being the agency that can and will solve the commute traffic problem that has plagued Marin increasingly over the years and has been the subject of almost endless studies, of a bewildering variety of plans, and — up to now — of no solution.

IN RESOLVING last week to make "full speed ahead" with buses and ferries as an interim approach to the snarl, the bridge board took action long awaited.

San Francisco members of the board, who had been "hung up on ferries," went along in an unanimous vote for a balanced system including both buses and ferries, plus any other mode that might be found feasible.

Still more encouragingly, they agreed that whichever means — buses or ferries — is first ready to go, it should not wait on the other. This means that the bridge district probably will be in the bus business very soon, with ferries to follow as soon as terminals can be found or built. (Using the old Sausalito terminal is a possibility.)

William Moskovitz, president of the bridge board, hailed the decision as "one of the most monumental actions the district has taken since the inception of the district and the decision to build the bridge."

We agree.

ONE THING THAT MUST not be lost sight of, however, is that merely improving bus service up and down the Redwood Highway will not of itself prove much of a solution. The man who must drive his car to the highway, and perhaps have difficulty in finding a place to park it during the day, is likely to keep on driving all the way to San Francisco — curse the congestion though he will.

Needed to make any system really workable is a network of feeder routes so that the commuter can board a bus near home which will transfer him to one headed for his work on the other side of the bridge.

We had hoped that the Marin County Transit District would concentrate on this aspect. The bridge district can scarcely be expected to develop local bus systems, which should also serve those commuting between communities in Marin, going shopping, or attending school.

Nothing has happened to indicate the county transit district is doing anything on this. A proposal for trial service to connect with Greyhound a few months ago was rejected by the district manager.

THE HOPE for an intra-county bus system now seems to rest on Marin Transit Systems of Marin City. Its representatives have been talking of coordinating a minibus feeder system with the bridge district's buses. We earnestly hope the effort succeeds.

Meanwhile, ferry buffs need not fear that their favorite mode of transportation will be slighted. In appointing Harlan Soeten of Mill Valley as chief of its ferry operation, the bridge district has made sure of that. Ferry buffs just don't come better informed or more dedicated than Harlan Soeten.

Old Friends

Friends move away, change their attitudes and personalities, grow old or die. Neighborhoods go downhill. Even the foods we eat are being changed. The world around us is undergoing continual change.

But birds are dependable and changeless. The towhees still scratch among the leaves with the same vigor they displayed in grandfather's day. The golden crown sparrows arrive in Marin each autumn and sing the same lovely minor key song. The jays were just as saucy and the hummingbirds as swift and delicate 50 years ago as today.

To nature lovers, the birds are old friends that remain the same year in and year out. Perhaps the fact that bird habits, songs and plumage are changeless is a stabilizing factor in the lives of those who take the trouble to know them.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

New Law Scarcely On Books When Court Throws It Out

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — The alarming frequency with which laws passed by the state legislature are ruled unconstitutional is becoming a matter of concern to citizens and lawmakers.

The legislature is barely over and already, the laws it passed allowing cities and counties to adopt ordinances prohibiting nudity in bars have been declared unconstitutional by Los Angeles County Superior Court.

Judge Jerry Pacht handed down the decision, which included a preliminary injunction prohibiting the Los Angeles County sheriff's office from making arrests for nude performances in 10 bars in that county.

The bills were by Assemblyman Floyd Wakefield, R-Southgate, and were the center of an extensive controversy during the 1969 session of the legislature involving the matter of nudity in drinking establishments.

The legislature held that morals, as exemplified in the barrooms, should be left up to the discretion of the community involved, that regulation of the degree of nudity allowed should be a matter of community decision.

The Pacht decision, whether it is upheld by the higher courts or not, is important in that it again throws the question of nudity in public barrooms into indecision.

The State Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, headed by a former FBI agent, Edward J. Kirby, has been attempting ever since the "topless" craze started to make nudity in bars illegal. But it has been unsuccessful in the courts.

It was hoped that passage of new laws leaving the decisions as to nudity up to the local governments would settle, at least partially, the question of how far bar operators could go in diminishing the attire of their entertainers and waitresses.

Apparently the Pacht decision has cancelled out this hope.

Even worse is the fact that the decision puts democratic government in jeopardy by denying communities the right to rule as to just how nude women can disport themselves in public view.

While residents of some communities might be outraged by the displays of nudity the liquor establishments are sponsoring these days, the residents of other communities might treat the custom as commonplace and think nothing of it.

Thus, there would appear to be no reason why local government should not reflect the thinking of the community in this particular question. That was the intent of the legislature.

Mental Health Reporting Praised

I would like to commend Mr. Wat Takeshita on his articles on mental health. I, too, wonder if the Brown Act has not been violated by four members of the board of supervisors.

I would also like to commend one very lonely member of the board of supervisors. Mr. Bud Baar. I have found Mr. Baar, in all matters, to be fair, open-minded, and dedicated to the idea of representing all people in Marin County. To add to my own bouquet, Mr. Baar does his homework!

I would suggest the I-J make an "Original Bouquet" to Wat Takeshita. If it weren't for his diligent and honest reporting, few in Marin would realize how much trouble we have in Mental Health Land and Brasilia!

Transit Necessity: One Low Fare

The antics of Bay Area politicians with regard to solving the problems of mass transportation are both ludicrous and pathetic.

After spending vast amounts of money on the BART system the result will be a system very similar to the old Key System trains with an extension up Market Street.

The ferries proposed by the Golden Gate Bridge directors may provide a very pleasant tourist attraction but that is all. They certainly will not take an appreciable number of cars off the bridge, if any.

The only way to move people from private automobiles to public transportation is to provide fast, efficient, low cost transportation from any point in the entire Bay Area to any other point for one low fare, making it not only relatively as convenient but much cheaper.

The sooner the authorities face up to the fact that people will not pay two or three fares in each direction, the sooner we will solve the problem. . .

To insure use of these facilities they probably should be subsidized with government funds to the point where it would be sheer folly to drive an automobile. There also is no reason why certain streets in San Francisco and Oakland should not be designated "buses only" to insure rapid uninterrupted schedules.

'Sesame Street' Timing Wrong

Thank you for your fine editorial on the new children's program, "Sesame Street."

My only comment is that it is shown at a time when many children who would enjoy it and benefit from it are unable to watch television because they are in school or having their lunch.

If any readers feel as I do that it should be shown later in the afternoon (from 4 to 5 p.m. seems like the best time to me) they should express this on postcards or in letters to: KQED, 525 Fourth Street, San Francisco, Calif. 94107. Attn: Mike Shapiro.

Welfare Services Abused Too Long

In reference to the article on the front page of the I-J Nov. 12 concerning the welfare payments made under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children to one Miss Branstetter, I have some very strong feelings.

The social services department say they only spot check recipients of welfare payments. I wonder how many hundreds of people abuse the use of welfare funds. But I guess the department of social services has unlimited funds, thanks to the over-burdened taxpayers of Marin County.

I resent my tax money being spent on Marin County welfare recipients who in so many, many cases do not deserve it. If I was to apply for a loan of any kind my background and credit references would be thoroughly checked. Why isn't the money that we pay in such large amounts for welfare in this county handled in a more efficient way? Maybe if some of these county services were cut so could our taxes be. And we should start with the welfare department. Its services have been abused way too long.

Many Teachers Show War Opposition

The Marin Teachers Against the War is highly gratified at the response to our anti-Vietnam war petition. Over 175 signatures were collected in just one day. The petition and a list of the persons signing are included in an ad in the Independent-Journal.

The readiness of teachers to sign the petition illustrates their overwhelming desire to bring the death and destruction to an end in the shortest possible time. Only with the war's end can we begin to heal the wounds caused by the ugly division in our own country.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Nov. 19, 1959

Carroll A. Snyker, manager of the Marin Industrial Foundation, reported that McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. planned to move its West Coast headquarters to Fifer Industrial Park, near Corte Madera.

The Air Force disclosed that an Air Force captain made a parachute jump of 76,400 feet, almost 15 miles, most of it in free fall.

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 19, 1949

A record crowd of 8,000 persons watched the Santa Rosa Junior College Bear Cubs overpower College of Marin Tars, 47-19, to win the Northern California Junior College football championship.

Members of the Inverness Volunteer Fire Department unanimously rejected a proposal to have the Marin County Fire Department assume control over its fire fighting equipment.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

Shortly after one of producer David Merrick's rare failures closed after a disastrous tryout in Boston, he was stopped by a lady selling raffle tickets who begged, "Won't you take a chance on a turkey?" Merrick assured her sadly, "I just did."

Agnew's Criticism Of Television Overlooked An Important Fact

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Vice President Spiro Agnew's substantially valid criticism of the bias of network television news overlooked one very significant fact.

In support of Agnew, the weight of evidence is that too much network news and analysis lacks fairness — from the distorted picture of the Chicago Democratic convention to the quickie attacks on President Nixon's Vietnam speech.

But in charging that public opinion is being "molded" by "selective and biased television news," the vice president either misstated or greatly understated a reassuring fact.

HE CITED what he felt to be the networks' prejudiced commentaries on President Nixon's peace plan address on Nov. 3 and mentioned that one major network, to make sure that its analysis would be considerably critical, arranged in advance to have a prominent critic, Averell Harriman, ready for immediate rebuttal. It provided no comparable analyst on the other side.

But it didn't work. That's the fact we need for perspective. We do not minimize the need for better TV news presentation and for better balance in commentary. The networks are already feeling the hot breath of public dissatisfaction which Agnew usefully stimulated.

But there is no evidence, in the foremost illustration of bias commentary the vice president offered, that it succeeded in "molding" public opinion.

Just the opposite.

IN THE WAKE of Mr. Nixon's Vietnam speech and the considerably one-sided commentary, a vast majority of the listeners made up their own minds. The Gallup Poll shows the President overwhelmingly over his television critics — 77 per cent for the President's Vietnam peace policies, 6 per cent against and 17 per cent undecided.

This result is not an exoneration of network news and comments. It is a tribute to the independent-mindedness of most Americans.

This doesn't mean there is no problem of news distortion on television. Such distortion does occur too often to be dismissed as a minor affliction simply because most listeners succeed much of the time in resisting it.

BECAUSE THERE is such vast power in the hands of a few TV producers and newscasters who nightly have some 40 million viewers, it is not too much to ask that they ponder anew the care and balance with which they use this precious forum whose airwaves belong to all the people, not just to an industry.

The weakness and irrelevance of the replies which the network presidents made to Agnew's criticism suggest a pretty guilty conscience. They attacked Agnew more than they attacked what he said. They accused Agnew of proposing censorship — which he didn't — and then showed how bad it would be to do what Agnew wasn't advocating.

Not very persuasive.

WE INCLINE to feel that television's greatest disservice is its tendency to impose upon the American people a distorted picture of America — that wherever you look nearly everything is going wrong, virtually nothing is going right.

Agnew is not making an appeal and we are certainly not making an appeal for a Pollyanna to take over television. Few people want or would accept counter-distortion in the other direction. And we must not break the mirror of a free press — printed or visual — because the image it too often reflects is out of focus.

Our view is that television news and documentaries do so much so well that it is fair to expect them to do better.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

New Governor Of Virginia Hinted To Replace Agnew

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

FAIRFAX, Va. — No one is painting "Dump Agnew" posters hereabouts, but some elated Republicans are quietly commenting that Virginia's newly elected Gov. Linwood Holton will be waiting in the wings if President Nixon wants to change running mates in 1972.

Holton, a ruggedly attractive native of Big Stone Gap, Va., was elected to be the Old Dominion's first Republican governor in a century on Nov. 4. The President campaigned for Holton and is credited with a major assist in Holton's victory over Democrat William Battle.

It is duly noted in GOP circles here that a Virginia governor might make an important contribution to a national Republican ticket campaigning with a southern strategy. There is also a strong feeling that Holton's long-range political ambitions do not dead-end in Richmond's executive mansion.

HOLTON'S SURPRISE victory won him a four year residence there, but he cannot succeed himself as governor. Moreover, he will serve with a Democratic lieutenant governor and attorney general, and jockey with a preponderently Democratic state legislature.

Under those circumstances it is not surprising that some of the GOP faithful, without any word from the governor-elect, think Holton might be glad to help his friend Dick Nixon if he is asked to do so when the Republicans hold their convention in 1972 — or to consider the job in 1976.

Incidentally, it is also not surprising (and no real criticism of Vice President Agnew) that this sort of vice presidential day-dreaming is now underway. Many experts here think Agnew's tough talk is a Republican plus — except, perhaps, in what the Vice President might call the "effete" eastern seaboard megalopolis.

WHILE HOLTON would be an attractive addition to a Southern strategy, it is clear that his own election was not based on the sort of rationale which is said to underlie the President's 1972 campaign planning.

To be sure, Holton profited by defections from the Democratic right. He got the votes of many Democrats who were once supporters of the late Sen. Harry F. Byrd Sr., because Battle was a protege of John F. Kennedy and thought to be a liberal Democrat from the Kennedy mold.

However, Holton also made inroads on Virginia's Democratic left. He was endorsed by the state AFL-CIO organization and by the Virginia Crusade for Voters, a Richmond-based Negro group, and those endorsements apparently paid off at the polls.

IT HAS SCARCELY been mentioned outside the state, but Holton's big Republican victory here was a victory for old-style, door-to-door politics — with a few modern touches.

Holton strategists worked from central headquarters to assign precinct-by-precinct quotas for necessary GOP votes. Across the state, Holton workers identified prospective Holton voters to fill their quotas, and then got those voters to the polls.

Peaceful Fairfax Peace Day Contrast To City Council Sessions

The Fairfax peace day was a beautiful scene. It could have happened easily in Mill Valley, but for Fairfax it was almost unbelievable.

Predictions of confrontations, fears there would be damage to city property, worry over the mess that was sure to be left, the general hassling by some city officials — all seemed remote in the peaceful park Saturday.

ONE OF THE MOST touching moments was the speech by Elenor Jones, the city's senior citizen coordinator.

Mrs. Jones had been dismayed when she learned all of the speakers were young and promptly called the committee and volunteered to speak for her generation.

The committee accepted warmly and Mrs. Jones appeared, wearing a sedate blue knit suit and a hat, a striking contrast to the casual clothes of most of the participants.

She commented on her obvious look and link to the establishment as she asked young people to join with old in the search for peace.

The crowd, though by no means all young, heartily approved.

ANOTHER BEAUTIFUL moment came as the day neared its close.

All God's Children, a folk group, sang quiet songs as about a dozen volunteers cleaned the park. Grandmothers and children, students and businessmen worked side by side, removing every last scrap from the park.

And when the crowd left, the place looked better than it has in months.

Meanwhile throughout the day we remembered City Atty. Wallace S. Myers's frequent references in court the night before to the possibility of violence, confrontations and other problems.

We watched to see if there would be problems, but it was tough trying to figure out who might create them.

Myers's law partner who participated in the march? The other attorneys who attended? The mothers there with their children? The students? An official of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District? The police? Businessmen?

IT DIDN'T TAKE long to find out. A big black dog attacked a smaller black and gray, and a snarling fight was on.

Others joined the fracas but the pack was broken quickly and the dogs, which at times seemed to outnumber people, went back to roaming the park.

Those that didn't want to participate in the rally headed for downtown and littered sidewalks.

The day ended on a note that characterized the whole event, a prayer for peace by Rev. Richard N. Wilmington.

He finished by asking the group to take a little light wherever they were going. They left solemnly carrying candles to their homes.

It was far more peaceful than routine city council meetings.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

How Court Saved Job For Dismissed Teacher

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

A probationary teacher, dismissed for cause by Fremont Unified School District in 1967, has permanent tenure in that district as of now.

Behind this circumstance is a story that may be of interest to those who sometimes wonder why school districts so seldom dismiss teachers.

ON MARCH 10, 1967, Supt. William J. Bolt of the Fremont Unified district notified James C. Ward, a "probationary" teacher in his third year in the district, that his services would not be required for the next school year. This was five days before the deadline set by the California Education Code for notifying a teacher of intention not to re-hire him.

Ward demanded a hearing, to which he was entitled under Section 13443 of the Education Code, the "instant tenure law."

A hearing was held before a hearing officer on April 14. The charges against Ward were: (1) failure to maintain proper classroom discipline; (2) lack of emotional stability; (3) failure to follow reasonable rules and regulations of the district board; (4) failure to follow suggestions and directions of superiors.

The hearing officer reported to the board that he felt the charges had not been proved. However, the law does not require the board to follow the hearing officer's recommendation.

A teacher automatically is re-hired if not dismissed on or before May 15. On that date, the board heard additional evidence and notified Ward he would not be re-hired.

WARD, JOINED by the Fremont Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, of which he was a member, sued in Alameda County Superior Court for a writ of mandate, claiming his rights were denied because he was not given the opportunity to cross-examine witnesses at the May 15 board meeting. On July 12, the court granted the writ.

At its next meeting, July 26, the board rescinded the May 15 action which the court had found illegal, then voted to disregard the hearing officer's recommendation. It called for written argument why Ward should not be dismissed to be presented by Aug. 9. None was presented.

On Aug. 9, the board dismissed Ward on the basis of the transcript of the April 14 hearing.

ON AUG. 22, Ward and the union again filed for a writ of mandate. They claimed, among other things, that since the board had set aside its May 15 action, it had failed to act by the deadline and Ward had been automatically re-hired (thus gaining permanent tenure).

Judge Robert H. Kroninger of Alameda County Superior Court heard the case. He upheld the dismissal, finding that the charges against Ward had been proved and were supported by substantial evidence, that Ward had been granted a fair trial, and that the board had proceeded in accordance with the law.

Ward and the union appealed to the First District Court of Appeal.

THE COURTS move slowly. Over two years had gone by and the 1969-70 school year was well under way when the First District Court of Appeal handed down its decision, written by Judge Wakefield Taylor and concurred in by Judges Daniel R. Shoemaker and James R. Agee.

It reversed the trial judge and ordered that Ward be reinstated. This makes him a tenured teacher.

The reason given for the reversal was that Ward had not been given a valid notice of dismissal by the May 15, 1967, deadline.

"As the judgment must be reversed for the board's failure to give notice by May 15 as required by the statutes, it is not necessary to discuss the remaining contentions on appeal," said the decision.

The appeal court did not consider whether the case against Ward had been proved, as the trial judge held it had. Ward had been notifed on May 15 — the deadline date. But because that notice had been invalidated by a court writ of mandate, the school board was precluded from dismissing him.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Dangers Of Diebetic Marriage Still Not Entirely Undersood

VAN DELLEN

There is some concern that teen-agers meeting in diabetic camps may boost double-diabetic marriages. (The same can be said of meeting places for people with other hereditary diseases.)

But, as the late Dr. Elliot P. Joslin said, "There are many individuals one meets on the street who are far less desirable to choose for fathers and mothers than diabetics."

A predisposition to diabetes is passed from one generation to the next, but the exact modus operandi is not known.

GENETICISTS BELIEVE diabetes is due to a recessive trait but we are not sure whether one or several genes are involved. In addition, are the genetic factors that produce juvenile diabetes different from those that cause the late (adult) variety?

For years, physicians have advised the person with diabetes not to marry a diabetic but, if he should, not to have children. The inference was clear: All offspring would develop diabetes. But the medicos neglected to mention that all would develop diabetes — if they lived long enough. There is no doubt that some of the offspring of diabetic marriages will develop the disease at an earlier age, when it is most serious.

STATISTICIANS, HOWEVER, have confused the picture considerably. They reason that if two diabetics marry, there are only half as many marriages involving those with the disease. In these circumstances, if the risk of developing the disease is not more than doubled, the number of diabetics will not be increased.

A Canadian study showed that it was not doubled, hence there was no need to discourage two diabetics from marrying.

THIS SITUATION is more common than we realize because many couples have children before they develop diabetes. And herein lies the problem we have when counseling normal people with diabetes that "runs in the family." They may develop the disease in two weeks, 30 years, or never.

It has been estimated that 50 million Americans are carriers and could transmit diabetes to their offsprings even though they, themselves, may never develop diabetes.

(Questions on medical tops will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies requests to the Independent-Journal.

TENNIS ELBOW

J. T. M. writes: Will you please tell me the real name for tennis elbow? Is it related to the bursitis-arthritis family? What is the best way to treat tennis elbow?

REPLY

The scientific name of bursitis is radiohumeral bursitis or epicondylitis. It is related to the bursitis family and stems from an irritation of the bursa at the end of the smaller joint in the elbow. The best remedies are rest, heat, and cortisone injections.

JOWLS AND SURGERY

J. R. writes: Short of surgery, is there any way to get rid of jowls? I have one on each side.

REPLY

In the absence of a fountain of youth, surgery is the only solution to this problem.

INFECTED KIDNEY

P. L. writes: How is an infected kidney treated?

REPLY

With the sulfonamides, antibiotics, or one of our many urinary antiseptics.

Synthetic Virus Need, Risk Argued

BERKELEY (AP) — Man-made viruses capable of altering the evolution of mankind—for good or evil—could be synthesized in 10 or 15 years if this were made a major national goal. says a noted scientist.

Dr. Robert L. Sinsheimer, chairman of the division of biology at the California Institute of Technology, told a seminar of science writers Monday:

"I would have to deplore the recently announced plan of the Department of Defense to synthesize a virus against which there is no known defense.

FOREIGN RISK

"On the other hand, if we don't explore the possibility of creating synthetic viruses and some other nation does we won't know enough to combat what they create."

Later, in an interview, he said, "We are close to being able to synthesize viruses which, by introducing new genetic material into the nucleus of cells, could alter the evolution of even complex organisms such as men. If these were to become a major national effort, such as the moon program, I believe it could be accomplished in 10 to 15 years."

CORN, BRAINS

A suitably designed synthetic virus could carry genetic material directing a stalk of corn to grow larger ears, he said. Another type of synthetic virus could carry the chemical blueprint for larger and smarter brains in humans.

The same technology, he said, conceivably could create viruses capable of deforming the body or the mind.

"I am confident that with enough research, we can develop agents which will counteract any viruses, even synthetic viruses," Sinsheimer said.

Bishop Guilfoyle To Stockton Post

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI has named Most Rev. Merlin J. Guilfoyle as bishop of Stockton, the Vatican announced today. Bishop Guilfoyle, 61, has been auxiliary to Archbishop Joseph Thomas McGucken of San Francisco.

The Pope also named Most Rev. Mark J. Hurley, 60, as bishop of Santa Rosa.

NAMED AIRMAN—Sgt. Stephen H. Hogancamp, 22, of the 78th Munitions Maintenance Squadron has been named First Term Airman of the Month at Hamilton Air Force Base. He has seen overseas service in Kadena Air Base, Okinawa. He and his wife, Hazel, live in Novato.

Hub Trustees Apply For Handicapped Aid

The San Anselmo School District board last night approved plans for a $185,186 program aimed at helping educationally handicapped students in 10 Bay Area school districts, and authorized Supt. Stephen L. Parodi to apply to the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare for program funds.

San Anselmo district is the applicant, Parodi reported, but the program would be applied also in Kentfield, Fairfax, Mill Valley, Sausalito, Reed, San Rafael, Novato, Vallejo, and Fairfield-Suisun school districts.

The program is planned for the 1970-71 school year, Parodi said.

The board also took a stand in favor of eventual unification of the Tamalpais High School District attendance area, but favoring a moratorium on unification elections. A letter was sent to the Marin County Committee on School District Organization, saying the board favored only a one-year moratorium on elections, and felt the present deadline requiring a unification election by 1972 should remain in force. The board also favored keeping the present area-wide tax levy, Parodi said.

San Anselmo School District Board Also:

GIFT — Accepted a gift of models of the human eye and ear, to be placed in the instructional materials center for use by all schools in the district. Money for the models was raised by the Isabel Cook School Parent-Teachers Association and the Sleepy Hollow, Wade Thomas and Yolansdale schools' parents clubs.

MUSIC — Authorized Parodi to seek a part-time music teacher. The district had two music teachers last year but because of budget problems did not replace one teacher who resigned.

VENTILATION — Authorized Parodi to prepare plans and seek bids for ventilation work at Isabel Cook School. Cost estimate is $8,000 to $10,000, Parodi said.

ASSISTANT — Named teacher Robert Balzan as assistant to Principal Keith B. McPherson at Isabel Cook School. Balzan will receive 5 per cent of his $8,848 salary, pro-rated for the rest of the year, or approximately $368 for the job, Parodi reported.

MEETING — Set a work session for 3:45 p.m. Tuesday at the Red Hill School library to meet with teachers and discuss board-staff communications, roles of teachers and administrators, professional relations and economic benefits.

CLOSED MEETING — Set a closed meeting for 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Red Hill School library to discuss dismissing an employee, Chairman Cornelia B. Busse said.

STARS ABOVE

Aquarius Not Showy, Covers Large Area

By SHERMAN WALKER

Aquarius, the Water Carrier, is a large, sprawling constellation that covers much more of the sky than it really deserves. Its stars are all third magnitude or dimmer, and this whole section of sky looks somewhat deserted.

The main attention-getter of this large figure is a small Y at the very top which represents the jar in which water is being carried. It is composed of four stars of fourth magnitude.

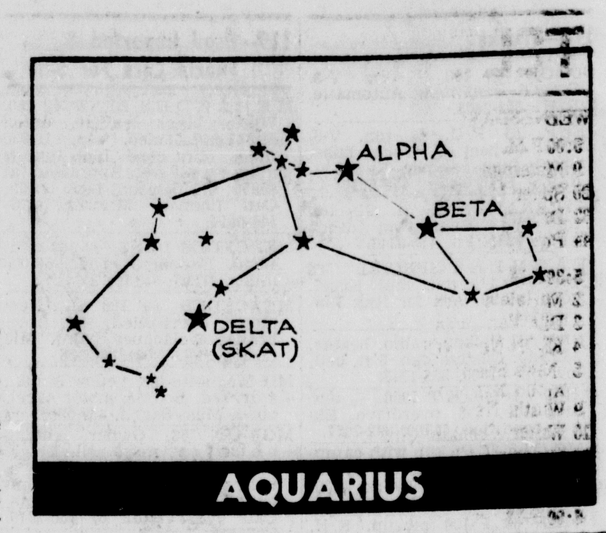
To locate the Water Carrier, face southward at 9 p.m. Standard Time and look at the region of the sky that is slightly less than one-half of the distance up from the southern horizon.

There is a lopsided dipper on the western side of the figure to add to the many other dippers we have found in the sky. It looks like it might be a dipper made for some special purpose — but if so, it is unknown to this writer. It seems a little strange, too, that the water is being poured from the water jar, rather than from the dipper.

The star where the bowl joins the handle of the dipper is Beta Aquari. It also bears the Arabian name of Sadal Suud which in free translation means the Luckiest of All.

The next star is the handle is Alpha Aquarii and has the Arabian name of "the Lucky Star of the King."

There must have been a wonderful story about these stars in the long ago, but it has been lost. All we have now are these two stars and considerable curiosity.



Auto Is Stolen

A 1966 red Pontiac, license UMY-161, was stolen Monday from Robert J. Hansen, 168 Tamalpais Road, Fairfax, while it was parked at his home, police said today.

Student Is Acquitted In Riot Case

BERKELEY (UPI)—Dan Siegel, the elected student body president of the University of California at Berkeley, was acquitted last night of a misdemeanor charge of inciting a riot.

Siegel, 23, was accused of exhorting a crowd to leave the U.C. campus for the People's Park confrontation with police last May 15 remembered as "Bloody Thursday."

A panel of seven women and five men deliberated five hours before returning the verdict at 11:32 p.m. to Municipal Judge Mario Barsotti.

Siegel had testified his command that marchers "Go down there and take the park" was meant as a call for peaceful victory.

Because of the speech, Siegel was forbidden to take office as student body president this fall by university officials. He was unsuccessful in a Federal Court appeal of the university's ruling last month.

After the two-hour dinner break, the jurors asked Judge Barsotti if there were any alternatives besides an innocent or guilty verdict. When the judge said there were not, the jury brought in the acquittal 10 minutes later.

Conservation Groups Oppose BCDC Appointee

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Two Bay Area conservation groups came out yesterday against the appointment of Albany Mayor Richard O. Clark as East Bay representative of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

Clark successfully campaigned this year for exemption of the Albany Isles fill project from BCDC control.

Robert H. Tuss, chairman of the Albany Bay Committee, told a news conference Clark was a "symbol of development rather than conservation."

William Siri, president of the Save the Bay Association, said letters have been sent to councilmen of the 82 cities in BCDC urging them to oppose Clark.

Clark issued a statement saying he was "as qualified as anyone else for the job."

He said Albany has become a target of conservation interests "because we're a small city."

Youth's Sanity To Be Studied

Judge Hadden W. Roth of Marin Municipal Court yesterday referred Edwin Wesley Cadra Jr., 18, of 260 Canal Street, San Rafael, to the Marin Community Mental Health Center to determine if there is a question as to his present sanity.

Cadra and a 17-year-old companion were arrested by San Rafael police Saturday when they were seen driving a car allegedly stolen earlier from a parking lot in San Rafael.

The 17-year-old, David Watson, of 131 Myrtle Avenue, San Rafael, was booked into Marin Juvenile Hall.

Cadra was arraigned Monday on a charge of car theft. His case has been continued until next Tuesday for report of the mental health center.

Mink, Rabbit Yes, But Not Leopard Coats

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A group of socially prominent Bay Area women has announced a boycott of fur coats made from the pelts of wild foxes, leopards, cheetshs and other animals facing extinction.

Leopard, sealskin and other exotic furs will no longer be purchased by Mrs. John Fell Stevenson and a group of the Bay Area's fashion set, they declared yesterday.

The daughter-in-law of the late Adlai Stevenson said at a news conference boycotters would continue wearing less exotic mink, rabbit and other domestically cultivated species.

Another member of the Bay Area group, Mrs. William Hamm, said support would be welcome from Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, whom Mrs. Hamm described as a world fashion leader.

"I doubt that she would be interested," Mrs. Hamm said, however. "She buys six or seven or eight fur coats a season." Mrs. Stevenson commented: "It cannot be said there is more warmth in a cheetah coat than in a wool one. And, is it that much more enticing to look at?"

The boycott, sponsored by the Friends of the Earth conservation group, has secured written pledges of 35 women, including the wives of author Barnaby Conrad and William M. Roth, former U.S. trade negotiator.

Mrs. Stevenson and Mrs. Hamm, wife of a prominent businessman, said many of the world's fur-bearing animals are being wiped out due to a worldwide demand for their skins.

Signers of the boycott pledge have agreed not to purchase the skin, pelts or feathers of animals or birds endangered by extinction, particularly by poachers in African game reserves motivated by attractive prices on the high-fashion market.

"I for one," Mrs. Stevenson said, "want my children to see these animals in their natural habitat, not only on peoples' walls, floors and backs."

Novato Fair Makes Profit

Novato's Western Weekend Country Fair made a profit last summer, it was reported Sunday night to the board of directors.

The fair took in $7,659.83 and spent $6,566.19, making a profit of $1,093.64, according to secretary Dorothy Merla. This leaves the organization with a working balance of $3,238.71 for next year when this year's profit is added to last year's ending balance.

Three new members were elected to the board of directors to replace three whose terms expired. They were Jack Whitcomb, replacing Roger Hillman; Charles Lewis, replacing president John I. Regan, and Billie Garl replacing Dorothy Merla.

Casey Van Gronigan was named temporary chairman of the board until the election of officers. No date was set for the next meeting.

TELEVISION IN REVIEW

Ageless 'Gunsmoke' Takes Top Position

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Notes to watch television by:

The ratings: CBS-TV's amazing, ageless "Gunsmoke" series again has finished atop the national television rankings, despite the head-on competition of the previous front-runner, NBC-TV's "Laugh-In" ... only several seasons back, CBS-TV was in the process of canceling "Gunsmoke," but protests from affiliate stations (and critics) helped keep it on.

The season's hottest new video series, ABC-TV's "Marcus Welby, M.D.," starring Robert Young, came in a spectacular second in the ratings ... and "Laugh-In" was third ... NBC-TV's Julie Andrews-Harry Belafonte special finished a solid 17th ... but the same network's Debbie Reynolds special ranks a dismal 62nd .. Miss Reynolds' NBC-TV series, meanwhile, rated a mediocre 43rd.

More proof, by the way, arrived that the ultra-contemporary-style, earthy movies favored by the young motion picture audience are very insecure ratings bets with the generally older television audience . . . on the heels of the disappointing ratings of "Tom Jones" and "Georgy Girl" in recent weeks, ABC-TV's "A Man and a Woman" finished 60th in the national rankings ... however, in the more urban-oriented 70-city ratings, the film came in 16th.

This past Monday night, a more traditional but excellent movie on NBC-TV, "Madigan," a police tale with Richard Widmark and Henry Fonda, got a whopping overnight rating in New York against CBS-TV's potent lineup of "Mayberry R.F.D.," Doris Day and Carol Burnett ... CBS-TV, with its numerous rural-oriented shows, figures to improve against "Madigan" in the national statistics, but it is clear video's basic audience has rather clear preferences.

If present trends continue, several developments in video films may well take place ... One: networks simply won't shell out big money for hot-shot "contemporary" movies without second thoughts, especially since motion pictures generally aren't doing that well on video any more ... Two: problems over earthy movies on the home screen may turn out to cause less havoc than expected ... Three: television seems sure to favor making its own two-hour telefilms tailored specifically for the audience whose tastes it knows well ... that way, television movies may not improve, but ratings will.

NBC-TV's relatively nonviolent Saturday morning children's series, "The Banana Splits Adventure Hour," is in ratings trouble, and a network source indicates there is a good chance it won't return next season ... NBC-TV is reported thinking about a replacement series that would use cartoons out of the Walt Disney shop.

Survival Held Key Word To Environmental Program

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Survival is the key word to California's environmental problems, says a group of 116 students who showed up at the closing day of Gov. Ronald Reagan's two-day conference on the subject.

Russ Salzgerber, president of the Los Angeles chapter of Ecology Action, said the students who attended yesterday "were invited as an afterthought."

The group nevertheless followed other, somewhat more venerable conference delegates with a presentation of its own. It included:

Voluntary birth control including voluntary legalized abortion.

Protection of all agricultural land from urbanization.

An integrated rapid transit system free to all users.

Development of new lowemission engines for autos.

Protection of coastal water resources.

An end to projects aimed at development of a supersonic transport.

—More minority group participation at future conferences.

"We don't care who takes the action to get something done," said Salzgerber. "This is a problem that must be solved if we are to survive."

Earlier four committees summarized their findings on water, air, land and urban society.

L. W. Lane, publisher of Sunset Magazine, called for more cooperation from business in the field of water pollution problems. "We need more research and more cooperation from rich companies," he said. "And I don't mean money rich—I mean firms rich mentally and tecnically."

McIntyre Faries, retired Los Angeles County Superior Court judge, drew applause when he suggested: "We must have a crash program, like the one that landed men on the moon, to clean up our air."

He also proposed changing "our definition of air pollution to include noise pollution."

"We need more conservation and environment quality courses to save our land," said Dr. Emil Mrak, chancellor emeritus of the University of California at Davis. He also advocated tax breaks for owners of land left vacant for recreational purposes.

Next to me they got the most in Marin County!

CORTE MADERA SHOPPING CENTER

SAN RAFAEL—1009 FOURTH STREET

Turkeys Will Be Awarded Saturday

It's turkey time and the members of the Corte Madera Shopping Center Merchant's Council are offering the kind of a turkey you will want to own.

Fifty hen turkeys will be given away on Saturday, at 1 p.m. at a drawing to be held at the center's mall, as part of the shopping center's pre-Thanksgiving sale set for tomorrow, Friday, and Saturday.

How to take part? Clip the coupons to be found this section and turn them in at the shopping center when you come to preview the holiday season specials.

And incidentally, if you are present at the drawing, and your name is called, you will receive two 10 pound turkeys or one large bird of approximately 20 pounds.

Good First Opener

Make sure a tape recorder's opened early Christmas morning. A tape of Christmas morning sounds is a unique personal "touch of home" for those too far away to join the family at holiday time.

Opening Wedge

The gift of a pipe or smoking tobacco offers quite a few additional aids for the gift giver. It is really the opening wedge toward the solution of all gift problems since a pipe smoker will always want another pipe, more tobacco, pipe tools, humidors, racks, pipe lighters, pipe ash trays, pouches or any of hundreds of available items.

This holiday, be safe, not sorry. Live to enjoy a very happy New Year!

PRESIDENT — Charles Stewart, manager of Smith's Clothiers in the Corte Madera Shopping Center, has been elected president of the center's merchant's council for 1970. Other officers are Duane Nelson of F. W. Woolworth, vice president; Sylvia Melton of House of Fabrics, secretary, and B. A. Sill, Crocker-Citizens National Bank, treasurer. Installation of new officers will be held Dec. 6 at Dominic's Restaurant.

CUSTOM JEWELRY SHOP

Umberto Sartarelli (left), a craftsman with 24 years' experience, shows Richard G. Burns, outgoing merchant president, a piece of custom-made jewelry in his new shop, Marin Custom Jewelers, in the Corte Madera Shopping Center. He plans to carry a large stock of watches and is now an authorized dealer for Bulova. He also plans to offer watch repair service. A native of Italy, he established his first shop nine years ago in San Francisco.

The Christmas Wedding Popular

There are all kinds of parties at Christmas, but one that's becoming increasingly popular is the wedding party.

According to professional observers, there's a lot of extra fun at Christmas weddings, perhaps because the spirit of the holiday adds that much more gaiety to an always happy event.

Whatever the reason, a Christams wedding can combine the best of both occasions.

Simple Heart Attack Warning Test Nearing

LONDON (UPI)—One of Britains's leading nutritionists believes he may have discovered a simple warning test for susceptibility to heart attack that will give prospective victims plenty of time to take evasive action.

Prof. John Yudkin of Queen Elizabeth College, the University of London, has long contended that the fatty substance cholesterol is less implicated in heart and arterial disease than refined sugar.

"We don't say it's only sugar," Dr. Yudkin said in an interview. "But of all the things concerned everything points to sugar.

"Animal fat has been a constituent of our diet over millions of years. If this gave us coronary thrombosis, if we were dropping off at 40 because we were eating the way Nature intended us to, we would have been killed off before now.

"But we've only recently begun to eat sugar and it's 15-20 per cent of the diet in well-off countries."

Both the cholesterol school and the followers of Dr. Yudkin agree that an important factor in coronary-artery complications arising from either substance would be the way modern living has changed our lives — more sedentary, cigarette-addicted and under the social and economic pressures lumped as "the rat race."

"It looks as if some people are susceptible to eating sugar and some are not," Dr. Yudkin said. "The susceptible ones show a rise in insulin after eating sugar. For the past few years several independent workers have shown that this rise in insulin might be the most important thing that happens in coronary thrombosis.

"What we are suggesting therefore is that about one in three or four men is susceptible to the things that could cause coronaries—overweight, smoking and sugar among them. We may be able to discover this susceptibility at about the age of 20 by making young men eat a lot of sugar. If their insulin level goes up we can warn them not to smoke, to put on weight, to exercise and to stay away from sugar.

"This is the first time we could have a test for coronary susceptibility, a predictive test."

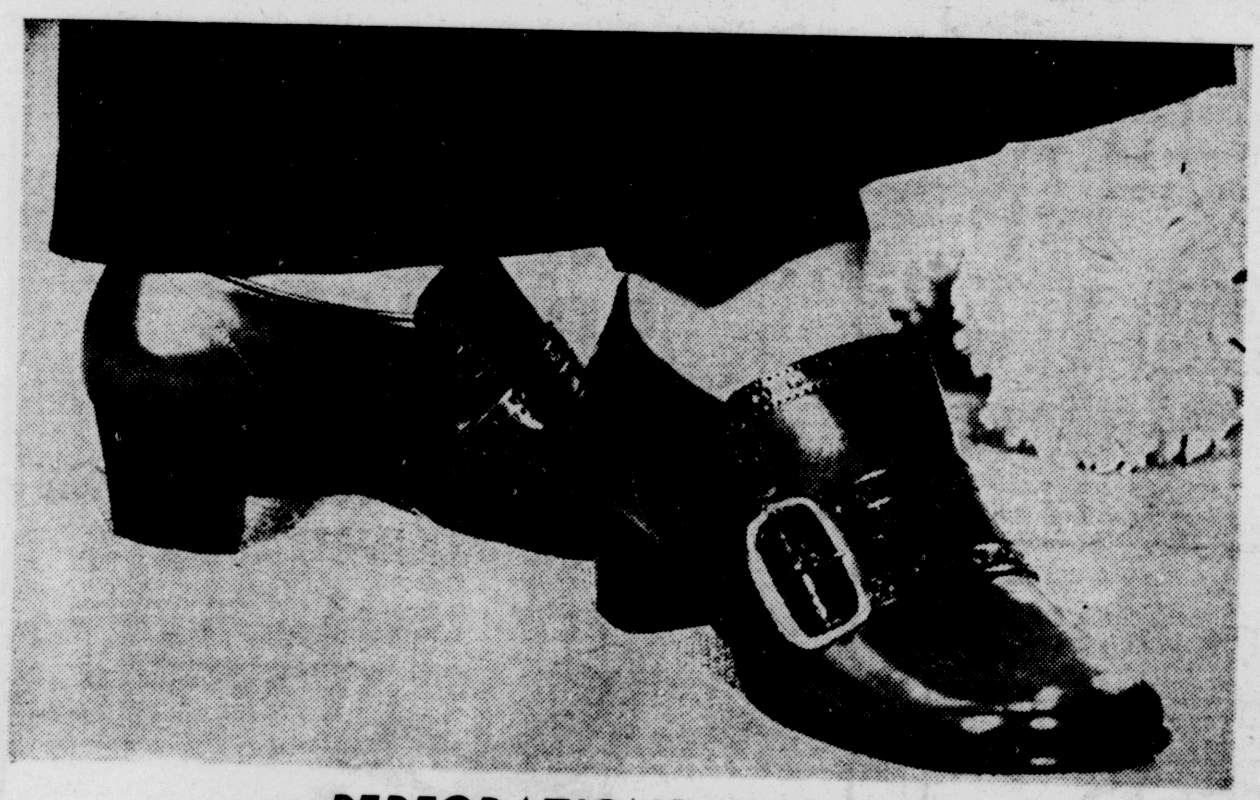
WINS ZIM'S OUTDOOR SIGN AWARD

This outdoor sign, featuring a 21 by 26 foot hamburger, is the winner of a first place award for Zim's restaurants, of which one is located in the Corte Madera Shopping Center. The award was made during the recent restaurant advertising idea contest in connection with the Pacific Coast Regional Restaurant Convention and Exposition in Los Angeles.



PERFORATIONS, BUCKLES

The hard gloss shine, broken by perforations to emphasize the "up front" look makes this fashion conscious shoe at home wherever the young or young in heart goes. It is being offered at Gallenkamp's in the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

'Corte Madera Carols' Contest Is Announced

"Corte Madera Carols," a program including a week of Christmas caroling in Corte Madera and a Christmas sing-out, is being sponsored by the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce with merchants from the Corte Madera Shopping Center among those donating checks to be given as awards.

Those registering to participate — family groups, organizations, choirs, school choruses, friends, neighbors — must agree to carol in Corte Madera for at least one hour on one night during the week of Dec. 6-12.

Verification of participation by use of "carol cards" to be signed by a Corte Madera resident, will entitle each group to attend the Christmas sing-out on Dec. 12 at 8 p.m. at the Corte Madera Recreation Center, Tamalpais Drive.

At this party, awards of checks to the charity of the winners' choice will be made as a result of a drawing of the "carol cards," and will be based on participation, not competition.

Instrumental groups may also take part. All music, vocal and instrumental, must be in keeping with the Judeo-Christian spirit of the season, whether of a liturgical, ballad, or folk nature.

Entry forms may be obtained by contacting the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce, weekdays except Thursday, between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., or by letter to 500 Tamalpais Drive. Deadline for registration is Friday.

Trimmings With Meaning

It's easy enough to dash to the store to find a variety of decorations to turn the house into a festive backdrop for holiday eventy. But trimmings make yourself mean so much more!

Decorate the tree with pipier mache ornaments in varied shapes . . . balls, stars, reindeer,poinsettias . . . then color them with markers.

Thin sheets of aluminum, cut to size with sissors, will take on an antiqued liik when tinted the same wal. Use this simple technique to hake decorations for the front door, mantle piece or Christmas buffet table.

NEW KNITTING SHOP — While Richard G. Burns, president of the Corte Madera Shopping Center Merchant's Council, welcomes Needle Boutique owner Ruth Berges as the center's newest store, Grace Murphy does some traditional rocking chair knitting. The store is located on the west side of the center next to Butler's.

From Nursing To Knitting For Owner

From nursing to knitting describes the career of Mrs. Ruth Burges whose new shop, the Needle Boutique, became a member of the Corte Madera Shopping Center family on last week.

The specialty store has all the supplies for Marin women (and men) who have acquired — or wish to — the skills of knitting, crocheting, crewel, embroidery, tapestry making, needlepoint, rug making, or needlepoint.

In addition, the store is handling gifts — including ceramics and pottery — handmade by craftsmen in the Corte Madera area.

Mrs. Burges, who was born in Pittsburgh, Pa., was graduated as a registered nurse from St. Francis General Hospital where she first taught her friends and members of her nursing class to knit.

She moved to California in 1963, and to Corte Madera in 1965. Her husband, Fernand, is a native of the French Pyrenees, and is associated with the Colombo Meat Co. of San Rafael.

Mrs. Burges' employment in Marin has included a stint as a hostess at a French restaurant, nursing at Ross General Hospital and more recently at the House of Fabrics.

And through the Needle Boutique, she now brings to Marin her years of experience and skill in the art of handcrafted creations.

Car Horn Is Essential To A Brazilian

By JOHN VIRTUE

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI)— A car horn is as essential to a Brazilian motorist as the gas pedal—and it's used about as often.

Asking a motorist to stop honking is like asking a rooster to stop crowing at dawn or a waterfall to stop roaring.

As soon as a traffic light turns red, motorists start honking their horns, as if the noise will force the signal to change back to green. Normal conversation is impossible between 5 and 7 p.m. in apartments and residences at busy intersections.

Many motorists are not content with the power and the volume of the factory horns in their cars. They install more powerful ones.

The Cassette Proving To Be Ideal Gift

The cassette is today's music happening.

In the home, the dorm, on the beach or on the road, stereo cassettes are sparkling the recorded music field. Gofts in this area are increasingly welcome.

A cassette is, simply, two tiny tape reels in a plastic case about the size of a cigarette pack and half as thick. It can hold up to 120 minutes of sound, half on each side. Since the tape is enclosed, you don't have to handle it; there's no record scratch, either.

Cassette changers brighten parties with hours of uninterrupted music.
